THE GERMAN PEOPLE AT LAST ARE BEING GIVEN SOME IDEA OF THE DISASTER THAT HANGS OVER THEIR ARMIES IN RUSSIA AND THE COMPLETENESS OF ROMMEL'S ROUT. FOR FOUR DAYS NOW THE COMMUNIQUES OF THE HIGH COMMAND, BREATHING A SPIRIT OF UNPRECEDENTED PESSIMISM, HAVE BEEN PREPARING THE NATION FOR NEWS OF GREAT DEFEATS YET TO BE CONSUMMATED, THE ABANDONMENT OF

THE CAUCASUS AND ALL THE HIGH HOPES PINNED ON THE CAMPAIGN THERE AND THE END OF THAT ARMY OF NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION THAT HITLER'S PRIDE DOOMED TO DESTRUCTION ON THE APPROACHES TO STALINGRAD. TODAY'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE ABANDONMENT OF VORONEZH--ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS NEVER REALLY HELD ALL THE CITY -- ADDS TO THE PICTURE OF GLOOM.

NOW THESE ANNOUNCEMENTS DO NOT WELL SPONTANEOUSLY OUT OF THE DEPRESSION WHICH DOUBTLESS PREVAILS IN HIGH GERMAN MILITARY QUARTERS. WE CAN BE SURE THAT EACH PHRASE HAS BEEN CAREFULLY WEIGHED FOR ITS PROBABLE EFFECTS BOTH ON THE GERMAN PEOPLE AND ON GERMANY'S ENEMIES. IT IS A SAFE ASSUMPTION THAT THE GENERAL PICTURE OF GLOOM THE BERLIN RADIO IS PERMITTED TO BROADCAST IS PART OF DOCTOR GOEBBELS' UNCEASING CAMPAIGN TO ENCOURAGE COMPLACENCY AMONG THE UNITED NATIONS.

JAN 26 1943

AS FOR THE RESULTS SOUGHT WITHIN THE REICH THESE PROBABLY ARE MANY SIDED. A FIRST CONSIDERATION IS THAT NEWS OF SUCH GREAT DEFEATS OF THOSE OF STALINGRAD AND LIBYA COULD NOT BE HIDDEN LONG FROM THE PEOPLE. THEREFORE IT IS NECESSARY TO PREVENT THE SHOCK TO CONFIDENCE IN THE FUEHRER'S REGIME THAT WOULD RESULT SHOULD THE NEWS COME FROM OTHER THAN THE HIGHEST GERMAN SOURCES. A SECOND PURPOSE UNDOUBTEDLY IS TO DISPEL ANY TENDENCY TO SLACKNESS ON THE HOME FRONT, WHERE HITLER NEEDS NEW MIRACLES OF PRODUCTION. PERHAPS THERE IS SOME HOPE OF EVOKING A RESPONSE SIMILAR TO THAT WHICH THE BRITISH PEOPLE GAVE TO WINSTON CHURCHILL'S "BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS" SUMMONS OF 1940. IT REMAINS TO BE SEEN WHETHER THE GERMAN PEOPLE ARE CAPABLE OF A COMPARABLE REACTION TO SOMBER TRUTHS.

JAN 26 1943

THE NEWSPAPERS GO EVEN FURTHER THAN THE COMMUNIQUES, ALTHOUGH IT IS DIFFICULT TO OUTDO YESTERDAY'S HIGH COMMAND REPORT ON THE STALINGRAD

SITUATION: "THE POSITION BECAME FURTHER INTENSIFIED THROUGH FURTHER BREACHES BY STRONG ENEMY MASSES FROM THE WEST. NEVERTHELESS THE DEFENDERS STILL HOLD UNBROKEN, AS A SHINING EXAMPLE OF THE BEST GERMAN MILITARY TRADITION, AN EVER MORE CONTRACTED RING AROUND THE CITY." GRIM READING, THAT, FOR A PEOPLE FOR WHOM THE FUEHRER LESS THAN FOUR MONTHS AGO WAS PAINTING A PICTURE OF RESPLENDENT VICTORY, ESPECIALLY AT STALINGRAD.

UNDATED SECOND ADD BABB'S INTERPRETIVE XXX AT STALINGRAD.

ONE EDITORIAL PHRASE SUGGESTS ONE MORE PURPOSE OF THIS PROPAGANDA OF GLOOM. "A LOST WAR IS A LOST FUTURE" IS COUPLED WITH A REPETITION OF THE NAZI TENET THAT IT WAS WEAKNESS ON THE HOME FRONT, RATHER THAN MILITARY DEFEAT, THAT COMPELLED IMPERIAL GERMANY'S SURRENDER IN 1918. THE 1918 THEME IS A DANGEROUS ONE FROM DOCTOR GOEBBELS POINT OF VIEW AND HE SEEMS DETERMINED TO CONVINCE HIS PEOPLE THAT A GERMAN DEFEAT THIS TIME WILL NOT BRING THE SAME KIND OF PEACE THAT FOLLOWED THE LAST WAR. THERE MUST BE MANY GERMANS WHO FEEL THAT PERHAPS EVEN THOSE TERRIBLE YEARS AFTER 1918 WERE NOT SO BAD AS COMPARED WITH CONDITIONS OF TODAY. THE MAJORITY OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE NEVER SAW AN ENEMY SOLDIER, EXCEPT PRISONERS OF WAR, NOR HEARD AN ENEMY BOMB OR SHELL IN THAT LAST WAR; THE LOSSES OF TERRITORY WERE SLIGHT; THERE WAS NO OCCUPATION OF BERLIN. IT CAN NOT BE THE SAME THIS TIME, DOCTOR GOEBBELS SAYS; THERE IS NO FUTURE FOR THE GERMAN NATION IF THE WAR IS LOST.

IF THE PROPAGANDA OF GLOOM IS HAVING ANY EFFECT ON THE UNITED NATIONS' PREPARATIONS IT IS NOT APPARENT. ANNOUNCEMENTS CONCERNING CURRENT HIGH STRATEGY CONSULTATIONS ARE EXPECTED SHORTLY AND DISPATCHES FROM LONDON GIVE ASSURANCE THAT IN THESE DISCUSSIONS THERE IS NO

PLACING OF HOPES IN A GERMAN COLLAPSE FROM WITHIN. THE EMPHASIS IS ON UTTER DEFEAT OF THE GERMAN ARMED FORCES SO THAT IT WILL NOT BE POSSIBLE FOR ANOTHER FUEHRER TO TELL A NEW GENERATION THAT GERMANY, TRIUMPHANT ON THE BATTLEFIELD, WAS CHEATED OF VICTORY BY WEAKNESS AT HOME.

Roosevelt, Churchill in Casablanca 10 Days, Goal Is 'Unconditional Surrender' of Axis; Giraud, DeGaulle There, in Accord on Aims

President and Premier Reach Full Agreement On War Plans

Most Unprecedented and Momentous Meeting of Century—Roosevelt Defies All Traditions—Unconditional Surrender of Axis Powers Comes First—Staffs of Both Nations Present—Stalin Could Not Attend—Chang Kai-Shek Kept Advised—Initiative to Be Maintained.

By WES GALLAGHER

JAN 27 1943

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, in the most unprecedented and momentous meeting of the century, have reached "complete agreement" on war plans for 1943 designed to bring about the "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy, and Japan, it was disclosed today.

Defying every tradition, the President of the United States flew across 5,000 miles of the Atlantic Ocean for a 10-day meeting with Winston Churchill which saw the leaders of the two nations bring General Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Honore Giraud together for the first time in a little villa just outside this city.

War Staffs Participate

Virtually the entire war staffs of both nations participated in day and night discussions which ended Sunday afternoon with a press conference before a group of war correspondents flown secretly from Allied headquarters halfway across North Africa.

These are the high spots of the conference, which Roosevelt and Churchill agreed was unprecedented in history and may decide the fate of the world for generations to come:

JAN 27 1943

Will Maintain Initiative

One—The leaders of America and Britain, both military and civil, have agreed on a war plan for 1943 designed to maintain the initiative in every theatre of the war;

Two—Churchill and Roosevelt agreed that peace can come only through "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy, and Japan;

Three—Generals Giraud and de Gaulle, meeting for the first time under sponsorship of the President and Prime Minister, are negotiating for a united French movement designed to put French Armies, a Navy and an Air Force again into the field against the Axis;

Four—Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia was kept informed of the results of the conferences. In fact, Churchill and Roosevelt offered to meet Stalin "very much farther to the east," but the Russian chief was unable to leave the U. S. S. R., due to the need of his directing the present Red Army offensives.

Chiang Kai-shek Apprised

The President and Prime Minister also have been in communication with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and "have apprised him of the measures which they are taking to assist him in China's magnificent and unrelaxing struggle for the common cause."

Five—Maximum material aid to Russia and China will be one of the prime aims of the U. S. and Britain.

Six—Roosevelt visited American troops in the field in North Africa, the first American President to visit an active war theatre since Abraham Lincoln.

The meetings were held in a closely-guarded, barbed-wire-surrounded inclosure at a hotel in Casablanca under the greatest secrecy.

JAN 27 1943

Churchill First to Arrive

Prime Minister Churchill arrived for the meeting first. When President Roosevelt arrived by plane a few hours later, he dispatched Harry Hopkins to the Churchill villa, and the Prime Minister immediately came to start the meetings.

The first began at 7 o'clock in the evening of Jan. 14 and lasted until three o'clock the next morning.

President Roosevelt met correspondents in the garden of his villa Sunday afternoon.

Protecting American fighters and Spitfires roared overhead as the conference was held. The only woman present was WAAC Captain Louise Anderson of Denver, Colo., a stenographer from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

Hopkins was among the first to arrive, along with the President's flying son, Lieut. Col. Elliott Roosevelt, who was wearing the Distinguished Flying Cross recently awarded him.

De Gaulle, Giraud at President's Quarters

While the President's envoy, Robert Murphy, flitted in the background, Generals Giraud and de Gaulle, clad in French Army uniforms, appeared from the President's quarters. They were closely followed by Roosevelt himself, wearing a light grey suit with the usual cigarette holder held at a jaunty angle.

Churchill, in a dark grey suit and with the inevitable cigar, followed them to the four chairs in the garden.

Momentous Moment

As de Gaulle and Giraud shook hands for the benefit of photographers, the President opined that it was a momentous moment.

Giraud and de Gaulle immediately went back into the house and the press conference began.

The President on behalf of the Prime Minister and himself, expressed regret at the death of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's war correspondent, Edouard Baudry, who was killed by a machine gun bullet when the plane in which he was riding with other correspondents enroute to the meeting was lost over Spanish Morocco and was fired upon by Spanish ground defenses.

The President then went into the background of the meeting, saying that it became clear when the North African campaign was launched that a meeting between himself and the Prime Minister would be necessary.

He said Stalin had been kept advised on all details worked out at the meeting, and in the words of the communique added that Stalin had been "cordially invited to meet the President and Prime Minister, in which case the meeting would have been held very much farther to the east." Stalin, however, was "unable to leave Russia at this time on account of the great offensive which he himself as commander-in-chief is directing."

While the Prime Minister nodded assent, the President said the conference had reached "complete agreement" on war plans for 1943 to bring about the "unconditional surrender" of the Axis nations.

The President and Prime Minister both said the Allies were determined to maintain the battle initiative in every part of the world, and said that theatre by theatre every campaign had been discussed.

Invasion Plans Mapped

This was taken to mean that Gen. George C. Marshall, chief-of-staff of the U. S. Army, Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial general staff, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Navy, and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound along with other generals had mapped invasion plans and probably also picked the generals for such field commands.

The President said the meetings in the past 10 days had been unprecedented in history, while the prime minister chimed in to add that they surpassed anything in his World War One experience.

One of the main decisions of the conference was to lend all material aid to the Russians, who are draining German manpower and war materials, the President said, and he added that China was to get a full measure to help to end forever the Japanese attempt to dominate the Far East.

Destructions of People Not Intended

The President said "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy, and Japan did not mean destruction of the populations but destruction of the philosophy of these countries based on conquest and reigns of terror.

All resources of the United Nations have been pooled and will be administered according to one central plan decided upon at the conference, the President said, but he gave no hint of when or where the military strength of the United Nations would smash against the Axis.

The President and Prime Minister stressed the strength of their friendship and Churchill said nothing had ever come between him and the President.

In speaking of the Allied landings in North Africa, the Prime Minister, after the President had finished the first part of the conference, said this great enterprise had altered the whole strategy of the war and given the Allies an initiative which they would never lose.

In discussing the fighting in the Middle East, Churchill described Marshal Erwin Rommel as a fugitive from Egypt who now would like to pose as the deliverer of Tunisia, but said the Eighth Army would never let go of him.

Master Battle Plan Developed

That the 10-day conference had developed the long-discussed Allied master battle plan for the war was clear in both the President's and Prime Minister's statements.

Churchill, waving his cigar, declared that despite the fact that there may be some delay at times, there is a design and purpose and unconquerable will to enforce "unconditional surrender" upon the criminals who plunged the world into war.

Churchill, wearing an American distinguished service order given him by General John J. Pershing in the first World War, declared the recent conference had surpassed anything in his long experience.

The President and Prime Minister repeated the words of the communique describing the Giraud-de Gaulle meeting, saying they felt the moment "made it opportune to invite General Giraud to confer with the combined chiefs of staff and to arrange a meeting between him and General de Gaulle."

President Praises French

President Roosevelt praised the valor of French fighting men, pointing out they lay side by side with Americans in graves in Africa, but now stand united in common cause.

A brief announcement near the end of the day describing the meeting between de Gaulle and Giraud said:

"At the conclusion of their first conversations in North Africa, General de Gaulle and General Giraud make the following joint statement:

"'We have met. We have talked. We have registered entire agreement on the end to be achieved, which is the liberation of France and the triumph of human liberties by the total defeat of the enemy.

"'This end will be attained by the union in war of all Free Frenchmen fighting side by side with all the Allies.'"

The President toward the end of the press conference said of his visit to the field troops that he was the first President to go to the eastern hemisphere since the visit of President Woodrow Wilson in 1919.

Eats in the Field

"I have seen the bulk of several divisions," the President said, permitting himself to be directly quoted, "I have eaten lunch in the field and it was a darn good lunch, too."

The President said American troops were equipped with the best weapons in the world, weapons superior to anything the enemy had developed.

"They had a band at one place I visited which played for lunch," he said. "It was a good band but I had to move upwind so I could hear it."

He said the had visited Port Lyautey, where some of the heaviest fighting took place, and placed wreaths on the graves of American soldiers.

The President praised the French for bravery in battle and said with the coming peace they are now helping us to carry out our common objective.

Proud of "Our Soldiers"

Waving his finger at correspondents seated in a semicircle in front of him, he said, "Our soldiers are eager to carry on the fight and I want you to tell the folks back home that I am proud of them."

The President in conclusion said America was determined to help the French civilians in North Africa with food and clothing until such times as they could recover from the stripping done by the Axis.

He said he had given a dinner for the sultan of Morocco and his son and had gotten on extremely well with both of them.

At the moment he was fingering what is probably the most rare autograph book in the world. It is bound in leather and contains the signature of all those dignitaries attending the conference.

The book would go to the government museum at Hyde Park, the President said.

In flying to the meeting President Roosevelt was in a plane for the first time since 1932, when he flew to the national Democratic convention in Chicago upon receiving the presidential nomination.

He was accompanied to Africa by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army; Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations; Lt.-Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, and Harry Hopkins, White House aide.

IN CHURCHILL PARTY

Prime Minister Churchill was accompanied by Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord and chief of Britain's naval staff; Gen. Sir Alan Francis Brooke, chief of the imperial staff; Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of the air staff; Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of combined operations (Commandos), and Field Marshal Sir John Dill.

Also participating in the conferences were Lt.-Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the AEF in North Africa; Maj.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of American and RAF air operations in that theater; and three leading figures in the British drive against Marshal Rommel—Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British commander-in-chief of the Middle East; Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth Army; and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, vice-chief of the British air forces.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 24 (AP)—The text of the official communique on the conference between Gen. Henri Honore Giraud and Gen. Charles DeGaulle:

At the conclusion of their first conversations in North Africa, Gen. De Gaulle and Gen. Giraud make the following joint statement:

"We have met. We have talked. We have registered entire agreement on the end to be achieved, which is the liberation of France and the triumph of human liberties by the total defeat of the enemy.

"This end will be attained by union in war of all free Frenchmen fighting side by side with all Allies."

President Inspected Troops in Morocco

U. S. Forces Surprised By Visit From Commander-in-chief—Reviewed Army From Jeep Driven By Kansas City Sergeant.

By Walter Logan
(Distributed By The Associated Press)

CASABLANCA, Jan. 21. (Delayed)—President Roosevelt, the first American chief executive to leave the United States in war-time and the first to fly the Atlantic, today inspected American troops in French Morocco, surprising them by his presence and leaving their faces wreathed in smiles.

Rides In Jeep

The President reviewed the troops from a jeep driven by Staff Sergeant Oran Lass, from Kansas City, Mo., who was the proudest soldier in the U. S. Army but maintained an air of impeccable dignity throughout.

In the jeep with the President were Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the U. S. Fifth Army; Charles Fredericks, the President's personal bodyguard, and the general officer commanding during the inspection of the troops.

Immediately behind the presidential jeep was another with bodyguards, and the following jeep contained Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., commanding U. S. troops in French Morocco; Rear Admiral Ross McIntire, the President's physician, and Harry Hopkins, Presidential advisor.

Riding in another car were Robert Murphy, American minister for French Africa, and W. Averill Harriman.

The soldiers reviewed had been entirely unaware of the President's presence in Africa, and confessed later that they had assumed when they rehearsed yesterday for the affair that the party would be "another bunch of brass hats."

Standing rigidly at attention and unable to look in the direction from which the President was coming, each was surprised in turn as Mr. Roosevelt's jeep drew opposite him.

Eyes literally popped as the President and commander-in-chief passed only six feet away in front of the men with a big smile on his face. Few soldiers were able to wipe off their own smiles of pleasure.

The presidential convoy formed at 9:30 a. m., skirted Casablanca and drove directly to the review area, some miles north.

The convoy consisted of official limousines, armored scout car with 50-calibre machine guns, and weapons carriers bearing official signal corps photographers. It was preceded and followed by military police on motorcycles.

Air Umbrella

The convoy drove by the airport where scores of fighters took off to form a vast umbrella overhead throughout the day. The President, wearing a gray felt hat, a gray suit with a white pin stripe, and white pullover sweater, rode the limousine of Lieut. General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief in North Africa.

The morning was chilly and somewhat cloudy when the party started, but the warm African sun shone brightly as the convoy sped around winding roads through the hills. Soldiers, not knowing whom they guarded, were stationed along the road at regular intervals. Every pass, every bridge was guarded by armed soldiers who had taken their stand many hours before.

The convoy proceeded to the review area where troops were lined up for at least a mile in front of their tanks, half-tracks, scout cars and artillery of all sizes and calibres. The convoy stopped and the President mounted his jeep, which, after a band had played the National Anthem, drove slowly in front of the soldiers.

Mr. Roosevelt's secret service bodyguards, wearing armored corps battle jackets, walked by the sides of his jeep.

Most of the troops were lined up beside the road under eucalyptus trees. Other units were stationed on the horizon guarding the area.

The President occasionally laughed and joked with the generals accompanying him, several times he spoke to the men. Mostly he appeared deadly serious.

The reviewing part passed into an open field swept by a brisk wind, the President laughed when his hat blew off. It was caught by General Clark.

Inspects Rations

Mess Sgt. Joseph Baer, from Sharon, Wis., had a field kitchen set up near 20 small tables with folding chairs. The President opened and inspected "K" concentrated emergency rations. Then he was introduced to 50 representative men and officers who were decorated with silver stars and purple hearts for their part in the initial occupation.

Included was Colonel Arthur Rogers, whose regiment was stationed at Hyde Park during the visit there of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in 1939. The President chatted several minutes with Colonel Rogers, who was in Alaska during the initial phases of war activity there and who landed at Fedala during the occupation of Morocco.

Sgt. Baer served a typical infantry field lunch of ham, green beans, sweet potatoes, coffee, bread liberally spread with butter; mixed fruit and strawberry preserves.

The President, with the others, ate from a new mess kit.

During the meal a band from the engineers played the President's favorite tunes.

Among the photographers at the review from Tunisia was Corp. Robert Hopkins, who saw his father for the first time in months.

It began to cloud up as the party reentered cars and drove a mile further where three companies of troops and armored vehicles were lined up in an open field. The President drove among them in his jeep, took up a position and the vehicles passed in review.

The convoy proceeded to Port Lyautey, the scene of the hardest fighting in the North African landings. It paused in front of the colorful Kasbah Mehdia, the 400-year-old Portuguese fort around which hand-to-hand fighting raged for three days.

Stops at Cemetery

The President's limousine stopped in front of the neat cemetery alongside the Kasbah, adjoining the ancient French cemetery, where he laid a wreath at the foot of the flagpole. The cemetery, bearing a sign "U. S. Military Cemetery" in English, French and Arabic, is bounded by a white picket fence and the graves of officers and men bear white crosses.

The President paused on a ridge overlooking the Atlantic beaches and valley where a tank battle had raged. Col. Frederick de Rohan, Washington, explained the operation which had taken place there. He used a huge chart to demonstrate.

The convoy returned to Casablanca, 108 miles away, through a drizzling rain. Word of the President's presence apparently spread throughout various encampments and roads were lined when the convoy passed. Troops were in high humor and some unidentified soldier yelled at the top of his lungs "he waved right at me."

Text of Communique On the Conference

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 26—(AP)—Here is the text of the official communique on the conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill:

The President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain have been in conference near Casablanca since January 14.

JAN 27 1943

Chiefs of Staff Present

They were accompanied by the combined chiefs-of-staff of the two countries; namely, for the United States:

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief-of-staff of the U. S. Army, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Navy, Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding the U. S. Army Air Forces,

And for Great Britain:

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord; General Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial General Staff, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of the Air Staff.

These were assisted by:

Lieut. General B. B. Somervell, commanding general of the Services of Supply, U. S. Army; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British Joint Staff Mission in Washington; Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mount-Batten, chief of Combined Operations; Lieut. Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, chief-of-staff to the Office of Minister of Defense, together with a number of staff officers of both countries.

Visits From Diplomats

They have received visits from Mr. Murphy (Robert Murphy, U. S. Minister to French North Africa) and Mr. MacMillan (Harold MacMillan, British Resident Minister for Allied Headquarters in North Africa); from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Force in North Africa; from Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham, naval commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force in North Africa; from Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, air commander of the Allied expeditionary force in North Africa; from Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. S. Army (commander of the U. S. Fifth Army in Tunisia) and from Middle East Headquarters from Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder and Lieut. Gen. F. M. Andrews, U. S. Army.

The President was accompanied by Harry Hopkins (chairman of the British-American Munitions Assignment Board) and was joined by W. Averell Harriman (U. S. defense expediter in England).

With the Prime minister was Lord Leathers, British Minister of War Transport.

Staffs in Session 10 Days

For 10 days the combined staffs have been in constant session, meeting two or three times a day, and recording progress at intervals to the President and Prime Minister.

The entire field of the war was surveyed theater by theater throughout the world, and all resources were marshalled for a more intense prosecution of the war by sea, land, and air.

Nothing like this prolonged discussion between two Allies has ever taken place before. Complete agreement was reached between the leaders of the two countries and their respective staffs upon war plans and enterprises to be undertaken during the campaigns of 1943 against Germany, Italy, and Japan with a view to drawing the utmost advantage from the markedly favorable turn of events at the close of 1942.

Stalin Could Not Attend

Premier Stalin was cordially invited to meet the President and Prime Minister, in which case the meeting would have been held very much farther to the east. He was unable to leave Russia at this time on account of the great offensive which he himself as commander-in-chief is directing.

The President and Prime Minister realized up to the full the enormous weight of the war which Russia is successfully bearing along her whole land front, and their prime object has been to draw as much weight as possible off the Russian armies by engaging the enemy as heavily as possible at the best selected points.

Premier Stalin has been fully informed of the military proposals.

In Touch With Chiang Kai-shek

JAN 27 1943

The President and Prime Minister have been in communication with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. They have apprised him of the measures which they are undertaking to assist him in China's magnificent and unrelaxing struggle for the common cause.

The occasion of the meeting between the President and Prime Minister made it opportune to invite General Giraud (Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, high commissioner of French Africa) to confer with the combined chiefs of staff, and to arrange for a meeting between him and General de Gaulle (Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French commander). The two generals have been in close consultation.

The President and Prime Minister and their combined staffs, having completed their plans for the offensive campaigns of 1943, have now separated in order to put them into active and concerted execution.

Canadian War Correspondent Killed on Trip

Edouard Baudry Hit By Anti-aircraft Fire Over Spanish Morocco.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 24—(Delayed) (AP)—En route to cover the biggest story of his career, War Correspondent Edouard Baudry of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was killed by anti-aircraft fire over Spanish Morocco when the plane in which he was riding with other correspondents became lost in bad weather.

Baudry was one in the group of men flown in three transport planes halfway across North Africa from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters to cover the historic meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Baudry's plane encountered bad weather and flew over a city in Spanish Morocco.

Ground defenses opened fire and a machine-gun bullet hit him while the pilot was turning the plane out to sea.

An emergency landing was made at Port Lyautey, but Baudry died a few hours later in a hospital.

(His death was disclosed Monday in Montreal. Baudry is survived by his widow and one child.)

Military Honors

He was buried with full American military honors at Port Lyautey with correspondents and Brig. Gen. Robert McClure in attendance.

One crew member of the transport was injured, but the rest of the correspondents escaped injury.

The correspondents, all accredited to Allied headquarters in North Africa, were notified suddenly to board the planes, and were rushed 800 miles to Cacablanca where they stayed three days while the conferences were going on.

In order for the sudden presence of a large group of correspondents, hundreds of miles from the actual warfront not to arouse comment, their arm bands and insignia were discarded.

If questioned, the correspondents replied merely that they were making a tour of the North African front to inspect troops, and were leaving shortly.

Few Knew of Meeting

While many Frenchmen could not help but notice the unusual precautions taken in certain parts of the city, few guessed that Roosevelt and Churchill were in the party.

If any did, they kept their mouths shut, as from all indications nothing drifted over the border into nearby Spanish Morocco where the Germans still are staying.

Gen. Wilbur Is Decorated By President

JAN 27 1943

Roosevelt Took Time Out During Trip to Award Congressional Medal.

JAN 27 1943

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 24—(Delayed)—(AP)—President Roosevelt took time out from his 10-day conference to decorate Brig. Gen. William H. Wilbur personally with the congressional medal of honor—the highest American decoration—for his part in the landings on French Morocco.

Wilbur was decorated in the presence of Prime Minister Churchill, Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Gen. George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King.

Official Citation

The citation by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower read in part: "For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action above and beyond the call of duty x x x he prepared the plan for contacting the French commander in Casablanca and securing an armistice to prevent unnecessary bloodshed. He landed at Fedala with the lead-in gassault waves x x x. Commandeering a vehicle, he was driven toward hostile defenses under incessant fire x x x. He then proceeded in total darkness through 16 miles of enemy occupied country intermittently subjected to heavy bursts of fire and accomplished his mission x x x. Returning toward his command, Wilbur detected a hostile battery firing effectively on our troops. He took charge of a platoon of American tanks and personally led them in an attack and captured the battery x x x."

A colonel when he landed at Fedala. Wilbur since has been promoted to brigadier general.

Praises Driver

While inspecting troops, the President also saw and praised Wilbur's driver, Sergt. Sanford Forbes of Milwaukee, who was the first enlisted man to win the distinguished service cross in the North African campaign.

Gen. Wilbur, who was born in Palmer 54 years ago and was graduated from West Point in 1912, was hailed as a quiet but effective military leader even when he was commandant of the Boston University infantry unit of the reserve officers training corps.

The President's recognition was for his part in planning and executing contact with French commanders in Casablanca to obtain an armistice to prevent unnecessary bloodshed.

Behind him was a colorful career that included service in the last war and leadership in the training of the nation's army officers between wars.

Among the military schools at which he studied are Ecole Special Militaire at St. Cyr, France; the Ecole Superieure de Guerre, also in France; the infantry school, command and general staff school, the army war college, and the general staff corps.

While at Boston University, he

F. D. R., Churchill Met On 3 Other Occasions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill have met four times as president and prime minister—three times since America's entrance into the war and once before it. Times and places were:

August 9, 1941, off the Newfoundland coast for three days or more.

Dec. 22, 1941, to Jan. 14, 1942, when Churchill came to Washington on a battleship and flew home.

June 18, 1942, in Washington, with Churchill flying here for a week's conference.

even though rumors were buzzing around Casablanca several days, said Lt. Col. Joseph Phillips, who brought the news stories out by hand to Gibraltar and London, but keeping the secret required some elaborate stalling.

Twenty-four correspondents arrived in Casablanca by plane Friday. Then it was decided not to hold a press conference until Sunday, so Col. Phillips had to divert them Saturday with a trip into the country.

JAN 27 1943

"A fine thing," one complained, "you bring a bunch of high-price foreign correspondents a thousand miles and then take them to see the Sultan's zoo."

The correspondents had only a few hours after the Sunday conference to clean up their stories and get them censored.

Col. Phillips took off with a great bundle of copy Sunday night in Maj. Gen. George S. Patton's special plane, with the warning they would be lucky if they got away in one piece, because Casablanca's anti-aircraft guns were shooting at anything overhead.

The plan was that Col. Phillips was to cable the stories from Gibraltar to London, thereby averting premature disclosure over the North African communication lines. At Gibraltar Col. Phillips discovered the cable line was working to the United States, so he filed the copy simultaneously to New York and London.

Dispatches from 20 of the correspondents totaled 70,000 words—the size of a novel—and took 30 hours to transmit on the cables. The transmission was not finished until today.

Col. Phillips, a native of Paducah, Ky., was former correspondent for the Herald-Tribune and managing editor of News Week, and he organized the Army press setup for the North African landing. He left Gibraltar early today and arrived in London at 2 p.m. with the original copies of the correspondents' stories.

(Col. Phillips is a brother of Robert B. Phillips, jr., former member of The Star staff.)

Soldier Rebuked by Barkeep For Hinting at Roosevelt Parley

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—An American soldier at a bar in Casablanca remarked that he understood President Roosevelt was in French Morocco.

"Don't you say that, whether it's true or not," the bartender snapped. "If anything happens to him, they'll hold me responsible."

The conference was kept remarkably secret from the outside world,

TALKS CALLED FAR-REACHING

English Press Asserts Stalin Was Kept Fully Informed on the Allied Discussions.

London, Jan. 26 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, and Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, High Commissioner in French North Africa, were reported today to have reached an agreement as a result of mediation by the United States and Britain. [Here a portion of the dispatch was eliminated by London censor.]

Talks were understood to be part of far-reaching war-winning plans of the Allied Nations. Military leaders of the United States and Britain, it was reported, played a part in the talks.

Fighting French spokesmen here had maintained for weeks that any disagreements could be quickly ironed out if representatives of the two French factions met.

The principal barrier between the De Gaulle and Giraud camps has been the Fighting French charges that Vichy men had not been eliminated entirely from key positions in North Africa.

De Gaulle and Giraud themselves were always understood to have a high regard for each other.

Showdown at Hand.

With the time approaching for the final showdown in the battle to drive the Axis out of North Africa, in some quarters fears had been expressed that a split in French factions would create a serious situation.

A report that Joseph Stalin was fully informed on recent Allied consultations, implying that he did not attend them, appeared today in the London press, which anticipated an official announcement about the talks within the next twenty-four hours.

Presumably because of censorship restrictions on premature disclosure of the strategy negotiations, all morning newspapers which mentioned the subject attributed their reports to United States sources, not British. Typical headlines were:

Daily Mirror: "America Expects 'Most Dramatic Statement of War' to Be Made Soon."

Daily Mail: "Biggest Talks of War."

News-Chronicle: "U. S. Expecting Big News."

Daily Express: "U. S. Expects News to Stir World."

Reports Stalin Informed.

The "Star Man's Diary" in the Star said:

"I understand that Stalin has been kept fully informed of all that has taken place during consultations of supreme importance between the Allied Nations in the last week. . . . American commentators, I see, are speculating on the formation of an Allied war council, but I doubt whether the official statement about to be issued will contain an announcement on this question."

Others who, like the "Star Man," have been given a preview of the official statement, could appreciate the basis for this doubt."

The "Londoner's Diary" in the Evening Standard said the question of who will be Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's commander in chief in Tunisia soon would be decided, and hinted: "It would not be surprising if Alexander (Gen. Sir Harold Alexander) and Montgomery were separated now."

Earlier Mr. Eden had told the House that he understood suggestions for the formation of a United Nations war council had "been canvassed in the United States," but that he had nothing to add to previous Government statements on the subject. The Foreign Secretary answered Sir Thomas Moore, who asked if Prime Minister Churchill had studied the report from the United States on the supreme war council and "whether as a result he had given reconsideration to many suggestions of this nature made by members."

Yank Pilots Churchill In Same Old Liberator

London, Wednesday, Jan. 27 (AP).—The British Ministry of Information in its account of the meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca, disclosed today that Churchill went to North Africa in the same Liberator bomber in which he flew to Cairo and Moscow last August. The plane was piloted by Capt. William Vanderkloot of Sarasota, Fla.

"Opinions were frankly expressed and as frankly discussed" at the meeting, the Ministry said.

Harriman With Him.

Churchill took off from an RAF station in the south of England the night of Jan. 12, with W. Averell Harriman, defense expediter in England, Sir Charles Wilson, president of the Royal College of Physicians, and his personal physician, Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, and three members of his personal staff.

A bunk on the flight deck of the bomber gave Churchill an opportunity for several hours rest during the flight. He was highly interested in the progress and made several visits to the pilots' cockpit. The party arived at Casablanca after an "uneventful" trip.

A small party of British and American officers welcomed the Prime Minister, and Churchill himself met the second plane conveying other British delegates. The American chiefs of services had arrived about a half hour earlier.

After President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins arrived, some time after the Prime Minister, the "tempo of the conference speeded up" with a minimum of formality, the British Ministry declared. "Work came first, second and third, and protocol nowhere at all."

French Problem Not Definitely Settled

Long, Tedious Process Necessary to Compose Differences Between DeGaulle, Giraud —Leadership Still Undecided—Settlement Believed Inevitable.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Wednesday, Jan. 27. (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, and Gen. Henri Giraud, North African high commissioner, have "met and talked" in Africa at the insistence of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, but well-informed sources asserted last night that any definite settlement between the two is going to be a long, tedious process.

Only One Small Communique

Out of a two-day meeting between the two French leaders at the historic Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Casablanca, French Morocco, there has come little more than this official communique issued by the two generals:

We have met. We have talked. We have registered entire agreement on the end to be achieved, which is the liberation of France and the triumph of human liberties by the total defeat of the enemy.

This end will be attained by union in war of all Free Frenchmen fighting side by side with the Allies.

Leadership Not Settled

They both agreed that Frenchmen must fight the Germans. How, when, and who is going to lead the United French, remain unanswered questions.

This, despite some blood, sweat and tears by Roosevelt and Churchill, who are no amateurs in the handling of men or in the wangling of an agreement.

In Giraud they met an aged French general who spent two years in a German prison planning how he was to lead not only the French into liberating France, but American and British armies in liberating the world.

The President and prime minister met a man who talks of himself in the third person—"General Giraud thinks this, General Giraud thinks that."

They met a man who considers a discussion of politics beneath his dignity, and they met a man who considers any questioning of his policy an insult to his personal integrity.

In De Gaulle they met another temperamental French military man who has had as little political training as Giraud. They met a man who does not know or declines to accept the fact that no matter what his following is in France, he has less than 10 per cent of the population of North Africa behind him.

Both Would Be Liberators

They met a man who feels he has an exclusive right to lead the French and is bound to see anyone else as a rival.

Both men want to be liberators of France.

A few of these factors may have accounted for the somewhat sour expressions on their faces as they faced the movie cameras with Churchill and Roosevelt at Casablanca.

Behind these men are their followers. There are leftists, rightists, royalists, and men of every and all political stripes in each camp, all tugging and pulling this way and that with less of the single purposeness of their military leaders.

For both Giraud and de Gaulle have one primary aim, and that is to free France, and in this lies the biggest hope that a satisfactory agreement can be reached.

Agreement Believed Inevitable

That agreement will be reached is inevitable. Deep down both men know that they must pull together or both fail, and overriding all other considerations is their hope to free France.

In the long run they must override the opinions of their followers, none of whom is a big enough man to take their places, and behind this is the determination of Britain and America that a united French movement is essential.

Meanwhile Britain and America in North Africa must face the decision between pressing the war against Germany with all possible strength immediately—and getting along with the present French administration, or settling down not to use North Africa as a springboard against Europe but to impose, by force if necessary, the American and British ideals of democracy — ideals, incidentally, which not only did not exist under the Vichy regime but did not exist in North Africa prior to World War Two when France was free.

North Africa Not France

North Africa is not France. It it a colonial area with few of France's ideals of freedom and liberty for all men. There have always been restrictions against the Jews, and the political voice of the Arabs, who outnumber the French ten to one, has been kept down.

West Africa, Tunisia, Morocco, and Algeria have always been separate political units administered independently from the mother country, with each local political problems.

Many of the administrators in these areas date back before Vichy. Gen. Auguste Nogues, commander in French Morocco and one of the most heavily criticized as a pro-Vichyite, has been in office, for example, since 1935.

His administration and policies have changed little from the first day he took office until now.

Some North African office holders have been pro-German, others pro-Vichy, and still others neither but who hated the Germans and retained office under the Vichy regime only to sabotage the Nazi effort.

Still others have been pro-Vichy but anti-German.

How they can be segregated is a question for the gods. They could be swept out of office and be replaced wholesale with de Gaullists, almost all of whom in North Africa are extreme rightists, as are Giraud's chief support.

This event would not only result in a virtual collapse of essential services in North Africa with a consequent disrupting of the military campaign, but also in civil disorders and a violent upheaval in the French army, 90 per cent of whose officers detest deGaulle as a result of the Syrian and Dakar campaigns.

Before his death, Admiral Jean Darlan offered to discharge any official requested by the Allies if the Allies could offer a qualified substitute acceptable to the public.

That no advantage was taken of this offer bespoke the lack of able men to take over posts.

That this difficult situation has been recognized by America and Britain and the choice has been made to use Africa for what Churchill described as a military "springboard to Europe" is seen in the much-criticized appointment of Marcel Peyrouton as governor general of Algeria.

Peyrouton, known as a Rightist who held posts under the Vichy regime, had the sole qualification of being an able administrator as far as the Allies were concerned.

Other than that there was little to choose politically between him and Yves Chatel, his sponsored predecessor. Since Peyrouton took office there has been no political house cleaning nor is there likely to be any.

While Lieut. Gen. Ddight Eisenhower was credited in some reports in the United States with putting Peyrouton in power, the former ambassador to Argentina was brought from South America principally by the state department, and his biggest supporter has been Robert Murphy, U. S. Minister to French North Africa.

The British foreign office was informed of the pending Peyrouton appointment through Harold McMillan, British resident minister at Allied headquarters in North Africa ,and any objection on their part would have blocked it. But no objection was forthcoming.

Roosevelt Says Attack Is Key to Allied Strategy

'Road to Berlin Very Sure,' He Declares in Message to Belfast Celebration

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt, in a message read here today at ceremonies commemorating the first anniversary of the landing of American troops in Northern Ireland, said: "From now on we think of attack—determined, unrelenting, smashing attack."

The message was delivered at a ceremony at City Hall by Major General Russel P. Hartle, temporary commander of United States forces in the European theater in the absence of Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"One year ago the first great convoy of American troops to cross the Atlantic in this war was landed in Northern Ireland," the President's message said.

"They came to buttress the grim defense of the besieged fortress of freedom.

"Things have changed greatly in these twelve months. We no longer think of defense. That is past. From now on and henceforth we think of attack, determined, unrelenting, smashing attack.

"Our troops and those of the United Kingdom, Canada and the other dominions of our allies have chafed at inaction. We will get action. The road to Berlin is long and hard, but it is very sure."

Prime Minister John Miller Andrews of Northern Ireland said the happiest relationship exists between the American troops and the people here and that it is their wish the relationship continue after the war for solution of problems on which "the freedom, security and progress of all humanity depend."

The ceremonies, including the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the landings, was one of the most brilliant spectacles Great Britain has seen since the war began. Every unit of the American and British armed forces was represented, and British and American Army and United States Marine bands played.

Sir James Grigg, British Secretary of State for War, declared the British Army continues to welcome American troops "because we want to be something more than wartime allies. We want to be comrades at arms."

"Our men are fighting for British ideals," Sir James said, "but United States ideals and liberties are the same."

General Hartle said the vigorous training received in Northern Ireland had conditioned the troops well, and "many of them are in action against the enemy at the present moment."

Roosevelt Was 'Admiral,' Churchill 'Commodore'

Those Were Code Names for Casablanca Conference

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Wednesday), (AP).—Both of them love their navies, so it was fitting that these code words were used for President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill during their Casablanca conference:

"Admiral" for President Roosevelt.

"Commodore" for the Prime Minister.

And few persons were let in on the secret.

Hull Applauds Decisions Reached at Casablanca

JAN 27 1943

Hopes to Comment Soon on 'More Vital Phases'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP).—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, expressed gratification tonight over the decisions of the North African conference.

"The proceedings and the decisions of the conference, which were most wise and timely are of the most far-reaching importance," he said. "They will prove of the greatest interest to all of the nations with which we are associated in this war.

"I shall hope soon to comment on some of the more vital phases."

Numerous Hints of Meeting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The last fortnight brought many intimations of a new Roosevelt-Churchill conference, but the actual fact of President Roosevelt's sensational flight to North Africa was a military secret until its official announcement tonight.

Under the voluntary code of censorship to which the press and radio adhere, movements of the President may not be publicized unless officially announced. Just so that the press and radio would know that Mr. Roosevelt was on the move—and be reminded that this was confidential—Byron Price, Director of Censorship, issued at 11 P. M., Jan. 9, the following memorandum:

"Note to editors and broadcasters—strictly confidential and not for publication:

"The President is taking another trip. The attention of every editor and broadcaster is directed forcefully to the code provision restricting any information regarding the movements of the Commander in Chief and any other ranking officials of the government. Upon his return detailed news of his trip will be made available to all simultaneously."

Casablanca Is Spanish Name for White House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Casablanca, the French Moroccan Port where President Roosevelt spent the last fortnight in important war conferences, is the Spanish name for—of all things—White House.

Axis Has It All Goebbled

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—The Axis radio was wrong again.

Only three hours before tonight's announcement of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference, the radio station at Calais said:

"Churchill, who as is well known at present is staying in Washington, has been confronted by the Americans with new territorial demands in Trinidad and Jamaica—as a result of which Halifax has tendered his resignation as British Ambassador. After the conclusion of his visit to Washington Churchill will proceed to Moscow."

Waac Took Dictation At Casablanca Meeting

First Officer Louise Anderson Only Woman Present

FORT DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 26 (AP).—First Officer Louise Lillian Anderson, of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, only woman at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in North Africa, was a choice for secretary of the meeting—she takes dictation at 150 words a minute.

This WAAC training center was abuzz tonight after word came that Mrs. Anderson—whose rank is equal to that of an Army captain—participated in the conference.

A member of the second officer class to be graduated, she was commissioned a third officer Sept. 12 and became a company commander. She was one of the first five Waacs to go overseas, in a contingent that reached Africa after surviving the torpedoing of their ship.

Born in Lewes, Del., Oct. 10, 1910, Mrs. Anderson, a divorcee, lived in Denver before entering service. For seven years she was chief clerk in the Denver office of the Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation.

Interpreting the War News
By Kirke L. Simpson

Whatever strategic design for aggressive war against the Axis was fashioned at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in French Africa, the propaganda effect of the meeting on German and Italian morale will bear watching.

Part of 'War of Nerves'

It can hardly be doubted that the timing of the announcement, as well as the selection of the Casablanca site for the discussions was based in part on a "war-of-nerves" technique. Allied radio outlets without question stood by keyed up to pour the story into any listenings ears on the continent. A flood of leaflets recounting it in many languages is likely to deluge friend and foe alike from Allied planes. They could be more effective than bombs.

There is no promise from the Casablanca conference to end the war in 1943. However, every line of the official statements rings with implied pledges of prompt second-front action in Europe.

And that Allied promise of action this year to insure ultimate and complete defeat of the Axis comes under circumstances calculated to give it special meaning to all continental audiences. In Germany and Italy it will serve as an ominous background for gloom-tinged battle accounts from Russia—official Nazi accounts which no longer conceal the growing danger of a tremendous Axis disaster. In France, the low countries, Scandinavia, Greece and the Balkans it must instill high hopes of release from Nazi thralldom—and stimulate both active and passive resistance to the foe.

Political Purposes Obvious

The political purposes of that unprecedented journey of the American and British leaders and their top-ranking Army, Air and Naval staffs to North Africa are obvious. In bringing Generals Giraud and DeGaulle together under such high Allied auspices, an approach to unification of all French factions not directly under the Nazi heel has been made. It should go far to ease the position of General Eisenhower in North Africa and free him to concentrate on vigorous prosecution of the campaign to clear the foe out of Tunisia as he has already been run out of Italian Africa.

And that, above everything else, seems still to be the prime strategy of the Allied High Command; the essential next step in the promised campaign of aggression. While the Roosevelt-Churchill promises of new blows "at the best selected points" to aid the fast rolling Russian offensive could cover any possible attack front in Europe, it seems obvious that best results could be obtained more quickly in the Mediterranean than elsewhere.

Hitler's Desperate Gamble

That is the exposed flank of the Axis. Hitler's desperate gamble to hold the Tunisian foreland, even at the price of heavy troop and plane withdrawals from his faltering Russian front, sufficiently illustrates the critical importance of that waistline passage in the Mediterranean. The mere fact that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill selected French Africa for their meeting heightens the conclusion that it is from Africa primarily that they hope to deal new and telling blows that will pave the way for ultimate crushing of the foe in Europe.

There is little to indicate that the Casablanca decisions will make any change in the broad strategic pattern initially mapped at the Roosevelt-Churchill meetings in Washington many months ago. It is still obvious that the Allied attack is to be concentrated primarily against the European segment of the Axis, this year as last.

If that seemed sound procedure originally, it must have appealed to the Casablanca conferees as even more urgently necessary now. The present situation in Russia and Rommel's flight from Tripolitania call for more, not less, Allied pressure against the weak flank of the Axis in Europe, its "soft under belly" on the Mediterranean.

It is from Africa that the quickest and most effective pressure can be exerted to take as much weight as possible off Russia and accelerate the still expanding Russian offensive. Where, when and how it is to be done, once Tunisia is cleaned up, can only be conjecture That seems the logical next step and the primary military objective discussed at Casablanca, whether it was aid to Russia which dominated war plan making there, or whether equal attention was given to ways and means of defeating the submarine menace.

Mediterranean Control Big Factor

Once Tunisia is cleared and adequate air and sea bases for domination of the whole Mediterranean from the Straits of Gibraltar to the Suez Canal are set up, a long stride toward beating the U-boats will have been taken. That short Mediterranean route to cut the mileage for Allied convoys offers greater hope of quickly easing the sea strain than any other known factor in the struggle. And once the middle sea is available to Allied use, a heavy concentration against Japan will be facilitated. All of that is implicit in the Casablanca conference.

Crises Mark Meetings Of F.D.R., Churchill

'Offensives of 1943' Promise to Be More Sensational Than Any Developments at Three Previous Conferences.

By J. D. White

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—Crises mark the meetings of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. Such momentous developments as the Atlantic Charter and the North African invasion follow them.

Sensational Offensives Promised

But the "offensive campaigns of 1943" to be launched as a result of their conference at Casablanca promise to be given more sensational and far-reaching than the developments which ensued from their three official meetings previously.

Both men are confirmed breakers of precedent, and both departed from tradition when they met first as national leaders on the decks of the cruiser Augusta off the fog-shrouded Newfoundland coast August 9, 1941, to map the strategy of the United Nations to be.

The stage was the whole world, set by the terrifying events of that Summer as Germany assaulted Russia after devouring western Europe and Japan moved into French Indo-China to gain bases and materials for still further conquest.

We were not yet in the war, but Mr. Roosevelt and countless others had repeatedly made plain their attitude toward the Axis. Against the promised "new orders" of Hitler and the Japanese, Mr. Roosevelt had proposed four freedoms for the human race—freedom of speech and reliigon, freedom from want and fear.

So it was that when Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill met in the Atlantic they believed the time was ripe for a plan, and for a declaration. The plan was increased aid to Russia in her fight against the Nazis (with whom there was to be no compromise) and concerted vigilance against the Japanese in East Asia.

Atlantic Charter Signed

The declaration was the Atlantic Charter. It was signed in the Atlantic and was thus named, but in repeated statements later Mr. Roosevelt applied its outlines to the whole world.

The Prime Minister, who had arrived on the new battleship Prince of Wales, returned to England through the submarine-infested Atlantic despite reports that Hitler had learned of the meeting and had ordered his U-boats to sink the Prince of Wales at all costs.

He broadcast to the conquered peoples of Europe:

"Help is coming. Mighty forces are arming in your behalf. Have hope. Deliverance is sure."

Meet In Washington

The next Roosevelt-Churchill meeting took place in the tense atmosphere of wartime Washington. The Prime Minister arrived Dec. 22, this time on the battleship Duke of York.

H. M. S. Prince of Wales had been sunk with H. M. S. Repulse off Malaya by Japanese planes.

While Mr. Churchill was in Washington, Hongkong fell and Manila capitulated. Singapore's days were numbered, as were those of the Dutch empire in the lush islands of the South Pacific.

On New Year's day came the idea that the two leaders had conceived. The four largest groups of humanity on earth—China, Russia, the United Kingdom, and the United States of America—signed the declaration of the United Nations of the world, pledging themselves to the defeat of Fascist aggression. The next day 22 other nations signed the declaration. Since then three more have added their signatures.

Mr. Churchill returned to England by air. Reason! Too many Nazi submarines in the Atlantic.

In that long winter the United Nations hung on where they could while the arsenal of democracy gathered speed.

Churchill Arrives Again

By June 18 when Mr. Churchill again arrived in Washington, this time by air, the public was gripped with the possible prospect of a second front.

But again the circumstances savored of a crisis. Russia was falling back under a second spring offensive by Hitler, and his African Corps under General Erwin Rommel had driven inside the Egyptian border.

And it happened that during this fateful month of June Nazi submarines sank 78 United Nations vessels—the highest admitted total for any month.

The White House let it be known that speculation on a second front was "perfectly justified."

Mr. Roosevelt has since described how this meeting mapped the largest water-borne invasion in history, the joint Anglo-American invasion of French North Africa.

Still more aid to Russia was decided upon, and a general division of strategy was determined.

The fruits of this meeting, by the end of the year, enabled Mr. Churchill to announce that we had reached the "end of the beginning."

U-Boats Still Problem

Now again the stage is set. The German submarine remains a terrible, unsolved problem. But Russia is rolling back the Nazis. American production in ships and planes and tanks and guns is roaring into the highest levels in history. Rommel has withdrawn from Libya to join forces with the German garrison at Tunis as United Nations forces close in.

Our toehold in east Asia grows stronger steadily in the Solomons and in New Guinea.

And so—the fourth Roosevelt-Churchill meeting, to agree upon "plans and enterprises" for 1943 to draw "the utmost advantage from the markedly favorable turn of events at the close of 1942."

Roosevelt Continues To Break Precedents

African Trip Marks First Time a President Has Set Foot on Foreign Soil In Wartime.

JAN 27 1943

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt, who has traveled farther and broken more precedents than any other chief executive, added to both of these records by his flying trip to Africa.

Two More 'Firsts'

It was the first time a President ever had flown while in office.

It was the first time a President ever had set foot on foreign soil in wartime.

Even the peacetime wanderings of Presidents in the past have sometimes aroused a furore over their constitutionality.

And when President Wilson prepared to leave for the Paris peace conference in December, 1918, some congressmen contended he would automatically forfeit the presidency forever. A congressional quarrel over whether a President abroad would "lose the American point of view" and endanger the security of the nation was still raging when Wilson sailed for Brest.

A tradition, if it can be called one, against a President's leaving the country stemmed from an act of the same man whose anti-third-term remarks were widely quoted in support of another tradition Mr. Roosevelt broke.

George Washington once made a trip to New England before Rhode Island had accepted the new Federal Constitution. According to the reports of the times, Washington carefully avoided stepping over the line on to Rhode Island soil—and in his studious effort to prevent repercussions at the moment, inadvertently caused plenty later.

Most of them came to a head before Wilson made his first trip to Europe at the close of the last war.

President Taft visited Canada and conferred with President Diaz of Mexico during his administration. However, there was some difference of opinion as to whether he actually went into Mexico or met Diaz on the International Bridge at El Paso, Texas.

McKinley Strengthened Tradition

In 1901, President McKinley had strengthened the tradition by reportedly refusing even to step on the International Bridge over the Rio Grande when he wanted to meet Diaz.

At the risk of a roar of disapproval, President Harrison ventured as far as the middle line of the international boundary, but he did not cross it.

President Cleveland sailed beyond the jurisdiction of the United States once on a fishing trip off Cape Hatteras, and Taft also went to the Panama Canal Zone—but both promptly faced protesting storms and charges that their jaunts were unconstitutional and violations of the principles of the stay-at-home tradition.

None, however, had ventured so far afield as Europe and when Wilson announced plans to cross the Atlantic, the storm broke.

Republican senators swore it would be unconstitutional . . that the President's office would be vacant during his stay on foreign soil . . . that the vice-president not only would be President temporarily, but also should hold the office until the next election in 1920, on the theory that on a trip would be temporarily forfeit all presidential powers.

A House resolution was offered calling upon Vice-President Marshall to assume the presidency and some said the President's departure would weaken the nation's legislative arm by removing the legal veto power and giving Congress too much authority.

State Supreme Court rulings were cited to the effect that lieutenant-governors automatically became governors in the latter's absences, and this was said to be true of the federal government.

One senator said that "the whole American atmosphere that ought to surround the President" at all times would be lost while he was abroad, and that the effects of the European influence might endanger the nation's security.

Wilson Abroad Twice

Nevertheless, Wilson went—not once, but twice—and visited in many European capitals, including London.

Since then, in outdistancing his strenuous cousin "T. R." and the much-traveled Taft, Mr. Roosevelt has journeyed some quarter of a million miles, including a 13,295-mile jaunt to Buenos Aires and back in 1936 to attend the Inter-American Peace Conference, and a quick trip to Canada in August, 1938. In addition, he has spent more time at sea than any other President.

But even he had not left the nation in wartime before.

Short-wave Carries News Around World

JAN 27 1943

Elaborate Preparations Made Ahead of Time To Obtain Greatest Possible Propaganda Value From Momentous Conference.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—America's short-wave stations lost no time in telling the world about the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences in North Africa.

Advance Preparations

Setting in motion elaborate advance preparations by government agencies to obtain the greatest possible propaganda value, stations on the East and West coasts started flashing the news promptly at 10 o'clock tonight, the exact minute it was made available to Americans.

To build up interest, all 23 United States short-wave stations began putting on "teasers" last midnight. These generally told of a momentous announcement to be made.

British Broadcasting Company for hours had urged its listeners to tune in an American station if the British station did not come in clearly, and United States stations made similar requests.

Axis stations, apparently anticipating a propaganda "beat" by the United Nations, had been jamming broadcasts from both England and this country.

"But they can't jam all the broadcasts," an OWI official said. "That's why we told the people to listen to either a British or United States station."

22 Languages

Within 24 hours, OWI and the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs hoped to broadcast the news to all corners of the world in 22 languages. The broadcasts will be repeated time and again. In fact, all foreign broadcasts for a full day will be devoted exclusively to the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting and related developments.

The first broadcasts were in news style much like Americans are accustomed to reading in their newspapers or hearing on their radios. They included the communique, together with highlights.

Of the East coast stations, WJD was beamed to North Africa, WJP to southern Europe, and WGEO to western Europe, including Portugal and Spain. WGEO, the most powerful of the three, is heard as far away as Poland and Russia. Most of the early broadcasts were in English, German, French and Italian.

All other East coast stations, nearly 20, were beamed to South America between 10 o'clock and midnight with broadcasts in Spanish and Portuguese. At midnight, these stations were to shift their beam to Europe.

Beam to Japan

Two big West coast stations, beamed to Japan, China and other parts of the Orient, also were on the air at 10 o'clock.

As the hours wore on, OWI planned to broadcast views of the "man in the street."

Helping out the barrage of words will be radio Algiers, whose broadcasts will include German intended for troops in Tunis, and radio Morocco, which will devote most of its attention to southern Europe, chiefly Italy.

In addition, OWI hoped to obtain time on so-called outpost stations in many countries, including China, Spain, Portugal and Turkey. These stations have no direct connection with OWI, but are available for its broadcasts, some of them on a paid basis.

OWI also collected editorial comment from United States newspapers, some of it made available in advance.

F.D.R.'s Plane Trips Shrouded In Secrecy

President Made History in Flying to Chicago to Accept Nomination In 1932.

JAN 27 1943

The grim possibilities of war dictated secrecy for his flight as President of the United States to the North African meeting of Allied leaders.

Political diplomacy made secrecy advisable for his flight from Albany to Chicago in 1932 to accept his first Presidential nomination.

The Democratic National convention had seen stormy days and nights of hotel room talk and convention floor gossiping. In the executive mansion at Albany, Governor Roosevelt sat with a few chosen advisers who remained with him while other supporters fought for his nomination at Chicago.

Even before the balloting at Chicago, Those at Albany were confident, that the nomination would go to him—indeed, so confident that an airplane was chartered to fly him to the convention for the acceptance speech.

Plane Was Ready

Stored as inconspicuously as a large airplane can be stored in the corner of a hangar was a tri-motor ship, fueled for flight, attendants and crew pledged to secrecy.

The final ballot came at night. Not until after the result had been flashed from Chicago to the executive mansion by the late Louis Howe, Mr. Roosevelt's political generalissimo, was the announcement made that the governor would fly to the convention.

Airplanes of those days lacked the refinements which the years of commercial aviation and warfare have brought since. The plane Mr. Roosevelt boarded at Albany was a lumbering craft compared with the sleek ship that winged him to North Africa. The friends and secretaries who accompanied him loaded it to capacity.

In the hot, steamy air of a July morning, the tri-motor rumbled down a runway and headed for Chicago. Radio beams, the guiding finger for blind flying, still were in the laboratory. A thunderstorm, broad and threatening, loomed across the air path near the eastern Ohio border. The pilot didn't go through it, but clawed his way, through buffeting winds, around the edge.

Late in the afternoon the plane circled the Chicago airport, nosed down, trundled along to a stop, and Mr. Roosevelt's flying was done for more than ten years.

Mountain Pass Gained by U. S. Tunisian Army

Command Ousseltia Valley After Checking Nazi Advance

BRITISH CLOSE IN FROM EAST

Montgomery An n o unces Capture of Zauia By Eighth Army.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—American troops held command of the Ousseltia Valley in Tunisia tonight as the British Eighth Army closed in from the east in pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating weary forces.

A dispatch from the front disclosed that United States infantry units, part of an American force thrown in to check the German advance in the Ousseltia area, captured a mountain pass commanding the flat stretches of the valley without expected enemy resistance.

The pass curves around the mountain peaks of Djebel al Halfa and leads to the coastal plane. The important position was wrested from the French by the Nazis last week.

The American forces, moving toward the pass at daybreak yesterday were prepared for a showdown battle but found that the enemy had departed during the night.

In an hour and a half, the Americans occupied the position and tanks swept along the northern sector of the valley, cleaning up the last vestige of German occupation.

In the meantime, the British Eighth Army swept closer to the Mareth line, where Rommel's forces were reported bracing for what the Axis itself said was an impending multi-bladed Allied assault.

Zauia Captured

The capture of Zauia by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's men brought them half way from Tripoli to Zuara, a port on the coastal road leading to the Axis fortifications in Tunisia. Zauia is about 30 miles west of Tripoli.

Behind in Tripoli, Brig.-Gen. Jacques LeClerc's Fighting French troops entered the city after a 1,500-mile trek from the Lake Chad region and will aid in mopping-up operations there, freeing seasoned empire troops to continue the westward drive.

From Axis radios came nervous reports that the Allies were planning to fall upon Rommel and Col.-Gen. Jurgen Arnim, commander of the Axis Tunisian forces, from different directions.

The Berlin radio said the Americans were organizing a thrust toward the coast, probably in the area between Sfax and Gabes.

A Vichy broadcast told of other Allied preparations for an offensive move to the coast further above Bon Arada, about 65 miles west of coastal town of Hammamet.

Day and night Allied air attacks on the enemy base of Medenine indicated that this strong covering point for the Mareth line had become one of the centers of Axis resistance.

Dispatches from the Tunisian front said Allied patrols in the central area made substantial advancse over the valley areas from which von Arnim now has apparently withdrawn most of his forces.

An Allied communique said "Our forces continued to operate toward the north in the Ousseltia Valley," but a spokesman said rains had limited activity in Tunisia by both the Allies and Germans to patrol operations in the battle area, fourteen miles northeast of Ousseltia.

The bad weather also limited air activity. Rains in Tunisia make it impossible to operate armored forces, confining both sides to defensive action.

A spokesman said there was no official confirmation of reports that some units of the British 8th Army had reached Tunisia, but he thought it was possible that some advance scouting party had reached the border. There was no contact, however, between the two Allied forces. Clouds cloaked the movement of Rommel's army.

Axis supply lines in Tunisia and Sicily were attacked with bombs and machine guns yesterday, a Cairo communique reported, and not a plane was lost in the operations.

The Italian high command communique reported the repulse of an Allied attack in Tunisia yesterday and the capture of eight Allied trucks with their crews. Between Jan. 18 and 24, the communique declared, more than 4,000 Allied troops and thirteen tanks were captured and seventy guns destroyed in the Tunisia fighting.

Allied planes raided several points on Sicily yesterday, the Italians reported, damaging buildings and killing at least two persons at Avola, near Syracuse.

Wide Allied Assault Expected

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The British Eighth Army swept closer today to the Mareth Line in Tunisia, where German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating and weary forces were reported to be bracing for what the Axis itself said was an impending multi-bladed Allied assault.

The capture of Ez Zauia by General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's men brought them halfway from Tripoli to Zuara, a port on the coastal road leading to the Axis fortifications in Tunisia. Ez Zauia is about thirty miles west of Tripoli.

Behind the British, Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc's Fighting French troops entered Tripoli after a 1,500-mile trek from the Lake Chad region of French Equatorial Africa. They will aid in mopping-up operations, freeing seasoned British troops to continue the westward drive.

Axis radios reported that the Allies were planning to fall on Marshal Rommel and Col. Gen. Dietloff von Arnim, the commander of the Axis Tunisian forces, from different directions.

The Berlin radio said that the Americans were organizing a thrust toward the coast, probably in the area between Sfax and Gabès. A Vichy broadcast told of other Allied preparations for an offensive move to the coast farther north, above Bou Arada, about sixty-five miles west of the coastal town of Hammamet.

Reuter quoted the Paris radio as saying tonight that Marshal Rommel's forces had established contact with General von Arnim's troops.

Day and night Allied air attacks on the enemy base of Medenine indicated that this strong covering point for the Mareth Line had become one of the centers of Axis resistance.

AMERICANS OCCUPY VITAL TUNISIA PASS

Mountain Route Leading to Coast Recaptured From Foe, Who Fails to Put Up Fight

AXIS FEARS ALLIED TRAP

U. S. Troops Expected to Close In Behind Rommel and Cut Off His Retreat

ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 26 (AP)—United States infantry crept through rocky, shrub-spotted hills east of here yesterday morning and occupied an important pass that snakes its way around mountain peaks called Djebel dr Rihana and Djebel al Halfa and leads to the coastal plain. [A Canadian Press dispatch identified the place as Kairouan Pass, southwest of Sousse.]

The position, which commands wide, flat stretches of the ousselat Valley, was taken from ill-equipped French troops by a German attack last week.

The Americans, veterans of the November landing as well as of previous fighting in Northern Tunisia, were keyed for a showdown battle but found that the enemy had pulled out in the night, giving them uncontested possession.

A heavy concentration of artillery stood by, ready to blast away if called upon. When the pass was secured tanks swept along the northern reaches of the Ousselat Valley, cleaning up the last vestige of German occupation.

The successful move followed several days of stiff fighting in this area. At least fifteen German tanks were reported destroyed and seven 88-mm. guns knocked out. Quantities of ammunition, food and other small stores were left behind when the Germans fled.

The infantry began its first tentative moves toward the pass at the first daylight. The progress grew more rapid when patrols reported that no enemy could be seen, but the advance still was taken cautiously to avoid the possibility of a trap.

The pass was fully occupied one and a half hours after the time formally set for the beginning of the action. Throughout the day the infantry continued to occupy the mountain range, calling for artillery fire to be plastered on suspicious points before advancing.

Moving through a rocky, irregular mountain road were American, French and native troops. Fierce-looking bearded Moroccan "goumes" with striped woolen robes and varied rifles offered a sharp contrast to the youthful Americans, smiling under their steel helmets as they lumbered through in huge trucks.

tunity to emerge from cover between rounds of the barrage.

When the harassed Nazis summoned planes to divert the fire from the hidden American batteries, a flight of A-20 bombers and an escort of P-40's promptly flew to the scene and chased them from the skies. The bombers then winged over the German strong-point and unloaded at 12:30 P. M.

Four great black columns of smoke geysered up as the Allied planes flew back without a loss.

Another indication that the aerial bombardment had ruined more than the lunch hour for the Germans came later in the day from a French native soldier who had been their captive. He escaped during the bombardment and made his way back into the American lines.

Activity in Tunisia Is Restricted by Bad Weather

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Pressing relentlessly westward from Tripoli in pursuit of Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces, a vanguard of the British 8th Army has occupied the small costal town of Zauia about 30 miles west of Tripoli, while a Fighting French column from the African interior has reached Tripoli to join the approaching battle for Tunisia.

British spokesmen emphasized that the official communique announcing the occupation of Zauia lies with the Italian Libyan garrisons en route.

Weather Restricts Activity.

Bad weather restricted activity on the Tunisian front, both on the ground and in the air. The Allied headquarters communique reported briefly that "our forces continued to operate toward the north in the Ousseltia Valley," indicating that the Allies were maintaining pressure in this region where a recent German thrust has been halted.

The Italians claimed the repulse of an Allied attack yesterday and the capture of eight Allied trucks with their crews. Between January 18 and 24, the broadcast Italian communique declared, more than 4,000 Allied troops and 13 tanks were captured and 70 guns destroyed in the Tunisia fighting.

Allied planes raided several points on Sicily during the day, the Italians reported, damaging buildings and killing at least two persons at Avola, near Syracuse.

A dispatch from Cairo said both Allied air and land forces now were concentrating their efforts on knocking out Axis airfields in Southern Tunisia in order to blind Axis ground troops and stifle bombing attacks on Allied communications.

Two important Axis airports in that area, at Medenine and at Ben Gardane, have been bombed heavily the last few days.

Americans Accept Dare.

While it was assumed that some of Marshal Rommel's forces already had joined Gen. Juergen von Arnim, the vulnerability of the Axis corridor up the east coast of Tunisia was indicated yesterday when American troops, accepting a dare, broke through to Maknassy, only 35 miles from the coastal road, and seized 80 Axis prisoners.

French troops, holding their positions in the important Ousseltia sector of Central Tunisia, threw back German attacks in the mountains to the east and, with the arrival of United States armored troops, strengthened their hold north and northeast of the town, a French communique said.

Marshal Rommel was believed to have sent a sizable force into the Mareth line, which once guarded Tunisia against the Italians, but this move was believed by most observers to be only a delaying action against the 8th Army pounding westward toward the line.

Supplies Are Big Problem.

The greatest problem of the two Axis armies in Tunisia will be in getting supplies. The two main ports open to them, Bizerte and Tunis, are in the extreme north and are under almost constant aerial attack by Allied planes. The harbor

U. S. Guns, Planes Blast Nazis In Thrilling Tunisian Action

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 23 (Delayed) (AP)—American bombers and ground artillery blasted the Germans from a strong point in the foothills seven miles north of Ousseltia today in a beautifully coordinated attack visible for miles.

Like other actions in this battle for the Ousseltia valley, it was perfect from a spectator's viewpoint.

From high ground above the valley I could see through field glasses the columns of debris and smoke thrown up as 105-millimeter shells hit among the entrenched Germans during the bombardment that began in the morning and lasted well into the mid-afternoon.

The irregularity of the timing employed by American artillery officers gave the Germans no opportunity to emerge from cover between rounds of the barrage.

When the harassed Nazis summoned planes to divert the fire from the hidden American batteries, a flight of A-20 bombers and an escort of P-40's promptly flew to the scene and chased them from the skies. The bombers then winged over the German strong-point and unloaded at 12:30 P. M.

Four great black columns of smoke geysered up as the Allied planes flew back without a loss.

Another indication that the aerial bombardment had ruined more than the lunch hour for the Germans came later in the day from a French native soldier who had been their captive. He escaped during the bombardment and made his way back into the American lines.

placed the advanced elements of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's pursuing army still over 60 miles from the Tunisian frontier, toward which Marshal Rommel's troops were racing under fierce aerial harassment.

Dispatches from Cairo said part of Marshal Rommel's forces still were straggling through Zuara, 65 miles west of Tripoli, yesterday, and that a ship in the harbor which was attempting to take off Axis troops was struck by a bomb.

The Fighting French of Brig. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc announced in a triumphant communique that they had reached Tripoli to join their British allies after a 1,500-mile drive over the desert from the Lake Chad region of Equatorial Africa. This column began its march northward 39 days ago and fought several bat-installations already are badly smashed.

Heavier Allied bombings of Sicily and all over Germany and Italy were expected by many observers. It is even possible now, they said, for bombers to leave England, blast targets in Germany or Italy and land in North Africa.

The airdromes on the North African coasts, they said, make excellent bomber bases as they are rarely made unusable by mist or fog.

The American thrust at Maknassy, apparently a small operation designed to test Axis strength, was made after German planes dropped the challenge: "Why don't the Americans come out and fight?"

Axis Ship Carrying Troops and Workers From Tripoli Sunk

Escorting Destroyer Also Badly Damaged by British Vessel

JAN 27 1943

By HARRY CROCKETT,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ABOARD A BRITISH WARSHIP OFF THE TRIPOLITANIAN COAST, Jan. 16 (Delayed).—The Axis has just had convincing and spectacular evidence that the British Eastern Mediterranean fleet is again on the offensive—evidence in the form of a 4,500-ton merchantman sunk and her escorting destroyer badly damaged by shellfire.

The merchantman into which I saw this warship and another fire round after round of screaming shells and hundreds of glowing tracers was en route from Tripoli to Palermo, Sicily, carrying troops and hundreds of Axis workmen to Sicilian farms.

There are 23 survivors aboard our ship, one of them a former Brooklyn water-front resident who speaks English. He said many of his shipmates were natives of Tripolitania, who were being taken to Sicily and Italy unwillingly to do farm work.

We had been cruising at high speed for many hours off the Tunisian-Tripolitanian coast through vicious seas whipped to a fury by a howling winter gale. It was so rough that a number of the crew were injured. One officer suffered a fractured leg as we approached our prey.

Illuminated by Flares.

Accompanying aircraft had reported sighting a merchant ship with an unidentified escort.

About a mile ahead off starboard the sea was brightly illuminated by flares, but the target was not yet visible. Altering course to head directly for the flares we splashed through huge waves at top speed and soon saw the silhouette of the merchantman, but the escort was not in sight.

Then came an ear-splitting roar and the forward guns belched white flames through the darkness, sending shell after shell directly into the hull of the merchantman.

The sky blazed with light as our big guns and those of our companion ship blazed away. Tracers from pompoms formed a perfect arc of red fire between us and the target.

The first shells started a column of smoke rising from the stern of the Axis ship as we got her into full view with the searchlights. Then an orange fire broke out at her bow as explosive pompom shells struck and bounced against her port side.

Italian Destroyer Flees.

As the deck of this ship shivered to the roaring explosion of the heavy guns, I realized suddenly all the tracers were not going the same way. Some were passing overhead and two or three hit us, though they caused no damaged.

Thus the convoy escort was discovered sitting far out on the horizon. The commander ordered the other British ship to finish off the merchantman with a torpedo while we sped toward the escort—an Italian destroyer—which sped away after getting at least five or six of our shells in her stern and on her port side.

Later there was a big explosion just beyond the horizon in the direction the destroyer was heading. From the other side, meanwhile, there was more tracer fire but if there were other escort ships, we didn't observe them.

Nearing the spot where the merchantman had gone down like a piece of lead, the commander ordered:

"Stand by to pick up survivors."

At least 50 screaming Italian seamen in a lifeboat barely floating shouted: "Aiuta—help—"

The boat capsized just as the line was tossed, but 23 were rescued. Trying to rescue more we were warned of the approach of enemy aircraft and forced to abandon the region.

I saw one old man deliberately shoved back in the water by a youngster who clambered to safety. The British saved the old man by tossing him a line.

2 U. S. Officers Cross Tunisian Mountains; Walk After Foe Traps Tank Destroyers

ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 23 (Delayed) (AP)—Two officers of a tank destroyer unit are back with their own troops today after they separately made perilous two-day treks through the mountains dodging Germa. trols. They are Captain Benja. A. G. Fuller, 24, of Milton, Mass., and Lieutenant Lawrence E. Marcus, 25, of Dallas, Texas.

"We were attacked shortly before dusk Jan. 20 on a ridge north of Hir el Abrici, which is about thirteen miles north of Ousseltia," Captain Fulled said. "The enemy had between fifty and seventy-five armored vehicles, including a number of Mark IV tanks.

"During the battle the French had thrown up a road block behind us and opened fire on our column, mistaking us in the darkness for Germans. Lieutenant Frederick C. Miner of Bronxville, N. Y., swiftly swung the column away from the bridge and forded the vehicles across the river at another point, and got his guns safely back to Ousseltia. It was a wonderful job and showed real initiative.

"I had stayed back at the crossroads where the battle took place in hopes of rounding up any of our missing men, and was cut off by about two dozen German foot soldiers. I had picked up Corporal Leitner of Brooklyn and Private Harry Ellenbark, who lives in some town in New Jersey, one British lieutenant and ten British soldiers.

"We lay hidden in the cactus and debated whether to face almost certain suicide by attacking, or try to work our way through the German lines. It seemed more like common sense to get back to our own side.

"We saw six Jerries in a group near the corner of a stone house, and threw the only four grenades we had at them, and then lit out across country toward the mountains to the west.

"We reached the mountains O.K. and spent a day and a half more crossing them. Cold winds made the nights awful. The only thing we had to eat was emergency rations.

"When we got to Siliana, which is held by the French, the first man I met was Lieutenant Marcus, who had gotten out safely by another route."

War Rule by British Is Due in Tripolitania

CAIRO, Jan. 26 (AP).—Richard G. Casey, representing the British War Cabinet in the Middle East, told a press conference today that the British will administer Tripolitania as occupied enemy territory until the end of the war, "when its destiny will be decided by the United Nations."

The North African colony taken from the Italians, "purged of Fascist elements, will carry on its life, benefiting from British administration, justice, food and supplies," Casey declared.

Only 12,000 Germans Left At Stalingrad

3 Main Rail Lines Are Freed for Use

Remaining Nazis, Split Into 2 Groups, Expected to Last Only Few Days

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Russian troops have killed or captured all but 12,000 German troops of the huge forces trapped at Stalingrad and freed the three main railways radiating westward for the continuing offensive that has carried the Red Army forward for 245 miles, the Moscow radio reported tonight in a broadcast of a special official announcement recorded by the Soviet monitor here.

"The history of wars has never known the encirclement and annihilation of such large numbers of regular troops saturated to the limit with modern military equipment," the statement declared.

Since Jan. 10, the Russians said, they had killed more than 40,000 Germans and captured 28,000, leaving 12,000 split there in two pockets yet to be liquidated.

"We have not yet liquidated two small enemy groups, separated and isolated from each other, totaling in all no more than 12,000 men, one to the north of Stalingrad and the other nearer to the central part of the town," the announcement continued. "Both these groups are doomed, and their liquidation is only a question of two to three days."

22 Divisions Encircled

Twenty-two enemy divisions, of some 220,000 men, had been reported encircled in the Don-Volga River pocket before Stalingrad after the Russians began their November offensives above and below the Volga River city.

The Russians threw a cordon around these men in the early stages of their drives, then sent their troops plunging westward in a series of unfolding offensives from Voronezh to the Caucasus. These troops today are only about 80 miles from Kharkov, Ukraine capital, ten miles from Voroshilovgrad, Donets basin industrial center, and 56 miles from Rostov, key Caucasian gateway city. They, too, are encircling and annihilating.

But the surrounded Germans who fought on for survival at Stalingrad had tied down Russian forces who might have been released for the general push westward. The Nazis also had retained a degree of control over the three major railways leading out of Stalingrad.

Railway Control Broken

That control now has been broken, the Russian communique said. The railways leading northwestward to Povorina, westward to Tatsinskaya in the Don bend, and southwest to Salsk, "have been cleared for through traffic."

The Germans refused to surrender at Stalingrad early this month, and then the general Soviet attack on them began Jan. 10. Since then 68,000 Axis troops have been killed or captured, and 540 square miles of territory recovered, the communique said.

After listing the enormous booty captured the communique said: "Thus the plan of the Supreme High Command of the Red Army for the encirclement and liquidation of large groups of picked German troops has in the main been carried out."

Accomplishments Cited

Col.-Gen. K. K. Rokossovsky commanded the big operation which accomplished these results since Jan. 10:

Destroyed—40,000 Axis troops; 132 planes, 290 tanks, 315 guns of various caliber, 950 machineguns, 1,970 trucks, 43 various dumps, 2,146 blockhouses and dugouts, 115 strongly equipped observation points, 537 enemy artillery and mortar batteries;

Captured—28,000 Axis troops, 523 planes, 1,297 tanks, 2,978 guns of various caliber, 904 mortars, 4,870 machineguns, 45,000 rifles, 49,000 trucks, 4,660 motorcycles, 229 haulage tractors and transporters, 4,570 carts with army supplies, 170 radio transmitter stations, three armored trains, 42 locomotives, 230 freight cars, 160 arms and ammunition dumps and much other military equipment, 60 strongly fortified points, and nine railway stations.

Thus the story of the trapped German Sixth Army was almost finished. For days now Adolf Hitler's propagandists have been preparing the German people for this big reverse at Stalingrad, a city which Hitler last September vowed would be taken by his armies.

JAN 27 1943

"They have derided me as a prophet," Hitler said on Nov. 8 just before the Russians began their big break-through. "I wanted to take it (Stalingrad). There are only a couple of very small places left there. This Winter we are equipped differently . . . all that happened to us last Winter will no longer happen to us this time."

(Tonight a Berlin radio broadcast recorded by the Associated Press quoted the Nazi military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, as saying that Colonel General Paulus' trapped troops at Stalingrad still were resisting, but said everyone "probably has forfeited his life," and "part of them only continue fighting with bayonet and rifle butt."

Methodical Retreat

(Sertorius said the "methodical retreat of the German Caucasus army had been made with such slight losses," that the "shortening of the front is beginning to make itself felt" against the Russians. But he admitted that "as a whole the initiative still remains with the Soviets.")

Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore flew from Moscow over the Stalingrad area early this month. It was a graveyard of German strength—tanks, wrecked, frozen, burned and silently covered with snow littered the area for miles as the Russians slowly strangled the trapped Germans and Rumanians.

Trying to exist and fight on 5 1-4 ounces of food daily, thousands of Hitler's crack troops died on the approaches to Stalingrad. The Germans sent hundreds of big transport planes into the territory in an effort to keep them alive. The Russians said they destroyed or captured 655 of them.

American trucks were used by the Russians to haul up supplies for their great winter offensives. The transport problems solved by the Soviets is one of the amazing feats of the war.

With the Germans controlling parts of the railways leading out of Stalingrad and with the change to a German gauge of those west of the city, the Russians sent huge truck and tank armadas across snowy steppes. These were supplemented by thousands of sleds, many of them driven by airplane propellers and motors, and horse-drawn carts and vehicles.

Cut Heart of Army

The Stalingrad operation that cut the heart out of Germany's army was conducted by Col.-Gen Rokossovsky and his chief of staff, Lieut.-Gen. Malinin. The artillery was commanded by a representa- of the Supreme High Command Marshal Voronov, the air forces by Col. Gen. Novikov, lLeut. Gen. Golavanov, and Maj. General Rudenko.

The Red troops in the field were led by Lieut.-Gens. Christyakov, Tolbukhin, Batov, Chuikov, Shumilov, and Maj. Gens. Balinin and Zhadov.

The regular midnight communique as recorded by the Soviet Monitor here said the Red Army during the day had killed more than 1,000 Germans in offensives still rolling ahead on a 450-mile front between Voronezh on the upper Don River and Armavir in the Caucasus.

Soviet troops still were fighting also on the Leningrad-Volkhov river front where Russians recently drove a relief corridor through to Leningrad to lift a 17-months siege, and now are trying to widen it.

Hundreds of additional Axis captives were taken today in southern Russia, more than a score of enemy tanks were knocked out and more than 100 trucks were captured, the midnight bulletin said.

The Germans however were said to have thrown in large reserves and tanks along the approaches to Rostov in an effort to prevent that city's capture. Rostov's occupation by the Russians would mean the encirclement of huge Nazi forces in the Caucasus, opening the way for Soviet annihilation tactics similar to those drawing to a close at Stalingrad.

RUSSIAN FORCES GAIN MOMENTUM IN ROSTOV DRIVE

Nazis Admit Red Offensives Advance—Speech of Stalin Is Spur.

London, Jan. 26 (A. P.).—Russia's armies pushed their battle lines ever closer to Rostov and deeper into the Ukraine today, spurred at once by the praise of Premier Joseph Stalin and his rallying cry that the invading Germans be thrown entirely out of Soviet Russia.

For the first time in the Russians' offensive they hinted at Soviet activity close to Rostov, although the midday communique as reported here by the Soviet radio monitor did not say how near Rostov the units were working.

The group cited in the communique was a guerrilla detachment, and it was credited with wiping out about 200 of the enemy in the Rostov area. Not only did they destroy guns, trucks and carts and capture rifles and ammunition, the recorded war bulletin said, but they also recaptured from the Germans 1,200 head of cattle and 3,500 sheep said to have been taken off collective farms.

JAN 27 1943

Gains Made On All Fronts.

The German High Command asserted that Russian thrusts on a wide part of the eastern front increased in violence yesterday.

The Russians reported further gains with the capture of towns and villages on the southern front, on the southwestern front, in the Voronezh area, and on the North Caucasian battle line, but they were not immediately identified.

[The British radio said today that latest reports indicate that troops from the central Caucasus have pushed right up the main highway toward Rostov and linked up with the forces advancing down from Salsk, CBS reported. The natural meeting place would be Tikhoretsk, but the broadcast noted only progress in the direction of this railway junction. Meanwhile, Russian bombers are pounding the German columns streaming westward toward Kursk from the front south of Voronezk, BBC also said.]

The Russians reported the capture of Belaya Glina, in the northern Caucasus, putting one of their armies within forty miles of Tikhoretsk, a rail junction, ninety miles south of Rostov. Other spearheads aimed at Rostov were said to be fifty-six miles to the east of the city and seventy miles to the north.

In the Ukraine, the Russians reported they had pushed to within ten miles of Voroshilovgrad and pointed out that their occupation of Starobelsk and Valuiki at once gave them a key to the approaches to Voroshilovgrad and to Kharkov, the Ukraine capital and one of the German front strongpoints.

[A new thrust by the Russians in the Arctic on the Petsamo front has broken through the German lines, the British radio said today, quoting Swedish reports. CBS recorded the broadcast in New York.]

In the middle Don fighting, however, the Russians said that the Germans still were throwing heavy infantry and tank forces into counter-attacks, which the Russians said were being repelled.

Nazis Increase Resistance on Rostov Route

JAN 27 1943

Russians, Spurred by Stalin's Order, Press Advance, However

By EDDY GILMORE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—Urged on by an order of the day in which Premier Stalin for the first time signed himself supreme commander of the Red Army, Russia's fighting forces pushed their battle lines ahead in the Ukraine and the Caucasus today and battled against growing German resistance in the lower Don approaches to Rostov.

"Forward for the routing of the German invaders and their expulsion over the boundaries of our motherland," was the Premier's rallying cry.

(The German high command asserted today that Russian thrusts on a wide part of the eastern front increased in violence yesterday.)

It was recalled that Stalin's words "not a step backward" rang out over the defenses of Stalingrad in its darkest hour last fall and from that time on the defenders of the battered city braced and held.

Premier Praises Troops.

The Premier's praise of his troops, commanders and workers was contained in an order of the day, broadcast by the Moscow radio at a time when Russia's armies were forging ahead on every front from Leningrad to the Caucasus.

Stalin declared the Red Army had driven forward 245 miles in two months of their second winter offensive, routing 102 enemy divisions and capturing 200,000 prisoners.

"Our troops have won an important victory," he said, and he added: "The offensive of our troops continues."

It may be hard to realize outside the Soviet Union what effect a pronouncement of Stalin has. It sweeps over this vast country by radio and newspapers and spreads through cities by word of mouth.

His order of the day followed special and regular communiques which reported the recapture of all of Voronezh from the Germans who had held a western section of the city since the summer of 1942, and which announced new gains in the Caucasus and the drive southwest of Voronezh toward the German base at Kharkov.

Nazis Resist Fiercely.

The Russians reported the capture of Belaya Glina, 40 miles from the Tikhoretsk rail juncture which is 90 miles south of Rostov.

The Germans were said to be tightening the defenses and resisting fiercely as the Russians squeezed in on Rostov from this section of the North Caucasus, down the Don from the east, and down the rail line across the Donets bend from the north.

A midday communique reported the recapture of more towns in the Voronezh section, along the southern front and in the Caucasus, but these were not immediately identified.

Earlier the Russians said they had driven to within 10 miles of Voroshilovgrad on a western tributary of the Donets River roughly midway between Rostov and Kharkov.

Russian dispatches said that along the entire front the battleline was straightening as advanced Red Army forces filled in the gaps between earlier spearheads.

British Hopes For War's End In 1943 Rise

Roosevelt - Churchill Conference Welcomed in London.

By Lewis Hawkins

JAN 27 1943

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Roosevelt-Churchill rendezvous in Morocco sharply boosted British hopes that the final blow at the heart of Hitlerdom will be struck in 1943.

The dramatic dispatches telling of the Casablanca war council stirred a deep satisfaction in both official and unofficial circles, with all convinced that the results of the talks would be making the blackest news for the Axis before the year's end.

Word that "complete agreement" had been reached was accepted in military and diplomatic circles as meaning that detailed plans for the defeat of the Axis on all fronts had been shaped far into the future, with blows to Hitler's Europe almost certain for the current year.

Confirmation that the "unconditional surrender" of the enemy governments remained a basic objective was hailed as a powerful reassurance to the British public, which has taken too many blows to accept any lesser victory.

London found a happy portent in the fact that this Roosevelt-Churchill session had a brighter background than any of their meetings, recalling that during the Prime Minister's June call in Washington, Nazi Marshal Rommel captured Tobruk and the Germans drove deeper into Russia.

In contrast, during the present talks Tripoli fell to a resurgent British army and the Red Army in Russia landed stunning new blows on the Reichswehr.

No Easy Victory

However, while the general effect of the momentous conferences was to increase optimism and confidence, no responsible quarters here believe that the two leaders regard the discussions as a prelude to any easy victorious wind-up of the war in a few months.

The North African situation remains to be cleaned up, the great German U-boat menace is mounting, Hitler still is unchallenged on his home grounds and Japan is solidly astride the bulk of her Pacific conquests.

The folly of overconfidence and impatience was warned abainst by observers who reminded that while the June meeting produced the later North African landing, it required five months to prepare it and deliver it after the plans had been shaped.

It was held there is no reason to believe that the best fruits of the latest discussions will ripen any faster.

Even so, military men agreed that July, August or even September would not be too late for launching of the full-scale smashes at Europe which both leaders pledged would come as soon as possible.

Analyzing official announcements and correspondents' dispatches from Africa, informed Londoners were impressed by the comprehensiveness of the list of aides who surrounded the President and Prime Minister, and also by the length and intensiveness of the sessions.

The top chiefs of the American and British land, sea, and air forces were there to help shape the long-range global strategy, and key supply men also attended to present problems and receive instructions for assembling war materials and shipping which must be marshalled months ahead of battles.

Operational Heads Present

On hand also were operational commanders from the African fighting theatre for a full exchange of ideas on the best means to speed a cleanup of that continent so that they can get along with larger tasks.

In the latter connection it was assumed the question of a unified direction of the Tunisian operations was clarified, and would be one of the first decisions disclosed since air operations in that area already are being snared by three air forces without a single commander.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Libyan army also is rapidly moving toward southern Tunisia which is under Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command at present.

The matter of an ultimate overall command for an assault on Europe also was believed to have been considered and perhaps settled. But the name of this man to direct this offensive may not be disclosed immediately.

Informed sources here said it was likely that progress was made toward creation of some permanent council to exchange ideas between the Allied armies, but pointed to the obstacles of naming any general command of all forces everywhere. Russia, for example, is not fighting Japan, and Russian operations are wholly self-contained as far as men and strategy are concerned, and there is no disposition of the Allies to try to share in a direction of Soviet operations except as asked.

250 Persons Reported Shot By Germans in Marseilles

170 Men and 80 Women Said to Have Been Executed After Vichy Decrees State of Siege in Port to Halt Revolt.

London, Jan. 26 (A. P.).—Reuters, quoting a dispatch published by a Swiss newspaper, reported today that 170 men and eighty women have been shot at Marseilles, where a state of siege was imposed after angry Frenchmen fired on German soldiers.

The dispatch, in the Journal de Geneve, implied that the 250 persons were shot as violators of the Vichy-ordered state of siege, under which any one entering the forbidden zone of the old port area of Marseilles was liable to execution.

The Vichy authorities proclaimed the state of siege, other dispatches from Switzerland reported, after Frenchmen in the old port district fortified their homes.

The German news agency DNB said in dispatches to Madrid and Lisbon that 40,000 persons had been arrested in the city. The Vichy radio, which placed the number of arrested at 6,000, was making an obvious effort to minimize difficulties in Marseilles, which is the second largest city in France.

Shortly after reporting the state of siege proclamation, the Vichy radio asserted that Marseilles was calm and the evacuation of the old port district had taken place without difficulty.

A Reuters dispatch from Zurich said that the Germans had brought up artillery to shell rebellious Frenchmen into submission if necessary and that house-to-house fighting was in progress.

District Ordered Razed.

German occupation authorities had ordered evacuation and razing of the district, apparently as a defense measure against possible Allied invasion from North Africa. The Germans have been fortifying the coast in the Marseilles area since completing the occupation of France.

German dispatches reporting the arrest of 40,000 persons said the move was "absolutely necessary because there were among them many criminals whose activities were against the security and interest of the State."

Thousands of persons, it was said, were being sent to Frejus, a town seventy-five miles east of Marseilles.

Nazi Radio Talks of Calm.

A broadcast by the German-controlled Lyons radio to the French public, reported to the Office of War Information, was quoted as follows:

"The Marseilles population, by their calm and discipline, have greatly facilitated the evacuation of the northern area of the old port. The Regional Prefect of Marseilles expressed his warm gratitude and thanked them for the understanding they displayed.

"Those entrusted with maintaining order showed a great spirit of humane and social solidarity. Arrangements were made to safeguard as far as possible the material interests of the evacuated inhabitants.

"That is why every one is definitely forbidden, until further orders, to enter the evacuated buildings, and any one disregarding (these) orders and starting to pillage will be immediately arrested.

"Under the state of siege declared by the French authorities, the death sentence will be pronounced. Those entrusted with maintaining order have been given strict orders to use their arms against any one who does not reply when challenged."

NAZIS KILL 250 IN SLUM RAIDS AT MARSEILLE

London, Jan. 26 (AP).—Two hundred and fifty French inhabitants of Marseille, including 80 women, tonight were reported shot during the siege ordered by the Nazis to clear 40,000 persons from the labyrinths of the city's historic port district.

A dispatch to the Swiss Journal de Geneve, quoted by Reuters, implied Nazi guns were turned on violators of an order making the steep, dark, narrow streets a forbidden area.

The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio claimed that 40,000 were moved out of the port last night and said that under martial law the death penalty would be imposed on any attempting to return to their slum homes.

A Fighting French spokesman said the action was designed to purge the area of all French underground elements which might aid any Allied invasion forces. They said the Nazis may plan to build additional fortifications at Marseille.

From Zurich it was reported earlier that German tanks and artillery were used to besiege houses in which angry French barricaded themselves.

British Execute German Who Posed as a Refugee

Nazi, Sent for Ship Data, Was 13th Enemy Spy to Die

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP).—Franciscus Johannes Winter, a forty-year-old German spy who came to Great Britain in the guise of a refugee, was executed today at Wandsworth prison, the Home Office announced.

Winter, born in Belgium, was reported to have been sent to Britain by the German secret service to obtain employment on a ship and then report the movement of any seagoing convoy in which he sailed.

He arrived last July 31 at a British port as a passenger on a British ship and told immigration authorities he escaped from Belgium and made his way across France to Spain.

The Home Office said British authorities questioned his story, in which he persisted for a long time, and he finally admitted it was "a pack of lies."

Then, it was said, he asserted the journey was arranged by the German secret service to get reports on convoy movements. The Germans taught him how to use invisible ink and he received an address in a neutral country, to which letters with his convoy reports were to be sent.

Winter was tried in secret and was convicted and sentenced to death Dec. 4. He appealed, but the appeal was dismissed Jan. 11.

He was the thirteenth spy to die in Britain since the start of the war, equaling the number executed in the World War. In the preceding conflict, however, nineteen in all were sentenced to death, but some sentences were not carried out, and one spy committed suicide.

7 Billion More Voted For War by Commons

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, asking the House of Commons today for two further votes of credit totaling $7,600,000,000, announced that Great Britain was spending a total of $56,000,000 a day, compared with $51,000,000 daily October 20. He estimated the expenditure for the year would be $19,600,000,000.

Commons agreed to both votes of credit.

"Expenditure in North Africa, Libya and other parts of the world now probably has taken the place of rising production at home as the main factor in determining the rate increase in our vote of credit expenditure," Sir Kingsley said, and added, "We are now incurring a substantial expenditure by way of reciprocal aid to our Allies."

Allies Bomb Axis Railways

American, British, Dominion Fliers Join

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Squadrons of American, British and Dominion fighter planes made sweeps over Axis targets on the continent today, the air ministry announced, while Ventura medium bombers raided railway installations at Bruges, Belgium.

The Allied fighters in their forays over northern France and Belgium were reported to have knocked down three enemy fighters in combat, while themselves losing four planes. The bomber attack on Bruges was carried out without loss, the ministry said.

The targets were railways at Bruges and transportation between Calais and Dieppe. It was not disclosed whether any of the four Allied planes lost were American.

A small number of enemy aircraft were reported to have dropped bombs during the day on two towns on the southeast and southwest coasts, causing some damage and a few casualties. One of the raiders was shot down off the southwest coast.

Commandos Raid Norway

Small-Scale Attack on Coast Is Called "Very Successful"

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP).—An authoritative British source said today that a small-scale commando raid was made last Saturday night on the coast of Norway and was very successful. Further details were withheld. Only a small force was engaged in the action, he said.

The Reuters (British) news agency, reported a German news agency broadcast yesterday which said British commandos had struck at Larvik, on the southern coast of Norway. The broadcast said German defenses had repulsed an attack by seven British torpedo boats, probably sinking two of them.

Jews in Philippines 'Warned' by Japanese

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Japanese military authorities have addressed a "stern warning" to all Jews living in the Philippine Islands, a DNB dispatch from Tokio, broadcast by the Berlin radio, said today.

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The warning said Jews there had been guilty of black market speculations and espionage, DNB reported.

Balloons Down in Raid

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP).—Sir Archibald Sinclair, Air Minister, explained to the House of Commons today that barrage balloons were down, because of maintenance work on them, in part of the London area during the German daylight vengeance raids last Wednesday. Six German raiders got through the city's defenses.

Alarms in Switzerland

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 27 (AP)—Air raid warnings were sounded in Basel and Zurich, Switzerland, shortly after midnight this morning, Reuters reported.

This might indicate that Allied planes were headed for an attack on Italy.

German Press Sees Dangerous Turn in the War

Hitler's Paper Asks People to Surrender Comforts, Asserts Allies Work Hard

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26 (AP).—The German press continues to warn that the war has taken a dangerous turn and that the conflict now demands a radical change in private life in Germany, according to dispatches published today in Swedish newspapers.

Berlin dispatches to the "Dagens Nyheter" quoted an editorial in Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's own paper, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," which said: "The enemy is trying to blow the flames of war's fires in the opposite direction. Surrender some of your comforts before the flames burn you."

The editorial admonished the Germans that the people of Great Britain, of Russia and of the United States "did not lose courage after suffering great blows, but worked harder than ever . . . we see the results on the battlefields now."

[London observers interpreted the Nazi propaganda of gloom and despondency, combining news of the gravity of the eastern campaign with pleas for courage, as an attempt to ease the way for a speech Hitler is expected to deliver Saturday on the tenth anniversary of his becoming chancellor. The observers felt that the hints being dropped in London and in Washington on the hatching of new Allied blows against the Axis also were affecting German morale.]

Americans Win Japanese Beach On Guadalcanal

Consolidate New Positions at Kokumbona, Slay 293, Turn Back Air Raiders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP).—Relentlessly destroying Japanese forces and pushing survivors back toward their beachheads at the nothern tip of Guadalcanal, American troops have consolidated positions at Kokumbona and have killed 293 more of the enemy despite strong resistance, the Navy Department announced today in a communique.

The consolidation of positions in the little village brought complete mastery of that territory and of the beach to the eastward—toward Henderson airfield—by American troops.

It was in the vicinity of Kokumbona that the Japanese presumably made many of their landings, under cover of darkness, to keep troops and equipment on Guadalcanal through months of battling. The village was recognized as an enemy headquarters on Guadalcanal. Its capture was announced yesterday by the Navy.

Troops which first moved into the village took a large quantity of enemy supplies and equipment there. Today the Navy said the original units had been joined by another which moved in from an opposite direction.

"The maneuver," the Navy communique said, "resulted in giving United States forces unrestricted use of Kokumbona and the beach base to the east."

A new attempt by the Japanese to bring groups of bombing planes into the Guadalcanal battle was frustrated in another phase of the fight for the control of the Solomons, which in turn affords control of shipping lanes to New Guinea, Australia and the South Pacific.

Dive-bombers, twin-engined bombers and fighting planes all were in an aerial task force speeding toward the island. But they were intercepted by American fighting planes and did not drop a single bomb on the American positions. Four enemy Zeros were shot down. No American planes were lost. This brought to 781 the number of Japanese planes shot down in the Solomons since American marines landed on Guadalcanal last August.

The latest action on Guadalcanal, the Navy said, also resulted in capture of much enemy land equipment, including a tank—possibly the last enemy tank on the island. Other captured equipment included several supply dumps, three six-inch artillery pieces, seven 77-mm. guns, two 37 mm.'s, several trucks, three 40-mm. anti-aircraft pieces, various other field pieces and a quantity of small arms.

Jap Munitions Ship Exploded by Allied Bombs at Rabaul

Flying Fortresses Dump 15 Tons of Missiles On Harbor Area

JAN 27 1943

By VERN HAUGLAND,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 25 (Delayed).—A small Japanese ship probably carrying munitions exploded with towering flames that lighted the entire Rabaul Harbor area last night as Flying Fortresses unloaded more than 15 tons of bombs on airdromes and shipping in the harbor.

Describing the raid, Maj. Eugene Halliwill, Flying Fortress pilot from Portland, Me., said, "We hit a merchantman of 2,000 tons squarely with two bombs and there was a large explosion that lighted up the entire harbor area."

(A communique issued today at Allied headquarters in Australia said the explosion of the supposed munitions ship blasted a hole in the side of another vessel.)

Capt. Kenneth McCullar of Batesville, Miss., was pilot of another plane which skip-bombed a medium-sized vessel at the wharf, scoring a direct hit and leaving a gaping hole in the ship's side.

A third ship at the wharf was attacked, but results were not observed.

Other bombers gave Lae, New Guinea, another hammering and silenced three machine-gun and anti-aircraft posts.

Four to six Japanese bombers raided Port Moresby January 23 and dropped 30 bombs near the airfield, but the damage was negligible and there were no casualties.

JAPANESE SHIP AFIRE IN NEW RABAUL BLOW

MacArthur Planes Also Attack Three Enemy Vessels at Sea

AT UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Wednesday, Jan. 27 (AP)—Allied bombers, striking again at Rabaul, have set fire to a large enemy ship, the High Command reported today.

Medium bombers attacked also three enemy cargo ships in the Arafura Sea, between Australia and New Guinea, the communiqué said. The results were not observed.

In the Solomons area medium bombers struck at night at the airdrome at Buka, starting "substantial fires" in a supply dump area, the announcement related, adding that the blazes were visible from a distance of thirty-five miles.

The attack against Rabaul was said to have been pressed home by Allied heavy bombers against airdromes and shipping despite intense anti-aircraft fire.

'Forts' Hit Jap Ship at Rabaul

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Wednesday, Jan. 27 (AP).—A formation of Flying Fortresses took another crack at Rabaul Tuesday night, setting one big Jap ship afire with direct hits and starting fires in the airdrome area.

The Japanese sent up two night fighters but their efforts were ineffective.

Catalinas made a smaller night raid on the Buka airdrome at the northern tip of the Solomon archipelago, and other planes hit at seven other targets, including Lae and Salamaua.

GEN. MACARTHUR MARKS BIRTHDAY

JAN 27 1943

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Jan. 26 (A. P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur observed his sixty-third birthday today, working as usual but in surroundings radically different from a year ago. Members of his staff, naval officers and Australians at general headquarters dropped into his office during the day to pay their respects, but there was no general observance of the anniversary.

A year ago Gen. MacArthur, directing the defense of the Philippines, paced back and forth in a tunnel on Corregidor, tapping the cement floor with his cane.

Today, only recently returned from directing the victorious Papua campaign and in excellent health, he stepped from a big black car, entered the headquarters building and walked briskly to the elevator to start his day of work. Awaiting him were messages of congratulation from Australia's Prime Minister, John Curtin, President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines and others.

Earlier he had listened to a broadcast of greetings from members of his class at West Point, and he expected tonight to listen to rebroadcast greetings from President Quezon. It also was expected there would be a birthday cake tonight when he would be with Mrs. MacArthur and their son, Arthur.

Brigadier Gets Oak Leaf Cluster for Heroism In Action

JAN 27 1943

AT UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 26 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster in lieu of the Distinguished Service Cross today to Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Iowa, for "extraordinary heroism in action near Cape Endaiadére, New Guinea, Nov. 23."

His citation said that, while within a few yards of the front line observing the disposition of infantry units for an impending attack, General MacNider saw some men withdrawing from an advanced position. While rallying this group, he received numerous wounds from fragments when an enemy grenade exploded.

The citation added that his courageous personal example of coolness under fire and fortitude after beingwounded were an inspiration to men under his command.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to him in the First World War, when he was a captain, for extraordinary heroism in action at St. Mihiel, France, while serving with the Ninth United States Infantry. An oak leaf cluster, equivalent to the second award of the Distinguished Service Cross, was awarded to him was extraordinary heroism in action a short time later at Bianc Mont.

He also received the Silver Star decoration and two oak leaf clusters, denoting three citations for gallantry in action, during his service with the American Army in France.

He also has received the Purple Heart and an oak leaf cluster to that decoration.

Curtin Urges New Drive Against Japs

CANBERRA, Jan. 26 (AP)—"The southwest Pacific area is too crucial to be left to a force of caretakers," Prime Minister John Curtin asserted today in urging immediately increased efforts against the Japanese in that theater.

JAN 27 1943

In an Australia day speech marking the 155th anniversary of the founding of the first colony of white settlers in 1788, Curtin urged "naval and air strength in this theater . . . adequate to the plans of the commander."

"Time is fighting on the side of Japan," Curtin said. "Time is fighting against the United States."

"The relegation of this theater to a holding war means that Japan is buying cheaply the time she requires to exploit the resources she has acquired to build for an onslaught which the United Nations will find costly to outfight."

Indian Patrol Boat Sinks Jap Troopship in Burma

By the Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, Jan. 26.—A royal Indian Navy boat patrolling the Mayu River area in Burma Sunday night rammed and sank a Japanese coastal craft filled with troops, a British communique said today.

The Indian vessel was rammed first by the heavily camouflaged troop-laden Japanese ship, but opened fire, drew back and then rammed the Japanese craft, sinking her, the British said.

Japanese casualties were numbered as at least 50. Two officers on the Indian boat were wounded.

The Mayu River flows into the bay north of Akyab, on the West Burma coast.

RAF Hurricanes roared in low over a Japanese motor transport column yesterday, along the Taungup-Padaung road in Southwestern Burma, the British reported, destroying at least 10 army trucks and a staff car, damaging many others and killing a considerable number of Japanese soldiers.

There were no reports, the British said, of any enemy air action against Allied territory yesterday.

Brazil Refuses Nazi Attache Safe-Conduct

BUENOS AIRES, Jan 26 (AP)—The Foreign Office disclosed tonight that Brazil has refused safe conduct for the return to Germany of Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, naval attache in the German embassy here and alleged spy ringleader.

Because of this last-minute complication after Britain and the United States had promised Niebuhr safe conduct, the sailing of the Spanish liner Cabo de Hornos was postponed from tonight until noon tomorrow.

Bolivia Establishes Press Censorship

LA PAZ, Jan. 26.—The Bolivian government established a press censorship tonight.

Without explaining the reasons for its measure, the government ordered the press and propaganda office to send censors to the newspaper offices to check political and economic stories.

The Under Secretary is on an official mission that has carried him to Britain's Caribbean and West Indian colonies. He will visit Bermuda before returning to London.

Rickenbacker Demands U S Hit Japan at Home

JAN 27 1943

Calls for Tremendous Air Striking Power To Defeat Nipponese

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Foreseeing no final victory until 1944, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said today he agreed "100 per cent" with Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur that "we must hit the Japanese at home—through the air with tremendous striking power."

Rickenbacker said our victories at Guadalcanal, Buna and Gona were tremendous but "we cannot defeat Japan by an island-to-island campaign—we must strike at the heart of Japan through air power." MacArthur had asserted Sunday that the successful Papuan campaign pointed to "offensive power in swift massive strokes rather than the dilatory and costly island-to-island advance that some have assumed to be necessary."

WOULD PLAN AIR TRANSPORTS

Rickenbacker said Japan might hold out for years if it had time to take back to its mainland the fruits of conquest.

The air line executive also asserted that United States should plan now "protection for post-war transport" to assure the nation a ranking place in commercial aviation.

Predicting that victory would not come before the fall of 1944, the former world war ace asserted too that wartime high school boys and girls could have only one plan for the future—to "prepare themselves to successfully wage war."

JAN 27 1943

ADDRESSES CONFERENCE

"There is no other future," he told a press conference held by the national policy committee of the High School Victory Corps, of which he is chairman. "This war is a life and death struggle—something which people at home don't know and don't understand."

Rickenbacker said that instead of thinking in terms of 10 years, people should think in terms of 100 years, or generations.

Post war aviation will be "a thousand fold" its present operation, he estimated, adding that air transport will be used for all travel beyond a distance of 100 miles, for all first class mail and for light express.

Rickenbacker suggested that the treasury department or some government agency should provide capital now to enable American aviation in the future to "match anything other countries bring in." He also advocated the co-operation of the armed forces and the State Department in preparing for the future of American aviation.

Discussing his belief that victory would not come before the fall of 1944, Rickenbacker asserted that 40 per cent. of today's high school boys would enter the armed forces when they graduated and another 20 per cent. would go into production work.

"I don't think they should think in terms of college unless they are so physically handicapped they must help win the war and that they can do without a college education."

Rickenbecker also estimated that about 50 per cent. of the girls in high school and young women would have to work toward the war effort.

He added that women and girls were qualified to help in many ways never realized before—in mechanical work, in production and as pilots.

Predicting an increased place for women as pilots—"not necessarily combat" pilots—he mentioned that they might fly planes 'from one front to another."

2,220,000 in Navy by 1944

JAN 27 1943

Washington, Jan. 26 (A. P.).—Senator Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, said today that the Navy had informed the Senate Military Committee of plans to have a strength of 2,220,000 by December, 1943, which would make the nation's armed forces total 10,420,000 by the end of this year.

Senator Chandler told reporters of the figures upon leaving a committee meeting where Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of Naval Personnel, discussed Navy plans. Yesterday the committee heard Army proposals for a force of 8,200,000 officers and men by 1944.

Admiral Jacobs's over-all estimate of naval personnel by the end of 1943 included the Coast Guard and Marine Corps, Mr. Chandler said.

The committee sought the figures to determine, Chairman Reynolds, Democrat, of North Carolina said, whether the man power resources of the country were sufficient to maintain the contemplated forces. He said that Claude Wickard, Food Administrator, and Paul V. McNutt, Manpower Commissioner, would be heard on that phase next week.

Other bits of information reported by Mr. Chandler were:

The Navy estimate includes 177,000 officers.

The Navy's strength last January 1 was 1,218,000.

The Coast Guard is expected to reach 192,630 men.

The Navy expects to build up its present force of more than 5,000 women in the WAVES and SPARS to 29,000 by the end of 1943 and 48,700 in 1944, thereby releasing men from certain shore duties.

The committee was told that 65,000 young men would be trained for naval commissions in schools and colleges.

After February 1, the enlisted men in the Navy are to come through selective service.

Senator Reynolds said the Navy had no estimates of its personnel beyond 1943. Its 1943 estimate, he said, did not include several hundred thousand civilians employed at sixty-five naval stations in various parts of the world.

5 Cans Per Person Pre-rationing Limit

Any Quantities Over Amount Will Result in Deduction of Eight Points for Each Excess Can.

JAN 27 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—Every person in the United States may possess without penalty a total of five cans of fruits and vegetables when rationing of those goods begins.

Pessimistic View

The Office of Price Administration announced this limit today. It apparently reflected a pessimistic view about the size of canned goods inventories throughout the country, since up until a few hours before the announcement high officials of the agency hoped that the allowable limit might be between eight or 10 cans a person.

The penalty for having more than five cans of vegetables or fruit (not counting home canned goods or cans containing less than eight ounces each) will be the loss of an eight-point stamp for each excess can when new rationing books are issued in three or four weeks.

An OPA spokesman said this penalty was designed to discourage hoarding. However, officials acknowledged that not everyone who has a large stock of canned goods is a hoarder. The new OPA administrator, Prentiss M. Brown, recently said it was common practice in some areas for people to stock up in the Fall for the Winter.

For families, the quota of allowable cans and the penalty will be applied as a unit. Thus, a family of five will be allowed 25 cans. If it had 30, the penalty would be five coupons for the whole family and could be taken either out of one book of the family or perhaps spread out over all five books. Each person will have his own book, even babies.

In applying the penalty, OPA said it would make no distinction because of either size or contents of the can on hand in any family larder, because of the difficulty of getting every household to itemize its pantry. However, when the rationed sale of canned fruits and vegetables starts, different values will be assigned cans as to both size and contents.

New Books Nearly Ready

The new ration books will be passed out to the public in about three weeks at schools and thousands of other registration places. To get a book all a person will have to do is to show (but not turn in) his Number One Ration Book, which contains sugar and coffee stamps. Before the clerk hands out the new book, he will tear out one eight-point coupon for each can over the five per person limit. Persons who have an unusually large stock of cans could theoretically lose, by this process, half their rations, since the eight-point stamps represent half of the point values in the book. Other stamps, none of which will be taken out for penalties, will be in denominations of 5, 2, and 1 points.

Under the rationing system, each can will have a value in points. For instance, a can of peas might be worth 10 points and could be obtained by turning in two 5 point stamps.

The principal exception from the can limit will be small cans of baby food, since many of them fall under the eight-ounce exemption.

U. S. Flyers in China Rated High by Former Group Commander

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP).—American fighter pilots in China are shooting down twelve Japanese airplanes for each of their own planes lost, the former commander of the 23d Fighter Group in China reported today.

Colonel Robert L. Scott jr., who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, air medal and silver star, all with clusters, for shooting down thirteen Japanese planes and scoring six other probable victories, told a press conference that when an American fighter mission in China failed to bring down an average of one Japanese ship for each man in the mission, "we thought we had failed."

Organized in the field last July 4, the 23d Fighter Group fought a battle that day with the Japanese and shot down nineteen ships without losing a single plane, Colonel Scott related.

Wheat Carry-Over Rise Is Forecast for Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP). — A carryover of 688,000,000 bushels of wheat is in prospect for July 31, end of the current crop year, the Agriculture Department estimated today in a review of requirements and production goals for 1943.

The carryover would represent an increase of 264,000,000 bushels over stocks on hand at the start of the crop year.

Reduction of about 4,000,000 acres in the area sown to wheat in 1943 is proposed under the 1943 crop program. The review said this reduction might be achieved by maintaining summer fallow at a high level and increasing the acreage sown to flaxseed, grass, oats and barley.

During the first three years of the war, the average annual total disappearance of wheat was 360,000,000 bushels, but the estimated figure for the 1942-'43 crop year was lower at 344,000,000 bushels.

SAULT STRIKERS TO RETURN

Pooling of Vote With That of Sydney Union Reverses Result

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 26 (AP)—Ending a strike that had tied up the big plant of the Algoma Steel Corporation here since Jan. 14, the United Steelworkers Union of America (C. I. O.) today voted to return to work.

The steel workers, who yesterday voted against returning to work, accepted at a mass meeting today the union's suggestion that the results of the vote here and at the Dominion Coal and Steel Corporation plant at Sydney, N. S., be pooled. Workers at Sydney had voted to return to work.

The total vote at the Sault and Sydney plants was 3,577 to 2,366 in favor of accepting a settlement providing for a minimum basic wage of 55 cents an hour, including a cost-of-living bonus.

A union official said he thought the adverse vote here yesterday resulted from lack of information about the feeling of the men at Sydney.

Scott jr., who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, air medal and silver star, all with clusters, for shooting down thirteen Japanese planes and scoring six other probable victories, told a press conference that when an American fighter mission in China failed to bring down an average of one Japanese ship for each man in the mission, "we thought we had failed."

Organized in the field last July 4, the 23d Fighter Group fought a battle that day with the Japanese and shot down nineteen ships without losing a single plane, Colonel Scott related.

Wheat Carry-Over Rise Is Forecast for Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP). — A carryover of 688,000,000 bushels of wheat is in prospect for July 31, end of the current crop year, the Agriculture Department estimated today in a review of requirements and production goals for 1943.

The carryover would represent an increase of 264,000,000 bushels over stocks on hand at the start of the crop year.

Reduction of about 4,000,000 acres in the area sown to wheat in 1943 is proposed under the 1943 crop program. The review said this reduction might be achieved by maintaining summer fallow at a high level and increasing the acreage sown to flaxseed, grass, oats and barley.

During the first three years of the war, the average annual total disappearance of wheat was 350,000,000 bushels, but the estimated figure for the 1942-'43 crop year was lower at 344,000,000 bushels.

SAULT STRIKERS TO RETURN

Pooling of Vote With That of Sydney Union Reverses Result

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 26 (AP)—Ending a strike that had tied up the big plant of the Algoma Steel Corporation here since Jan. 14, the United Steelworkers Union of America (C. I. O.) today voted to return to work.

The steel workers, who yesterday voted against returning to work, accepted at a mass meeting today the union's suggestion that the results of the vote here and at the Dominion Coal and Steel Corporation plant at Sydney, N. S., be pooled. Workers at Sydney had voted to return to work.

The total vote at the Sault and Sydney plants was 3,577 to 2,366 in favor of accepting a settlement providing for a minimum basic wage of 55 cents an hour, including a cost-of-living bonus.

A union official said he thought the adverse vote here yesterday resulted from lack of information about the feeling of the men at Sydney.

Gen. C. H. Wash, 9 Other Flyers Killed in Crash

Colorado Unit Commander and 4 of Staff Die in Army Plane in Alabama

JAN 27 1943

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 26.—Brigadier General Carlyle H. Wash, former commanding officer of the 3d Air Force at Tampa, and nine others, seven of them commissioned officers, were killed today in the crash of an Army transport seven miles from Flomaton, Ala., while on a flight from Drew Field here.

Captain Martin Doster, public relations officer of Drew Field, in making the announcement, listed the others killed in the plane as:

Lieutenant Colonel J. H. Cunningham, of Colorado Springs, Col.

Lieutenant Colonel J. A. Cain, of Colorado Springs.

Major J. R. Lee, of Colorado Springs, aide to General Wash.

Lieutenant J. A. Simon, of Colorado Springs.

Major S. B. Gimble jr., pilot, 3d Air Force, Tampa.

Flight Officer Glenn A. Johnson, of Tampa and Oshkosh, Wis., co-pilot.

Lieutenant Edward A. Durica, of Oak Park, Ill.

Master Sergeant Pius Witherow, of Tampa, engineer.

Staff Sergeant J. C. Melder, of Tampa.

General Wash, since leaving the 3d Air Force Command, had been commanding general of the 2d Air Force Command, with headquarters at Colorado Springs. Colonel Cunningham, Colonel Cain, Major Lee and Licutenant Simon were all members of his staff.

At Mobile, Major Oscar Palmer, Brookley Field public relations officer, said the transport burned after crashing in a wooded area. The ship struck several trees as it plowed into the earth, and wreckage was scattered over a considerable area.

The badly burned bodies were taken to Brookley, where it was announced that only three were in a condition permitting identification.

General Wash, born in Minneapolis on Oct. 15, 1889, was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1913. After service on the Mexican border he took flight training at San Diego, Calif., and served successively at Call Field, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Souther Field, Americus, Ga., and McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, at the time of the last war. In 1922 he went to Paris as assistant military attache at the American Embassy, and in 1924 as a major was advance officer for the Army Air Corps' around-the-world flight.

In 1925 General Wash became executive officer at Kelly Field, Tex. He was transferred to March Field, Calif., in 1927 as director of the primary flying school. He commanded France Field in the Panama Canal department in 1928 and in 1929 was transferred to command the 18th pursuit group at Wheeler Field, Hawaii.

In 1932 he was appointed executive officer of Mitchel Field, L. I. After graduation from the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in 1934, he became a lieutenant colonel and was again assigned to March Field before becoming commander at McChord Field, Wash., in 1940. Made a brigadier general in 1940, he later commanded the 5th bombardment wing at Spokane and the interceptor command, 2d Air Force, at Fort George Wright, Wash.

THE AVENGER'S LOSS OFF AFRICA DESCRIBED

U.S. Coast Guardsman Saw Axis Torpedoing of British Carrier

BOSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The destruction of the British aircraft carrier Avenger in an Axis torpedo attack near Gibraltar in November was described today by an American Coast Guard boatswain's mate who participated earlier in a night landing on the North African coast while hostile searchlights swept the sea and Allied ships exchanged gunfire with shore batteries.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Hunter W. Wood, 34, of New York, who had seen the Coast Guard transport Leedstown shattered by an explosion after the Americans had left it off North Africa, declared that when the Avenger was hit flames leaped 200 feet into the air.

In an interview here, he said that his convoy was nearing Gibraltar at 4 A. M., after the successful occupation of a section of the North African coast when "general quarters" was sounded.

A moment later a muffled roar and explosion rent the air and he thought his own ship had been hit, he said, but as he looked ahead he saw smoke in the starlight, and then a huge explosion that sent flames 200 feet into the air as a torpedo hit the gasoline tanks of the Avenger.

Liner In With 118 Refugees

41 Children on Portuguese Ship Are Brought to New York

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 (AP).—The Portuguese liner Serpa Pinto, which plies the Atlantic under agreement of the Allied and Axis powers, docked here today from Lisbon with 118 American and European refugees, many of them children.

The first passengers to leave the ship were thirty-one unaccompanied children. Wide-eyed with curiosity, they came off the liner carrying articles ranging from toys to thermos bottles. They were met by representatives of the United States Committee for Care of European Children, who took them to a service center in New York until homes can be found for them. The Serpa Pinto, which crosses the Atlantic with lights aglow, has completed its second voyage from Lisbon in less than two months.

Willkie Disappointed At Failure to Create Grand Strategy Board

'Straightforward Policy' On African Politics Also Needed, He Says

JAN 27 1943

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Wendell Willkie says he is disappointed in he announced results of the North African meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill because a grand military strategy board was not created and a "straightforward policy" on the political situation in North Africa was not enunciated.

Speaking over a Mutual network last night, the 1940 Republican presidential candidate praised Mr. Roosevelt for "his part in the hazards of the flight, in meeting and reviewing the soldiers and honoring the dead, with fine taste and appropriate spirit."

He expressed regret, however, that Premier Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek did not participate in the conference. He added that many had hoped "that a grand military strategy board was to be created; that Russia and China were at least to be recognized as equals in the problems of war and the peace to come; that a straightforward policy worthy of our traditions with reference to the tangled and ugly problems of North African politics was to be formulated."

"Personally," he added, "I have long believed that the discussion of post-war planning by the creation of blue-printed international parliaments and economic panaceas was futile unless instrumentalities are created while we fight from which the instrumentalities of peace can grow."

Reservations Start For "Victory Parade"

NEW YORK (AP)—Two United States Air Corps Sergeants with the AEF in England sent a letter to the management of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, asking for reservations "for the day of the "Victory Parade." Replying to S-Sgt. William C. Fluke of Ohio and Sgt. William J. Quinley of Kansas Frank A. Ready, manager of the hotel, wrote: "Hope you will be able to advise us soon the date of your arrival."

OFFICIALLY THAT BOMBS WHICH FELL AT ONE POINT IN EAST ANGLIA DROPPED HARMLESSLY.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-A REUTERS STOCKHOLM DISPATCH EARLY TODAY REPORTED THAT THROUGHOUT THE SWEDISH PROVINCE OF JAEMTLAND VIOLENT EXPLOSIONS WERE HEARD FROM THE DIRECTION OF NORWAY, SUGGESTING A RAID ON THE GERMAN-HELD PORT OF TRONDHEIM.

LONDON, JAN.26-(AP)-REUTERS QUOTED THE GERMAN-CONTROLLED PARIS RADIO AS SAYING TONIGHT THAT MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL'S LIBYAN FORCES HAD ESTABLISHED CONTACT WITH GEN.JURGEN VON ARNIM'S TROOPS IN TUNISIA.

JAN 27 1943

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-MORNING NEWSPAPERS HERE EXPRESSED WIDELY DIVERGENT OPINIONS ON THE IMPORT OF THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCES, SOME CAUTIOUSLY, AND WITH RESTRAINT, HAILING THEM AS A FORERUNNER OF A VAST OFFENSIVE AND AN EARLIER ALLIED VICTORY, WHILE OTHERS EXPRESSED DISAPPOINTMENT THAT THE CONFEREES FAILED TO APPOINT A SUPREME WAR COUNCIL AND THAT THE FRENCH SITUATION IN NORTH AFRICA STILL WAS OBSCURE.

ALL OF THEM USED THEIR BIGGEST HEADLINES. THEY DEVOTED THE GREATER PART OF THEIR FOUR-PAGE PAPERS TO TELLING THE STORY.

LONDON, JAN 26-(AP)-GERMAN RAIDERS COASTED IN ACROSS THE SOUTHEAST SHORE OF ENGLAND WITH THE RISING SUN BEHIND THEM AND BOMBED AT LEAST TWO TOWNS TODAY, KILLING TWO WOMEN IN ONE TOWN AND INJURING THREE PERSONS IN AN ADJACENT VILLAGE.

A BRIEF BUT INTENSE ANTI-AIRCRAFT BARRAGE WAS PUT UP AND THE RAIDERS MADE OFF QUICKLY.

JAN 27 1943

DURING THE NIGHT THERE WAS SOME SLIGHT ENEMY ACTIVITY OVER COASTAL DISTRICTS OF SOUTHEAST ENGLAND BUT IT WAS ANNOUNCED

"THE INFERENCE TO BE DRAWN FROM THE DETERMINED WORDING OF THE COMMUNIQUE IS THAT TREMENDOUS EVENTS ARE ON THE MOVE AND MAY BREAK IN THE NEAR FUTURE," SAID THE DAILY MAIL.

THE DAILY HERALD SAID "THE CONFERENCE CERTAINLY HAS FALLEN SHORT OF PROPHESIES WHICH HAVE BEEN COMING OUT OF WASHINGTON FOR A WEEK OR MORE. THE 'GRAND STRATEGIC COUNCIL' OF THE FOUR GREAT ALLIES HAS NOT BEEN BORN. NOR IS THERE ANY WORD IN THE COMMUNIQUE ABOUT COORDINATION OF ALLIED POST-WAR AIMS X X X . 'TWO COUNTRIES' ARE TOO PROMINENT IN THE COMMUNIQUE TO SATISFY THOSE OF US WHO HOPED THAT AS A RESULT OF THE CONFERENCE MACHINERY FOR UNINTERRUPTED COLLABORATION BETWEEN THE WESTERN AND EASTERN ALLIES WAS SET UP AND IN MOTION."

THE NEWS CHRONICLE SAID "INFLATED EXPECTATIONS AROUSED BY COMMENT IN AMERICA IS LIKELY TO CAUSE A FEELING OF DISAPPOINTMENT IN THE LIGHT OF KNOWN RESULTS. PEOPLE ARE BOUND TO ASK WHY IT IS NECESSARY FOR THE HEADS OF THE UNITED STATES AND BRITISH GOVERNMENTS TO TAKE VERY REAL RISKS INVOLVED IN VISITING NORTH AFRICA IN ORDER TO DISCUSS STRATEGIC PLANS FOR 1943. WAS THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN NORTH AFRICA SO DEPLORABLE THAT HANDSHAKES EXCHANGED BETWEEN GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE HAVE BEEN SUFFICIENT TO UNRAVEL THE DISREPUTABLE TANGLE OF ANGLE-AMERICAN FRENCH RELATIONS?"

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN DECLARED "THE REPORTS (CASABLANCA) ENCOURAGE CONFIDENCE. THEY SUGGEST CLOSER COOPERATION AMONG THE PRINCIPAL ALLIES THAN WE HAVE YET HAD X X X. THE SUBJECTS OF DISCUSSION WERE COMPREHENSIVE."

SAID THE DAILY EXPRESS: "IT IS OVER A YEAR SINCE ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL SAT UP THROUGH NIGHTS IN WASHINGTON AND PLANNED HOW THEIR NATIONS WOULD ARM IN 1942 FOR VICTORY X X X. GREAT RESULTS AND GREAT VICTORIES FOLLOWED THESE MEETING. YET MIGHTIER ISSUES DEPEND UPON THE CASABLANCA MEETING. WE HAVE REACHED THE END OF THE BEGINNING. IN THE WORK OF PREPARATION WE HAVE GONE FAR BEYOND PREPARATION."

JAN 27 1943

THE TIMES SAID "ALLIED LEADERSHIP TRAVELED FAR INDEED FROM THOSE FRANTIC EXPEDIENTS OF DESPERATE MEN WHICH OCCUPIED THE LAST MOMENTS OF THE SUPREME WAR COUNCIL IN PARIS. NOW THE MEN OF CASABLANCA ARE ABLE TO PREPARE THEIR PLANS WITH AUTHORITY, KNOWING IT IS IN THEIR POWER TO DICTATE TO THE ENEMY THE PATTERN OF THE COMING WAR."

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH: "WE NOW HAVE ASSURANCE UPON POINTS SO SHARPLY QUESTIONED DURING THE LONG YEARS OF DISAPPOINTMENTS. WE KNOW THE ALLIES HAVE A COMMON PLAN, THAT THEY HAVE MEANS AND SKILL TO CARRY IT OUT AND THEY HAVE THE RESOLUTION TO PURSUE ITX X X ."

THE FOLLY OF OVERCONFIDENCE AND IMPATIENCE WAS WARNED AGAINST BY OBSERVERS WHO REMINDED THAT WHILE THE JUNE MEETING PRODUCED THE LATER NORTH AFRICAN LANDING, IT REQUIRED FIVE MONTHS TO PREPARE IT AND DELIVER IT AFTER THE PLANS HAD BEEN SHAPED.

IT WAS HELD THERE IS NO REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THE BEST FRUITS OF THE LATEST DISCUSSIONS WILL RIPEN ANY FASTER.

JAN 27 1943

EVEN SO, MILITARY MEN AGREED THAT JULY, AUGUST OR EVEN SEPTEMBER WOULD NOT BE TOO LATE FOR LAUNCHING OF THE FULL-SCALE SMASHES AT EUROPE WHICH BOTH LEADERS PLEDGED WOULD COME AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

ANALYZING OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS AND CORRESPONDENTS' DISPATCHES FROM AFRICA, INFORMED LONDONERS WERE IMPRESSED BY THE COMPREHENSIVE-

NESS OF THE LIST OF AIDES WHO SURROUNDED THE PRESIDENT AND PRIME MINISTER, AND ALSO BY THE LENGTH AND INTENSIVENESS OF THE SESSIONS.

A110 JAN 27 1943

THE TOP CHIEFS OF THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH LAND, SEA, AND AIR FORCES WERE THERE TO HELP SHAPE THE LONG-RANGE GLOBAL STRATEGY, AND KEY SUPPLY MEN ALSO ATTENDED TO PRESENT PROBLEMS AND RECEIVE INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING WAR MATERIALS AND SHIPPING WHICH MUST BE MARSHALLED MONTHS AHEAD OF BATTLES.

ON HAND ALSO WERE OPERATIONAL COMMANDERS FROM THE AFRICAN FIGHTING THEATER FOR A FULL EXCHANGE OF IDEAS ON THE BEST MEANS TO SPEED A CLEANUP OF THAT CONTINENT SO THAT THEY CAN GET ALONG WITH LARGER TASKS.

IN THE LATTER CONNECTION IT WAS ASSUMED THE QUESTION OF A UNIFIED DIRECTION OF THE TUNISIAN OPERATIONS WAS CLARIFIED, AND WOULD BE ONE OF THE FIRST DECISIONS DISCLOSED SINCE AIR OPERATIONS IN THAT AREA ALREADY ARE BEING SHARED BY THREE AIR FORCES WITHOUT A SINGLE COMMANDER. JAN 27 1943

GEN.SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY'S LIBYAN ARMY ALSO IS RAPIDLY MOVING TOWARD SOUTHERN TUNISIA WHICH IS UNDER LIEUT.GEN.DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER'S COMMAND AT PRESENT.

THE MATTER OF AN ULTIMATE OVERALL COMMAND FOR AN ASSAULT ON EUROPE ALSO WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN CONSIDERED AND PERHAPS SETTLED, BUT THE NAME OF THIS MAN TO DIRECT THIS OFFENSIVE MAY NOT BE DISCLOSED IMMEDIATELY.

INFORMED SOURCES HERE SAID IT WAS LIKELY THAT PROGRESS WAS MADE TOWARD CREATION OF SOME PERMANENT COUNCIL TO EXCHANGE IDEAS BETWEEN THE ALLIED ARMIES, BUT POINTED TO THE OBSTACLES OF NAMING ANY

GENERAL COMMAND OF ALL FORCES EVERYWHERE. RUSSIA, FOR EXAMPLE, IS NOT FIGHTING JAPAN, AND RUSSIAN OPERATIONS ARE WHOLLY SELF-CONTAINED AS FAR AS MEN AND STRATEGY ARE CONCERNED, AND THERE IS NO DISPOSITION OF THE ALLIES TO TRY TO SHARE IN A DIRECTION OF SOVIET OPERATIONS EXCEPT AS ASKED. JAN 27 1943

BY RELMAN MORIN

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-THE LACK OF CONCRETE DETAILS IN THE ANNOUNCED AGREEMENT BETWEEN GENERALS CHARLES DE GAULLE AND HENRI GIRAUD AT CASABLANCA WAS TAKEN IN POLITICAL CIRCLES HERE TODAY AS MEANING THE MEETING HAD FAILED TO BRIDGE THE FUNDAMENTAL DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THEM, BUT THE FRENCH NATIONAL COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED THE "EXCHANGES OF VIEWS" WOULD BE CONTINUED.

IN A STATEMENT ISSUED AFTER A MEETING WITH DE GAULLE ON HIS RETURN, THE COMMITTEE SAID IT HAD BEEN DECIDED AT THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCE THAT "THE NECESSARY LIAISONS SHOULD BE ESTABLISHED IMMEDIATELY."

THE CONVERSATIONS TOOK INTO ACCOUNT THE "NEW SITUATION" IN FRENCH NORTH AND WEST AFRICA, THE COMMITTEE SAID, AND THEN IT ADDED:

"EXCHANGES OF VIEWS ON THIS SUBJECT WILL BE CONTINUED. COMPLETE UNION OF EMPIRE AND ARMED FORCES IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE MOVEMENT OF RESISTANCE IN FRANCE, TO BE ACCOMPLISHED UNDER CONDITIONS CONSONANT WITH THE WILL AND DIGNITY OF THE FRENCH PEOPLE, REMAINS THE IMMUTABLE AIM OF GENERAL DE GAULLE AND THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE."

SINCE THERE WAS NO EVIDENCE OF ACHIEVEMENT EITHER OF POLITICAL FUSION OR A WORKING MILITARY AGREEMENT AT CASABLANCA, POLITICAL SOURCES SAID IT APPEARED EACH GROUP WOULD RETAIN ITS SEPARATE STATUS, WORKING TOGETHER AS ALLIES BENEATH THE BROAD UMBRELLA OF BRITISH-AMERICAN SPONSORSHIP, BUT WITHOUT ANY COINCIDENCE OF POLITICAL VIEWS.

DE GAULLE WILL CONTINUE TO DIRECT THE FIGHTING DRENCH AND PRESIDE AT HIS NATIONAL COUNCIL, AND GIRAUD WILL REMAIN HEAD OF THE NORTH AFRICAN FORCES AND CIVIL ADMINISTRATION, THEY SAID.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD ON GOOD AUTHORITY THAT DE GAULLE AND GIRAUD WILL EXCHANGE REPRESENTATIVES, EACH HAVING PRACTICALLY THE STATUS OF AN AMBASSADOR TO CREATE A LIAISON.

IT WAS CONSIDERED LIKELY THAT GEN. CATROUX, WHO IS THE BEST DIPLOMAT OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH, WOULD BE SENT TO NORTH AFRICA AS DE GAULLE'S REPRESENTATIVE.

JAN 27 1943

DE GAULLE WAS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE MADE A FULL REPORT ON THE NORTH AFRICAN CONFERENCE TO THE NATIONAL COUNCIL IN A SESSION LASTING THE ENTIRE AFTERNOON YESTERDAY.

DE GAULLE HAS CONSISTENTLY DECLARED HE WOULD NEVER COMPROMISE ON ANY OF THREE PRINCIPLES WHICH HE CONSIDERS PRE-REQUISITE TO UNIFICATION OF ALL FRENCH FORCES OUTSIDE FRANCE:

REPUDIATION OF THE VICHY REGIME, REAFFIRMATION THAT THE FRENCH REPUBLIC HAS NEVER CEASED TO EXIST, AND ORGANIZATION OF A TEMPORARY PROVISIONAL FRENCH GOVERNMENT BASED ON THE LAWS OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

JAN 27 1943

HE WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE ADHERED TO THIS POSITION AT THE CONFERENCE. GIRAUD'S ADOPTION OF DE GAULLE'S PRINCIPLES WOULD MEAN THE IMMEDIATE DISMISSAL OF SUCH OFFICIALS AS MARCEL PEYROUTON, GEN. AUGUSTE NOGUES, AND GOV. GEN. PIERRE BOISSON.

SINCE THERE IS NO INDICATION THAT THESE AND OTHER MEMBERS OF GIRAUD'S ADMINISTRATION WILL BE REMOVED, IT IS ASSUMED THAT GIRAUD DECLINED TO MEET DE GAULLE'S TERMS.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT REPRESENTATIVES OF THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH GOVERNMENTS LEFT THE SOLUTION OF THESE QUESTIONS ENTIRELY IN THE HANDS OF THE TWO FRENCH LEADERS, AFTER THE ANGLO-AMERICAN VIEWS ON THEM HAD FIRST BEEN CLEARLY DELINEATED AT A FULL SESSION. THEREAFTER THE TWO GENERALS MET PRIVATELY, FOR THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN'S PROBLEM WAS MAINLY MILITARY.

THE CLEAVAGES BETWEEN THE FRENCH LEADERS WERE MAINLY POLITICAL. THEY ISSUED A STATEMENT STRESSING ONLY THEIR DECLARATION THAT THE DESTRUCTION OF THE AXIS WAS THEIR COMMON GOAL.

EXTREME DISAPPOINTMENT WAS PLAINLY EVIDENT IN THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH FOLLOWING DE GAULLE'S CONFERENCE WITH HIS COUNCIL MEMBERS.

JAN 27 1943

IT WAS RECALLED THAT WHEN THE FIGHTING FRENCH CONDEMNED THE ARRANGEMENT WITH ADMIRAL JEAN DARLAN, IT WAS SAID THAT AN AGREEMENT COULD BE REACHED WITH GIRAUD.

DE GAULLE HIMSELF ISSUED A STATEMENT THAT HE WAS "HONORED AND HAPPY TO MEET PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA."

THE STATEMENT CONTINUED: "HIS (THE PRESIDENT'S) FRIENDSHIP FOR FRANCE IS A PARTICULARLY COMFORTING FACTOR IN THE STRUGGLE WHICH THE FRENCH PEOPLE ARE WAGING AGAINST THE ENEMY WITHIN AND WITHOUT ITS TERRITORY. IT IS AN EQUAL SATISFACTION TO ME TO HAVE BEEN ABLE TO RENEW CONVERSATIONS ON THIS OCCASION WITH THE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER."

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-THE LONDON DAILY MAIL SAID TODAY THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FLEW TO CASABLANCA, FRENCH MOROCCO, BY CLIPPER FOR HIS MEETING WITH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-THE BBC BEGAN BROADCASTING ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL MEETING IN ENGLISH, FRENCH, GERMAN, AND ITALIAN ON ALL ITS OVERSEAS SERVICE WAVE LENGTHS AT 3 A.M.

ST (10 P.M. E.W.T.) TODAY, WHEREAS ITS SERVICES USUALLY CLOSE DOWN AT IDNIGHT.

JAN 27

THE ANNOUNCEMENTS WILL BE REPEATED ALMOST CONTINUOUSLY FOR THE NEXT 4 g HOURS IN MORE THAN A SCORE OF LANGUAGES.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-PHRASEMAKER PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN HIS CASABLANCA MEETING WITH THE LITERARY PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL SUGGESTED THAT THE EVENT BE CALLED "THE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER MEETING," A REUTERS CORRESPONDENT SAID TONIGHT.

MR.ROOSEVELT WAS SAID TO HAVE RECALLED THAT GENERAL ULYSSES GRANT BORE "UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER" AS A NICKNAME FOLLOWING THE DEFEAT OF THE CONFEDERATE ARMIES.

LONDON, JAN. 26-(AP)-DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES WERE AWARDED TODAY TO THREE UNITED STATES AIRMEN OF THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE.

JAN 27 1943

JAN 27 1943

LONDON, JAN. 26-(AP)- THE QUESTION OF THE ADVISABILITY OF BRITISH BOMBING ATTACKS ON COPENHAGEN WAS RAISED IN THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT TODAY IN CONNECTION WITH A DISCUSSION OF STEPS TO COMBAT THE NAZI SUBMARINE WARFARE. JAN 27 1943

AN MEMBER OF THE HOUSE POINTED OUT THAT DIESEL ENGINES FOR U-BOATS WERE BEING MANUFACTURED IN THE DANISH CAPITAL AND ASKED WHETHER IT WOULD N O T BE POSSIBLE TO BOMB THE PART OF THE CITY WHERE THESE ENGINES WERE BEING TURNED OUT.

MAJOR Dalton FOOT, PARLIAMENTARY SECRETARY TO THE MINISTRY OF ECONOMIC WARFARE, REPLIED THAT "THESE MATTERS" WERE UNDER CONSIDERATION.

from axis radios came nervous reports that the allies were preparing to fall upon rommel's forces and those of col. gen. jurd von arnim from different directions, with the object of splitting the two axis armies in libya.

the berlin radio said american forces were concentrating for a thrust eastward to the sea probably between the ports of sfax and gabes, while the german-controlled vichy radio foresaw an allied drive to the coast further north, starting from above beu arada in the pont du fahs sector south of tunis.

day and night allied air attacks on the enemy air base JAN 27 1943 at medenine indicated this was a strong covering point for rommel's forces in the mareth line. #

BERN, SWITZERLAND, JAN.26-(AP)-THE REICH'S TASK TO "GALVANIZE THE MORALE OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE TO OBTAIN NEW SACRIFICES" WILL NOT BE EASY, THE JOURNAL DE GENEVE SAID EDITORIALLY TODAY, ADDING "THERE HAVE BEEN SO MANY OFFICIAL DECLARATIONS OF RUSSIA'S FINISH THAT ITS RESURRECTION MUST BE A SURPRISE TO MANY." JAN 27 1943

THE THEME OF RESISTANCE TO THE LIMIT CHANTED BY THE ENTIRE NAZI PRESS IS GIVING THE GERMAN PEOPLE THE "EXAMPLE OF THE ENGLISH (AN EVOCATION THAT DOES NOT LACK A STING) "AND TELLING THEM THAT THEY MUST CHOOSE "BETWEEN VICTORY OR BOLSHEVISM, BETWEEN ASSURED EXISTENCE AND LAMENTABLE RUIN," THE NEWSPAPER SAID, ADDING THAT "THE NATION IS NOT BEATEN UNLESS IT ADMITS DEFEAT."

GERMANY, IT CONTINUED, IS "IN FACT EXPERIENCING THE GRAVEST CRISIS SINCE THE HOSTILITIES BEGAN. THAT OF LAST WINTER ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT

WAS LESS KNOWN AND LESS DANGEROUS. THIS TIME IT DOES NOT CONCERN STRAIGHTENING THE LINE OR A PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL, BUT A RETREAT IN THE WHOLE OF SOUTHERN RUSSIA WITH ABANDONMENT OF 20 DIVISIONS AT STALINGRAD AND A FIGHT AGAINST AN ADVERSARY STRONGER AND WISER IN CONDUCTING OFFENSIVES.

JAN 27 1943

"THE JOB IS TO REFORM THE ARMIES, TO PRODUCE MORE ARMS AND AMMUNITION, TO CREATE THE POSSIBILITY, LESSENED TODAY, OF AGAIN TAKING THE OFFENSIVE IN THE SPRING, FOR IF THE RUSSIAN DANGER IS NOT ELIMINATED THE REICH WILL LOSE THE WAR."

LISBON, PORTUGAL, JAN 26-(AP)-REPORTS FROM SOUTH PORTUGAL TONIGHT SAID AN AMERICAN FIGHTER PLANE CAUGHT FIRE OVER PORTUGAL AND THE PILOT, WHO WAS NOT IDENTIFIED, WAS KILLED WHEN HE JUMPED AND HIS PARACHUTE FAILED TO OPEN.

JAN 27 1943

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, JAN. 26-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER IS REPORTED IN USUALLY WELL INFORMED QUARTERS HERE TO HAVE SENT GEN. FRITZ (TWO TRUSTED AIDES) ERICH VON MANNSTEIN AND COL.-GEN. BARON MAXIMILIAN VON WEICHS INTO THE BALKANS, APPARENTLY TO ORGANIZE DEFENSES AGAINST A POSSIBLE FRONT IN SOUTHEASTERN EUROPE.

MANNSTEIN IS THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH THE BALKANS BECAUSE OF PREVIOUS ACTIVITIES THERE. IT WAS HE WHO COMMANDED THE GERMAN FORCES WHICH REDUCED [redacted] SEVASTOPOL, BUT THE [redacted] RUSSIANS DEFEATED HIS TROOPS IN THE FINAL STAGES OF THE STALINGRAD OFFENSIVE.

SINCE THE ROUTE OF FIELD MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL AND THE ALLIED OCCUPATION OF NORTH AFRICA, THE GERMANS HAVE SHOWN

VON WEICHS WAS ONE OF THE LEADERS IN THE BATTLES OF BRYANSK AND VYAZMA ON THE [redacted] FRONT LATE IN 1941.

JAN 27 1943

SINCE THE ROUTE OF FIELD MARSHAL [redacted] ERWIN ROMMEL AND THE ALLIED OCCUPATION OF NORTH AFRICA, THE GERMANS HAVE SHOWN NERVOUSNESS ABOUT THE BALKANS AND THERE HAVE BEEN RECENT REPORTS FROM ANKARA THAT REINFORCEMENTS ARE ARRIVING THERE.

THE REPORTS OF THE MANNSTEIN AND WEICHS ASSIGNMENTS CAME FROM GERMANY SOON AFTER HITLER CALLED GEN. ION ANTONESCU AND HUNGARIAN AND BULGARIAN MINISTERS TO HIS FIELD HEADQUARTERS FOR MILITARY TALKS.

ANALYZING DEVELOPMENTS IN RUSSIA, SWEDISH MILITARY CORRESPONDENTS LATELY HAVE POINTED OUT THE CHANCES OF WAR AGAIN FLARING AGAIN IN THE BALKANS. THEY EMPHASIZED THAT IF THE AXIS HAD TO ABANDON PART OF THE UKRAINE, THE PLACE THE GERMANS WOULD HAVE TO WATCH CLOSELY

SHOULD BE THE BALKANS.

JAN 27 1943

THE GERMAN PRESS ALSO HAS BEEN DIRECTING ATTENTION TO THE SOUTH-EAST CORNER OF EUROPE, ALTHOUGH IN THE PAST IT FREQUENTLY RESORTED TO SUCH TACTICS IN ORDER TO HELP CONCEAL HITLER'S INTENTIONS ELSEWHERE IN OTHER DIRECTIONS.

THE FRANKFURTER ZEITUNG FROM ANKARA RECENTLY CLAIMED THAT THE ALLIES INTENDED TO USE TURKEY AS A BASE TO SPRING INTO THE BALKANS AND WARNED BULGARIA IT STILL CAN BE STRUCK BY WAR.

IN THIS CONNECTION, SOURCES HERE SAID THEY UNDERSTOOD SOME BULGARIAN OFFICERS WERE RECEIVING TRAINING AT PRESENT IN A GERMAN MILITARY SCHOOL AT JUETERBOG, SOUTH OF BERLIN.

(THE LONDON RADIO [redacted] SAID THE HUNGARIAN RADIO TODAY "REPEATED AN ORDER OF THE HUNGARIAN CHIEF-OF-STAFF, WHICH SAID THAT HUNGARIAN SOLDIERS WHO ARE AT HOME ON FURLOUGH DO NOT NEED TO RETURN TO THEIR UNITS."

("THE REASON GIVEN FOR THE ORDER WAS THAT THERE [illegible] ENOUGH TRAINS TO CARRY THE MEN GERMANY ON FURLOUGH BACK TO THE FRONT," SAID THE BERLIN BROADCAST, HEARD IN NEW YORK BY CBS.

(THE BRITISH BROADCAST ADDED THAT "THE GERMAN RADIO REPORTS THAT THE RUMANIAN AUTHORITIES HAVE ARRESTED 56 PERSONS FOR DISTURBANCE OF THE PUBLIC ORDER.")

JAN 27 1943

OBSERVERS HERE ATTACHED SPECIAL IMPORTANCE TO A STATEMENT ISSUED RECENTLY IN BUDAPEST SINCE THE WAR MINISTERS' VISIT WITH HITLER, DENYING THAT HUNGARIAN TROOPS HAVE BEEN SENT TO YUGOSLAVIA.

[redacted] THE STATEMENT, QUOTING AUTHORIZED SOURCES, ADDED THAT TROOPS NOT ONLY HAVE NOT CROSSED HUNGARY'S SOUTHERN BORDERS BUT THAT IN THE FUTURE NO HUNGARIAN SOLDIERS WOULD CROSS THAT BORDER.

ONE OF GERMANY'S PROBLEMS IN THE DEFENSE OF THE BALKANS IS THE INTERRUPTION OF TRANSPORTATION AS THE RESULT OF [redacted] GUERRILLA ACTIVITIES. IN CROATIA AND SERBIA BRIDGES HAVE BEEN BLOWN UP CONSTANTLY AND SECTIONS OF TRACKS DESTROYED OR OTHER SABOTAGE LEADING TO TRAFFIC STOPPAGES COMMITTED.

/ ARMORED TRAINS ARE SAID TO BE PATROLLING VITAL STRETCHES OF

TRACK NOW AND A NEW DECREE ISSUED IN CROATIA THREATENS THE EXECUTION OF "COMMUNIST" HOSTAGES FOR EVERY LIFE LOST AS THE RESULT OF RAILWAY SABOTAGE. JAN 27 1943

(DR. ANTE PAVELICH, PUPPET PREMIER OF CROATIA, HAS ISSUED A DECREE PROVIDING FOR THE SUSPENSION OF EXISTING LAW AND THE VESTING OF POWER IN MILITARY AUTHORITIES IN CASES OF "URGENCY" IN ANY PART OF CROATIA WHERE "MILITARY ENTERPRISES ARE PERFORMED," ACCORDING TO AN ARTICLE IN THE CROATIAN NEWSPAPER HVRATSKI NAROD, WHICH WAS REPORTED TO THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION.

(THE ARTICLE SAID THAT MILITARY COMMANDERS OR SPECIALLY APPOINTED PLENIPOTENTIARIES WOULD BE ENABLED "TO SUSPEND EXISTING LAWS AND DECREES NECESSARY FOR MILITARY ACTIONS OR FOR ELIMINATING THE STATE OF EMERGENCY.")

THE FRONT AT VOLKHOV, UNDER ARMY GENERAL K.A.MERETSKOV, SIMILARLY, HAS BECOME MERGED WITH THE ARMIES AROUND LENINGRAD UNDER COL.GEN. LEONID A.GOVOROV FOLLOWING THE SMASHING OF THE AXIS BLOCKADE OF THE LATTER CITY. JAN 27 1943

A JUNCTION OF THE SOUTHWESTERN FRONT AND THE VORONEZH ARMY UNDER COL.GEN.F.I.GOLIKOV APPEARED NEARING WITH THE RECENT CAPTURE OF THE VALUIKI-URAZOVO AREA FROM THE GERMANS AND THE OCCUPATION OF BELOKURAKINO TO THE SOUTH.

RUSSIAN BOMBERS IN THE VICINITY OF THE NEWLY FREED CITY OF VORONEZH POUNDED LONG COLUMNS OF RETREATING AXIS TROOPS AS SOVIET SOLDIERS HOISTED THE RED FLAG OVER THE SHELL-WRECKED RUINS.

THE GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER IZVESTIA REPORTED ALL ROADS OUT OF VORONEZH COVERED WITH ENEMY CORPSES AS COMMANDERS TRIED TO EXTRICATE THEIR WOBBLING FORCES FROM HOT PURSUIT BY THE RED ARMY.

THE ENTIRE EAST BANK OF THE DON HAD BEEN CLEARED OF AXIS TROOPS AND SOVIET FORCES APPEARED TO BE TAKING UP THE TASK ON THE WEST BANK AND IN THE SNOW-COVERED STEPPES BEYOND.

PRAVDA GAVE A VIVID PICTURE OF THE SMOKING RUINS, THE CARCASSES OF HORSES AND THE HARD WINTER SOIL BROKEN BY BOMB CRATERS.

IT REPORTED THE WAY FOR THE CAPTURE OF VORONEZH WAS PREPARED BY RED ARTILLERY FIRE, FOLLOWED BY A RUSH OF INFANTRY AND TANKS THROUGH A SNOW STORM. GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS WERE BEATEN OFF.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN TUNISIA, JAN 24-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN TANKMEN COMPLAINED TODAY THAT THE GERMANS, DURING THE BATTLE FOR THE VALLEY OF OUSSELTIA, REPEATEDLY REFUSED BIDS BY UNITED STATES COMBAT CREWS TO ENGAGE THEM IN ACTION--MAN FOR MAN AND TANK FOR TANK.

DESPITE THEIR RELUCTANCE TO EMERGE FROM THE SHELTER OF ANTI-TANK WEAPONS, THE NAZIS SUFFERED HEAVY CASUALTIES. AMERICAN ARTILLERY OFFICERS SAID THEY BELIEVED THAT DURING THE PROLONGED SHELLING OF ENEMY VEHICLES SEVERAL MILES NORTHEAST OF OUSSELTIA AT LEAST SIX GERMAN TANKS WERE DESTROYED.

AXIS AIRCRAFT FOUND LITTLE SKY SPACE ABOVE THE BATTLE SCENE AS RELAYS OF ALLIED PLANES DOMINATED THE AIR IN AN EFFICIENT MANNER AND WON PRAISE FROM THE DOUGHBOYS WHO WERE WEARY OF DIVING INTO FOX-HOLES.

JAN 27 1943

TO REACH THE FORWARD TANK COMMAND POST I HITCHHIKED MY FIRST AND LAST RIDE FROM A MOTORCYCLE DISPATCH RIDER, CORP.LOUIS J. MATHEWS, 20, OF 1307 RITTERSKAMP, VINCENNES, IND., A SKILLFUL DRIVER. MY ONLY QUARREL WAS WITH MY PERCH, CALLED A "BUDDY SEAT," A LEATHER CONTRAPTION BEHIND THE DRIVER TO WHICH A PASSENGER HAS TO CLING WITH BOTH HANDS. EVERY TIME WE HIT A BUMP "MY BUDDY" AND I SAILED SKYWARD AND EACH MOMENT I THOUGHT MY LEATHER PAL WAS GOING TO PITCH ME UP GLORY ROAD.

AT THE COMMAND POST, MAJ.JAMES S.SIMMERMAN OF WYTHEVILLE, VA., THE BATTALION EXECUTIVE, SAID "WE NEVER ARE ABLE TO GET THE GERMANS TO COME OUT AND MEET US IN A TANK TO TANK COMBAT. THEY DON'T LIKE TO PLAY OUR WAY BECAUSE WE PREFER TO SLUG IT OUT. OUR MEDIUM TANK BOYS HAVE BEEN ITCHING TO GET AT THE MARK FOURS IN OPEN BATTLE.

"BUT THE NAZIS' IDEA IS TO EXPOSE A FEW TANKS AND DRAW US INTO ATTACK SO THEY CAN HIT US WITH 88 MILLIMETER ANTI-TANK GUNS, CH ARE VERY EFFECTIVE. TWO DAYS AGO, HOWEVER, WE BROKE INTO ONE F THEIR SECLUDED POSITIONS AND KNOCKED OUT FOUR MARK THREE AND MARK OUR TANKS WITHOUT LOSING A SINGLE TANK OURSELVES TO THEIR TANK FIRE, BUT THEIR ARTILLERY COST US SOME TANKS ON THE WAY BACK.

GERMAN GUNNERS ARE QUITE ACCURATE AND KNOW THEIR BUSINESS. THEIR ANTI-TANK FIRE HAS BEEN PARTICULARLY ACCURATE. THEY KNOW WHAT PART OF A TANK TO SHOOT AT TO CAUSE THE MOST DAMAGE AND THEY HAVE A KNACK FOR HITTING WHERE THEY AIM.

"MARK FOURS HAVE THE EDGE ON US IN SOME RESPECTS BUT TANK FOR TANK WE THINK WE ARE SUPERIOR IN ALL AROUND VEHICLES AND WOULD LIKE TO HAVE JERRY GIVE US A BETTER CHANCE TO PROVE IT. THE TERRAIN IN GENERAL IN THE OUSSELTIA VALLEY IS GOOD TANK OPERATING COUNTRY."

AMONG THE OTHER SOLDIERS AT THE COMMAND POST WERE LIEUT.GEORGE WILLIAMS, 29, OF 108 S.MCQUEEN ST., FLORENCE, S.C.; LIEUT.K.M.DEAL, 23, OF ETNA, O.; SERGT.NEVILLE MAHONEY, 23, OF SHELBYVILLE, KY.; CORP. LONNIE C.BALL, 20, OF WHITLEY CITY, KY., RADIO OPERATOR; SERGT.ROY L.SUTHERLAND, 25, OF CARROLLTON, KY., ALSO A RADIO OPERATOR, AND PRIVATE THOMAS J.SEYMOUR, 35, OF SCHAFFER, MICH., WHO ACTS AS FRENCH INTERPRETER FOR THE BATTALION.

TUNISIA BOYLE (AP)

MARCUS WAS CUT OFF FROM THE UNIT ONCE DURING THE BATTLE AND CRAWLED BACK 150 YARDS UNDER MACHINE-GUN FIRE TO REORGANIZE HIS MEN AND DIRECT A BATTERY OF 75'S ON THE GERMANS. AFTER HIS BATTERY WAS FORCED BACK AGAIN HE WAS TRAPPED ON A RIDGE WHICH WAS BETWEEN THE LINES, AND BEING FIRED AT BOTH BY THE GERMANS AND THE AMERICANS.

"I WAS LUCKY TO FIND A U-SHAPED GROUP OF ROCKS WHICH GAVE ME SHELTER WITH A LITTLE MANEUVERING," SAID MARCUS, WHO TWICE HAS BEEN GIVEN THE CROIX DE GUERRE BY THE FRENCH FOR GALLANTRY IN PREVIOUS ACTIONS.

"I WAS AFRAID I WOULD BE CAPTURED, SO I RIPPED OUT SECTIONS OF MY NOTE BOOK HAVING CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION, AND ATE THEM. THEY WEREN'T TOO DIGESTIBLE.

JAN 27 1943

"FOR TWO HOURS I KEPT BUSY DIGGING MY SHELTER DEEPER WITH MY MESS SPOON BEFORE THE GERMANS ADVANCED ON THE RIDGE AND SET UP AN INFANTRY MORTAR 50 YARDS IN FRONT OF ME, AND A COMMAND POST 75 YARDS BEHIND ME. THEY ARGUED A LOT, SHOUTING ANGRILY AT EACH OTHER, AND IF I UNDERSTOOD GERMAN I WOULD HAVE KNOWN ALL THEIR PLANS.

"I DECIDED IT WAS BETTER TO DIE THAN BE CAPTURED SO I DECIDED TO WALK SLOWLY THROUGH THEIR LINES, FIGURING IF I WENT SLOW THEY WOULDN'T SUSPECT I WAS ONE OF THE ENEMY. IT WAS AN AWFUL TEMPTATION TO HURRY, BUT I GOT UP AND AS CALMLY AS I COULD STROLLED TO A CACTUS PATCH AND DOWN INTO A GULLY.

"FOR TWO HOURS I WALKED THROUGH A SOUPY FOG PARALLEL TO THE GERMAN LINES AND HEARD GERMAN VOICES ALL THE WAY. AT THE LAST NAZI OUTPOST A GERMAN SOLDIER HEARD ME AND SUSPECTED SOMETHING WAS WRONG. WHEN HE CAME OUT OF A RADIO TRUCK I DUCKED BEHIND A BUSH AND WAITED UNTIL HE WENT BACK, AFRAID HE MIGHT INVESTIGATE AND FIND ME ONLY A FEW PACES AWAY.

"I MOVED SOUTH FOR A WHILE, BUT AFTER I SAW A CLOUD OF DUST ON THE ROAD THE NEXT MORNING I TURNED WEST AGAIN, THINKING THE GERMANS POSSIBLY HAD TAKEN OUSSELTIA. I HAD NO WATER LEFT IN MY CANTEEN, AND ONLY FOUR LUMPS OF SUGAR AND TWO SMALL PIECES OF CANDY TO EAT. I WAS SO THIRSTY I WET MY LIPS AT NIGHT WITH MOISTURE ON THE PINE TREES.

"THAT TRIP ACROSS THE MOUNTAINS WAS ROCKY AND ROUGH GOING AND LEFT ME COMPLETELY EXHAUSTED. I SAW A BEAUTIFUL FARMHOUSE IN THE VALLEY WITH FRENCH NATIVE SOLDIERS NEAR, SO I KNEW IT WAS ALL RIGHT TO GO THERE. THE FIRST THING I DID WAS DRINK A QUART OF WATER IN ABOUT TWO SECONDS.

"WHEN I GOT BACK TO MY UNIT EVERYONE WAS SURPRISED, AS ONE OF MY MEN HAD REPORTED I WAS APPARENTLY KILLED. THEY TOLD ME THERE WERE ALREADY ABOUT TO DIVIDE UP MY BAGGAGE, BUT I GOT THERE IN TIME TO SAVE MY CIGARETTES."

LIBERATION (NEW)

BY DON WHITEHEAD AND GEORGE TUCKER

TRIPOLI, JAN 23-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SEEING PEOPLE LIBERATED FROM VIRTUAL BONDAGE AND WATCHING THEIR EMOTIONAL OUTBURSTS FORM THE MOST GRAPHIC IMPRESSIONS WE HAVE OF THE OCCUPATION OF TRIPOLI.

ONLY A FEW HOURS AGO BRITISH TROOPS AND ADVANCE UNITS OF THE ROYAL AIR FORCE ROLLED INTO THIS CITY AND THE OFFICIAL SURRENDER TO GENERAL SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY WROTE THE LAST CHAPTER IN THE FALL OF MUSSOLINI'S AFRICAN EMPIRE.

TOURING THE CITY, WE VISITED TRIPOLI'S ANCIENT GHETTO WHERE SOME 16,000 JEWS WERE CROWDED INTO A LABYRINTH OF HOUSES AND CELLARS RESEMBLING A RABBIT WARREN.

JAN 27 1943

WE WALKED THROUGH AN ARCHED GATE GUARDED BY MILITARY POLICE AND AS SOON AS THE PEOPLE RECOGNIZED US AS AMERICANS THE EMOTIONAL OUTBURST WAS ALMOST RIOTOUS.

SOME THREW THEMSELVES AT OUR FEET, OFFERING GIFTS OF NOT ONLY WINE AND TOBACCO BUT MONEY AS WELL.

MEN THREW THEIR ARMS ABOUT OUR NECKS AND KISSED OUR CHEEKS.

WOMEN KISSED OUR HANDS. CHILDREN CLUNG TO OUR LEGS AND KISSED OUR DUSTY SHOES.

THEY SHOWED US PHOTOGRAPHS OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL WITH CRIES: "VIVA AMERICA! VIVA INGLISI!"

THEY PRODUCED SKIMPY LOAVES OF BREAD, LESS THAN SIX INCHES LONG, THE RATION FOR TWO PERSONS A DAY. JAN 27 1943

A HUSKY YOUNG FELLOW SUDDENLY TOOK US BY THE ARMS AND SHOVED US THROUGH THE CROWDS INTO A COURTYARD AND DOWN A FLIGHT OF DARK STEPS INTO A ROOM WHERE A WHITE-ROBED PATRIARCH SAT AT A BARE TABLE.

A TORRENT OF PEOPLE CROWDED AFTER US, HUNDREDS CLAMORING FOR ADMITTANCE UNTIL THE DOORS WERE BARRED.

THEY TOLD US THAT A FEW HOURS BEFORE THE TROOPS ENTERED THE CITY SOME LEADING JEWISH MERCHANTS HAD BEEN DRAGGED FROM THEIR SHOPS AND SHOT, BUT THEY EXPRESSED NO SURPRISE AT THIS BECAUSE, THEY SAID, IT WAS THE KIND OF THING THAT HAD BEEN GOING ON SINCE THE DAYS WHEN THIS CITY WAS THE SEAT OF MEDITERRANEAN PIRACY.

OUR MERCHANT TOLD US THAT THE ITALIANS WERE SHARPER IN TRADE PRACTICE THAN THE GERMANS.

THE TURKS, THE ARABS, THE GERMANIC VANDALS, THE GENOESE AND FLORENTINES, THE MALTESE, GREEKS AND SPANIARDS ALL TRIED TO SUPERIMPOSE THEIR INFLUENCE AND CULTURE ON TRIPOLITANIA, AND SUCCEEDED IN A MEASURE.

JAN 27 1943

BUT IN THIS CITY OF 102,000, ONLY 35,000 ARE ITALIANS, MOSTLY NEWCOMERS. THERE ARE 16,000 JEWS AND THE REMAINDER ARE ARABS.

YOU SI[illegible] CAN[illegible] IF THIS W[illegible]

BUT FOR A WORD OR A SMILE OF COMFORT.

THE FIRST THE POPULACE KNEW OF TRIPOLI'S FALL WAS WHEN BRITISH ARMORED CARS AND TANKS RUMBLED THROUGH THE STREETS THIS MORNING.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY GAVE THE CIVILIAN POPULACE HIS ASSURANCE THEY HAD NOTHING TO FEAR WHEN HE WAS GREETED AT THE CITY'S GATE FOR THE OFFICIAL SURRENDER. "AGAINST THOSE PEOPLE I HAVE NOTHING, PROVIDED THEY REMAIN ORDERLY," SIR BERNARD SAID. "MY WAR IS WITH THE ITALIAN AND GERMAN ARMIES AND I WILL PURSUE THEM TO THE END

LIEUT. CARLETON MARKRADER, FORMERLY EMPLOYED BY THE BRISTOL, (VA.) HERALD-COURIER, OF WHICH HIS FATHER IS PUBLISHER, HAS BEEN APPOINTED ADJUTANT IN CHARGE OF ADMINISTRATIVE DETAILS AT THE ALLIED FORCE HEADQUARTERS PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE.

JAN 27 1943

MARKRADER, A GRADUATE OF VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, WAS A RESERVE ARTILLERY OFFICER, BUT SERVED AS MILITARY INTELLIGENCE OFFICER BEFORE BEING ASSIGNED FIRST TO GREAT BRITAIN AND THEN TO NORTH AFRICA AS A PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER. #

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JAN 26-(AP)-ALLIED NIGHT BOMBERS, DARTING IN LOW AGAINST JAPANESE SHIPPING AT RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN, SUNDAY NIGHT DESPITE INTENSE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, HIT A 2,000-TON VESSEL WHICH EXPLODED AND BLASTED A HOLE IN THE SIDE OF ANOTHER SHIP, A HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY.

JAN 27 1943

THE CRAFT WHICH EXPLODED WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN A MUNITIONS SHIP.

JAN 27 1943

IN OTHER ALLIED AIR ACTIVITY, THE BUILDING AREA AT THE JAPANESE BASE AT LAE, NEW GUINEA, WAS HEAVILY DAMAGED WITH 1,000-POUND BOMBS; TARGETS WERE STRAFED IN THE SALAMAUA AREA; AND ONE-PLANE ATTACKS WERE MADE ON THE HARBOR AREA OF FINSCHHAFEN AND THE GASMATA AIRDROME.

SMALL JAPANESE RAIDS ON THE MILNE BAY AND PORT MORESBY AIRDROMES WERE ANNOUNCED.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-ALLIED BOMBERS, STRIKING AGAIN AT RABAUL, HAVE SET FIRE TO A LARGE ENEMY SHIP, THE HIGH COMMAND REPORTED TODAY.

MEDIUM BOMBERS ATTACKED THREE ENEMY CARGO SHIPS IN THE ARAFURA SEA, BETWEEN AUSTRALIA AND NEW GUINEA, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID. RESULTS WERE NOT OBSERVED.

IN THE SOLOMONS AREA, MEDIUM BOMBERS STRUCK AT NIGHT AT THE AIRDROME AT BUKA, STARTING "SUBSTANTIAL FIRES" IN A SUPPLY DUMP AREA. THE BLAZES WERE VISIBLE FROM A DISTANCE OF 35 MILES.

THE ATTACK AGAINST RABAUL WAS PRESSED HOME BY ALLIED HEAVY BOMBERS AGAINST AIRDROMES AND SHIPPING DESPITE INTENSE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE. DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED ON ONE SHIP AND IT BURST INTO FLAMES. FIRES ALSO WERE STARTED ON SHORE IN THE AIRDROME AREA.

JAN 27 1943

JAPANESE FIGHTERS INEFFECTUALLY ATTEMPTED INTERCEPTION.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JAN.26-(AP)-AN ALLIED COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY THAT "OUR FORCES CONTINUED TO OPERATE TOWARD THE NORTH IN THE OUSSELTIA VALLEY" OF CENTRAL TUNISIA WHERE A GERMAN THRUST LAST WEEK WAS CHECKED BY FRENCH TROOPS SUPPORTED BY AMERICAN ARMORED FORCES.

A SPOKESMAN SAID HEAVY RAINS HAD LIMITED ALL ACTIVITY, BOTH BY THE ALLIES AND GERMANS, TO PATROL OPERATIONS IN THE BATTLE AREA, 14 MILES NORTHEAST OF OUSSELTIA VALLEY.

ANOTHER ENEMY BOMBER WAS DESTROYED THE NIGHT OF JAN. 25, THE ALLIED COMMUNIQUE SAID, BRINGING TO FOUR THE NUMBER SHOT DOWN THAT NIGHT.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID AMERICAN AND FRENCH FORCES HAD RUN INTO GERMAN PATROLS ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE ROAD RUNNING FROM OUSSELTIA TO KAIROUAN, WITH RESULTING SMALL-SCALE ACTION.

HEAVY RAIN IN TUNISIA TURNS THE SOFT LAND INTO MUCK AND MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE TO OPERATE ARMORED VEHICLES.

JAN 27 1943

THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION HERE OF REPORTS THAT SOME UNITS OF THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY DRIVING WEST IN TRIPOLITANIA HAD CROSSED THE TUNISIAN BORDER.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID IT WAS POSSIBLE THAT SOME SMALL PATROLS HAD PENETRATED THAT FAR, BUT ADDED THAT THERE HAD BEEN NO CONTACT BETWEEN THEM AND ALLIED FORCES IN TUNISIA.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JAN 26-(AP)-GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TODAY AWARDED SILVER STARS TO TWO AUSTRALIANS.

SERGT. PILOT DAVID R. SINCLAIR, NEW SOUTH WALES, OF THE AUSTRALIAN AIR FORCE WAS CITED FOR GALLANTRY IN ACTION OVER RABAUL OCT.9. HE WAS CO-PILOT OF A FLYING FORTRESS DURING AN IMPORTANT PHOTOGRAPHIC RECONNAISSANCE MISSION.

JAN 27 1943

THE FORTRESS WAS ATTACKED MORE THAN AN HOUR BY FOUR ENEMY FIGHTERS SINCLAIR WAS SERIOUSLY WOUNDED IN THE LEGS AND CHEST, BUT TWO ENEMY PLANES WERE DESTROYED AND THE DAMAGED FORTRESS WAS BROUGHT SAFELY BACK TO ITS BASE.

30.24— 639

LIEUT. ALFRED T. DANIELS, OF THE AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCES, WA CITED POSTHUMOUSLY FOR ACTION NEAR SANANANDA NOV.30. WHILE ACTING AS ARTILLERY LIAISON OFFICER WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ATTACKING AN ENEMY STRONGPOINT, HE ACCOMPANIED THE ASSAULTING PLATOON IN A FINAL BAYONET CHARGE, AND WAS KILLED IN ACTION. THE AWARD WILL GO TO HIS FATHER IN SYDNEY. JAN 27 1943

(add mac arthur)

IT IS AN ARMY TRADITION THAT OFFICERS DO NOT GIVE PRESENTS TO THEIR COMMANDING GENERAL BUT CLOSE PERSONAL FRIENDS IN THE ARMY GAVE HIM CIGARS TODAY. THE GENERAL SELDOM KEEPS A CIGAR LIGHTED BUT CHEWS VIGOROUSLY AS HE PACES THE FLOOR DURING HIS FREQUENT MILITARY CONFERENCES.

AN OFFICER CLOSE TO GEN. MACARTHUR TOLD TODAY HOW A YEAR AGO THE GENERAL'S ONLY PRESENT WAS A BOX OF CIGARS WHICH HAD BEEN INTENDED FOR THE U.S. AMBASSADOR TO TOKYO, JOSEPH C. GREW.

WITH JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES AT WAR, DIPLOMATIC MAIL ADDRESSED TO AMBASSADOR GREW AT TOKYO WAS HELD UP IN THE PHILIPPINES AND WHEN SORTED WAS FOUND TO CONTAIN A BOX OF CIGARS FOR THE DIPLOMAT. SO ON GEN. MACARTHUR'S BIRTHDAY, FRANCIS B. SAYRE, THEN U.S. HIGH COMMISSIONER TO THE PHILIPPINES, PRESENTED THEM TO THE GENERAL.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, JAN.26-(AP)-ABOUT 3,000 JAPANESE SOLDIERS WERE KILLED IN THE FINAL ALLIED ASSAULTS WHICH CLEANED THE ENEMY OUT OF THE SANANANDA SECTOR AND VICTORIOUSLY CONCLUDED THE PAPUAN CAMPAI AN ALLIED SPOKESMAN ESTIMATED TONIGHT.

MANY COOLIES WERE TAKEN PRISONER IN THIS AREA, INCLUDING SEVERAL HUNDRED NATIVES OF RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN.

SUNDAY WAS THE FIRST DAY OF EVEN COMPARATIVE REST IN MANY WEEKS FO AMERICAN TROOPS ALONG THE SANANANDA ROAD TO GONA UP THE COAST, BUT IT WAS A DAY OF NARROW ESCAPE FOR AN AUSTRALIAN OFFICER WHO IS IN CHARGE OF ARTILLERY.

THE OFFICER WAS GOING ALONG THE TRIAL ON AN INSPECTION TOUR, PRECEDED BY A RIFLEMAN AND FOLLOWED BY A TOMMYGUNNER. THE LEADING TWO HAD PASSED A SPOT WHERE A THICK TREE STOOD ABOUT 10 YARDS OFF THI TRACK IN A PATCH OF HIGH GRASS.

THE TOMMYGUNNER HAPPENED TO GLANCE THAT WAY AND SAW A JAPANESE JUST REACHING FOR HIS PISTOL. HE KILLED HIM WITH A SINGLE SHOT. THE JAPANESE PROVED TO BE A LIEUT.COLONEL. JAN 27 1943

HE WAS ONE OF 17 JAPANESE KILLED DURING THE DAY ALONG THE GONA TRAIL. FOUR OTHERS WERE TAKEN PRISONER.

CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA, JAN.26-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER JOHN CURTIN ANNOUNCED TONIGHT HE HAD DECIDED TO AMEND THE DEFENSE ACT TO PERMIT THE CONSCRIPTION OF WOMEN FOR AUXILIARY SERVICES OF THE ARMY, NAVY AND AIRFORCE.

LEGISLATION FOR IT WILL BE INTRODUCED SOON.

THE WAR COMMITMENTS COMMITTEE REPORTED WAR NECESSITIES WOULD CALL FOR TRANSFER OF ANOTHER 35,000 MEN AND WOMEN A MONTH TO THE FIGHTING SERVICES, MUNITIONS PRODUCTION AND DEFENSE WORKS.

THE GOVERNMENT ALSO DECIDED TO INCREASE THE POWERS OF THE DIRECTOR GENERAL OF MANPOWER TO CONTROL SWITCHES OF MANPOWER INTO MUNITIONS WORK AND THE ARMED FORCES. JAN 27 1943

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, JAN.22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE AUSTRALIAN COMMANDER IN THIS AREA, ON THIS NIGHT OF VICTORY, SAID

ONE OF THE CHIEF LESSONS LEARNED IN THE SUCCESSFUL SANANANDA CAMPAIGN WAS THAT IT WAS NECESSARY TO USE STRONGLY SUPERIOR FORCES AGAINST JAPANESE DEFENSES IN THE JUNGLE. JAN 27 1943

IT WAS SIX MONTHS AGO TODAY THAT JAPANESE LANDED AT SANANANDA, AND NOW THEY HAD BEEN DRIVEN OUT.

THE COMMANDER ALSO EMPHASIZED THREE LESSONS TAUGHT IN THE INTERIM:

THAT THE JAPANESE ON THE OFFENSIVE LIKE TO PUSH THEIR LINES CLOSE TO YOURS, BUT CAN BE WHITTLED DOWN WHEN YOU APPLY THE SAME TACTICS;

THAT FOR AERIAL BOMBARDMENT TO AID CLOSE-RANGE LAND-FIGHTING THERE MUST BE CONSIDERABLE STRESS ON AIR-LAND CO-OPERATION;

THAT IN CLOSE RANGE WORK, ARTILLERY CAN BE TRULY EFFECTIVE ONLY IN SITUATIONS WHERE IT IS POSSIBLE TO PULL BACK YOUR OWN TROOPS TO PERMIT CLEAR FIRE ON THE TARGET.

THE AUSTRALIAN, WHO HAS A BRILLIANT CAREER, SAID AMERICAN TROOPS MADE THE CUSTOMARY MISTAKES WHICH ALL SOLDIERS INEXPERIENCED IN BATTLE COMMIT, "WHETHER BRITISH, AUSTRALIAN, AMERICAN, JAPANESE OR GERMAN," BUT GAVE A SPLENDID ACCOUNT OF THEMSELVES IN THE FINAL WEEK-LONG PUSH WHICH CLEARED THE JAPS FROM THE SANANANDA ROAD.

"THE KIND OF MISTAKES THEY MADE ARE THE KIND THEY WON'T MAKE AGAIN," THE GENERAL SAID "BUT ACTUAL FIGHTING IS THE ONLY WAY ANYONE CAN GET OVER THEM." JAN 27 1943

"THE INEXPERIENCE THEY HAVE GAINED WILL MAKE THEM IN FUTURE COMBAT AT LEAST TWICE AS GOOD AS THEY WERE IN THIS ONE, AND THAT'S BLOODY GOOD INDEED."

HE SAID IN THE FINAL STAGES HE BELIEVED THE JAPS WERE COMPLETELY DEMORALIZED -- LARGELY BECAUSE THEY DID NOT EXPECT A MANEUVER BY AUSTRALIANS.

UNDER A BRIGADIER GENERAL THEY SWEPT THROUGH TO THE SEA IN TWO PLACES TO TAKE SANANANDA POINT, AND ALSO THREW A FORCE ACROSS THE SANANANDA ROAD, LEAVING THE MAIN JAP FORCE BETWEEN THE AMERICANS ON ONE SIDE AND THE AUSTRALIANS ON THE OTHER.

HE SAID HE BELIEVED THE JAP MAIN FORCE ACTUALLY PLANNED TO PULL BACK ON THE SANANANDA POINT AREA AND HOLD DEFENSES SIMILAR TO THOSE AT BUNA, BUT THE AUSTRALIANS GOT THERE FIRST AND THE JAPS WERE LEFT WITHOUT ANY PLACE TO RETREAT. JAN 27 1943

"IT'S GOT SO WE CALL EVERY BLOODY RIFLEMAN WHO SHOOTS AT US A BLOODY SNIPER," HE SAID. "ACTUALLY, THERE ARE NOT AS MANY AS GET REPORTED. MOST OF THEM ARE NOT ACTUALLY SNIPERS, BUT CONSTITUTE AN ELEVATED PROTECTION FOR MACHINEGUNS."

HE WENT ON TO EXPLAIN THAT INTHE LEVEL JUNGLE, TREE-TOPS TOOK THE PLACE OF HILL-TOPS AS PROTECTION SITES FOR GUNPOSTS. IT WAS HIS SUGGESTION THAT FOR JUNGLE COMBAT WE TRAIN MORE RIFLEMEN TO OPERATE FROM TREES, BOTH FOR OBSERVATION AND TO PICK OFF ANY ENEMY FOOLISH ENOUGH TO SHOW HIMSELF.

SIMULTANEOUS WITH THE CONFERENCE WITH THE GENERAL, OFFICIAL FIGURES WERE RELEASED LISTING 1201 JAP DEAD COUNTED IN THE SANANANDA AREA IN FIGHTING SINCE JANUARY 1. THE FINAL FIGURE MAY BE CONSIDERABLY LARGER SINCE AMERICANS ALONE CLAIM CLOSE TO 1,000. IN ADDITION, IN THE GONA SECTOR DEAD JAPS HAVE TOTALLED 698. JAN 27 1943

30.24-641

EIGHTH OFFICERS OF THE BRITISH OCCUPIED-TERRITORY ADMINISTRATION WERE SPECIALLY TRAINED IN THE TRIPOLITAN[redacted] BACKGROUND, AND MUCH VITAL INFORMATION FOR THIS WORK WAS GLEANED FROM CAPTURED ENEMY DOCUMENTS, HE ADDED. JAN 27 1943

EVERY POSSIBLE DETAIL DOWN TO THE NAMES OF PRINCIPAL OFFICIALS AND LEADING CITIZENS WAS [redacted] STUDIED BY THESE OFFICERS.

THE FOLLOWING ARRANGEMENTS NOW ARE IN EFFECT:

BRITISH MILITARY COURTS HAVE BEEN SET UP AND LISTS OF WAR CRIMES PUNISHABLE BY OCCUPATION AUTHORITIES HAVE BEEN POSTED (IT WAS POINTED OUT THAT THIS PRACTICE IS NOT REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL LAW); FOOD SUPPLY AND MEDICAL CENTERS FOR CIVILIANS HAVE BEEN OPENED; FASCIST LEADERS HAVE BEEN INTERNED; FASCIST CLUBS, SCHOOLS AND INSTITUTIONS WERE CLOSED; THE DISPLAY OF FASCIST FLAGS AND EMBLEMS WAS PROHIBITED, AND FASCIST PARTY FUNDS WERE FROZEN.

CIVIL LAW COURTS WILL CONTINUE TO FUNCTION NORMALLY FOR CIVIL CRIMES, CASEY SAID, BUT THE COURTS WILL ACT UNDER BRITISH CONTROL. JAN 27 1943

REPLYING TO [redacted] QUESTIONS OF THE TRANSFER OF ABANDONED PROPERTY OF ITALIAN COLONISTS IN CYRENAICA TO ARAB INHABITANTS, CASEY SAID ALL SUCH MATTERS WOULD BE HELD IN ABEYANCE UNTIL THE END OF THE WAR.

PRESENT STOCKS OF ESSENTIAL FOODSTUFFS ARE SUFFICIENT TO MAINTAIN THE CIVILIAN POPULATION, CASEY CONTINUED, AND [redacted] TRIPOLITANIA WILL BECOME PART OF THE MIDDLE EAST BLOC FOR PURPOSES OF SUPPLY. JAN 27 1943

THE SURPLUS OF PRODUCE WILL BE BOUGHT BY ALLIED MILITARY FORCES AFTER CIVIL REQUIREMENTS HAVE BEEN MET, WHETHER TRIPOLITANIA'S 600,000 POPULATION-- [redacted] 18,000 OF WHOM ARE ITALIANS-- WILL REQUIRE OUTSIDE AID IN THE FORM OF FOOD SUPPLIES DEPENDS ON THE COMING LIBYAN HARVEST, CASEY EXPLAINED.

"IT MAY BE [redacted] ASSURED THAT ALL HUMANITARIAN NEEDS WILL BE ATTENDED TO," HE DECLARED.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR SANANANDA, NEW GUINEA, JAN.22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AS THE FORTUNE OF WAR WOULD HAVE IT, PVT. JONATHAN P.HUNTER, FORMERLY OF TILLAMOOK, ORE., RODE AS GUARD ON TWO JAPANESE PRISONERS TONIGHT IN A TRUCK WHICH THE JAPS SEIZED IN THE PHILIPPINES WHERE HIS BROTHER HAD DRIVEN IT.

THE FIRST THING HUNTER NOTICED AFTER BEING ASSIGNED TO THE TRUCK---RECAPTURED FROM THE JAPS---WAS THE OBSCURED SIGN BEARING THE NAME OF THE UNIT WITH WHICH HIS BROTHER, GEORGE, HAD BEEN SERVINGK

THE UNIT WITH WHICH HIS BROTHER, GEORGE, HAD BEEN SERVING IN THE PHILIPPINES. NEXT, IN THE CAB, HE FOUND THE SAME KIND OF SKETCHES AND DECORATIONS WHICH HIS BROTHER LIKED TO PUT ABOUT A PLACE.

THEN HE FOUND THE CLINCHER--THE NAME OF GEORGE HUNTER SCRATCHED ON THE GEARSHIFT LEVER.

THE WAR TODAY

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

JAN 27 1943

BOMBAY, JAN.24-(DELAYED)-BRITISH WAR SECRETARY SIR JAMES GRIGG HAS CONFERRED A GRAND DECORATION ON GALLANT PEOPLES IN HIS STATEMENT THAT "THE DESTRUCTION OF THE ITALIAN EMPIRE WAS OVERWHELMINGLY OUR SHOW, OURS AND INDIA'S AND AUSTRALIA'S AND NEW ZEALAND'S AND SOUTH AFRICA'S AND THAT OF THE INHABITANTS OF BRITISH EAST AFRICA AND BRITISH WEST AFRICA."

JAN 27 1943

IN ASSAYING THIS TRIBUTE ONE'S MIND INSTINCTIVELY TURNS TO THE CIVILIAN POPULATION OF BRITAIN. NO ARMY HAS DONE MORE FOR THE ALLIED CAUSE THAN THESE BRAVE FOLK WHOSE STOUT SPIRIT ENABLED ENGLAND TO HOLD OUT AGAINST THE MOST FRIGHTFUL AIR ASSAULT THE WORLD HAS KNOWN AND THUS PREVENT A QUICK HITLERIAN TRIUMPH. THEY'VE WAITED LONG FOR THEIR REWARD IN SMASHING VICTORY AND NOW IT HAS COME. THAT WILL MEAN MUCH FOR MORALE IN THE TRYING DAYS STILL AHEAD.

THROUGH AN ASSOCIATION OF IDEAS AND PERHAPS PARTLY BECAUSE I'M A LONG WAY FROM AMERICA AND A BIT LONESOME, MY MIND TURNS TO MY OWN PEOPLE WHO ALSO ARE DOING THEIR BIT IN THIS WAR, ALTHOUGH FAR REMOVED FROM ACTUAL BATTLEFIELDS. FOR THEM I WANT TO WRITE A LITTLE FOOTNOTE TO SIR JAMES' BROADCAST SATURDAY.

JUST FOR HOME CONSUMPTION AND NOT TO BEAT THE DRUM, IT WON'T DO ANY HARM TO AMPLIFY HIS STATEMENT THAT "OF COURSE WE HAD UNGRUDGING HELP FROM AMERICAN SUPPLIES AND FROM AMERICAN AIR FORCES IN THE LATEST STAGE, BUT NEVERTHELESS IT HAS BEEN OVERWHELMINGLY OUR SHOW." MAYBE SIR JAMES HIMSELF ADDED TO THIS AND IT WASN'T CABLED OUT FOR PUBLICATION. ANYWAY, I'M GOING TO SAY MY TWO CENTS' WORTH BECAUSE I THINK YOU WOULD BE GLAD TO KNOW THAT THE YANKEE MEMBERS OF THIS ALLIED FOOTBALL TEAM IN AFRICA HAS CARRIED THE BALL MORE THAN ONCE.

I WAS WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN LIBYA AFTER GENERAL SIR BERNARD MONTGOMERY'S SENSATIONAL ROUT OF THE AXIS FORCES FROM EL ALAMEIN AND BEFORE HE BEGAN HIS GREAT DRIVE AT EL AGHEILA.

I HAD FULL OPPORTUNITY TO CHECK ALL THE OPERATIONS, INCLUDING THOSE OF THE AMERICAN AIR FORCES. JAN 27 1943

THUS I CAN ASSURE YOU THAT OUR AIR CONTINGENT, AND ESPECIALLY OUR HEAVY BOMBERS, PLAYED A MAJOR ROLE IN THIS VICTORY.

I WILL GO FURTHER AND SAY THE EIGHTH ARMY'S SUCCESS CERTAINLY COULDN'T HAVE BEEN ACHIEVED IN SUCH A FAST AND OVERWHELMING FASHION WITHOUT OUR AIR SUPPORT.

AT SOME OF THE MOST CRUCIAL MOMENTS OF THIS CAMPAIGN OUR HEAVY LONG DISTANCE BOMBERS WERE THE ONLY ONES WHICH COULD REACH GENERAL FIELD MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL'S REAR BASES AND SUPPLY LINES. DAY AFTER DAY UNCLE SAM'S BIG BOMBERS BLASTED THE AXIS COMMUNICATIONS. WHO DO YOU THINK IT WAS THAT RENDERED ROMMEL'S PRINCIPAL PORT OF TRIPOLI IMPOTENT AT A TIME WHEN IT WAS MOST ESSENTIAL TO PREVENT HIM FROM RECEIVING TROOPS AND SUPPLIES? WELL, IT WAS OUR HEAVY BOMBERS.

THIS BATTLE HAS BEEN LARGELY ONE OF COMMUNICATIONS AND MONTGOMERY HAS STRIPPED HIS ENEMY WITH MASTERFUL SKILL. IN ORDER TO DO THIS HE HAD TO DEPEND ON THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN AIR FORCES. JAN 27 1943

TO SAY WE TOOK A MAJOR HAND IN THE VITAL LONG DISTANCE BOMBING DOESN'T DETRACT IN THE LEAST FROM THE SPLENDID AND INDISPENSABLE WORK OF THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN OTHER CATEGORIES OR FROM THE BRILLIANCE OF MONTGOMERY'S STRATEGY AND TACTICS. HE HAS WRITTEN HIS NAME FIRMLY ACROSS THE PAGE OF BRITAIN'S FAMOUS SOLDIERS.

THE FULL SIGNIFICANCE OF MONTGOMERY'S VICTORY WILL BECOME APPARENT ONLY WHEN THE LAST OF THE AXIS FORCES HAVE BEEN DRIVEN INTO THE SEA FROM AFRICA. THEN WE SHALL SEE THE REOPENING OF THOSE ALL IMPORTANT MEDITERRANEAN SHIPPING LANES TO THE MIDDLE EAST AND INDIA AND CHINA.

NOT ONLY WILL THIS HASTEN HITLER'S INGLORIOUS END, BUT IT WILL CREATE A MIGHTY AVENUE OF STRENGTH TO BE DIRECTED AGAINST THE JAPANESE. THERE'S NO OPERATION WITHIN THE REALM OF FEASIBILITY WHICH COULD HAVE CONTRIBUTED MORE TO THE SHORTENING OF THE WAR THAN THE NORTH AFRICAN SHOW.

BOMBAY, WEDNESDAY, JAN.27-(AP)-ABOUT 200 PERSONS WERE ARRESTED IN VARIOUS PARTS OF INDIA YESTERDAY IN INCIDENTS GROWING OUT OF THE CELEBRATION OF INDIA INDEPENDENCE DAY BY MEMBERS OF THE ALL-INDIA CONGRESS. THE CONGRESS HAS OBSERVED INDIA INDEPENDENCE DAY ON JAN.26 FOR THE PAST 13 YEARS AND MEETINGS AND PROCESSIONS WERE ORGANIZED THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY YESTERDAY. JAN 27 1943

NEW DELHI(AP)- HELD BY THE JAPANESE SITTANG AIRDROME, IN CENTRAL BURMA, WAS RAIDED BY FIGHTER-BOMBERS DURING THE DAY AND LAST NIGHT LONG RANGE BOMBERS RETURNED TO THE ATTACK, LAYING THEIR MISSILES WELL INSIDE THE TARGET AREA. IT WAS REPORTED.

OTHER BOMBERS WENT AFTER JAPANESE SHIPPING FOUND ALONG THE ARAKAN COAST, ON THE NORTHEAST SHORE OF THE BAY OF BENGAL. JAN 27 1943

VALLETTA, MALTA, JAN. 26-(AP)-THE GOVERNMENT COUNCIL ANNOUNCED TONIGHT THAT 1,268 CIVILIANS HAD BEEN KILLED IN MALTA THROUGH ENEMY ACTION FROM JUNE 11, 1940, WHEN ITALY ENTERED THE WAR, TO JAN. 24, 1943. THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID 1,799 CIVILIANS HAD BEEN SERIOUSLY INJURED [redacted] IN THE SAME PERIOD.

JAN 27 1943

SANTIAGO, CHILE, JAN. 26,-(AP)— THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TODAY ORDERED 168 GERMANS AND 74 JAPANESE SUSPECTED OF ESPIONAGE AND PROPAGANDIST ACTIVITIES SENT TO DESIGNATED TOWNS AS A "PREVENTIVE" MEASURE FOLLOWING CHILE'S BREAK WITH THE AXIS. IT WAS NOT STATED WHETHER THEY WOULD BE PLACED UNDER POLICE GUARD.

SANTIAGO, CHILE, JAN. 26 (AP)—PRESIDENT JUAN ANTONIO RIOS HAS REJECTED THE RESIGNATIONS OF THREE SOCIALIST MEMBERS OF HIS CABINET, THUS AVERTING A THREATENED CABINET CRISIS, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE REASONS FOR THE PROFERRED RESIGNATIONS WERE N O T STATED BUT THEY FOLLOWED A RECENT SPLIT IN THE [redacted] SOCIALIST PARTY, ONE WING OF WHICH SUPPORTED THE GOVERNMENT'S RUPTURE OF RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS WHILE T HE OTHER DEMANDED THAT THE PARTY DECLARE ITS "INDEPENDENCE OF THE ADMINISTRATION."

BY ROBERT N.STURDEVANT

RECIFE, BRAZIL, JAN 8-(DELAYED)-(AP)-ON THE SEA AND FROM THE AIR A BATTLE IS BEING WAGED BY AMERICAN FORCES IN COOPERATION WITH THE ALLIES OVER THE VAST EXPANSE OF THE SOUTH ATLANTIC TO RID THE AREA OF ENEMY SUBMARINES, RAIDERS AND BLOCKADE RUNNERS.

LAST YEAR'S BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC, WHICH FOR A TIME RAGED FURIOUSLY IN NORTHERN WATERS, HAS SHIFTED SOUTHWARD TO A LARGE EXTENT TO THE SHIPPING LANES OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE AND THE SUPPLY ROUTES TO AFRICA.

JAN 27 1943

COMMANDING THESE UNIFIED OPERATIONS IS JONAS HOWARD INGRAM, 56-YEAR OLD VICE-ADMIRAL OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY, WHOSE DOMAIN EXTENDS FROM SOME DISTANCE NORTH OF THE EQUATOR ALL THE WAY TO THE TIP OF SOUTH AMERICA AND EASTWARD TO AFRICA.

"WE'RE HERE TO CLEAN THE ENEMY OUT OF THE SOUTH ATLANTIC," ADMIRAL INGRAM SAID IN AN INTERVIEW. "WE'VE GOT TO GET THE RAIDERS OUT OF THIS AREA AS WELL AS A FEW BLOCKADE RUNNERS WHICH HAVE SIFTED THROUGH. ALREADY WE'VE CAUGHT A FEW OF THEM. UP TO NOW OUR MAIN JOB HAS BEEN SUBMARINES."

AS ALLIED PROSECUTION OF THE WAR GROWS GREATER, GERMANY IS FEELING THE PINCH AND FINDS IT INCREASINGLY NECESSARY TO IMPLEMENT HER WAR EFFORT BY STRATEGIC MATERIALS FROM THE JAPANESE-DOMINATED MALAY STATES IN THE EAST INDIES BY MEANS OF BLOCKADE RUNNERS.

THE ROUTE THESE ELUSIVE CRAFT TAKE RUNS RIGHT THROUGH THE SOUTH ATLANTIC. ADMIRAL INGRAM BELIEVES THE CRUISING IS GOING TO BE MUCH TOUGHER FOR THEM.

TO BACK UP THIS POTENTIAL PUNCH, HE HAS A UNIFIED SOUTH ATLANTIC COMMAND EMBRACING ALL OF THE AIR AND SEA WAR CRAFT OF THE UNITED STATES BRITAIN AND BRAZIL IN THIS AREA. ALONG MUCH OF THE LENGTH OF THE SOUTH AMERICAN COAST ARE SEAPLANE BASES AND AIR FIELDS AS WELL AS BASES FOR SURFACE CRAFT.

THE ADMIRAL'S FLAG SHIP IS AN AIRPLANE--HE SAYS HE'S THE MOST AIR-MINDED MAN IN THIS SECTOR ALTHOUGH HE IS NOT A PILOT.

INGRAM HAS BEEN BUSY WITH MANY THINGS SINCE HE UNDERTOOK HIS SOUTH ATLANTIC DUTIES IN 1941, BUT HE IS PROUDEST OF THE COOPERATION HE HAS RECEIVED FROM OUR SOUTH AMERICAN NEIGHBORS.

THE AIRMEN IN HIS COMMAND "FLY TO THE LIMIT OF HUMAN ENDURANCE" AND THEIR PATROL PLANES AVERAGE BETTER THAN 100 HOURS IN THE AIR A MONTH HE SAID.

JAN 27 1943

DESPITE THESE INTENSE AIR OPERATIONS, ONLY ONE PLANE HAS BEEN LOST. IT WAS FORCED DOWN ON THE OCEAN RECENTLY AND ALL OF THE CREW WERE RESCUED.

WHEN HE SPEAKS OF HIS ENLISTED PERSONNEL, THE ADMIRAL BEAMS. THEY ARE SO GOOD, HE SAID, THAT THEY KEEP THE OFFICERS STEPPING "TO KEEP UP WITH THEM." ONE OF HIS CHIEF CONCERNS IS THE LACK OF RECREATIONAL FACILITIES AROUND THE MILITARY ESTABLISHMENTS, FOR DESPITE THE PROVEN HOSPITALITY OF THE BRAZILIANS, THEIR HABITS AND CUSTOMS DIFFER FROM THOSE OF AMERICANS.

JAN 27 1943

WHEN HE IS HERE, THE ADMIRAL'S DAY USUALLY BEGINS AT 6 A.M. WHEN HIS PET ARARA (MACAW), NAMED BAHIA FOR THE GOVERNOR OF BAHIA WHO PRESENTED IT TO INGRAM, CALLS OUT "HELLO, ARARA, O.K."

"THEN I KNOW IT'S TIME TO GET UP," THE ADMIRAL SAID.

USUALLY INGRAM FINDS TIME TO WORK OUT ON AN EXERCISING MACHINE ONCE A DAY. HE ALSO TAKES A SWIM, DOES SEVERAL LAPS ALONG THE BEACH AND TAKES A SUN BATH. HE ACQUIRED HIS LOVE OF ATHLETICS AS A FOOTBALL PLAYER AND LATER HEAD FOOTBALL COACH AT THE U.S.NAVAL ACADEMY.

MOST OF THE INGRAMS, IN FACT, HAVE BEEN ASSOCIATED WITH FOOTBALL. HIS BROTHER IS THE FAMOUS W... [illegible] INGRAM AND HIS SON, LT.W.T.INGRAM, ALSO PLAYED AT THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

YOUNG INGRAM HAS JUST BEEN ASSIGNED TO THE SOUTH ATLANTIC AFTER HAVING SPENT MANY MONTHS IN THE PACIFIC WAR ZONE PARTICIPATING IN A NUMBER OF MAJOR BATTLES.

JAN 27 1943

"HE SAYS HE'S GOING TO TELL ME HOW TO RUN THINGS IN THE SOUTH ATLANTIC" SAID THE ADMIRAL WITH A SMILE.

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JAN. 26-(AP)— GOV. REXFORD G. TUGWELL AND HIS COORDINATOR OF INFORMATION, JOHN LEAR, BOTH WERE FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGES OF CRIMINEL LIBEL TODAY AND FINED $200 EACH BY [illegible] SAN JUAN MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGE RAFAELA GONZALEZ (A MEMBER OF THE OPPOSITION PARTY.)

THE CASE WAS BROUGHT BY MIGUEL MARTORELL, ON BEHALF OF THE PUERTO RICO FARMERS ASSOCIATION WHICH HE HEADS.

NO DEFENSE TESTIMONY WAS ENTERED. The defen

JUDGE GONZALEZ GAVE HIS DECISION ENDING A TWO-DAY TRIAL AFTER DEFENSE ATTORNEY BENIGNO FERNANDEZ GARCIA DECLINED TO PRESENT DEFENSE TESTIMONY WITH THE ASSERTION IT "IT IS A WASTE OF TIME."

THE ATTORNEY GAVE NOTICE OF APPEAL TO THE DISTRICT COURT, AND TUGWELL AND LEAR WERE "RELEASED" UNDER $500 BONDS. NEITHER TUGWELL NOR LEAR APPEARED IN THE COURTROOM.

3o. 24- 649

PRECEDE SAULT STE.MARIE DAY

SYDNEY, N.S., JAN.26-(AP)-STEEL WORKERS AT TRENTON, N.S., "MUST BE INCLUDED" IN ANY FINAL SETTLEMENT OF THE CANADIAN STEEL SITUATION, PRESIDENT GEORGE MACNEIL OF THE SYDNEY LOCAL, UNITED STEEL WORKERS OF AMERICA, DECLARED TONIGHT.

SOME 10,000 WORKERS AT SYDNEY AND SAULT STE.MARIE, ONT., ON STRIKE FOR TWO WEEKS, HAVE AGREED TO RETURN TO WORK WITH THE RESERVATION A NEW STRIKE WOULD BE CALLED IF THEIR ORIGINAL DEMANDS FOR A BASIC WAGE RATE OF 55 CENTS AN HOUR PLUS COST-OF-LIVING BONUSES WERE NOT MET WITHIN 30 DAYS. THE SAULT WORKERS VOTED TO RETURN TO WORK TODAY.

ABOUT 3,500 WORKERS AT TRENTON, HOWEVER, STILL ARE ON STRIKE, AND ARE DEMANDING THAT SUBSIDIARY PLANTS THERE ALSO BE RECOGNIZED AS "BASIC" STEEL INDUSTRIES.

JAN 27 1943

MACNEIL SAID TRENTON "MUST BE INCLUDED 100 PER CENT IN ANY FINAL AGREEMENT REGARDING BASIC RATES AND OTHER CONDITIONS BEFORE SUCH TERMS ARE ACCEPTABLE TO US."

THE GOVERNMENT'S MEDIATION PROPOSAL INCLUDED AN OFFER OF A 55-CENT BASIC WAGE RATE, BUT INCLUDING COST-OF-LIVING BONUSES. IT LEFT THE WAY OPEN FOR THE TRENTON UNION TO APPLY TO THE NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD TO ASCERTAIN WHETHER TRENTON OPERATIONS ARE "BASIC."

OTTAWA, JAN 26-(AP)-NEWS OF THE MEETING IN NORTH AFRICA BETWEEN PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WAS RECEIVED WITHOUT COMMENT TONIGHT IN GOVERNMENT CIRCLES WHERE IT IS UNDERSTOOD THESE DEVELOPMENTS WERE ALREADY KNOWN.

JAN 27 1943

WITH PARLIAMENT RESUMING ITS ADJOURNED SITTING TOMORROW AND OPENING FOR A NEW SESSION THURSDAY, IT WAS INTIMATED THAT ANYTHING PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING MIGHT WISH TO SAY WOULD BE HELD FOR THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

BUT UNOFFICIALLY THERE WERE EXPRESSIONS OF SATISFACTION AMONG MINISTERS AND OTHERS IN THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE THAT THE MEETING HAD BEEN HELD, AND MUCH HOPE ENTERTAINED FOR THE FUTURE VALUE OF THE NORTH AFRICAN CONVERSATIONS.

KING IS EXPECTED TO MAKE A STATEMENT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS WITHIN THE NEXT WEEK ON THE QUESTION OF CANADA'S RELATIONS WITH FRANCE, BOTH VICHY FRANCE AND THE FIGHTING FRENCH LED BY GEN. DE GAULLE.

LAST NOVEMBER THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT DECLARED THAT THE VICHY GOVERNMENT WAS NO LONGER ACCEPTED BY THE DOMINION AS THE CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT OF FRANCE AND THE VICHY MINISTER HERE, RENE RISTELHUEBER, WAS ADVISED THAT HE NO LONGER ENJOYED THAT STATUS.

OTTAWA, JAN 26-(AP)-THREE AMERICANS WERE INCLUDED TONIGHT IN THE LATEST CASUALTY LIST OF THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE.

BY GLENN BABB

JOSEPH STALIN, WHO DOES NOT USE WORDS IDLY, CALLS TODAY ON HIS ARMIES TO DRIVE ON AND EXPEL THE GERMANS AND THEIR SATELLITES "OVER THE BOUNDARIES OF OUR MOTHERLAND." EVENTS MAY PROVE THAT THIS IS MORE THAN MERE SLOGANEERING, THAT THE RUSSIAN LEADER IS STATING HIS DEFINITE MILITARY OBJECTIVE FOR 1943.

JAN 27 1943

THE RED ARMY, OF COURSE, HAS A LONG WAY TO GO TO ACHIEVE IT. THE GERMANS, EVEN AS THEY REEL BACK DAILY TO NEW LINES, STILL STAND HUNDREDS OF MILES EAST OF THE RUSSIAN FRONTIER OF 1941, WHICH INCLUDED THE BALTIC STATES IN THE NORTH AND RUSSIA'S SHARE OF THE PARTITION OF POLAND IN THE SOUTH. IN THE NORTH, WHERE TODAY'S FRONT IS CLOSEST TO HITLER'S 1941 JUMPING OFF LINE, THE DISTANCE IS NEARLY 400 MILES. IN THE SOUTH, WHERE NEARLY THE WHOLE EXPANSE OF THE UKRAINE REMAINS TO BE RECOVERED, THE DISTANCE IS NEARLY 700 MILES.

BUT THERE IS NO LONGER ANY DOUBT THAT THE RUSSIAN DRIVE HAS ACHIEVED A MOMENTUM THAT WILL BE HARD TO STOP. BY THEIR ABANDONMENT OF VORONEZH THE GERMANS RELINQUISHED THEIR LAST HOLD ON THE LINE OF THE DON EXCEPT FOR THE 60 MILES AT ITS MOUTH WHERE THEY ARE BEING THRUST BACK ON ROSTOV. THE DON LINE, IN A SENSE, WAS THE CHIEF BULWARK ON WHICH THEY RELIED TO HOLD THE FRUITS OF THEIR 1942 CAMPAIGN.

DESPITE ALL THE CHANGES IN WEAPONS AND TACTICS THIS WAR HAS PRODUCED, GREAT RIVERS REMAIN, ESPECIALLY IN COUNTRY LIKE WESTERN RUSSIA, THE MAIN BARRIERS TO BE DEFENDED OR BROKEN THROUGH. BEHIND THE DON THE NEXT MAJOR STREAM IS THE DNIEPER AND SERIOUS MILITARY AUTHORITIES ALREADY ARE EXPRESSING BELIEF THAT THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND

MAY HAVE CHOSEN THE DNIEPER FOR ITS NEXT ATTEMPT TO STAND AGAINST THE RESURGENT RED ARMY. JAN 27 1943

BERLIN'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF YESTERDAY THAT VORONEZH HAS BEEN EVACUATED SUPPORTS THIS SPECULATION. THE FACT THAT THE GERMANS ANNOUNCED THIS BEFORE THE RUSSIANS DID STRENGTHENS THE BERLIN CLAIM THAT IT WAS "ACCORDING TO PLAN." IT SUGGESTS ALSO THAT THE HIGH COMMAND IS PREPARING THE GERMAN PEOPLE FOR WHOLESALE ABANDONMENT OF TERRITORY CONQUERED AT BITTER COST. DNB'S COMMENT THAT IT IS THE PRELUDE TO ESTABLISHMENT OF A NEW DEFENSE LINE PROBABLY CAN BE TAKEN AT FACE VALUE.

WITHDRAWAL TO THE DNIEPER WOULD MEAN A RETIREMENT OF FROM 250 TO 400 MILES FROM THE PRESENT FRONT, A TREMENDOUSLY DANGEROUS OPERATION AGAINST A FOE ABLE AND EAGER TO MAINTAIN UNRELENTING PRESSURE, AS THE RED ARMY PATIENTLY IS. IT WOULD TAKE THE GERMANS BACK TO THE LINE ACHIEVED IN THE FIRST TWO MONTHS OF THEIR JAN 27 1943 LIGHTNING WAR OF 1941 AND MEAN THAT THE MILLIONS OF MEN AND THE VAST TREASURE IN WEAPONS EXPENDED IN THE LAST 17 MONTHS HAVE BEEN LOST IN VAIN. AND THERE IS NO ASSURANCE THAT THE LINE OF THE DNIEPER, WHICH CUTS THE UKRAINE AND WHITE RUSSIA IN HALVES, COULD BE HELD AGAINST THE RESERVES OF POWER WHICH STALIN MAY BE ABLE TO THROW AGAINST IT.

HOWEVER, THERE ARE SIGNS THAT THE CHARACTER OF GERMAN STRATEGY AND MILITARY LEADERSHIP MAY BE CHANGING. THE EVACUATION OF VORONEZH, THE HINGE ON WHICH THE WHOLE CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH RUSSIA HAS SWUNG SINCE LAST SUMMER, HINTS AT A BOLD READINESS TO GRASP THE FULL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE DEFEATS ALREADY SUFFERED OR IMPENDING AND MOVE DRASTICALLY TO CUT THE LOSSES. IT SUGGESTS THAT THERE MAY BE NO MORE OF THE TYPE OF COMMAND THAT REFUSED TO READ THE DANGER SIGNS ON THE VOLGA AND CONDEMNED NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION MEN TO DESTRUCTION IN THE VAIN EFFORT TO MAINTAIN JUST A FINGERHOLD ON STALINGRAD.

THE OUTSIDE WORLD HAS COME TO ASSOCIATE THE LATTER TYPE OF COMMAND WITH ADOLF HITLER AND HIS INTUITION, A MIXTURE OF MEGALOMANIA, BLIND PRIDE AND HYSTERIA. THE RETREAT FROM THE DON MAY MEAN THAT GERMANY'S PROFESSIONAL SOLDIERS AGAIN ARE IN POSITION TO MAKE THE BIG DECISIONS AND THAT THE LINE OF THE DNIEPER MAY BE HARDER TO CRACK THAN THE LINE OF THE DON.

Berlin Reports Russian Attack in 'Considerable Force' on Central Front

Reds Capture 3,350 In Stalingrad Ring

Only 5,000 Believed Left; New Salients Threaten Rostov, Kharkov, Kursk

JAN 27 1943

Russian troops in the central sector northwest of Voronezh began attacking German lines with "considerable forces" on Tuesday, the Berlin radio said last night in a broadcast recorded here by The Associated Press.

If the report is true, the Red Army now has opened its eighth offensive against the Axis on a front extending virtually clear across Russia. German broadcasts frequently have announced the Red Army's blows ahead of Moscow announcements.

Captain Ludwig Sertorius, a German military commentator, was quoted by the Berlin radio as saying that the southern Russian offensive below Voronezh now had "overlapped" the central front northwest of that hinge city, and "thus the central sector has been drawn into the great battle of the south."

Red Attack Called Strong

"The Russians are employing considerable forces there," he said, "but it cannot yet be stated whether this means a shift in the center of gravity of their offensive or whether the main thrust of the enemy continues to be aimed in the old direction, that is, toward the Donets basin and Rostov."

The Russians already have seven major fronts, extending from Leningrad, on the Baltic Sea, to the Kuban River, in the Caucasus.

The central front above Voronezh runs northwestward to the Orel sector, then north to Vyazma, 130 miles west of Moscow. Nazi-held Vyazma is on the road Napoleon took in his invasion of Russia, and also was the original route taken by the Germans in 1941 when they threatened Moscow, later to be driven back.

SOVIET DRIVES PUSH NEARER ROSTOV, KURSK

Army From North Caucasus Reported Only Sixty Miles From Stronghold

Russians Continue To Reduce Pockets Left At Stalingrad

JAN 27 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Moscow, Jan. 27—The Russian forces before Stalingrad approached tonight the end of their task of digging out the last few surviving thousands of a German army that once numbered twenty-two divisions of about 220,000 men.

A break in the doomed ranks of the besieged was signaled by announcement that a German regiment had surrendered with its full complement.

Regiment Annhilated

The annihilation of the men and headquarters of the Six Hundred and Sixty-ninth Nazi Infantry Regiment at the same time was proclaimed (and thus it appeared that the trapped and isolated enemy bodies now numbered no more than 7,000 to 8,000 men—all of them under punishing artillery fire from two sides).

"Troops of the Don front," the Soviet command said briefly in its midday communique describing the last phase of the greatest disaster ever to befall a Hitler army, "conducted engagements for the annihilation of remnants of German Fascist troops surrounded in the Stalingrad area."

Soviet offensives went forward, meantime, on the approaches to Rostov on the southwestern, southern and Caucasion fronts and upon Kharkov in the front below Voronezh, but the Germans were counter-attacking with great violence, particularly before Rostov in the area of the lower Don.

Nazis Use Fresh Troops

The Nazis appeared to be using fresh troops and many tanks, along with planes, against the advancing Soviets, and the stubbornness of the defense suggested that the supreme German effort to hold Rostov and the surrounding regions was now in motion. There was every indication that the enemy had plenty of reinforcements, in machines as well as men.

Field dispatches reported, however, that every counter-attack had been repulsed.

Heavy Russian artillery fire poured in, not only in the death trap about Stalingrad, but upon enemy groups surrounded on the Voronezh front.

JAN 27 1943

Cites Strong Opposition

On the southern front above Rostov the Red army reported strong enemy opposition, but rolled over more populated points.

[The communique of the German high command reported: "The great winter battle on the Eastern Front is raging with undiminished force and spreading to new areas. Parts of the Sixth Army which are still capable of fighting are sticking to the debris of the town of Stalingrad.

[The Morocco radio broadcast roundabout reports from Turkey that Axis ships in Turkish and Bulgarian ports had been ordered to Novorossisk on the Black Sea, a port which the Nazis could use for withdrawing troops into the Crimea from the Caucasus if Rostov should fall.]

The Caucasian army took numerous settlements in fresh spurts.

On the front before Voronezh in the drive on Kharkov and Kursk in the Ukraine the Soviet mid-day communique reported that several trapped German groups had been beaten down in efforts to break out to the west and that in one such engagement "the enemy laid down his arms and 1,467 German officers and men were taken prisoner."

Germans Admit Red Drives Are Spreading to New Areas

Nazi High Command Says Battles Rage With Undiminished Force—Foe Reported Gathering Ships in Black Sea.

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The German High Command declared today that the great winter battle on the Russian front is raging with undiminished force and spreading to new areas.

The Morocco radio reported today that Turkish sources said all Axis ships in Turkish and Bulgarian ports had been ordered to proceed to Novorossisk.

This Caucasian port on the Black Sea is the largest from which the Germans could effect a withdrawal of troops from the northwest Caucasus to the Crimea if land escape through Rostov were cut off.

[Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, who was relieved from his southwest command late last year for another important assignment, is on the northern front, it was disclosed today. A letter to Premier Stalin from commanders on that front was headed by Timoshenko's name.]

The German High Command communique, recorded by the Associated Press, gave a blacker picture than ever before of the remnants of the German Sixth Army trapped in the Stalingrad area.

"Parts of the Sixth Army which still are capable of fighting are sticking to the debris of the town of Stalingrad," it said. "Utilizing all possibilities of defense against uninterrupted attacks by the Soviets on the ground and in the air, they are keeping engaged several Soviet armies."

German movements in the Kuban area, in the western Caucasus where the Nazi armies are withdrawing, "were continued entirely according to plan," the communique said.

Stalingrad Nazis Doomed.

A special Russian communique indicated that a Soviet ukase of doom lay on 12,000 German troops caught in two pockets in front of Stalingrad, the starving, freezing remnants of Hitler armies once numbered at 220,000 men who were surrounded and then slashed to bits by the Red Army. A time limit for their extinction was set by the Russians in the communique—two to three days.

JAN 27 1943

An entire German regiment, the 534th, has surrendered to the Russian Army units now mopping up the few thousand German and other Axis troops held in the Stalingrad trap, the Russians said in their mid-day communique today as recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor. The regiment came over with its full complement, the Russians said. It also claimed that detachments of the 669th Infantry Regiment, also caught in the Russian vise, had been completely wiped out by Red Army outfits.

Advances on other fronts were reported, with the capture of unspecified towns noted, along with the seizure of vast stores of guns and shells.

The Russians listed 40,000 of the force killed since its leaders declined to surrender January 10 and said 28,000 had been taken prisoner.

Nazis Mass at Rostov.

In a regular communique early today, also recorded by the Soviet monitor, the Russians said their offensives continued on a 450-mile front from Voronezh on the upper Don River to Armavir in the western Caucasus.

Reserve forces, bolstered by tanks, are being massed by the Germans on the approaches to Rostov, the Russians reported.

The early war bulletin told of the capture of more towns in the Caucasus, including one large populated place where the German defense in depth was reported broken by the Red Army besiegers.

The success claimed by the Russians also marked the resumption of uninterrupted Russian use of three railroads out of Stalingrad—the lines to Salsk, Tatsinskaya and Povorina.

The Germans had been preparing their people for such news as the Stalingrad bulletin in gloomy broadcasts during the last week. A Berlin radio broadcast last night quoted Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, a Nazi military commentator, as saying that each Axis soldier still trapped at Stalingrad probably has forfeited his life. He also remarked that the struggle in the entire campaign remained with the Soviet forces.

Order to Ships Reported

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Morocco radio reported today that Turkish sources had said that all Axis ships in Turkish and Bulgarian ports had been ordered to proceed to Novorossisk.

This Caucasian port on the Black Sea is the largest from which the Germans could effect a withdrawal of troops from the northwest Caucasus to the Crimea if land escape through Rostov were cut off.

TIGHTEN RING ON BASES AT ROSTOV, KURSK

Volga River City Sees Whole German Regiment Surrender

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Russian troops have captured 3350 more German survivors of the 220,000-man Nazi army trapped at Stalingrad, leaving fewer than 8650 doomed troops on the Volga, while in the continuing offensive to the west another Red army salient has been driven to a point 60 miles from Rostov, and 80 miles from Kursk, two big Nazi bases, Moscow said tonight in a regular communique recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor.

Two thousand Nazi troops "laid down their arms, including one whole regiment," at Stalingrad, and another 1350 also surrendered, the midnight bulletin said. This was near the central part of Stalingrad.

CONTINUING ROUT

The other remaining enemy pocket north of Stalingrad was being annihilated, it added.

The Russians had announced yesterday that only 12,000 trapped Germans remained to be exterminated after a general Red army attack began Jan. 10 when the remnants of the 22 Nazi divisions refused to surrender. Since then more than 40,000 have been killed and 31,350 captured.

Sweeping westward from recaptured Voronezh on the upper Don river, the communique said the Russians had occupied Gorshechnoye, 80 miles east and slightly south of Kursk, big German base on the Moscow-Kharkov railway. This town is about 50 miles southwest of Voronezh.

As evidence of the continued rout on the Voronezh front the communique said that 5000 Axis troops, including a colonel, two majors and a captain, surrendered "after a short battle" in the Varvorovka-Shelyakino sector which is 45 miles east of Soviet vanguards who already have taken Volokonovka on the Moscow-Yelets-Kupyansk railway.

The Russians already had reported the capture of more than 64,000 Axis troops on this front, most of them Hungarians, Italians, and Rumanians, who were showing less disposition to continue the struggle against the crushing Soviet steamroller than the Germans.

In another sector during the day 400 Germans were wiped out, the communique said.

The closest that the Russians have driven to Kharkov is in the Valuiki-Urazovo sector approximately 80 miles from the Ukraine capital. This region is 40 miles southwest of the Varvorovka-Sselyankino road where the 5000 Axis troops laid down their arms.

Ferther south the Russians also reported a successful smash west of Byelokurakina, which is only 50 miles from the important railway junction of Kupyansk, and 105 miles southwest of Kharkov. Three inhabited localities were taken, the communique said, one of them after an all-day fight in which the Germans unsuccessfully conterattacked with two battalions supported by tanks.

CLOSE CAUCASUS NET

In the Caucasus the Russians, pushing northwestward from Salsk on the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk railway, captured Sredny-Yekorlyk and Ataman, the latter 60 miles from Rostov which is connected by railway.

Below Tikhoretsk the Russians were menacing Kropotkin, another rail junction, after taking Novo-Alexandrovskaya, 32 miles to the east, and Grigoropoliyskaya, 25 miles to the southeast.

All these Red army drives were hurling back the Germans into the northwestern corner of the Caucasus of which Rostov is the pivot. The Nazis were reported counter-attacking repeatedly but steadily losing ground and suffering heavy losses in men and equipment.

Nine tanks, 18 trucks, 11 guns were seized and 9000 captives taken by a single Soviet unit in these operations, the communique said.

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Red army driving up from the north Caucasus railway toward Rostov has reached a point only sixty miles from that main Nazi base, and in the westward sweep from Voronezh has captured a point only eighty miles from Kursk, Moscow said tonight in a midnight communique recorded here by the Soviet radio Monitor.

MOSCOW (AP).—Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, who was relieved from his southwest command late last year for another important assignment, is on the northern front, it was disclosed today. A letter to Premier Stalin from commanders on that front was headed by Timoshenko's name.

Nazi General Slain

London, Jan. 27 (AP).—A German broadcast tonight said Major Gen. Richard von Reuss, one of the leading commanders of German forces in the great Don bend fighting, had been killed in action.

Big Wilhelmshaven Base Smashed RAF Bombs Copenhagen

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Swarms of Fortress and Liberator bombers struck the first all-American blows at Germany proper today with heavy raids on the naval base of Wilhelmshaven and the related Emden industries, while their Allies of the RAF for the first time in the war bombed Copenhagen, Denmark.

The targets of the afternoon raid by fleet Mosquito bombers of the RAF were the submarine Diesel engine works of Burmeinster and Wain, shipbuilders, in the Danish capital which are working for Germany. This attack followed night raids by the bomber and coastal commands on the submarine pens at Lorient on the French coast and Bordeaux, farther to the south.

The co-ordinated night and day raids, concentrating on U-boat nests and factories, were the first lightning blows after the announcements that a 1943 pattern for world conflict had been fashioned at Casablanca by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Stockholm dispatches said four persons were killed in Copenhagen, the failure to bomb which had been a matter of speculation in the House of Commons only yesterday.

On Grand Scale, Expected to Become Routine

Although Danish targets such as Aarhus and Aalborg had been bombed previously, Copenhagen was spared up to today.

The Mosquitoes, flying low and fast, bombed the Copenhagen naval installations and saw many bursts among the targets. One Mosquito was lost.

The Fortress and Liberator raids on Germany were on the grand scale expected to become routine practice.

GO WITHOUT ESCORT

The heavily armed four-engine planes went on their missions without escort and found surprisingly little opposition.

Three of the big bombers failed to return, U. S. headquarters said, but "a number" of enemy planes were destroyed.

(Berlin claimed eight of the four-engined bombers were destroyed, and that defensive fire "frustrated a bombing attack on valuable objectives.")

Anti-aircraft fire was light and returning Yankee pilots declared: "It was a picnic. We caught them completely unawares."

JUST MISS FLEET

A sizeable fleet of German ships barely was missed by the American raiders. The vessels were spotted entering Wilhelmshaven just after the bomber force wheeled away from unloading their high explosives on the submarine fitting and harbor fixtures.

The full damage was obscured by a heavy cloud formation over the target which forced the bombers to unload quickly through a closing hole in the overcast.

The obviously heavy aerial wallop gave explosive emphasis to President Roosevelt's declaration to Congress recently in Washington that the United States would "hit them and hit them hard."

It also was a new fulfillment of the promises of Churchill and Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair that the air offensive would go on with mounting intensity.

In striking their first blow at the heart of the Axis in daylight, the American airmen extended their precision assaults which have proved effective in previous raids on the enemy-occupied continent.

Furthermore, the raid foreshadowed a round-the-clock Allied offensive against the Reich itself, with the Americans hitting by day and the RAF continuing their night forays.

British air sources, with unreserved enthusiasm for the new American initiative, asserted the raids were a sample of what could be expected night and day from British bases.

They said it was highly gratifying that the American offensive against Germany proper first went to work on the naval bases, since the U-boat peril was the greatest.

ONLY 7 PREVIOUS RAIDS

For their part the British sent coastal and bomber command planes 500 miles from home bases to the Bordeaux naval targets, which had been bombarded only seven times previously, although airdromes in the vicinity have been attacked more frequently. They last raided the submarine bases, docks, sidings and other installation for U-boat fittings on Sept. 19 and have maintained a constant patrol on submarine operations out in the Bay of Biscay.

Lorient, which has been subjected to American attacks by day and British attacks by night, in a preview of what apparently is in store for Germany herself, was bounded for an hour during the night, the Air Ministry news service said. Some pilots reported the defenses had been strengthened since their last trip.

Bombs, ranging up to two-ton block-busters, and incendiaries were dropped among the submarine pens of Lorient.

At a press conference held before the announcement of the first American air force raid on Germany, a commentator paid tribute to the previous daylight raidings of the Fortresses and Liberators, saying they had proved "very nasty to tackle" and undoubtedly would increase the headaches of the Luftwaffe.

He said that results of the recent RAF night raids on Berlin were not fully known because of bad photographic conditions, but that the Nazi acknowledgement of around 900 deaths was a fair indication of the scale of attack.

Duisberg Badly Crippled

Photographs an deyewitness reports obtained by intelligence agents confirmed that public transportation in Duisberg had been knocked out for about four days and factory output badly crippled due to destruction of a tramway depot and repair shops, he continued.

The pictures also showed six acres of the Duisberg cable factory were destroyed and another six and a half acres damaged.

The raid followed overnight forays in which the RAF set fires in the dock area of Lorient, Nazi U-boat base on the coast of France, and bombed the Gironde Estuary port of Bordeaux after a two-night lull in offensives over the continent.

The RAF has been over Germany 13 times this month. The industrial Ruhr Valley has been bombed nine times and Berlin twice, on the nights of January 16 and 17.

Naples was bombed last night, an Italian communique reported today in a Rome broadcast recorded here by the Associated Press.

Messina, on Sicily, also was reported bombed yesterday morning and last night by four-engined bombers.

The Italians said the Naples raid was carried out at dawn today by a single plane, causing some damage.

BIG LIBERATORS JOIN POWERFUL DAYLIGHT RAID

First All-American Assault on Reich Is Aimed at Naval Base

WILHELMSHAVEN IS BLASTED

Three Bombers Lost in Battling Nazi Fighters but Foe Also Loses Aircraft.

By GLADWIN HILL

At a United States Bomber Base in England, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—In the war's first lightning stroke to follow the Allied strategy conference in North Africa, large flights of Flying Fortresses and Liberators, the two biggest types of American bombers, today made the first all-American raids on Germany proper.

They struck heavily at the Nazi submarine base of Wilhelmshaven and at the industrial area of Emden. In all three bombers were lost.

Returning flyers, most of whom were unscathed, piled out of their bombers and expressed surprise at the little resistance they had met with. The German anti-aircraft fire, encountered only when they were near the targets, was described as light and inaccurate.

"It was a picnic," they exclaimed. "We caught them completely unawares."

The raid brought from the RAF bomber command chief, Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, a special message of congratulation to the Eighth Bomber command on "this well planned, gallantly executed operation which opens a campaign the Germans have long dreaded...to them it is yet another sentence in the writing on the wall. Between us we can, and will bust Germany wide open."

The commander of one group of Flying Fortresses, Col. Curtis Lemay, Columbus, Ohio, said: "It went pretty well except that it was rather dull compared with some we've had. Given a bit of better weather we'll give 'em a show next time that will really mean something. As it was, we managed to get a large number of bombs on the target and near the vicinity."

The fliers included the first British soldier to go on an American raid, Maj. Errol R. T. Holmes, royal artillery flak expert doing liaison with the U. S. eighth air force. He said he was astonished by the precision of American formation flying. "It was absolutely tiptop, the Hun wouldn't come near us."

The main hindrance the crews met was extreme cold at high altitude over Germany, running to an estimated 35 below zero. One waist gunner froze his face so badly that his lips were bleeding.

A pilot and a co-pilot in one plane, alternating at the controls, sat on their hands to keep warm.

No official estimate of German losses can be made, but at least two Fortress crews believed they each shot three German planes. Two more crews were sure they each got two enemy planes.

The Flying Fortress named "Carter and His Little Pills" piloted by Capt. J. W. Carter, Lawton, Okla., which has weathered 11 raids without a scratch, was attacked on both sides by two German fighter planes. The fighters were nailed simultaneously by Engineer Sgt. S. A. Kirk, Lincoln, Neb., left waist gunner, and Sgt. R. A. Livengood, Butler, Pa.

Another Flying Fortress, Devil's Playmate, piloted by Lt. [illegible] Benson, Anguilla, Miss., which was said to have been the last to leave Germany, also claimed two planes shot down by Top Turret Gunner Sgt. Howard Jones, Wellsville, Utah, and Ball Turret Gunner Sgt. James F. Byrd, Baltimore, Md.

Three Focke Wulfs were claimed by the Flying Fortress Royal Flush, piloted by Lt. Harold Beasley, Andalusia, La., Sgt. James Farrer, Talala, Okla., said he saw a German plane go down after hit by bullets from his gun. Another enemy plane was hit by Navigator Lt. Everett, Clinard, Jr., Rantoul, Ill., and a third by Tail Gunner Sgt. Henry Streets, Dry Fork, W. Va.

The Fortress Connecticut Yankee, piloted by Lt. James Verinis, New Haven, Ct., was another three-bagger. The sharpshooters were Ball Turret Gunner Sgt. Hoy Smith, Indianapolis, Ind., Turret Gunner Sgt. Lawrence Murray, Linden, N. J., and Tail Gunner Sgt. Virgil Burgan, Kansas City, Mo.

One of the minor disappointments of the raid came to Waist Gunner Sgt. Donald Bevan, 23, of Springfield, Mass., former New York News artist who before the tafe-off had carefully labelled all the bombs, "Your Always—Teddy," the nickname of his fiance, Gloria Naiswald of Tenafly, N. J. Something went wrong with the bomb release mechanism, the Fortress was sent to the shop and the crew assigned to another ship.

The raid created a hirsute problem for Squadron Leader Col. Frank Armstrong of Asheville, N. C. On taking over the squadron he swore not to shave his beard until he brought the Fortress crew back safe from the raid. He did that in his last raid, but let the beard grow, anyway. He repeated the feat today, and now is afraid to shave the beard off in fear of breaking the spell.

Precision Flying Praised

The flyers included the first British soldier to go on an American raid, Major Errol R. T. Holmes, Royal Artillery flak expert doing liaison with the United States Eighth Air Force. He said he was astonisehd by the precision of American formation flying. "It was absolutely tiptop, the Hun wouldn't come near us."

Major Holmes flew in the fortress "Butch," piloted by Lieut. R. A. Saunders, of Youngstown, Ohio. The copilot was Lieut. P. R. Burnett, of Baltimore, and the navigator Lieut. E. W. Quillman.

The main hindrance the crews encountered was extreme cold at high altitude over Germany, running to an estimated 35 below zero. One waist gunner froze his face so badly that his lips were bleeding.

Nazi Bomb Load Exceeds Britain's

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—The weight of bombs of all kinds dropped on Germany proper by the RAF now total more than the Luftwaffe has poured down on Britain, an RAF commentotor said today.

The addition of this total to the loads delivered by RAF and United States bombers on targets in occupied Europe makes the over-all weight heavily in favor of the Allies, with the prospects that the books will be still further overbalanced during the coming months, he added.

Churchill Again Absent From Commons Session

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill was absent again from the House of Commons session today. Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee answering a question addressed to the Prime Minister, said it "would not be in the interests of the United Nations" to make a statement on U-boat attacks against Allied shipping in an open session of Parliament.

"I am aware of the general desire on both sides of the Atlantic, not excluding the German Reich, for more precise information on this subject," Mr. Attlee said.

MARSEILLES SIEGE GROWING TIGHTER

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The state of siege at Marseilles has been intensified, Reuters reported today in a dispatch from Zurich.

Reuters dispatches from Switzerland last night quoted reports that 170 men and eighty women had been shot at Marseilles as violators of the state of siege regulations, imposed by Vichy following German orders for clearing the old port section of the city.

All public establishments in the city have been closed and the streets are ordered kept clear after 9 P. M., today's dispatch said.

2 NAZI GENERALS SENT TO BALKANS

JAN 27 1943

Stockholm, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Adolf Hitler is reported in usually well-informed quarters here to have sent two trusted aids—Gen. Fritz Erich von Mannstein and Col.-Gen. Baron Maximilian von Weichs—into the Balkans, apparently to organize defenses against the possible opening of a front in southeastern Europe.

Mannstein is thoroughly familiar with the Balkans because of previous activities there. It was he who commanded the German forces which reduced Sevastopol, but the Russians defeated his troops in the final stages of the Stalingrad offensive. Von Weichs was one of the leaders in the battles of Bryansk and Vyazma on the Moscow front late in 1941.

Since the rout of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in Libya and the Allied landings in French North Africa, the Germans have shown nervousness about the Balkans, and there have been recent reports from Ankara that reinforcements are arriving there.

Nazis Mobilizing Boys 15 to 19

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 27 (AP).—The Berlin correspondent of the Italian newspaper "Il Corriere della Sera," of Milan, reported today that Nazi authorities will mobilize all boys from fifteen to nineteen years old. The correspondent said the boys will be assigned tasks of secondary importance, to release older soldiers for combat service.

RYTI WOULD REGAIN FRIENDSHIP OF U. S.

A broadcast from Helsinki reported today that President Risto Ryti expressed the hope at the final session of Finland's 1942 Parliament that friendly relations might be restored between Finland and the United States.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said that in the same speech President Ryti declared that last year Finland's fight with Russia had been purely defensive, that a state of virtually stationary warfare had resulted. Of the United States he was quoted as saying:

"Those delicate conditions which have come from our being forced to continue our defensive fight against the Soviet Union, whose ally the United States now is, and which have come from the fact that Germany and her European allies at war with the Soviet Union are also at war with the United States have unfavorably influenced our relations with the United States.

"Consular relations between our countries are broken. . . . Diplomatic relations, however, still continue, and we for our part warmly hope that our relations with the United States will again become as good and full of confidence as they have always fundamentally been."

Allied Leaders Start to Put Global Strategy Into Effect

Military Chiefs Close Session to Execute Concerted War Plans Agreed Upon by Roosevelt and Churchill.

JAN 27 1943

Casablanca, French Morocco, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—A master war plan for 1943, aimed at forcing the unconditional surrender of Germany, Japan and Italy, has been mapped in a historic ten-day conference among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and a score of top-flight military and supply leaders, and today the Allied heads had separated to put their global strategy into active and concerted execution.

President Roosevelt, breaking more traditions, flew 5,000 miles for the meeting that began on January 14 and ended last Sunday with a press conference on the sunny lawn of a villa in Casablanca's outskirts near the Atlantic breakers through which American troops stormed ashore last November.

Mr. Churchill also flew to the rendezvous which found Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, and Gen. Henri Giraud, French North African High Commissioner, getting together for negotiations to put a French army, navy and air force into the field for powerful blows against the Axis.

Working day and night, the President and Prime Minister were attended by virtually the entire war staffs of both nations, including all the service heads, and they reached complete agreement on their objectives, it was announced.

Stalin Kept Advised.

Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China were kept advised of the progress and results of the conference which outwitted Nazi spies based in adjacent Spanish Morocco.

Here are the highlights of the conference which Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, in a Sunday summary, agreed was unprecedented and will affect the course of the war:

1. Military and civil leaders of both nations agreed on a 1943 plan designed to retain the initiative in every war theater.

2. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, perhaps in anticipation of Axis peace feelers, agreed that peace can come only through unconditional surrender of the three major Axis partners.

3. Gens. Giraud and de Gaulle met for the first time under sponsorship of the President and Prime Minister to negotiate for an effective union of their two forces.

Offered to Meet Stalin.

4. Premier Stalin was kept informed. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt disclosed they had offered to meet the Russian leader—whose armies have dealt such prodigious blows to the Germans—at a point "very much further to the east." But it was pointed out that because of the big Red Army winter offensive Premier Stalin was unable to leave the country. The two Allied leaders also communicated with Chiang Kai-shek and "have apprised him of the measures which they are taking to assist him in China's magnificent and unrelaxing struggle for the common cause."

5. Maximum material aid to Russia and China will be one of the prime aims of the United States and Britain.

The conferences were held at a small hotel in Casablanca's suburbs under the greatest secrecy. Those participating engaged a cluster of nearby villas for living quarters and the area was guarded heavily by United States troops and was surrounded by barbed wire.

Mr. Churchill flew from Britain in an American four-motored Liberator bomber, the same aircraft he used for his August trip to Cairo and Moscow. Capt. William Vanderkloot of Sarasota, Fla., and the same crewmen of the previous flight, again were recruited.

Aside from the fact that he flew across the Atlantic, details of the President's trip still have not been disclosed.

Churchill Arrives First.

Mr. Churchill arrived first. When the President landed he dispatched Harry Hopkins, chairman of the British-American Munitions Assignment Board, to Mr. Churchill's villa, and the Prime Minister returned with him to begin the talks.

The first one began at 7 o'clock the night of January 14 and lasted until 3 A. M. the next day. Military bigwigs participated, as did the field commanders of both nations charged with smashing the Axis-held strip of Tunisia preparatory to opening a possible second front on the underside of Europe.

President Roosevelt received correspondents in the red-flowered garden of his villa Sunday afternoon while American fighters and R. A. F. Spitfires hummed overhead protectingly.

WAAC Leader Present.

The only woman present was WAAC Capt. Louise Anderson of Denver, a stenographer from Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

First to arrive was Mr. Hopkins and the President's son, Lieut. Col. Elliott Roosevelt, who is stationed in Africa.

Then Generals de Gaulle and Giraud appeared from the President's quarters, followed by President Roosevelt himself, clad in a light gray suit and with the usual cigarette holder. Hovering in the background was the President's envoy to North Africa, Robert Murphy, who did valuable contact work with the French before the Allied invasion.

Mr. Churchill, smoking a cigar and dressed in a dark gray suit then appeared.

Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle shook hands for the benefit of the correspondents, then retired, as the conference got under way.

Then, with Mr. Churchill nodding assent, President Roosevelt said the ten-day conference had ended in complete agreement on 1943 plans to bring about the unconditional surrender of the Axis. This did not mean, the President said, the destruction of the populations of Germany, Japan, and Italy, but it did mean the smashing of the philosophy of these countries based on conquest and reigns of terror.

Here Mr. Churchill interjected: "Hear, hear," as if he were home attending a parliamentary session.

In emphasizing the aim of the Allied High Command, the President suggested that the entire meeting be called "the unconditional surrender" conference, and recalled that Gen. U. S. Grant had borne that nickname after defeating the Confederate armies.

Casablanca Spiked Hitler Peace Drive

MORIN

British See Trick Staved Off; Unified Command in Africa Expected

JAN 27 1943

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The 1943 world strategy conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca has forestalled a new German peace offensive, observers said today. Informed quarters believed the immediate result is likely to be announcement of an over-all command for the impending battle of Tunisia.

An unofficial American source reported that full agreement was reached at Casablanca on a commander to take charge of British forces driving from the east and British, American and French armies in Tunisia.

A Royal Air Force commentator added that early announcement also was expected on plans to coordinate the efforts of Allied air forces in Libya, Malta and Tunisia, all of which are hammering at the same targets.

More Developments Expected

While parts of the British press obviously had expected disclosure of more concrete results toward establishment of a United Nations war council for all theaters and a French unity, members of Parliament expressed confidence that developments of the utmost importance soon would become evident.

Political observers said indications that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler would offer a compromise peace, as part of his 1943 plans had been multiplying for a month. Unconfirmed but persistent reports said his proposals were to be made through non-belligerent Spain and would contain an offer to withdraw from western Europe while retaining territories occupied in Poland, Russia and the Balkans.

Thus the Casablanca declaration that the United Nations would be satisfied with nothing short of the unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan was viewed as having smashed this peace offensive before it could even get started.

JAN 27 1943

Wave of Hope Foreseen.

It was expected also that the conference's clear statement that the United Nations have completed their strategy for a series of smashing blows and are now getting ready to implement it would spread a new wave of hope among the enslaved peoples of Europe. Representatives of the Allied governments said new outbreaks of sabotage and general resistance to the Germans were almost certain.

The biggest cloud over the conference was the failure to reconcile the two main elements of French resistance in a more striking fashion. It was understood on good authority that General Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, will continue to direct the armed forces under his command. Circles close to him said he was disappointed with the lack of results of his meeting with General Henri Giraud, leader of the North and West African French.

Fraser Says Conference Discussed War in Pacific

Promise of More Aid to China Cheers New Zealand

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP).—Wellington dispatches commenting on the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting, quoted Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand as saying it was clear that the Pacific situation had been thoroughly discussed and that his country cheered with delight the promise to send Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek the support he needed for his Chinese armies.

Rio De Janeiro dispatches said that satisfaction was reflected in Brazil and that there was general speculation whether the 1943 plans included the sending of Brazilian troops to the African front.

In Sweden it was reported that the conference dominated the headlines, and the Stockholm "Aftonbladet," which leans somewhat to the Axis side, commented that the meeting was the "signal for a new attack in Tunisia."

Berlin Stresses Stalin's Absence From Casablanca as Significant

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP).—Axis reaction to the Roosevelt-Churchill conference appeared today with loud and vehement assertions at first that it was a mere "Hollywood bigwig powwow" but switched later to more serious discussions.

The Berlin radio quoted Dr. Paul Schmidt, Foreign Office political spokesman, as summing up his reaction in five points:

First, he said, he noted the absence of Premier Josef V. Stalin of Russia and therefore assumed that he (Stalin) "obviously had not the slightest intention of having his freedom of political action curtailed in any way or of wishing to disclose his military and political plans to Roosevelt or Churchill."

Second, the conference failed to demonstrate that British and American differences over North Africa had been dispelled.

Third, he continued, "Roosevelt had demonstrated to the world he had taken possession of French North Africa." This he had done, Schmidt said, by leaving his own country "which a President is not supposed to do," and by summoning General Henri Honore Giraud before him.

Fourth, he added, there had been "no real agreement" between General Giraud and General Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader.

"contained not a single reference to the U-boat warfare."

The Rome radio said the fact that the conference had lasted ten days demonstrated the difficulties under which the Allies labor.

Japanese Offer Version

The Tokio radio, in a Japanese-language broadcast beamed at North America yesterday, gave its version of the conference at Casablanca, stating that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill held a meeting "from the standpoint of trying somehow to win the favor of public opinion within the nation in both America and Britain."

The broadcast was reported by the Office of War Information and was quoted further to the effect that "there have been no definite announcements other than of extremely irrelevant topics of discussion." The Tokio announcer said the President and the Prime Minister had been in very low spirits "ever since the beginning of the greater East Asia war."

"It is said that mention is made only of empty consultations, such as that the anti-Axis forces will maintain a position of leadership in the war situation to the end, or that until the anti-Axis forces achieve victory they will not make peace," the Japanese speaker went on.

London Waits Announcement of Over-all Command for Tunisia.

AIR CO-ORDINATOR IS LIKELY

JAN 27 1943

Unified Authority Over Theater of War in North Africa Is Believed Impending.

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The belief that an announcement of a command set-up for the battle of Tunisia would be the first major strategic result of the Casablanca conference to be made public—and in a few days—was accepted widely here tonight in informed quarters. An unofficial American source reported that full agreement on an over-all command was reached at the conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in French Morocco.

A Royal Air Force commentator later said that an early announcement was expected on arrangements to co-ordinate the efforts of Allied air forces hitting Tunisian targets.

Members of Parliament expressed confidence that developments of the utmost importance would appear—and unexpectedly soon—from the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

Buoyant and good natured, they expected to hear an early report of the trip from the Prime Minister, although he probably will be unable to divulge the vital strategic decisions which were reached.

Praise for Roosevelt.

Members praised Mr. Roosevelt's courage in making the journey, and many suggested that he visit Britain.

New hope surged throughout Britain as the ringing demand for unconditional surrender of the Axis and the promise of a co-ordinated, smashing campaign in 1943 reached this war-bound island.

Following closely the tremendous lift provided by the great Russian victories and the destruction of Mussolini's African empire, the reports from Casablanca were taken as assurance that plans were ready to follow up these victories completely and unstintingly.

Press Disappointment.

Some sections of the press expressed disappointment that there was no mention in the Roosevelt-Churchill communique of a further unifying of the command, but it was generally believed the communique covered many untold decisions and that the greatest surprises were still in store.

Full agreement presumably was reached at the conference on the clarification of the command in Africa and may be disclosed soon it, was learned in military circles here. There was no immediate indication as to what formula was adopted.

Most Americans here were inclined to believe that Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would retain over-all control in Tunisia, working closely with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery when the latter's British Eighth Army moves into this theater.

May Call in Alexander.

But it would be no great surprise if Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander in chief of the British Armies in the Middle East, were called in and Gen. Eisenhower returned to Britain to participate in planning for the European offensive.

A system also was reported worked out for co-ordinated control of aerial assaults on the Axis Tunisian forces by the Allied forces based in Tunisia, Malta and Tripolitania.

There was no attempt in some quarters to conceal the disappointment over the failure of the French factions headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Honore Giraud to arrive at a more clear cut agreement. But it was felt that at least some headway had been made in bringing them together and an open break, which could have put in jeopardy the military campaign in Tunisia, had been averted.

Offensive Is Expected.

Military observers said that while it was natural to expect that an offensive to drive the Axis out of Tunisia would be among the first moves, it was also logical to assume that the two leaders and their staffs of military experts had made plans for the long-awaited attack on the continent of Europe.

This offensive, they said, might be expected sooner than was thought possible a few months ago.

The risky 5,000-mile flight by President Roosevelt to the war zone, virtually within walking distance of German-in Spanish Morocco, hardly would have been justified by the muddled French political situation or any routine military maneuver, these observers, who could not be named, said. They assumed that military strategy far into the future had been mapped.

Big Events Predicted.

The Daily Mail interpreted the communique as inferring that "tremendous events are on the move and may break in the near future."

The Laborite Daily Herald said: "'Two countries' are too prominent in the communique to satisfy those of us who hoped that as a result of the conference machinery for uninterrupted collaboration between the Western and Eastern Allies was set up and in motion."

Said the News Chronicle:

"People are bound to ask why it is necessary for the heads of the United States and British governments to take the very real risks involved in visiting North Africa in order to discuss strategic plans for 1943."

The Daily Express, however, recalled the Roosevelt-Churchill meetings more than a year ago and said: "Great results and great victories followed these meetings. Yet mightier issues depend upon the Casablanca meeting. We have reached the end of the beginning."

Times View of Conference.

The Times said:

"Allied leadership traveled far indeed from those frantic expedients of desperate men which occupied the last moments of the Supreme War Council in Paris. Now the men of Casablanca are able to prepare their plans with authority, knowing it is in their power to dictate to the enemy the pattern of the coming war."

The timing of the conferences was perfect, observers pointed out, coming when Hitler's propagandists were striking a gloomy note to prepare the German people for setbacks in Russia and exhorting them to show the courage displayed by the Russians and British.

While the British people, going ahead with the fourth year of war, were given a new glow of confidence by the spectacular meeting, there was no belief in informed quarters that the war was coming to an easy and victorious conclusion in the early future.

Informed sources expressed the opinion that the question of an over-all command for continental operations had been disclosed, if not settled finally, and that some progress probably was made toward the creation of a permanent council for the exchange of information and ideas between the Allied armies.

De Gaulle-Giraud Gap Still Unbridged, Is London View

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Lack of concrete details of the announced agreement between Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Henri Honore Giraud at Casablanca was taken in political circles here today as meaning the meeting had failed to bridge the fundamental differences between them, but the French National Committee announced the "exchange of views" would be continued.

In a statement issued after a meeting with Gen. de Gaulle on his return, the committee said it had been decided at the Casablanca conference that "the necessary liaisons should be established immediately."

"New Situation" Cited.

The conversations took into account the "new situation" in French North and West Africa, the committee said, and then it added:

"Exchanges of views on this subject will be continued. Complete union of empire and armed forces in conjunction with the movement of resistance in France, to be accomplished under conditions consonant with the will and dignity of the French people, remains the immutable aim of Gen. de Gaulle and the National Committee."

Since there was no evidence of achievement either of political fusion or a working military agreement at Casablanca, political sources said it appeared each group would retain its separate status, working together as allies beneath the broad umbrella of British-American sponsorship, but without any coincidence of political views.

JAN 27 1943

Gen. de Gaulle will continue to direct the Fighting French and preside at his National Council, and Gen. Giraud will remain head of the North African forces and civil administration, they said.

Plans for Liaison.

It was understood on good authority that Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud will exchange representatives, each having practically the status of an ambassador to create a liaison.

It was considered likely that Gen. Georges Catroux, who is the best diplomat of the Fighting French, would be sent to North Africa as Gen. de Gaulle's representative.

Gen. de Gaulle was understood to have made a full report on the North African conference to the National Council in a session lasting all of yesterday afternoon.

Gen. De Gaulle has consistently declared he would never compromise on any of three principles which he considers pre-requisite to unification of all French forces outside France:

Repudiation of the Vichy regime, reaffirmation that the French Republic has never ceased to exist, and organization of a temporary provisional French government based on the laws of the French Republic.

Would Mean Dismissals.

He was believed to have adhered to this position at the conference. Gen. Giraud's adoption of Gen. De Gaulle's principles would mean the immediate dismissal of such officials as Marcel Peyrouton, Gen. Auguste Nogues and Gov. Gen. Pierre Boisson.

Since there is no indication that these and other members of Gen. Giraud's administration will be removed, it is assumed that Gen. Giraud refused to meet Gen. De Gaulle's terms.

It was understood that representatives of the American and British governments left the solution of these questions entirely in the hands of the two French leaders, after the Anglo-American views on them had first been clearly delineated at a full session. Thereafter the two generals met privately, for the problem of the United States and Britain was mainly military.

The cleavages between the French leaders were mainly political. They issued a statement stressing only their declaration that the destruction of the Axis was their common goal.

Disappointment Evident.

Extreme disappointment was plainly evident in the headquarters of the fighting French following Gen. de Gaulle's conference with his council members.

It was recalled that when the Fighting French condemned the arrangement with Admiral Jean Darlan, it was said that an agreement could be reached with Gen. Giraud.

Gen. De Gaulle himself issued a statement that he was "honored and happy to meet President Roosevelt in Africa."

The statement continued: "His (the President's) friendship for France is a particularly comforting factor in the struggle which the French people are waging against the enemy within and without its territory. It is an equal satisfaction to me to have been able to renew conversations on this occasion with the British Prime Minister."

Believe Meeting Failed.

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The lack of concrete details in the announced agreement between Gens. Charles De Gaulle and Henri Giraud at Casablanca was taken in political circles here today as meaning the meeting had failed to bridge the fundamental differences between them, but the French National Committee announced the "exchanges of views" would be continued.

De Gaulle and the national committee."

Since there was no evidence of achievement either of political fusion or a working military agreement at Casablanca, political spokesmen said that it appeared each group would retain its separate status, working together as allies beneath the broad umbrella of British-American sponsorship, but without any coincidence of political views.

Catroux May Be Chosen.

It was considered likely that Gen. Georges Catroux, who is the best diplomat of the Fighting French, would be sent to North Africa as De Gaulle's representative.

De Gaulle was understood to have made a full report on the North African conference to the national council in a session lasting the entire afternoon yesterday.

GEN. GIRAUD SEES GREAT RESULTS NOW FOR FRANCE

Asserts Exchange of Views With De Gaulle Will Be Continued.

SEES PERMANENT LIAISON

London Believes Catroux May Be Sent to North Africa to Represent Fighting French.

Algiers, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—A communique from the headquarters of Gen. Henri Giraud declared today that "substantial results have been obtained for France" in the ten-day meeting of Allied leaders at Casablanca.

"On the occasion of this conference," the communique said, "Gen. Giraud met Gen. de Gaulle.

"This personal contact permitted the first examination of the conditions under which the French effort in the war of liberation might be organized.

"Exchanges of views will be continued on this subject. It has been decided henceforth to establish permanent liaison."

French Still Allies.

The United Nations, the communique said, have recognized in France "an ally who has never ceased to fight, by continuing the battle abroad or preparing to take up the battle anew in her territory. Her action in Tunisia is a manifestation of her will to free her territory."

Among the important military agreements reached at the conference was one granting priority to the French African forces on modern armaments indispensable to them, the communique said.

Completion of arrangements, at home and abroad, for a "permanent defense of French interests" was one of the fruits of the talks, it was said.

POLITICAL NEWS FREED IN AFRICA

Eisenhower Lifts Ban With Four Exceptions.

By WES GALLAGHER.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower relaxed censorship of political news from North Africa today.

It was stated officially that heavy political censorship had been needed to date so that negotiations between the Fighting French leader, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, and the French commander in North Africa, Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, would not be disrupted before they were started.

The new announcement laid down this censorship policy:

Deletions will be made in articles which (1) violate military security; (2) tend to promote disunity between British and American forces; (3) overemphasize political persecution of those who claim to be friends of the Allies, and (4) are inflammatorily inaccurate.

The new policy does not change censorship of purely military articles in any way.

The day before the invasion started Gen. Eisenhower told correspondents that they have the status of "quasi members" of his staff, to be told everything going on and only restricted in sending it if censors decided that the material helped the enemy.

Repercussions Heard.

This policy has been followed throughout and military censorship probably has been lighter than in any other war theater. The policy has been so free that in some cases it has drawn reprimands from high authorities in Washington and London.

During November and early December virtually a complete stop was put on political writing and only gradually has the lid been lifted.

The situation at first was complicated by divisions of authority among the civilian psychological warfare department, the Allied staff and the military censors.

While military censors did actual censoring of articles, psychological warfare representatives from the State Department, British Foreign Office and the United States Office of War Information, told censors what could be passed and what stopped.

Both censorship and psychological warfare now are centralized under one section headed by a brigadier-general.

The only political restrictions remaining arise from reports on the arrests made following the assassination of the French Admiral, Jean Darlan. Some of those taken into custody claimed to have helped Allied landings, but most of the responsible authorities of the Allied force said that they never heard of them before.

Some commentators, in the official view, distorted the status of those arrested.

Full Accord Distant.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Two warriors whose ardent objectives are to fight the Axis, liberate France and free the remainder of the German-dominated world have faced each other across a council table and all they had to show today was a communique which told how they felt about it.

One was Gen. Henri Giraud, the politics-hating North African High Commissioner who escaped from German prisons in the first world war and the present conflict and refused to capitulate to Vichy collaboration.

The other was Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, who is chary of politics but is adamant in a stand that France as a republic never has ceased to exist—and never will.

Their meeting, long considered inevitable but long delayed, was pushed into being by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill as one of the facets of the Allied strategy conference in North Africa.

Had Two-Day Talk.

For two days the two generals talked. And at the end of their talks they issued an official communique which said:

"We have met. We have talked. We have registered entire agreement on the end to be achieved, which is the liberation of France and the triumph of human liberties by the defeat of the enemy.

"This end will be attained by union in war of all free Frenchmen fighting with by side with all allies."

There was no word as to who would lead those Frenchmen, or how the end was to be achieved.

Well-informed persons said that if the two generals reach any definite settlement, it will be a long, tedious process.

Accord Held Vital.

It was regarded in North Africa as certain that the two generals realize they must reach an accord, that deep down they know they must pull together or fail, that overriding all other considerations is their hope to free France.

To questions of the administration of North Africa are added factors that there are officials of every stripe of opinion in each leader's camp and that Gen. De Gaulle, no matter what his following is in France, has less than 10 per cent of the population of North Africa behind him.

A wholesale housecleaning would cause a virtual collapse of essential services in North Africa. There would be civil disorders, and there would be a violent upheaval in the French Army, for 90 per cent of its officers hate Gen. De Gaulle because of his role in the Syria and Dakar campaigns.

Offered to Oust Officials.

Before his death, Admiral Jean Darlan offered to oust any official requested by the Allies if the Allies could offer a qualified substitute for the post, acceptable to the public.

No advantage was taken of this offer, testimony to the lack of able men.

The appointment of Marcel Peyrouton as Governor-General of Algeria is cited as the most recent case in point. Observers said that he had the sole qualification of being an able administrator. He was a Rightist and he had held posts under the Vichy regime.

It is stated here that the United States State Department, and not Lieut.-Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, had him shifted to Algeria from his post as Vichy Ambassador to Argentina, and Robert Murphy, the United States Minister to French North Africa, has been Peyrouton's chief supporter.

The British Foreign Office knew of Peyrouton's coming role. It did not object. But there has been no political housecleaning since he took office, nor is it considered that there is likely to be.

Stalin Gets Note From Roosevelt And Churchill

Soviet Radio Tells Union Details of Casablanca Parley

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Jan. 27 (AP).—Admiral William H. Standley, U. S. ambassador, and W. Lacy Baggallay, British charge d'affaires, called at the Kremlin today and handed Premier Stalin a joint note from President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

At the same time the Soviet radio was informing the people of the details of the Casablanca conference. Previously only the official communique from Casablanca had been read over the radio.

MILITARY PLANS

Admiral Standley refused to discuss what was in the note or even say if he knew what it contained, but it was learned it related to military plans.

Their conference with Stalin lasted half an hour. Questioned afterward as to whether the Soviet leader seemed pleased with the note, the ambassador said: "He's a placid man. He doesn't get excited easily."

But he said Stalin seemed overjoyed at the news from Stalingrad and about the success of the Red army over the encircled Germans.

Asked if Stalin seemed more pleased over this news than over the note, the ambassador laughed guardedly and replied, "Well, it is hard to say about him. He doesn't get very excited, you know."

He described the premier as "very serious" and showing "he's had a busy month.

By this, he added, he did not mean to imply that Stalin looked in bad health, but merely had the appearance of a very busy man with much responsibility.

Stalin "Fully Informed"

Reminded that foreign broadcasts had given the impression that Stalin had been kept up to the minute on details of the Casablanca conference, he referred reporters to the communique issued in North Africa, which said merely that Stalin had been "fully informed of the military proposals."

30-24-657

Ambassador Standley said Stalin was smoking a pipe when he received the envoys.

"A peace pipe?" one reporter asked flippantly.

No, by thunder," said the ambassador. "He was smoking a war pipe."

Asked if he could discuss whether any progress was being made toward a supreme Allied command which would include the Soviet Union and China, Ambassador Standley said he personally knew nothing about such a project and personally did not think it would work.

"When you begin talking about general staffs conducting wars which are taking place all over the world," he continued, "it is difficult for me to conceive of a staff which could assimilate and make the decisions covering all phases."

A former Chief of Naval Operations himself, Admiral Standley said: "I think things as they are now come about as near as they can to this idea of assigning areas of responsibility."

This was the ambassador's first conference with Stalin since he returned to Moscow from a visit to America early in January. He said the Casablanca conference had nothing to do with his comparatively speedy return to Russia.

President had sweet potatoes, beans, coffee and white bread. He ate out of a messkit just like everybody else.

All I heard him say was "this is really good ham."

After lunch buck privates and colonels who had received the Silver Star and the Purple Heart for gallantry walked up and shook hands with the President.

The proudest soldier of the day was Sgt. Oran E. Lass, of Kansas City, Mo., who was picked to pilot the President's jeep.

"He's just the swell kind of a guy I though he would be," Lass said.

The next stop was a large field where a whole division was waiting to pass in review.

This show would have given Goering and Goebbels goose pimples.

It was a long drive from this point to Port Lyautey, the scene of three day's fighting, where the President laid a wreath on the graves of the men who fought and died there.

On the way back rains came, but rain or no rain, the "Dogfaces" lined the road to get a glimpse of their big boss.

As the President's car passed one happy soldier yelled:

"I saw him! He waved at me!"

Which was exactly the way we all felt.

tical discussion, were the most favorable developments in North Africa today in the wake of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

A communique from the headquarters of General Giraud, North African High Commissioner, hailed the conference as having gained "substantial results" for France, and said personal contact with General de Gaulle of the Fighting French had "permitted the first examination of the conditions under which the French effort in the war of liberation might be organized."

"Exchanges of views will be continued on this subject," the announcement added. "It has been decided henceforth to establish permanent liaison."

(London dispatches said Ambassadors will be exchanged, and that Gen. Georges Catroux will be de Gaulle's representative in North Africa.)

Although de Gaulle and Giraud are agreed that they want to rescue their homeland from the invader, their difficulties include these:

There are officials of every stripe of opinion in each camp.

Although de Gaulle's following in France is known to be large, it is estimated to be less than ten per cent. of the population in North Africa.

A wholesale purge of Vichyites in North Africa, demanded by de Gaulle, would cause a virtual collapse of Government services.

Perhaps ninety per cent. of French army officers in North Africa cannot forget de Gaulle's part in the Syrian and Dakar campaigns, where he aided the British in attacking forces loyal to Vichy.

The Allied conference on North African soil caught almost all residents by surprise and created more corners discussing the political developments than there were around the craters left by the departing raiders.

The newspapers were filled with the theme, and one, the afternoon Dernieres, jubilantly declared that the "Casablanca meeting is the most important event in French history since June, 1940." The newspapers had their largest scale in months.

The relaxing of the political censorship by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, had several noticeable results in the press.

The Nernieres Nouvelles, commenting on Gen. de Gaulle more favorably than the rest, said "we find in the tone of the joint declaration, made by the hero in whose hands we have placed the destiny of French Africa and the soldier who refused to give up the fight in 194, a singleness of purpose and hope."

De Gaulle And Stalin Mentioned

Until today any mention of de Gaulle had been forbidden in the Algiers press.

The newspaper Echo also broke North African precedent by praising Joseph Stalin of the Soviet Union, saying that although he could not attend, he was "represented at the conference with his bulletins of victory."

The Depeche Algerian, noted for its former pro-Axis views, said "another important point fixed by the conference is that the present Vichy Government ceases to be considered the legal government in France. . . . Owing to this fact General Giraud is invested with supreme power to manage French interests up to the moment when France is restored to liberty."

without a fight, is considered here as symbolical of American imperialism," the official German agency said.

The German-controlled Vichy radio called the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting "all bluff."

"The Anglo-Americans have given a sensational character to the report of the meeting," a Vichy broadcast said. "The British and Americans invaded French Africa without a declaration of war, like bandits, for the sole reason of exploiting our territory to their own benefit."

press conference that he had given a dinner for the Sultan of Morocco and his son, getting along extremely well with both, and concluded by saying that America was determined to aid French civilians in North Africa with food and clothing until they could recover from the stripping done by the Axis.

Collecting the signatures of all those attending the conference, President Roosevelt displayed what probably is one of the rarest autograph books in the world. He said he would send it to the Government Museum at Hyde Park, N. Y.

"I've been sitting here holding my breath, waiting for the news," she added. "It's terrific.

U.S. Recaptures Central Tunisia Pass From Axis

Americans Take Positions Flanking Rommel's Line of Retreat From Tripoli

JAN 27 1943

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP).—Amid signs that an offensive to drive Axis forces out of all North Africa may be near, the Allied North African command disclosed today the recapture by American troops of several central Tunisian positions where the enemy had sought to form a line to protect the flank of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreat into Tunisia from Libya.

Rommel, whose forces were strung out widely with some behind the Mareth Line, about sixty miles within Tunisia, was backtracking fast in the effort to join with Colonel General Jurgen von Arnim's Axis army in Tunisia, but an assertion by the German-controlled Paris radio that his advanced elements already had made the rendezvous were not confirmed in Allied quarters.

The British command in Cairo announced that the 8th Army had been in contact with Rommel's rear guards as early as yesterday somewhere west of Zauia, which is thirty miles beyond captured Tripoli—the first engagement reported in three days.

In Tunisia Allied announcements reported that a number of positions in the Ousseltia Valley and in the mountains to the east were being consolidated after they had been regained by the attacks of American troops, who went to the support of the French.

Allies Holding Key Pass

An Allied spokesman said: "Now we hold the Kairouan-Ousseltia Pass."

This was in the sector which had been the scene of the most menacing German advance, and one unofficial report from the front said American mechanized units, infantry and artillery had advanced five miles to occupy the pass.

A French headquarters communique issued tonight disclosed two of the areas in which the Americans were successful. North of Ousseltia, where it was said ac-

Sidelights of Strategy Talks

By the Associated Press.

At Sunday's Casablanca press conference President Roosevelt, looking fit in a light gray suit, jauntily smoked a cigarette as he talked. Prime Minister Churchill wore a gray striped suit with a diamond victory "V" in his lapel and a thin United States Distinguished Service Medal ribbon awarded him by Gen. John J. Pershing during the World War. Mr. Churchill was smoking his usual black cigar—when it wasn't out.

Both Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Honore Giraud wore French military uniforms as they posed with Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill for photographers. Gen. Giraud had a calm, composed face, and Gen. de Gaulle showed a faint, nervous smile. After they shook hands at the press conference they walked together into the villa, and the President called after them "Bon Voyage."

The grass on which the 30 correspondents had to squat was damp. But nobody complained. One veteran correspondent said it probably was the most informal international

When the Prime Minister suggested to the President that he should wear a soft felt hat like the Churchill headpiece the President replied that he had been born without one and didn't see any need for one now.

The Prime Minister at another point in the conference chuckled that Hitler had once said he had difficulty guessing the war plans of the Allies because they were made by "military idiots and drunkards." Hitler probably will offer a similar explanation for being caught napping by the landings in Africa, the Prime Minister said.

Mr. Churchill carried with him to Casablanca a personal message from King George VI to President Roosevelt.

Mr. Churchill, renowned seaman, ate food prepared and served by cooks and stewards of the British Navy while at Casablanca, although a hotel and a dozen villas had been requisitioned for those attending the conference.

"Freedom of speech was the order of the day" for Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill at Casablanca, the British Ministry of Information said in its account of the meeting. "Work came first, second and third and protocol nowhere at all."

Mrs. W. J. Vanderkloot, wife of Mr. Churchill's pilot on the flight to Casablanca, was waiting for some word from her husband in Montreal. When informed Capt. Vanderkloot had taken the Prime Minister on another trip she said: "Did he?—that's wonderful." She last heard from her husband some weeks before Christmas.

Mrs. John Ruggles, wife of Capt. Vanderkloot's co-pilot, also in Montreal, said she had a "sort of premonition" that the important announcement forecast by the newspapers would involve "another plane trip for Mr. Churchill."

SOMEWHERE IN MOROCCO, Jan. 27 (AP)—If anybody had told me last week that I would be watching President Roosevelt ride up in a jeep to an open-air mess hall near here I would have given him some black coffee and a cold shower and put him quietly to bed.

The road was lined thick with guards armed with tommy-guns, looking like they meant business. Then we drove past a line of tanks, trucks, ambulances and men, all stretched out as far as you could see.

Several fighter planes persistently circled the area, too, looking for something to worry about.

Mr. Roosevelt wore a gray suit, with black mourning band for his mother. He looked older and grayer than the last time I saw him, in New York.

It was chow time, and everybody sat down to eat. Besides ham, the Nazi Radio Calls African Talks 'Hollywood Bigwig Pow-Wow'

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—In the first Axis reaction to the Roosevelt-Churchill conference heard here, the German radio said today "it took 10 days to establish harmony between the Anglo-American government chiefs."

The announcer denounced the meeting as a "fourth-rate Hollywood bigwig pow-pow on the romantic shores of Africa."

DNB said it was "Roosevelt's desire to see the European nations bleed to death defending themselves against the Bolshevist hordes."

JAN 27 1943

The locale of the meeting was one of the war's best-kept secrets. Fifteen minutes after the start of broadcasts of the official communique in all languages, the German radio stations were still telling listeners that Mr. Churchill was in Washington.

The military code words used in the necessary messages concerning Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill before and during the meeting were "Admiral" for Roosevelt and "Commodore" for Churchill.

The President said at the Sunday

tion had become localized. U. S. ground units cleared the ground to a depth of from six to nine miles, while in the mountainous region east of Ousseltia the Americans aided French troops in making "definite advances" and in taking fifty Axis prisoners.

American and British forces were in contact with two German outposts, which obviously were fighting a delaying action, in the high mountain range of the Grande Dorsale running southwest from Point du Fahs.

American and British infantry met north of the Ousseltia Valley as they moved through the scrub-covered mountains to mop up the last elements remaining from last week's German thrust into Allied positions. Reports of small arms, ammunition and food abandoned at several points indicated the German departure was hurried and unplanned.

The French alone destroyed an Italian advanced post to the northeast of Pichon, the French communique said.

U. S. Flyers Hammer Sicily

Allied planes were handicapped by bad weather, but successful attacks on enemy-held railway communications were reported from Allied headquarters in North Africa, while from Cairo it was announced that Liberator bombers of the 9th United States Army Air Force had attacked Messina, Sicily, and that fighter aircraft had kept Rommel's retreating columns under attack.

Two Allied planes were lost during yesterday's operations in Tunisia, while two Axis bombers were destroyed when a small raiding force attacked the Algiers area. Two enemy fighter-bombers which attacked an Allied airfield in the Tunisian war zone also were destroyed.

At Cairo, on the other hand, British headquarters announced that "yesterday our troops were in contact with the enemy rear guards west of Zauia," which is thirty miles west of Tripoli, and roughly seventy miles east of the Tunisian frontier. The British communique said that Allied fighters kept the retreating Axis transport columns under heavy attacks in the vicinity of Zuara, halfway between Zauia and the border, and Liberators of the Ninth American Air Force were revealed to have carried the war again to Sicily yesterday, bombing Messina, just across the narrow strait from the toe of Italy.

American headquarters at Cairo also announced that American fighters on Monday continued bombing and strafing the retreating Axis columns in the Zuara area. Weather obscured the results of the Messina raid, this announcement added.

Paris Reports Junction of Two Big Axis Armies Inside Tunisian Border.

JAN 27 1943

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Allied offensives squeezed the Axis from both sides of the Tunisian front today, as American forces cracked through the German defenses in the Ousseltia valley and the British Eighth Army in Libya fought its way steadily toward the Tunisian border against Marshal Rommel's battered rear guard.

In a communique issued in North Africa, the Americans announced the capture of prisoners and places of tactical importance covering the important mountain pass between Kairouan and Ousseltia. They rolled the Nazis back through the rain-mired central Tunisian battle front from positions the enemy had last week wrested from the French. "These positions are being consolidated," an Allied headquarters spokesman said, and added: "Now we hold the Kairouan-Ousseltia pass."

Two Allied planes were lost during yesterday's aerial operations, the communique said, and two Axis bombers were destroyed when a small raiding force attacked the Algiers area. Two enemy fighter-bombers which attacked an Allied airfield in the Tunisian war zone also were destroyed.

Naples is Bombed.

From Italy, on the other hand, came word that Naples was bombed at dawn today. In a broadcast picked up in London by the Associated Press the Rome radio said that the attack was carried out by a single plane from a great altitude, and that some damage resulted.

The German-controlled Paris radio meanwhile reported that Rommel's men had managed to effect a junction with the forces of Gen. Jurgen von Arnim in Tunisia. This was the union the Allied leaders had expected in the area between Mareth, just south of the Gulf of Gabes, and Foum Tatahouine. It would place the Axis armies in the jaws of a trap being formed by the pursuers of Rommel and by the Allied forces driving toward the coast from at least two points in the interior of Tunisia.

The bulk of Rommel's army is believed to be now well inside the Tunisian frontier, and some of his forces may be established in the Mareth Line, which the British Eighth Army is approaching.

In a communique broadcast by the Rome radio, the Italian High Command today gave this account of land action on the North African front: "In western Tripolitania there were repeated encounters between armored formations. An attack supported by armored forces against our positions in a Tunisian sector was repulsed."

First Overseas Group of Waacs On Staff Duty With Eisenhower

Detachment in North Africa Represents 39 States and the District of Columbia

By Ruth Cowan

JAN 27 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 27 (AP).—The first detachment of the American Women's Army Auxiliary Corps to go overseas has arrived here to be part of the headquarters staff of Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of Allied forces in North Africa.

This first pioneer women's American expeditionary force is composed of picked stenographers, clerks, typists, bi-lingual telephone operators and girls capable of driving staff cars and light trucks. They represent thirty-nine states and the District of Columbia.

[A vanguard of five Waacs arrived at North African headquarters on Dec. 23. Among them was Captain Louise Anderson, of Denver, who served as stenographer at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Casablanca.]

They were brought over at the request of General Eisenhower, who was impressed, when in England, with the work British women in uniform were doing in taking over non-combatant military jobs to release men to fight.

After disembarking at a spot on the Mediterranean coast the Waacs, peppy and excited, their days of seasickness forgotten, were transported by plane across North Africa to a territory that the night before had had an air raid.

Captain Frances Marquis, forty-six years old, wife of a New York business man, is commanding officer of this first detachment sent overseas. On her staff are four other officers: Captain Evelyn B. Nicholson, twenty-nine, of St. Louis; Lieutenant Joan E. Jooften, thirty-six, of Houston, Tex.; Lieutenant Margaret Janeway, forty-six, medical officer, and Lieutenant Sylvia Marsili, twenty-five, of Pittsburgh.

The first Waac in this venture to set foot on African soil was First Sergeant Elaine Olmstead, twenty-seven, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Britain Sends Food To North Africa

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Large quantities of food and other materials have been sent for the United Nations from Britain to the civilian population of North Africa as an emergency measure, the ministry of production said today.

These supplies were marked with red, white and blue labels bearing American, British and French flags. The caption, in French, reads: "Delivered by the United Nations whose fleets rule the waves."

ACTRESS ENJOYS ALGIERS BOMBING

Algiers, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Algiers was raided by a small force of Axis bombers at dawn today in an attack which appeared timed for its psychological effect on the populace which had just learned of the victory-plans meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Casablanca. Bombs fell in widely scattered areas throughout the city and in apartment and residential sections.

If its purpose was psychological, the raid failed completely of its object. There were more small groups in the cafes and on street corners discussing the conferences of the Allied leaders than gathered around the bomb-struck areas.

The raiders came over singly at regular intervals despite an Allied anti-aircraft barrage which sent streamers of fire criss-crossing the sky. The crash of bombs mingled with the tinkle of falling shrapnel and the tooting of the French fire engines.

An unperturbed spectator was movie star Carole Landis, clad in a white negligee, who was impressed with "the lively fireworks display" of the ground defenses but paid no attention to the crashing bombs. Miss Landis is touring North Africa to entertain American soldiers.

CASABLANCA STORY ON AIR ALL DAY

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The Office of War Information started telling the world last night about the Roosevelt-Churchill Casablanca conference—and kept right on telling it today.

Through its short wave radio facilities, the OWI started breaking the news promptly at 10 o'clock, Eastern wartime, and hoped to have broadcast the story to every corner of the world in twenty-two languages by that time tonight, despite Axis efforts to jam the airwaves.

Most of the early broadcasts invaded Axis land as well as Allied territory, being transmitted in German, Italian and French as well as English.

Splitting its domestic radio facilities to fan around the globe, the OWI was ready at the zero hour to beam broadcasts directly to North Africa, southern and western Europe, Poland, Russia, South America, China, Japan and other points.

ATTEMPT ON NOGUES

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The Paris radio, in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press, reported today from Tangiers that an unsuccessful attempt had been made on the life of Gen. Auguste Nogues, French North African leader who is deputy for Gen. Henri Honore Giraud. No details were given.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 27 (AP)—The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded today by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation listening post here, said it was decided at the Casablanca conference that Gen. Henri Giraud is to be the "steward of French interests both in the metropolitan area and the empire until the time when the French people will again be able to exercise the franchise."

Welles Says Master State Of Hitler Is Now Doomed

Contrasts Pan-American Amity in Parleys Since 1889

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP).—Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, said today that the so-called master state created by Hitler is now "confronted with no alternative but that of unconditional surrender."

As a contrast to this dismal failure, Mr. Welles cited the voluntary comradeship of American republics which held their first Pan-American conference in 1889—the year Hitler was born—and now "can once more take the lead by being the first of the great regions of the world to attain for their people that higher general standard of living and of individual security of which an ordered and a free world is capable."

In an address at the Pan-American Union commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the death of James G. Blaine, Mr. Welles pointed out that it was Blaine who, as Secretary of State, first proposed in 1881 a conference of American states for the furtherance of inter-American peace and economic relationships.

SANCTUARY FOR JEWS

London, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—A delegation representing all parties in Parliament will ask the Government tomorrow to propose to the German Government that Jews be allowed to leave Nazi-occupied Europe on the ground that they are threatened with massacre.

JAN 27 1943

It will also propose that the British Government, Dominions and colonies, the United States and other Allied nations announce they will afford sanctuary to Jewish refugees, that transportation of Jews to safe territories be provided, and that neutral nations be encouraged to aid in this rescue work.

Arthur Greenwood, former Cabinet Minister, heads the delegation named at a private meeting of Commons members.

The Anglican Episcopate recently appealed to the Government to declare its readiness to co-operate with the United States and neutral nations in finding immediate sanctuary for all Jewish refugees from Axis countries.

NEW CHAPTERS DUE ON ROOSEVELT TRIP

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said today that the story of President Roosevelt's trip to North Africa would have subsequent chapters.

"So far as it can be told at the present time," he informed reporters, "the story is complete. Subsequent chapters undoubtedly will be written as events unfold."

HULL ASKS CRITICS TO AWAIT DETAILS

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Hull said today that persons who wanted to criticize the State Department in regard to the North African situation should wait until they have all the facts before they speak. The Secretary was asked at his press conference about published criticism that the State Department had failed to deal with the complicated North African situation.

The question pointed out that the criticism was at a time when President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were on the spot arranging a meeting between the French High Commissioner, Gen. Henri Giraud, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French. Mr. Hull said that the most critical published articles appeared during the time that Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill were in French Morocco, January 14 to 24, as revealed in dispatches from Casablanca last night.

Asked if the arrival of Marcel Peyrouton, former Vichy Minister of the Interior, in North Africa to become Governor-General of Algeria did not coincide more or less with the early part of the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences, Mr. Hull said that M. Peyrouton arrived there on January 16. He then was asked if it could be assumed that the conference must have passed on the appointment, but he merely replied that he thought that intelligent conclusions could be drawn from the facts thus far revealed.

Mr. Hull declined to discuss the results of the Casablanca conference, which he hailed last night as "most wise and timely," saying that the State Department awaited further details on what had been said and done.

NEW PACIFIC AIRFIELD OF JAPS BOMBED

"Forts" Dump Loads On Ballale — First Mention Of Airdrome

JAN 27 1943

Landing Area Is Within Easy Raiding Distance Of Guadalcanal

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Jan. 27—A new Japanese airfield, established within easy raiding distance of Guadalcanal in the Solomons, has been hit hard by American bombers, the navy disclosed today.

Flying Fortresses roared Tuesday over the field on Ballale Island, three miles off the northeast coast of Shortland Island.

They encountered only weak anti-aircraft fire, dumped their loads of bombs and returned safely to their base. The big bombs blew holes in the terrain and started many fire in revetments, or artificialembankments, construed to afford shelter from strafing attacks and shrapnel.

JAN 27 1943

Island Bombed Before

Ballale Island has been bombed several times before, but always the navy had referred only to attacks on enemy installations with no mention that an airfield was under construction. The island is about 300 miles northwest of our Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal, the navy said.

No indication of the size of the new enemy airfield was given. However, it was presumed that it was one of many smaller fields the Japanese have been establishing in an apparent effort to scatter air power at several bases in the area.

The navy has turned attention also to Wake Island, unmentioned in reports of Pacific battling since last December 23 when American planes unloaded thousands of pounds of bombs, starting huge fires.

Attacked By Eight Zeros

Only reconnaissance planes participated in the latest action over Wake. They were attacked by eight Japanese Zero fighters. In the ensuing dogfight two of the Zeros were believed shot down. All United States planes returned safely.

Where the reconnaissance planes were based was not disclosed. Wake Island, taken by the Japanese after a long defense by a little garrison of Marines, is 1,994 miles west of Pearl Harbor and 1,028 miles southwest of Midway Island.

Events in North Africa Leading Up To Roosevelt-Churchill Meeting

JAN 27 1943

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—The Allied occupation of French North Africa brought a number of political problems leading up to the Roosevelt-Churchill conference there. The major events were:

Nov. 7.—American troops invade French North Africa.

Nov. 11.—Algeria and Morocco under Allied control as Admiral Jean Darlan orders French to surrender; Hitler occupies all of France.

Nov. 14.—Civil administration set up under Darlan.

Dec. 1.—Darlan proclaims himself Chief of State in French Africa.

Dec. 8.—Darlan brings French West Africa, including Dakar, to Allied side.

Dec. 24.—Darlan assassinated.

Dec. 26.—Gen. Henri Giraud succeeds Darlan as High Commissioner.

Dec. 30.—Twelve arrested in alleged assassination plot against Giraud and Robert Murphy, United States Minister.

Allied Losses In Papua Less Than Half Foe's

MacArthur Declares 'Low' Casualties Were Unusual

for a Ground Offensive

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 28 (Thursday) (A. P.).—General Douglas MacArthur announced today that Allied casualties in the victorious land campaign in Papua, New Guinea, including numerous cases of natural illness, were "low" and were less than half of the ground force losses of the defeated Japanese. Previous announcements have said a Japanese army of 15,000 was annihilated there.

General MacArthur pointed out, in a communique, that "these figures reverse the usual results of a ground offensive . . . when losses of the attacker usually are several times that of a defender."

With "utmost care taken for the conservation of our forces," Allied casualties were unusually low, the communique said, because there was no necessity for a hurried campaign and, therefore, "no attempt was made to rush (enemy) positions by mass and unprepared assault."

General MacArthur added: "Probably no campaign in history against a thoroughly prepared and trained army produced such complete and decisive results with a lower expenditure of life and resource."

Allied losses at sea were negligible because no major sea forces, but only small boats, were used. Allied losses in the air also were low.

Some Japanese Escaped

Of the Japanese Papuan army of 15,000, some escaped, possibly by evacuation. It was stated at Allied headquarters that there never will be an accurate count of the Japanese dead. Many were blown to bits in pillboxes or were left where they were when the earthen tops of dugouts were blown in on them.

A large number of American soldiers, fighting in the jungle for the first time, were knocked out by malaria or dengue fever.

The communique reported the sinking by Japanese planes of a small Allied merchant vessel off Wessel Island, which is in the Arafura Sea near northern Australia. Casualties were reported as light and "survivors have been located."

Widespread raids by Allied planes included one on Lae, New Guinea, by bombers with long-range fighter escort. Despite an anti-aircraft barrage encountered, not a plane was lost as supply dumps were set afire.

FLYING COP GETS MEDAL IN PACIFIC

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied Air Forces in the Southwest Pacific, awarded the air medal today to seven officers of the United States Army Air Forces. The air medal, for meritorious achievement, is a special award given members of the air forces who have participated in at least twenty-five combat missions.

Among those honored were First Lieut. Jack Cohen of 133 Classon avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Capt. Gerald J. Crosson of 5540 Amboy Road, Huguenot Park, Staten Island.

Capt. Crosson was a member of the air division of the Police Department when he was called to active service with the Air Forces in May, 1941, his mother, Mrs. Charles S. Crosson, said at their Staten Island home today. He joined the Police Department in 1938, after working for several years for the Rubsam & Horrmann Brewery, and was assigned to the police air base at Floyd Bennett Field.

Capt. Crosson is 31 years old. He learned to fly at the Greenridge Airport on Staten Island and had been a member of the Air Forces Reserves for more than ten years when he was called to active duty. One of his most memorable trips as an air-policeman was a tour over New York with Mayor LaGuardia as passenger, his mother said.

The captain is engaged to Miss Valina P. Hurst of 54 Quinn street, Stapleton, Staten Island.

Capt. Crosson was wounded last August when a Japanese shell hit him in the leg. He got back to his base safely, but was hospitalized for three months. He was awarded the Purple Heart for that.

ALLIES SMASH SHIP AT RABAUL

Curtin Pleads for Greater Strength in Pacific.

Melbourne, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Flying Fortresses smashed another Jap ship at Rabaul, New Britain, yesterday, setting her afire with direct hits, Allied headquarters reported today in the wake of a warning by Prime Minister John Curtin that greater air and naval strength was needed in the Southwest Pacific to hold the Japanese in check.

Mr. Curtin emphasized that the preservation of the continent of Australia was vital to the United States, and said: "The Southwest Pacific area is too crucial to be left to a force of caretakers. I put it to the American people. The men of Corregidor can be avenged only if naval and air strength in this theater are adequate to the plans of the commander."

In addition to hitting the ship in Rabaul Harbor, the Fortresses started fires in the airdrome area.

Other planes, the regular headquarters communique said, attacked Buka airdrome in the Solomons, Lae and Salamaua in New Guinea and five other targets. Two Japanese bombers raided an airdrome in the Port Moresby area, but without effect.

Eyewitness Tells of Bombing Of Munda in Big Offensive

Jap Airfield Smashed as Drive From Guadalcanal Meets Feeble Resistance

JAN 27 1943

(From Yesterday's Late Editions.)

By WILLIAM M. HIPPLE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

IN A FLYING FORTRESS OVER NEW GEORGIA ISLAND, Jan. 24 (Delayed).—This four-engined weapon of destruction has just contributed another two tons of TNT to the greatest all-out air offensive yet launched from the Solomon Islands against Japanese positions to the north.

It's dawn, and the enemy field at Munda is now a temporarily useless strip of ground, full of craters and denuded of air and surface defenses.

We cannot see any planes or activity on the ground. The once-heavy Munda anti-aircraft fire was laughable this morning. It's reduced to a scarecrow half dozen guns, wildly aimed and wildly shot.

Our heavy bombs hit the runway, dispersal areas and quarters to the east of the field. There were great columns of white smoke as the bombs hit, but no flames. It seems there's just nothing left to burn at Munda.

To the north—15 miles away on the southern tip of Kolombangara Island in the New Georgia group—we can see plainly that fires are burning on the Jap airfield and other positions at Vila.

A few hours ago a strong force of United States Navy surface vessels made an audacious moonlight attack on the enemy airfield, a recent installation. These high-blazing flames are the result of the pulverizing shellfire the warships poured into Vila.

(The sea and air attacks on Kolombangara and Munda here described first hand were previously reported by the Navy, January 25 in a communique which said that "fires from explosions from fuel dumps indicated that the enemy held area was completely burned out.")

After dumping our bombs on Munda, we circled close over nearby Vila and got a look at the devastation below.

Yesterday afternoon the Munda field area was scarred badly, but at that time the anti-aircraft fire was heavy and close to the mark.

But today after many relentless attacks, Munda looked nearly worthless, and all but a few of the ack-ack guns apparently had been knocked out. Neither time could we see planes either on the field or in dispersal areas.

A number of flyers have expressed the view that Munda has been abandoned temporarily, at least as a scene of Jap air operations. The enemy, however, has great ability to make swift repairs and replacements.

I visited Munda yesterday in a Fortress called "O'Reilly's Daughter," a name for which none of the crew could offer an explanation. Ours and seven other Fortresses were escorted by Warhawk and Lightning fighter planes.

The heavy ships did pattern bombing, all dropping their big yellow eggs about the same time. Looking back, I saw that the bombing had been extremely accurate, encasing the whole peninsula where the field is located.

This morning we managed to take off at 4 o'clock, during interval between the harassing bomb raids which three Jap flying boats had been conducting against Guadalcanal all night.

Guadalcanal Takes Offensive.

As we cleared the ground at the end of the runway the three "Washing Machine Willies," as the Jap flying boats are known here, sailed over and dropped their bombs off to one side of the landing strip. Supplies, gasoline dumps, wharves, planes and a former coconut plantation all appeared to be blazing.

Now as we head home to Guadalcanal we see swarms of Navy and Marine Corps divebombers, torpedo bombers and fighters flying in beautiful formations toward us. They are swooping in to add to the havoc and ruin of the Vila job with low-level bombing and strafing attacks.

Ahead and going in our direction we see the task force of United States warships which shelled Kolombangara. The vessels are cutting long white wakes in the smooth sea as they speed away unhampered.

This is the heaviest and most persistent air attack—plus shelling—that we have thrown against Japanese land positions thus far in the Southwest Pacific war.

For 24 hours several hundred Army, Navy and Marine planes—many of which have been over the target more than once—have pounded at Munda, then Vila and dropped dozens of tons of bombs.

Guadalcanal's purely defensive days are over. This is carrying war to the enemy on a large scale.

Eichelberger Jubilant

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 25 (Delayed) (AP).—The commander of American forces in the Sanananda sector, where enemy resistance now has been crushed, termed today the Papua campaign the first pushing around of this war for the Japanese. He is tall, thin, gray-haired Lieutenant General Robert L. Eichelberger, who acknowledged at a press conference that he doesn't know why he wasn't killed—especially on one day when several companions were wounded near by.

The general said: "There's no getting around it—the Papuan campaign was a slap in the face for the Jap.

"The enemy set out to take Port Moresby, and didn't come close to it. He had superiority in using experienced men, and in choosing his own ground on which he had prepared strong defenses. He had a plentiful supply of automatic weapons and fought on dry land while we had to attack through swamps. HAGLAND

"The Jap was pushed around at Milne Bay, Gona, and Sanananda. Where else has this happened to the modern Japanese army? He's been fighting five years and this is the first time he's been set down and you can be sure he didn't like it."

JAN 27 1943

Furthermore, American troops had their first baptism of fire and learned things which abode ill times for the enemy in the future."

He said the success was due largely to the direction of General Douglas MacArthur, General Sir Thomas A. Blamey, commander of the Allied ground forces in the Southwest Pacific, and Lieutenant General E. F. Herring, an Australian commander.

The Allied dead were few in comparison with those of the enemy, while many Allied wounds were comparatively minor.

Australian Casualties Officially Put at 52,148

By the Associated Press.

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 27.—Prime Minister John Curtin told Parliament today that from the outbreak of the war to the end of December total Australian battle casualties in all theaters were 52,148.

The number comprised 6,820 killed, 28,692 missing, 9,059 known prisoner and 12,371 wounded.

U. S. Freighter Hits U-Boat

Stern Gun Crew Gets Bullseye on First Shot in Night Attack

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Jan. 27 (AP).—Captain Edwin E. Johnson, master of the 5,000-ton American freighter Columbian, told today how his boat stopped "cold" a submarine which had stalked his ship for eight hours.

The submarine closed for the attack at midnight, he said. The Columbian's stern gun scored a point-blank hit at 200 yards with its first shell. When last seen, the U-boat was listing low in the water, Captain Johnson said.

U. S. BOMBERS SOW FIRES IN MANDALAY

New Delhi, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—United States bombers and fighters of the Tenth Air Force resumed attacks on Japanese-held points in Burma yesterday after a one-day breathing spell.

Explosives were dropped on the railroad yards at Mandalay and elsewhere and a bridge at Shaduzup was seriously damaged or perhaps destroyed. In raids against Japanese transport facilities American planes beat off Japanese fighters and returned without a loss.

All the bombs dropped at Mandalay landed in the target area where there were concentrations of rolling stock, the announcement said.

At Naba junction, about 175 miles north of Mandalay, a moving train was damaged and two large fires were caused by bombers after fighter attacks Monday damaged eight small locomotives, the communique said.

A 6,000-ton vessel reported to have received two direct hits in a raid on Rangoon Sunday was seen burning in mid-stream.

R. A. F. India-based bombers, maintaining their relentless attack on Japanese installations and transport in Burma, bombed the important Japanese airdrome at Toungoo in central Burma last night, blasting the runways and leaving a number of fires burning in dispersal areas, a British communique said.

Chinese Charge Japanese Use Poison Gas Again

First Instance Since Threat of British-U. S. Retaliation

CHUNGKING, Jan. 27 (AP).—An official charge that the Japanese army is using poison gas, the first since America and Great Britain threatened to retaliate if earlier attacks in China were repeated, was made by the Chinese high command today.

Its communique said gas was used in a futile attack on Chinese positions northwest of Hungtung, in southern Shansi Province, on Jan. 6.

"They (the Japanese) used poison gas, but several hundred of their own men lost their lives as the wind suddenly turned toward their own positions," the communique said.

[At a press conference on June 5, 1942, President Roosevelt said that if the Japanese persisted in the use of gas against China, or any other of the United Nations, "such action will be regarded as though taken against the United States and retaliation in kind and in full measure will be meted out."]

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (AP)—Canada's munitions program has now reached "full capacity" within the limits of available manpower and materials and Allied arms have progressed to a point where "the United Nations are beginning to wage offensive warfare," a speech from the throne reported today at the prorogation of Parliament.

The speech said that the volume and quality of Canadian munitions "compares favorably with that of any Allied country." It was read by Justice T. Rinfret of the Supreme Court, acting as deputy to the Earl of Athlone, the Governor General.

Colonel Adrift 72 Hours, Rescued by Navy Plane

Victim of a Forced Landing at Sea Is Flown to Bahamas

By Sergeant Maurice E. Moran
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent
Distributed by The Associated Press

GREAT EXUMA, The Bahamas, Jan. 21 (Delayed).—The skill of an American naval aviator today made possible the rescue of Colonel Max F. Schneider, forty-seven years old, an Army pilot, of Chevy Chase, Md., who passed seventy-two hours adrift without water and with little food.

The colonel's rescuer, Lieutenant Murlin W. Alley, twenty-nine, of Freedom, Okla., landed his Consolidated Catalina flying boat alongside the raft despite a heavy swell which made the maneuver difficult.

Colonel Schneider, an aviation officer in the Army for twenty-five years, suffered a slight concussion, lip lacerations, bruises and abrasions, in the forced landing. His face and hands were burned severely by the sun and wind during his exposure.

Lieutenant Alley was on routine patrol when his radioman, A. J. Nick, of Kansas City, intercepted a message telling the location of the life raft about 150 miles from here. Lieutenant Alley and his crew set the plane down soon afterward, rescued Colonel Schneider and brought him here.

NAVY PLANES DOWN 2 JAPS OVER WAKE

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—American planes flying over Wake Island on a reconnaissance mission were attacked by Japanese planes, the Navy reported today, but returned safely to their base.

Two Japanese Zero fighters were reported shot down, in the first flight over Wake since a bombing attack on December 23 which started large fires in enemy positions.

The Navy also reported that on January 26 a formation of Flying Fortress heavy bombers heavily bombed the Japanese airfield at Ballale Island in the Shortland Islands at dusk and started fires in the revetments. Weak anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

The report of the raid on Ballale Island was the first disclosure by the Navy that the enemy had succeeded in establishing an airfield on that island near the Solomons group. Previous Navy communiques, however, have reported bombing of Japanese positions there. Ballale is three miles northeast of Shortland, which is 295 miles northwest of Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal.

Wake Island is 1,994 miles west of Pearl Harbor and 1,028 miles southwest of Midway Island.

BRAZIL WILL ERECT ALUMINUM PLANT

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Economic Co-ordinator Joao Alberto Lins De Barros said today that Brazil, with United States assistance, planned to establish in Brazil an aluminum manufacturing plant with a capacity of 25,000 tons annually.

It was planned, De Barros said, to have shipments of Bauxite to the United States of 1,000 tons monthly. Up to now there had been difficulty in attaining this objective because of transport limitations.

He predicted a production of 45,000 tons of Amazon rubber this year and 75,000 tons in 1944 through the broad development now under way in the Amazon valley.

De Barros reported he had arranged for quick delivery of United States oil drilling and refining equipment for exploitation of the Bahia fields which he hoped would relieve Brazil's present dependence on imported fuel.

FIGHT FOR NEWSPRINT

San Juan, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—To forestall a serious island paper shortage, Gordon Foote, head of the War Production Board's Division of Territories, today asked all Puerto Rican publishers to report their current newsprint holdings before the end of the week.

Mr. Foote said the move was precipitated [illegible] requests from the mainland for either a shipment from the mainland or pooling of stocks, most of which are reported to be held by the newspaper El Mundo. Mr. Foote said that he had been attempting to get additional shipments but indicated that he might possibly have to ration available stocks.

Publisher Antonio Ayuso Valdivieso of Imparcial, asserted El Mundo refused to divide any of its stock, which Ayuso claims is sufficient for El Mundo's needs for more than a year. Mr. Foote said he might request Washington for authorization to seize and ration El Mundo's stock, which was built up before the war.

The situation was complicated by political factors inasmuch as El Mundo has been leading the fight against Gov. Tugwell, while other papers have been generally favorable toward him.

MAY FREE SOME JAP INTERNEES

Grew to Be Queried About Loyal Groups.

JAN 27 1943

Washington, Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Senator Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, the chairman of a Senate military sub-committee, disclosed plans today to investigate the feasibility of removing a large group of loyal Americans from among upward of 106,000 Japanese detained in a dozen scattered colonies.

The announcement followed an executive session on a resolution sponsored by Senator Wallgren, Democrat, of Washington, to transfer supervision of the interned Japanese back to the War Department from the war relocation authority. Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, was asked to appear tomorrow.

Mr. Chandler said his sub-committee would make a thorough inspection of the camps to investigate charges that the interned Japanese were pampered and that lack of supervision led to riots, particularly a Pearl Harbor anniversary demonstration at Manzanar, Cal., last December 7 in which one man was killed.

Four Classes of Japanese.

"We want to ask Ambassador Grew for advice on whether reports are correct that as many as two-thirds of the Japanese, the bulk of them native-born American citizens, could be released to enter the Army or productive pursuits," the Senator asserted.

"It seems that the Nisei—American-born, American-educated Japanese—are loyal Americans and that we have 2,000 of them in our armed forces," he added. "Then there are the Eaisi—the American-born, Japanese-educated, and the Keobi, Japanese-born, Japanese-educated, living in this country.

"We are told that probably less than a third of the three groups are what is known as Shintos, the fanatically religious Japanese who are unquestioned enemies of this country, and that they should be separated from the others.

"This segregation, in my opinion, should have been undertaken a long time ago. The Shinto's create disturbances and riots and should be under the strictest control and supervision."

Senator Chandler also said complaints were piling up from citizens living in areas near the colonies that the Japanese were receiving better food and educational opportunities than American citizens.

Pro-Japanese Leaders Of U. S. Group Indicted

'Pacific Movement' Sought to Sway Negroes to Foe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle announced today that a Federal grand jury at East St. Louis, Ill., had indicted the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World, Inc., two of its officers and a Japanese agent on charges of conspiring to violate the sedition and selective-service acts.

The officers were named as General Lee Butler, president, and David D. Irwin, national adviser, along with a Japanese described only as "John Doe." (It was explained that General is Butler's first name, not a military title.)

A statement by the Justice Department said that the Pacific Movement was started more than ten years ago by Japanese agents working under the direction of the Black Dragon Society of Japan, and that the actual founder of the movement was Mimo De Guzman, whose operations allegedly were supervised by Satohashi Takahashi, a retired Japanese Army officer.

The department said that the Pacific Movement was erected as a propaganda front to work among American Negroes, using the theme that a Japanese victory would bring about their liberation."

JAN 27 1943

Branches were established, the department said, in Chicago, East St. Louis and Mounds, Ill.; Cleveland, Shaw and Greenville, Miss.; Tulsa, Muskogee and Boynton, Okla.; Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Gary and Indiana City, Ind.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Jury Accuses Jap Agents

Says Sedition Tried Among U. S. Negroes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A charge that Japan's notorious Black Dragon Society launched a nation-wide movement to alienate the loyalty of American Negroes was made today in a sedition indictment returned by a federal grand jury at East St. Louis, Ill.

Atty. Gen. Biddle said the two-count indictment named the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World, Inc.; General (a name not a title) Lee Butler, president of the corporation; David D. Erwin, its national adviser, and a Japanese described only as "John Doe."

The charges were conspiracy to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty in the armed forces, and conspiracy to hinder compliance with the selective service law.

In commenting on the indictment, Biddle said that "attempts by Japanese agents to infiltrate Negro groups have been indignantly repudiated by responsible leaders of our Negro citizens throughout the country."

RICKENBACKER BACKS NEW HOUSE AIR BODY

He Says Proposed Committee on Non-War Aviation Is Essential

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker went on record today as favoring establishment of a separate House committee on civilian and commercial aviation.

A telegram from the flier giving his position was read to the Rules Committee by Representative Kleberg of Texas at a hearing on whether it would send the aviation committee proposal to the floor for a vote.

The Rules Committee is considering eight separate bills proposing establishment of a separate committee on civilian and commercial aviation, and has limited its witnesses to members of Congress.

Now the Interstate Commerce Committee handles aviation legislation.

Captain Rickenbacker's telegram reads:

"It is my understanding that a standing committee on aviation in the House is proposed. In view of the tremendous influence aviation will have on America's future throughout the war it is essential now that our leadership study these problems thoroughly and be prepared at the peace table to demand an intelligent and fair reward for our billions spent and to prevent our birthright from being sold out from under us by selfish and biased interests.

"In my opinion a standing committee in the House is essential from this day on."

Submarine Sinks Small British Ship In South Atlantic

JAN 27 1943

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—A small British merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine late in December in the south Atlantic off South America and survivors have been landed at Miami, the navy announced today.

New York, Jan. 27—The Associated Press recorded today a broadcast of a report, credited to the Transocean Agency, which said German U-boats had sunk 16 Allied merchant vessels totaling 103,000 tons.

This was without confirmation from any other source.

An earlier broadcast credited submarines with sinking eight ships totaling 52,000 tons in the Arctic, the south Atlantic, and off West Africa. Apparently these were included in the larger total

Women Marines To Free Troops For Front Line

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the Marines, announced today the establishment of a Marine Corps Women's Reserve. The women are to relieve trained Marines for combat duty.

General Holcomb said the women's reserve still was in the "planning stage," and applications would not be received before February 15.

Informed persons said today Mrs. Thomas W. Streeter, attorney, of Morristown, N. J., would head the reserve. There was no confirmation of this report from official Navy or Marine Corps sources.

The feminine marines will have no official abbreviated name such as the WAVES, WAACs and SPARs of the navy, army and Coast Guard.

E. J. Flynn Gets 13-10 Approval

Three Democrats on Committee Opposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee put a 13 to 10 stamp of approval today on President Roosevelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia, and sent it along to a doubtful fate in the Senate.

Three Democrats—Senators George of Georgia, Van Nuys of Indiana and Gillette of Iowa—broke across party lines to oppose the 23-member committee's indorsement of the former Democratic national chairman.

The test found 12 Democrats and Senator LaFollette (Pro., Wis.) voting for Flynn, seven Republicans and three Democrats against him. Senators Glass (D., Va.) who supported the nomination, and Johnson (R., Calif.) who opposed it, were absent and voted by proxy.

Chairman Connally (D., Texas) told reporters he assumed the action of the committee would be approved by the Senate next week, but opponents were claiming privately that the nomination might be rejected by a vote or two. Administration leaders conceded the issue was close but claimed victory.

The 38 Republicans thus were expected to present an almost solid front against confirmation. But they need nearly a dozen Democratic "No" votes to defeat the nomination, depending on the number of those present when the roll of 96 Senators finally is called.

ITALIAN SUB SEIZES STEWARD FOR CAPTAIN

JAN 27 1943

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—The messroom steward on a British merchantman torpedoed and shelled in the South Atlantic ocean ate in December can blame a bleeding thumb for his misfortune n being taken prisoner aboard an Italian submarine.

After sinking the vessel with two torpedoes and shellfire, the sub crewmen threw a line to one of the lifeboats, and asked for the ship's officers.

Crewmen, coached not to identify the officers, gave non-commital replies.

The Italian sub commander then looked over the sailors in the lifeboat, and spotted the messman, who was hodling his injured and bleeding thumb with his other hand.

"You come aboard," the commander ordered.

He gave the injured man cigarets and tossed his lifebelt back to the lifeboat, murmuring "You won't need that now."

The other 44 crewmen sailed 120 miles to shore in two lifeboats. One group landed at a large South American port, while the other spent three days at a wild beach spot before making contact with some fishermen.

GEN. WASH KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 27 (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Carlyle H. Walsh, 53 years old, whose career of more than a quarter of a century as a flying officer spanned many posts of high command, was killed with nine other airmen in the flaming crash of their plane a few miles east of here yesterday. The ship, a twin-motored Army transport, plunged into a wooded area seven miles from Flomaton, Ala., near the Florida-Alabama line during a heavy rainstorm.

Major Oscar Parmer, public relations officer at Brookley Field here, said the bodies were badly burned and only three could be identified. The officer said he believed the crash was "one of the worst in the Army's history where high-ranking officers were concerned."

Gen. Wash was commanding officer of the Third Air Force at Tampa before being assigned as commanding general of the Second Air Support Command with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Col. He and his party were flying from Drew Field, Tampa, to Oklahoma City by way of Mobile.

Capt. Martin Doster, Drew Field public relations officer, said members of Gen. Wash's staff who died with him were Lieut.-Col. J .H. Cunningham, Lieut.-Col. J. A. Cain, Major J. R. Lee and Lieut. J. A. Simon, all of Colorado Springs. Others aboard were Major S. B. Gaetle Jr., pilot, Third Air Force, Tampa; Flight Officer Glenn A. Johnson, Tampa and Oshkosh, Wis., co-pilot; Lieut. Edward A. Durica, Oak Park, Ill.; Master Sergt. Pius Witherow, Tampa, engineer, and Staff Sergt. J. C. Melder, Tampa.

Gen. Wash, a 1913 graduate of West Point, was made a brigadier-general in 1940. He was born at Minneapolis on October 15, 1889.

DAVILA SAYS CHILE WAS NOT NEUTRAL

He Tells Latin-American Conference Delayed Axis Break Served Democracy Better

JAN 27 1943

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Carlos Davila, former President of Chile and Ambassador to the United States from 1927 to 1931, told the University of Rochester's Latin-American Conference today that his country delayed breaking with the Axis only because "it thought by so doing it served the democratic cause better." Chile "was never neutral in this conflict," he asserted, and added:

"Few are the peoples of the Americas who feel more intensely than Chile the ideological contents of this war. The cause of the democracies was our cause, even before the outbreak of war."

Asserting that Pan-Americanism is not today a docrine of hemisphere isolation, "but one of co-operation for world organization in equity," Señor Davila said he did not believe it to be "outside the realm of the logic of history" that the Americas might be to European civilization what Greece was to the Orient.

"The American plan is the better plan," he said, "if the united peoples of the Americas make sure democracy will never again be used as a screen for boundless greed, for the evasion of duties to the nation and to the continent, and for the loosening of all discipline."

JAN 27 1943

Hails Good Neighbor Policy

Señor Davila described as "amazing" the political results of eight years of conferences held in the spirit of the good neighbor policy. He said the United States, before the advent of that policy, had been "marching to diplomatic suicide."

Commenting on the possibility of making the Western Hemisphere an integrated economic unit, Señor Davila said it was "both feasible and desirable."

"I hold that the economic integration of the Americas is not irreconcilable with the new Pan-Americanism inspired in universality," he added, "which will make of this hemisphere a basis for the international organization of all the countries and all the continents.

"If we are to put an end to a planless and warlike world after victory in the present struggle, it will be on the basis of 'regional self-sufficiency' which will cushion the devastating effects of unchecked competition and imperialism."

Doctorate Awarded by Radio

Tonight the University of Rochester for the second time in a few years, used an international broadcast to confer an honorary degree upon a foreign statesman. The degree, Doctor of Laws, was bestowed on Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a two-way broadcast from the stage of Eastman Theatre to Rio de Janeiro.

In 1941 the university similarly honored Winston Churchill. As did the British Prime Minister, Señor Aranha replied in English over the hook-up.

An honorary doctorate was also presented Dr. Eduardo Santos, President of Colombia from 1938 to 1942, while to James H. Furay, vice president and a director of The United Press Associations, the university awarded a certificate of distinguished service for "notable contributions to Pan-American journalism."

Carlos Davila, former President of Chile, told the conference his country delayed breaking with the Axis only because "it thought by so doing it served the democratic cause better."

Mr. Davila, President of Chile in 1932 and ambassador to the United States from 1927 to 1931, said his country "was never neutral in this conflict."

"Few," he said, "are the peoples of the Americas who feel more intensely than Chile the ideological contents of this war. The cause of the democracies was our cause even before the outbreak of war."

Asserting Pan-Americanism is not today a doctrine of hemisphere isolation, "but one of co-operation for world organization in equity," Mr. Davila said he did not believe it to be "outside the realm of the logic of history" that the Americas may be to European civilization what Greece was to the Orient.

"The American plan is the better plan," he said, "if the united peoples of the Americas make sure democracy will never again be used as a screen for boundless greed, for the evasion of duties to the nation and to the continent, and for the loosening of all discipline."

Mr. Davila described as "amazing" the political results of eight years of conferences held in the spirit of the good-neighbor policy. He said the United States, before advent of the good-neighbor policy, had been "marching to diplomatic suicide."

Commenting on the possibility of making the Western Hemisphere an integrated economic unit, Mr. Davila said it is "both feasible and desirable."

Aranha Gets Honor by Radio From Rochester

University Which Broadcast Degree to Churchill in '41 Uses Same Method Again

ROCHESTER, Jan. 27 (AP).—The University of Rochester, for the second time in as many years, utilized an international broadcast tonight to confer an honorary degree on a foreign statesman.

The degree—Doctor of Laws—was bestowed on Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a two-way broadcast from the stage of Eastman Theater to Rio de Janeiro as the final event of the university's conference on Latin America. In 1941 the university similarly honored British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Like Churchill, Aranha replied in English over the hookup.

In a message read to the conference, President Elie Lescot of Haiti declared the war has made possible a "magnificent feeling of Pan-American solidarity." He urged the conferees "to cultivate the ideal of love" and "transpose this Pan-American solidarity from the realm of pure politics to that of a real and lasting understanding based on esteem, respect, sympathy and friendship."

His message was read by M. Andre Liautaud, Haitian Minister to Washington.

An honorary doctorate was conferred on Dr. Eduardo Santos, President of Colombia from 1938 to 1942, while to James H. Furay, vice-president and a director of the United Press Associations, the university awarded a certificate of distinguished service for "notable contributions to Pan-American journalism."

Tojo Tells Diet Japan Means to Crush Its Foes

Tokio Says Premier Speaks Despite His Illness

Premier Hideki Tojo told a reconvened session of the Japanese Diet (Parliament) Wednesday that Japan is waging war "to enable all countries, each in its proper place, and all peoples to live their lives in peace and security" and said that Japan in pursuance of this ideal was marching "to crush the United States and Britain," the Japanese radio reported.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said Tojo declared Japan was in the midst of a war of "unprecedented scale" against both the United States and Britain, which he said "vaunt their wealth and strength to the world," in order "to destroy their sinister ambitions to dominate the world."

The Japanese Empire, he said, has had this goal of "peace and security" for 3,000 years, and "it is also to realize this great ideal that the nation, with a 100,000,000 united people in humble obedience to the imperial command, is declaring war and marching to crush the United States and Britain."

The session had been delayed by Tojo's illness and the broadcast [illegible] had some fever, but [illegible] further to delay the Diet.

ANOTHER FLYING FORTRESS, "DEVIL'S PLAYMATE," PILOTED BY LIEUT. THREE FOCKE WULFES WERE CLAIMED BY THE FLYING FORTRESS "ROYAL FLUSH" PILOTED BY LIEUT.HAROLD BEASLEY, ANDALUSIA, LA. SERGEANT JAMES FARRER, TALALA, OKLA., SAID HE SAW A GERMAN PLANE GO DOWN AFTER HIT BY BULLETS FROM HIS GUN. ANOTHER ENEMY PLANE WAS HIT BY NAVIGATOR LIEUT.EVERETT [illegible]NNARD, JR., RANTOUL, ILL., AND A THIRD BY TAIL GUNNER SERGEANT HENRY STREETS, DRY FORK, WEST VA.

JAN 27 1943

ONE OF THE PILOTS HAD JUST RETURNED YESTERDAY FROM CHAUFFEURING A WELL-KNOWN AMERICAN GENERAL TO THE ALLIED CONFERENCE AT CASABLANCA IN THE FORTRESS NAMED "BOOMERANG" (BECAUSE IT ALWAYS COMES BACK).

HE IS CAPT. CLIFTON PYLE OF MARSHALL, TEX. ALTHOUGH SEVERAL OF HIS PLANES HAVE BEEN BADLY SHOT UP--ON THE LAST RAID ONE WAS RIDDLED WITH FOUR CANNON HOLES AND 150 MACHINEGUN HOLES AND SET AFIRE--HE WASN'T TOUCHED ON THIS RAID.

ONE OF THE OFFICERS WHO BRIEFED THE FLIERS BEFORE THE RAID IS MAJ. JOHN J.MCNABOE, FORMER NEW YORK STATE SENATOR.

AFTER THE RAID THERE WERE RIVAL CLAIMS AS TO WHO HAD THE DISTINCTION OF BEING THE FIRST PILOT OVER GERMANY.

ONE CLAIMANT WAS LIEUT. EDWARD J.HENNESSY OF CHICAGO, PILOT OF THE FORTRESS "BANSHEE." HIS NAVIGATOR, LIEUT. CHARLES F.JONES OF CHICAGO REPORTED THEIR BOMBS "HIT THE CENTER OF THE TARGET AS FAR AS I COULD TELL." CO-PILOT LIEUT. ROGERS LITTLEJOHN OF SPARTANSBURG, S.C., SAID THE ASSIGNMENT WAS EASY STUFF.

LIEUT. WILLIAM CALONTONI, BROWNSVILLE, PA., CLAIMED THE DISTINCTI ON THE BASIS THAT HE WAS THE NAVIGATOR IN ANOTHER FORTRESS ON THE RIGHT FLANK OF THE FORWARD ELEMENT OF THE FORMATION WHICH WHEELED OVER GERMANY, SWINGING HIM ACROSS THE BORDER FIRST. THE AIR FORCES MAY WEIGH THE CLAIMS AND NAME THE WINNER.

NAVIGATOR LIEUT. R.H.NUTTER OF NORWOOD, MASS., HARVARD '42, CONTENTED HIMSELF WITH THE CLAIM OF BEING THE FIRST HARVARD MAN OVER THE LINE.

JAN 27 1943

HE WAS NAVIGATOR IN THE PLANE OF GROUP LEADER COLONEL LEMAY, WHICH WAS PILOTED BY MAJOR JOSEPH J.PRESTON, 30, A VETERAN OF FORTRESS RAIDS ON JAVA LAST SPRING. HE COMES FROM ELGIN, MINN., AND SO THEY DUBBED THEIR NEW FORTRESS "GOPHER" AFTER THE RAID.

A TINY PIECE OF FLAK LIKE A SEQUIN RICOCHETED OFF THE OXYGEN MASK OF LIEUT.ROBERT KLEYLA OF PHILADELPHIA, BOMBARDIER ON THE FAMOUS FORTRESS "JACK THE RIPPER," AND BARELY SCRATCHED THE NECK OF LIEUT.WILLIAM C.LEASURE OF CLYMER, PA., WHO RETRIEVED IT TO KEEP AS A "LUCKY CHARM."

THE "RIPPER'S" PILOT, CAPT.WILLIAM CRUMM, SCARSDALE, N.Y., ON HIS NINTH RAID, ADOPTED THE GLARE PROTECTION HE LEARNED ON THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA FOOTBALL TEAM, COVERING HIS LOWER EYELIDS WITH BURNT CORK.

THE "RIPPER'S" RADIOMAN-GUNNER, SERGT.PETER F.DEBOY OF ARBUTUS, MD., CLAIMED HE SHOT DOWN ONE GERMAN. THE FIGHTERS MOSTLY WERE MESSERSCHMITTS IN CONTRAST TO THE CRACK FOCKE-WULFS THE FORTRESS MEN ARE ACCUSTOMED TO OVER FRANCE, AND THE PILOTS SEEMED TO BE NEOPHYTES.

"JUST GREEN--THEY ONLY ATTACKED THE REAR PLANES," COMMENTED THE "GOPHER'S" WAIST GUNNER, SERGT.C.E.CHEZEM OF TULSA, OKLA.

"THOSE GUYS WERE JUST PRIMARY AND BASIC TRAINING FELLOWS--THEY DIDN'T KNOW WHICH WAY TO KICK THE RUDDER," SAID THE MEN OF "CARTER AND HIS PILLS"--NAVIGATOR LIEUT.W.G."BLACKIE" MOORER, DEMOPOLIS, ALA.,

BOMBARDIER LIEUT.R.A.GRAY, ALTUS, OKLA., RADIOMAN SERGT.C.T.COURTNEY, PEORIA, ILL., AND GUNNER SERGTS.E.C.MESCHER, SPOKANE, WASH., AND W.B.SHIRLEY, CISCO, TEX.

JAN 27 1943

ANOTHER OF THE TYPICAL MINOR CASUALTIES WAS THE BOMBARDIER OF THE FORTRESS "BLITZBUSTER," LIEUT.ROBERT L.EDWARDS, BOSTON, WHO WAS HIT BY A PIECE OF SPENT FLAK, AND GOT A BLACK EYE.

FOR MOST OF THE MEN IT WAS THEIR FIFTH TO ELEVENTH RAID, BUT FOR FOUR ON THE FORTRESS "KICKAPOO" PILOTED BY CAPT.JOHN W.EAMES OF SHREVEPORT, LA., IT WAS THE FIRST TRIP AND THEY WERE ENTHUSIASTIC. THE FOUR WERE:

A FUGITIVE FROM LONG TIME KITCHEN POLICE WORK, A FORMER COWBOY FROM OKLAHOMA WHO DIDN'T WANT HIS NAME USED LEST IT WORRY HIS MOTHER THAT HE WAS IN THE AIR.

SERGT.JAMES SULLIVAN OF ROGERSVILLE, TENN., DEBUTING AS RADIOMAN AFTER A LONG STRETCH AT KITCHEN POLICE ORDERLY AND GUARD DUTY.

THE FLIERS TOOK OFF IN THE MID-MORNING AND WERE BACK BY MID-AFTERNOON.

THE WEATHER WAS EXCELLENT THROUGHOUT, AND THE ONLY DIFFICULTY WAS A LOCAL CONCENTRATION OF THICK CLOUDS OVER THE TARGET. THE PILOTS HAD TO FEEL THEIR WAY UP THE COAST SOME DISTANCE TO WILHELMSHAVEN AND GO OVER THE TARGET ONCE, HUNTING AN OPENING IN THE CLOUDS BEFORE THEY COULD BEGIN THEIR BOMBING RUNS.

OF THE RAID, AIR CHIEF MARSHAL HARRIS ADDED IN A MESSAGE:

"TO THE BOMBER COMMAND IT IS CONCRETE AND MOST WELCOME PROOF THAT WE SHALL NO LONGER BE ALONE IN CARRYING THE WAR TO GERMAN SOIL.

"LET US PRESS PASS THIS MILESTONE ON THE ROAD TO VICTORY, ASSURED THAT BETWEEN US WE CAN AND WILL BUST GERMANY WIDE OPEN."

THE FORTRESS "SWEETPEA," NAMED AFTER A BRITISH ORPHAN "ADOPTED" BY THE SQUADRON'S ENLISTED MEN AND WHICH WAS SHOT UP CONSIDERABLY ON A RAID AFTER ITS CHRISTENING, CAME BACK UNSCATHED TODAY.

"WEATHER WAS IDEAL AS FAR AS COVER WAS CONCERNED," SAID THE SKIPPER, CAPTAIN J.L.RYAN, TROY, N.Y. "WE COASTED BACK A BIG PART OF THE WAY OVER THE TOP OF A WHITE LAYER OF CLOUDS WITH PLENTY OF STUFF TO DUCK INTO IF TROUBLE SHOWED UP."

FDR AND CHURCHILL
FEEL PEOPLE READY FOR FULL SACRIFICE

JAN 27 1943

BY MORGAN BEATTY

LONDON, JAN.27--THE HISTORIC CONFERENCE BETWEEN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA, MOROCCO, PUTS EVERY CITIZEN OF THE UNITED NATIONS--AND ESPECIALLY THOSE OF THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN--ON NOTICE THAT THE HOUR OF MAXIMUM SACRIFICE TO WIN THE WAR IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER.

I HAVE IT ON THE HIGHEST AUTHORITY THAT THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRIME MINISTER HAVE EXAMINED CLOSELY EVERY ANGLE OF THE WAR EFFORT, WITH ESPECIAL EMPHASIS ON THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED NATIONS TO MAKE THE MAXIMUM OF SACRIFICE.

THEY ARE BOTH CONVINCED THAT THE HOUR HAS COME AND THAT THE PEOPLE OF THE FREE NATIONS ARE WILLING AND DETERMINED TO MAKE SACRIFICES--NOW.

JAN 27 1943

PERHAPS, THAT IS ONE OF THE REASONS WHY THESE TWO LEADERS DECIDED TO TAKE THE RISK OF AIR VOYAGES OVER THE SEA TO SIT DOWN TOGETHER UNDER A BRISTLING CANOPY OF PLANES IN A LITTLE VILLA NEAR A FAR-OFF AFRICAN TOWN.

THEY THEMSELVES INTENDED PRIMARILY TO OFFER TO US ALL AN EXAMPLE OF SACRIFICE, A WILLINGNESS TO SHOULDER THE RESPONSIBILITY OF LEADERSHIP AT A POST OF DANGER.

FOR BOTH OF THEM KNOW THAT THE PRICE OF A BEATEN GERMAN ARMY IS A STEEP PRICE IN BLOOD AND THEY WANT TO LEAVE NO IDEA IN ANYBODY'S MIND THAT THIS PRICE CAN BE PUT ON THE CUFF, TO BE PAID LATER. IT IS CASH ON THE BARREL-HEAD.

THE BRITISH ARE FULLY AWARE OF THAT SACRIFICE. THEY ARE CLOSE TO THE WAR DAY AND NIGHT. THEY ARE RESIGNED TO THE TASK AHEAD.

ASK THEM ABOUT IT AND THEY MERELY SHRUG THEIR SHOULDERS AND TELL YOU THERE IS .NO OTHER WAY OUT.

DIRECT LAND INVASION OF EUROPE, WITH TERRIBLE LOSSES, IS THE OBVIOUS ANSWER TO HITLER THIS YEAR. IF IT IS CARRIED OFF--SUCCESSFULLY--VICTORY MAY COME IN 1943, THAT IS VICTORY IN EUROPE.

BUT, OF COURSE, THERE IS MORE BEHIND CASABLANCA THAN THE VIVID EXAMPLE OF PERSONAL LEADERSHIP.

JAN 27 1943

IT IS AN AXIOM IN WARFARE--OLD AS THE GREATEST OF ALL STRATEGISTS, SUN TZU OF CHINA--THAT THE WEAKEST LINK IN ANY ALLIANCE IS THE SPOT WHERE THE ALLIES JOIN HANDS.

EVERY MILITARY COMMANDER KNOWS THAT IF HE HAS TWO ARMIES FACING HIM HE SHOULD STRIKE BETWEEN THEM. IT IS THE SAME WITH PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE.

FOR YEARS, HITLER HAS TRIED DESPERATELY TO SEPARATE THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN PEOPLE. HIS PROPAGANDA MILLS ARE CONSTANTLY GRINDING OUT WHISPERS FOR AMERICA CHARGING THAT ROOSEVELT IS THE TOOL OF CHURCHILL.

THOSE SAME PROPAGANDA MACHINES ARE PERSISTENTLY TELLING ENGLISHMEN THAT AMERICA IS TRYING TO BUILD AN EMPIRE OUT OF THE RUINS OF THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS.

CHURCHILL AND ROOSEVELT ARE WELL AWARE OF THIS PROPAGANDA AND THEY KNOW, TOO, THAT MANY CITIZENS OF BOTH NATIONS ARE UNWITTINGLY LENDING WEIGHT TO THIS KIND OF TALK.

THE POLITICAL TANGLE IN NORTH AFRICA AND THE DELAY IN MILITARY OPERATIONS WHEREVER IFUR

THE POLITICAL TANGLE IN NORTH AFRICA AND THE DELAY IN MILITARY OPERATIONS THERE HAS FURNISHED THEM WITH TANGIBLE PROOF THAT IT IS EASY FOR ARGUMENTS TO ARISE, ARGUMENTS THAT COULD BE MAGNIFIED INTO AN OPEN BREAK.

SO IT IS NO SURPRISE TO THE WAR-WISE IN ENGLAND THAT A CEMENTING OPERATION HAS BEEN CARRIED OUT IN THE CONCENTRATED SUNLIGHT OF AFRICA; IT IS NO SURPRISE EITHER THAT NEITHER WASHINGTON NOR LONDON WAS CHOSEN FOR THE TALKS.

JAN 27 1943

IN EITHER CASE, THE EYEBROW-RAISING BRITISHER AND THE AMERICAN DOUBTING THOMAS WOULD HAVE BEEN GIVEN AMMUNITION TO ARGUE THAT SOMEBODY HAD BEEN SOLD DOWN THE RIVER.

THE MORE THE CASABLANCA MEETING IS EXAMINED AGAINST A BACKDROP OF WAR STRATEGY, THE GREATER IS THE CONVICTION OVER HERE THAT NOTHING HAS BEEN OVERLOOKED.

ESPECIALLY DOES CHURCHILL REMEMBER THE DARK WORDS HITLER HAS SPOKEN AGAINST HIM IN THE PAST AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR.

ON THE FUEHRER'S LAST ANNIVERSARY--THE TENTH SINCE HE ASSUMED THE CHANCELLORSHIP OF GERMANY--HE HAD THIS TO SAY:

"WE LOOK AT OUR ENEMIES AND WE SEE THIS GAMBLER, THIS DRUNKARD CHURCHILL...THE FUTURE WILL SPEAK OF CHURCHILL ONLY AS A DESTROYER OF AN EMPIRE."

IT IS UNDERSTANDABLE IN THE LIGHT OF THIS THAT CHURCHILL NOW GLEEFULLY POINTS OUT THAT HITLER HAS BEEN HOODWINKED.

FOR WEEKS NOW THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS OF HIGH RANK HAVE BEEN SUGGESTING THAT IT WILL BE INTERESTING ON THIS SATURDAY TO SEE WHAT HITLER WILL HAVE TO SAY--AND THEY HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR CLUES.

THEY NOTE WITH CONCENTRATED INTEREST THAT HITLER IS ALREADY SAYING IN HIS OWN NEWSPAPER THAT HE MUST ONCE AGAIN ASK THE GERMAN NATION TO MAKE THE SUPREME, THE LAST SACRIFICE. BUT, FOR FOUR YEARS HAND RUNNING THAT HAS BEEN THE NAZI PLEA.

THE NAZIS HAVE SAID THAT THERE WILL BE ONLY ONE MORE YEAR OF STRUGGLE AND THE WORLD WILL BE GERMANY'S. HITLER HAS PREFERRED IN THE PAST TO MAKE THIS PROMISE IN HIS ANNIVERSARY SPEECH JUST AS HE HAS CHOSEN THAT DAY ESPECIALLY TO CASTIGATE CHURCHILL.

BUT, THIS YEAR NEITHER HITLER NOR HIS PROPAGANDA CHIEF ARE SO CONFIDENT OF VICTORY. GOEBBELS HAS CALLED IN HIS REPORTERS TO GET A NEW PROPAGANDA LINE TO FEED THE GERMAN PEOPLE. AND THAT LINE IS THIS: AS EXPRESSED IN HITLER'S OWN "VOLKISCHER BEOBACHTER"--

"IF THE ENEMY HAS WHIPPED UP HIS ENERGY TO PROVIDE HIMSELF WITH HARD MEN AND MATERIAL WHICH ARE TO DARKEN OUR POSITION, WE SHALL JUST HAVE TO ACHIEVE MORE THAN THEY."

JAN 27 1943

B57

THE NEWSPAPER WARNS ALL GERMANS TO CONSIDER THEMSELVES EXACTLY LIKE SOLDIERS. IT FINALLY ADMITS THAT THE WAR FOR GERMANY FROM NOW ON OUT IS A TOTAL ONE.

THIS IS TAKEN TO MEAN HERE THAT THE GERMAN LEADERSHIP IS FULLY AWARE OF THE DEADENING IMPACT OF DEFEAT IN RUSSIA AND TRIPOLI.

HITLER IS COMPELLED TO ADMIT THAT DEFEAT, SO HE IS GOING ONE STEP FURTHER AND IS WHIPPING UP ANOTHER OF THOSE FINAL WAR EFFORTS. OBVIOUSLY, HE HOPES THAT A PRODUCTIVE RISE WILL RESULT FROM A FEAR IN THE HEARTS OF GERMANS AND WILL REACH ITS MAXIMUM JUST ABOUT THE TIME THAT THE SUMMER OF 1943 ROLLS AROUND.

ALL OF THIS HAS BEEN NOTED BY THE ALLIED LEADERSHIP. THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE CASABLANCA MEETING COMES A SCANT THREE DAYS BEFORE THE GERMAN PEOPLE WILL BE REMINDED THAT HITLER HAS BEEN IN POWER TEN YEARS. AND NOW IN A LITTLE, SUNDRENCHED VILLA IN AFRICA IS PROOF THAT THE UNITED NATIONS CAN PRODUCE LEADERSHIP AND COURAGE WITHOUT THE WHIPLASH OF COMPULSION.

(ADVANCE)...CAIRO, JAN 27-(AP)-BRITISH TROOPS, SWEEPING AFTER FIELD MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL'S RETREATING ARMY, CONTACTED AXIS REARGUARDS WEST OF ZAUIA YESTERDAY, A BRITISH COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY. ZAUIA IS 30 MILES WEST OF TRIPOLI.

UNITED STATES WARPLANES CONTINUED TO PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE AFRICAN OPERATIONS. AN AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED THAT MESSINA, IN SICILY, WAS RAIDED YESTERDAY BY B-24 LIBERATORS WHILE AMERICAN FIGHTERS ON MONDAY CONTINUED BOMBING AND STRAFING THE RETREATING AXIS COLUMNS IN THE ZUARA AREA, NEAR THE TUNISIAN BORDER. WEATHER OBSCURED THE RESULTS OF THE MESSINA RAID.

THE BULK OF ROMMEL'S ARMY IS BELIEVED TO BE WELL BEYOND THE LIBYAN-TUNISIAN FRONTIER, WITH SOME OF HIS FORCES ESTABLISHED IN THE MARETH LINE WHICH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IS APPROACHING.

THE COMMUNIQUE REPORTED THAT AIR ACTIVITY YESTERDAY AND DURING THE PRECEDING NIGHT WAS NOT ON A LARGE SCALE ALTHOUGH LOW-FLYING ALLIED AIRCRAFT CONTINUED THEIR OFFENSIVE SWEEPS OVER SICILY AND BOMBED THE FERRY TERMINUS AT MESSINA.

NO PLANES WERE LOST IN THESE OPERATIONS.

ALGIERS, JAN. 27-(AP)-ALTHOUGH SHAKEN BY LAST NIGHT'S AIR RAID, THE MAN IN THE STREET IN THIS CAPITAL TODAY FOUND TIME TO PRAISE THE RESULTS OF THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCE.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S DARING FLIGHT INTO A BATTLE AREA FOR A CONFERENCE CAME IN FOR THE MOST COMMENT.

A TOBACCO SHOP KEEPER DECLARED: "THE AMERICANS ARE ALWAYS SPRINGING SURPRISES ON US. ROOSEVELT HAS SOME GUTS TO MAKE SUCH A TRIP."

SAID AN ARAB IN A GROCERY STORE: "ROOSEVELT IS WHAT PEOPLE CALL AN 'ACE.'"

THE WIFE OF A RETIRED MAYOR OF ALGIERS COMMENTED: "THE SECRET WAS WELL KEPT. IT WAS A GREAT SURPRISE AND YOU CAN'T IMAGINE HOW HAPPY WE ARE."

A MACHINIST DECLARED: "THERE'S SOMETHING GOOD IN THAT. BUT LET US WAIT AND SEE."

AN ARAB BUTCHER SPEAKING ON WHAT MIGHT COME OUT OF THE CONFERENCE SAID: "GOD IS THE ONLY ONE WHO KNOWS WHAT THEY DECIDED." JAN 27 1943

A RETIRED FRENCH ARMY GENERAL WHO WANTS A NEW COMMAND: "AT LAST THINGS ARE SETTLED. THE ONLY THING THAT IS LAMENTABLE IS THAT THE AMERICANS AND BRITISH HAD TO BRING ABOUT A MEETING WHICH WAS JUST BETWEEN TWO FRENCHMEN. THE AMERICANS AND BRITISH MUST HAVE BEEN FED UP WITH THE AFFAIRS, AND DECIDED THINGS MUST BE FIXED UP."

A LARGE NUMBER OF THOSE QUESTIONED EXPRESSED REGRET THAT THE JOINT DECLARATION OF GEN.CHARLES DE GAULLE AND GEN.HENRI GIRAUD WAS NOT MORE "DECISIVE."

A FORMER ALGERIAN POLICE CHIEF COMMENTING ON THE RESULT OF THE DE GAULLE-GIRAUD CONFERENCE SAID: "THEIR COMMUNIQUE WAS TOO VAGUE. LET US STOP ALL THIS WRANGLING AND GET TOGETHER TO FIGHT THE GERMANS."

ALGIERS, JAN 27-(AP)-AMONG THE WILD RUMORS WHICH SPREAD THROUGH ALGIERS AT THE FIRST WORD OF THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL MEETING AT CASABLANCA WERE REPORTS THAT GENERALISSIMO FRANCISCO FRANCO OF SPAI AND CROWN PRINCE UMBERTO OF ITALY AND A REPRESENTATIVE OF FIELD MARSHAL MANNERHEIM OF FINLAND ATTENDED THE CONFERENCE.

THESE RUMORS, ALL OF WHICH COLLAPSED WHEN THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE MEETING WAS MADE, SUGGESTED THAT FRANCO WAS JOINING THE ALLIES AND THAT ITALY AND FINLAND WERE ASKING FOR A SEPARATE PEACE.

THE AFTERNOON NEWSPAPERS REPORTED THAT GEN. CATROUX, FIGHTING FRENCH HIGH COMMISSIONER IN SYRIA, HAD PARTICIPATED IN THE MEETINGS BETWEEN GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE, HAVING COME TO AFRICA IN DE GAULLE'S PARTY.

CATROUX HAS CONSIDERABLE FOLLOWING IN NORTH AFRICA AND HE HAS BEEN MENTIONED AS THE MAN MOST LIKELY TO BRING ABOUT A SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THEM. SOME QUARTERS HAVE PUT HIS NAME FORWARD AS THE MOST LIKELY SUCCESSOR TO GEN. AUGUSTE NOGUES, GOVERNOR GENERAL OF MOROCCO.

"YOU AND YOUR MEN HAVE HELPED MAKE HISTORY," IN THE JUNGLES OF NEW GUINEA SAID THE LETTER, ADDRESSED TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE ADVANCE AMERICAN UNIT.

"REALIZING THE DIFFICULTIES AND ALMOST INSURMOUNTABLE OBSTACLES WHICH FACED YOU IN THE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF YOUR MISSION, IT WAS WITH A GREAT DEAL OF PLEASURE THAT I REPORTED TO OUR COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF THE IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION OF YOUR UNIT TO OUR MOMENTOUS VICTORY," THE MESSAGE CONCLUDED.

LONDON, JAN 27 (AP)-THE WAR OFFICE DISCLOSED TODAY HOW THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY OUTSMARTED MARSHAL ROMMEL BY ELUDING A TRAP AT THE START OF THE DESERT CAMPAIGN THAT PUT THE AXIS FORCES INTO A 1,400-MILE FLIGHT WESTWARD.

JAN 27 1943

ROMMEL'S TRAP THAT FAILED TO SPRING WAS DESCRIBED IN A 32-PAGE PICTURE STORY OF "THE BATTLE OF EGYPT" ISSUED BY THE WAR OFFICE.

BACK IN OCTOBER THE NOW-FLEEING ROMMEL POISED CONFIDENTLY ON THE EL ALAMEIN LINE, THE GATEWAY TO ALEXANDRIA AND CAIRO.

WITH THE FULL STRENGTH OF THE AFRICA CORPS AND SEVERAL ITALIAN DIVISIONS AVAILABLE, ROMMEL DELIBERATELY LEFT WEAK FORCES TO HOLD THE CENTER OF HIS LINE BETWEEN THE SEA AND THE QATTARA DEPRESSION. HE HOPED TO ENTICE THE EIGHTH ARMY TO STRIKE AT HIS CENTER--WITH STRONG AXIS FORCES ON BOTH FLANKS.

THE BRITISH REFUSED TO TAKE THE BAIT. INSTEAD THE EIGHTH ARMY SMASHED IN ROMMEL'S STRONGEST SECTOR IN THE NORTH. ELEVEN DAYS LATER THE GERMANS AND ITALIANS WERE IN FULL RETREAT.

ARMY PHOTOGRAPHERS RISKED THEIR LIVES TO GET A PICTORIAL STORY OF THE BATTLE THAT SAVED EGYPT.

JAN 27 1943

A NIGHT PHOTO SHOWS THE MIGHTY ARTILLERY BARRAGE THAT OPENED THE BRITISH DRIVE OCT. 23. THE FLASH OF FIELD GUNS SPACED EVERY 23 YARDS ON THE HORIZON OF THE MOONLIT DESERT WAS CAUGHT BY ARMY CAMERAMEN A MILE AWAY FROM THE ENEMY. THERE ALSO ARE PICTURES OF UNITED STATES-MADE GENERAL GRANT AND GENERAL SHERMAN TANKS IN ACTION. TME HAVOC THEY AND BRITISH TANKS INFLICTED ON ROMMEL'S MECHANIZED FORCES IS PICTURED DRAMATICALLY IN THE DUST AND SMOKE OF THE DESERT CAMPAIGN.

ALL BUT A FRACTION OF THE EIGHTH ARMY'S EQUIPMENT, HOWEVER, CAME FROM BRITISH FACTORIES. THE WAR OFFICE ADDED.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS AT SANANANDA, JAN.25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WITH THE COMMANDER OF AUSTRALIAN FORCES IN NEW GUINEA AS GUEST STAR, THEY PLAYED THE FINAL EPISODE TODAY IN THE STORY OF HUGGINS ROADBLOCK ONE OF THE EPIC BATTLEGROUNDS IN THE BRIEF, BLOODY, BITTER FIGHT FOR PAPUA.

FOR A LONG TIME TO COME HUGGINS WILL BE A VIVID MEMORY TO THE AMERICANS WHO CARVED IT OUT OF THE JUNGLE, THUS ISOLATING A LARGE JAP FORCE FROM ITS MAIN SOURCE OF SUPPLY.

JAN 27 1943

IT LONG WILL BE A MEMORY AS WELL TO THE AUSTRALIANS WHO RELIEVED THE FIRST AMERICAN UNITS AND TO THOSE OTHERS OF OUR OWN RESERVES WHO BROKE THE JAP BONDS AROUND HUGGINS AND MADE THE ROADBLOCK A STARTING POINT FOR THE DRIVE WHICH CLEARED THE ENEMY FROM THE SANANANDA TRACK.

THE HUGGINS WHICH THE AUSTRALIAN COMMANDER, LIEUT.GEN.EDWARD F.HERRING, VIEWED TODAY WAS NOT THE REAL HUGGINS ROADBLOCK. HE WAS GREETED BY AMERICAN OFFICERS WHO HAD SPRUCED THEIR SWEAT AND MUD STAINED UNIFORMS AND DONNED THEIR RANK INSIGNIA FOR THE FIRST TIME.

HE WAS WATCHED BY MEN RELAXED AND AT EASE, NO LONGER NEEDING TO WEAR HELMETS AGAINST THE ERSTWHILE EVER PRESENT DANGER OF PLATTING JAP SNIPER BULLETS AND JAP HAND GRENADES.

YET IT STILL WAS A COLORFUL SCENE. AS HERRING STEPPED OUT OF ONE JEEP AND MAJ.GEN.GEORGE A.VASEY, ANOTHER AUSTRALIAN COMMANDER, CLIMBED FROM A SECOND, FOUR NATIVES MARCHED TTHE CROWD CARRYING A LITTER BEARING A WOUNDED AUSTRALIAN.

WHILE THE GENERALS CONGRATULATED AND CHATTED WITH THE AMERICAN COMMANDER, HIS OFFICERS AND AMERICAN ENLISTED MEN SAUNTERED BY. SOME WERE CURIOUS. OTHERS---IN ALL SORTS OF COSTUMES FROM OVERALLS TO SELFMADE LOINCLOTHS---MERELY WERE GOING ABOUT THEIR BUSINESS WITH NO CONCERN FOR ALL THE RANK ON DISPLAY.

"THE FIRST TIME I VISITED THIS MAN I HAD TO CRAWL THROUGH THE JUNGLE," VASEY TOLD HERRING WITH A NOD TO THE AMERICAN COMMANDER. "I FOUND HIM IN A FOXHOLE WITH WATER ONLY TWO INCHES UNDERHIS BUNK.

THAT PERHAPS GAVE THE VISITOR SOME IDEA WHAT FIGHTING HERE HAD BEEN LIKE.

JAN 27 1943

NOT ALL THE MEN WHO SHOULD HAVE ATTENDED THE INFORMAL CEREMONY WERE PRESENT. AMONG THE MISSING WERE:

MAJOR GEORGE C.BOND OF ADRIAN,MICH., WHO LED TROOPS THROUGH THE UNCUT JUNGLE PAST JAP MACHINEGUN POSTS TO ESTABLISH HUGGINS;

CAPT.JOHN SHIRLEY OF LANSING,MICH., WHO TOOK OVER COMMAND OF THE ROADBLOCK;

CAPT.M.HUGGINS OF SALEM,ORE., FROM WHOM THE ROADBLOCK TOOK ITS NAME WHEN, AS LEADER OF A SUPPLY PARTY, HE REACHED THE SCENE AND FOUND A NEW COMMANDER WAS NEEDED;

CAPT.PETER DALPONTE, THREE RIVERS,WIS., LAST IN COMMAND BEFORE THE AUSSIES ASSUMED CHARGE.

JAN 27 1943

FROM HUGGINS GENERAL HERRING, WITH AN ARMED ESCORT OF AMERICANS, PROCEEDED TO SANANANDA TO VISIT THE COMMANDER OF THOSE AUSTRALIANS WHO HAD TAKEN THE COASTAL SECTOR OF THE SANANANDA BATTLE-ZONE.

BUT AFTER TAKING LEAVE OF MEN LIKE CAPT.JAMES R.KENT OF WILLOW CREEK, THE MONTANA OUTFIT'S ADJUSTANT, AND MAJOR HAROLD ST. QUELAND OF GLASGOW, ITS CHAPLAIN SINCE 1932 AND A BACTERIOLOGIST WITH THE 92ND DIVISION IN THE LAST WAR, I TURNED MY BACK ON HUGGINS.

THE FIRST TIME I REACHED IT WAS BY WAY OF A SLIMY, JAP-PLAGUED JUNGLE TRAIL. NOW I COULD LEAVE BY A RELATIVELY SMOOTH DIRT ROAD.

IN THE AREAS I ENCOUNTERED THE ARMY ENGINEERS.

THEIR MEN, SWEATING UNDER HEAVY PACKS, STILL HAD A CHEERY GREETING: SGT.THOMAS B.SHERROD OF LITTLE ROCK,ARK.; SGT.LEHMAN (FIRST NAME NOT GIVE.), WILD ROSE,WIS.; PFC. MICHAEL O'MALLEY, 1519 WEST NELSON, HCICAGO; PFC.FRANK VIOLA, CHICAGO; PVTS.PHILLIPS M.PIECHOCKI, 4353 WEST 25TH , CHICAGO, CARL E.BROOKS, 2352 ALBION, ST.LOUIS,MO., AND JULIUS R.CATERNO, 721 HIGH, NORRISTOWN,PA.

JAN 27 1943

BUT THE STORY OF HUGGINS WAS NOT QUITE ENDED YET. FAR DOWN THE ROAD BACK FROM WHAT WAS THE BATTLE AREA FOR A BIT MORE THAN THREE MONTHS---AND THEY USED TO SAY THE JAP IS A WASH OUT AS A DEFENSIVE FIGHTER---THERE WAS ANOTHER MEMORABLE SCENE, ONE WHICH PROBABLY COULD NOT BE DUPLICATED OUTSIDE PAPUA.

ON A LOW, LEAF-COVERED PLATFORM SET AGAINST A BACKDROP OF JUNGLE GREEN, GENERAL VASEY STOOD WITH HIS AUSTRALIAN OFFICERS. IN A CLEARING BETWEEN THE PLATFORM AND THE ROAD THERE WERE HUNDREDS OF NAATIVES RANGED IN ORDERLY RANKS.

IN FRONT ALONE STOOD THE CORPORAL OF NATIVE POLICEBOYS, SHORT AND CHUNKY LOOKING, ODDLY LIKE A GRIM DOWAGER. NEXT WERE ARRAYED TWO ROWS OF BOYS, EACH WEARING A DARK BLUE RAMI---A CLOTH WRAPAROUND WHICH TAKES THE PLACE OF THE WHITE MAN'S TROUSERS--- HELD UP BY A BRIGHT SASH AND CARTRIDGE BELT.

TO ONE SIDE STOOD TEN NATIVE CARRIERS IN A SINGLE SEPARATE ROW,

WHILE BEHIND THERE WERE ROWS OF HUNDREDS MORE WEARING BRILLIANT SCARLET AND BLUE RAMIS, OFTEN WITH FLOWERS IN THEIR FUZZY HAIR. KEKINIS---NATIVE WOMAN---MANY WITH BABIES AT THEIR BREASTS--- FILLED IN THE SIDELINES.

THIS WAS THE FINAL CHAPTER IN THE HUGGINS HISTORY, AND MEN WITHOUT WHOM IT COULDN'T HAVE BEEN WRITTEN WERE ITS CHIEF CHARACTERS. FOR THEN TEN ESPECIALLY SELECTED NATIVES---SOME OF THEM HAD BEEN BROUGHT FROM RABAUL BY THE JAPS AND TAKEN INTO THE OWEN STANLEY MOUNTAINS, WHERE THEY ESCAPED---NOW WERE DECORATED WITH MEDALS BY GENERAL VASEY.

JAN 27 1943

MOST WERE BEING REWARDED FOR HAVING KEPT THE AMERICANS AND AUSSIES AT THE ROADBLOCK SUPPLIES WITH FOOD AND AMMUNITION, PACKED IN OVER TORTUROUS JUNGLE TRAILS OFTEN IN THE FACE OF ENEMY RIFLE AND MACHINE-GUN FIRE.

MEDALS COULD BE NO MORE THAN TOKEN PAYMENT FOR THEIR CONTRIBUTION TO WHAT WAS HAILED BY LIEUT.GEN.ROBERT L.EICHELBERGER, COMMANDER DS INENENIGHENEVATES FOR

JAN 27 1943

TO WHAT WAS HAILED BY LIEUT.GEN.ROBERT L.EICHELBERGER, COMMANDER OF THE UNITED STATES FORCES IN NEW GUINEA, AS "THE FIRST MAJOR LAND DEFEAT" INFLICTED ON THE JAPANESE.

BUT THERE WAS A SMALL BACKGROUND INCIDENT WHICH PERHAPS GAVE THEM AT LEAST AS MUCH SATISFACTION AS THE DECORATIONS THEMSELVES.

THE CEREMONY DREW QUITE A CROWD OF AUSTRALIAN AND AMERICAN ONLOOKERS WHO OVERFLOWED ONTO THE ROAD. BECAUSE OF THIS A JEEP-LOAD OF FIVE JAPANESE PRISONERS OF WAR HAD TO WAIT AT THE SIDE OF THE ROAD UNTIL THE CEREMONY WAS CONCLUDED AND EACH NATIVE HERO HAD BEEN

30.24-673

DECORATED IN TURN. THEN THE JAPS COULD PROCEED TO PRISON.

TO THIS ONLOOKER, THAT SEEMED NO LESS THAN POETIC JUSTICE.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR SANANANDA, JAN.23-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A BLISTERING SUN AND THE ALL-PERVADING STENCH OF DEAD JAPANESE MARKED THE LAST TWO MILES OF THE ROAD TODAY TO A 250-YARD-LONG BEACH AT THE END OF THE PROLONGED SANANANDA CAMPAIGN.

IT WAS DISAPPOINTING TO FIND SANANANDA BEACH TO BE NOTHING MORE THAN A BARREN, 100-YARD WIDE SANDSPIT.

JAN 27 1943

THE TREK TO THE BEACH WAS HIGHLIGHTED BY VISITS WITH GROUPS OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS, INCLUDING FOUR WHO WERE MANNING A MACHINEGUN POST NEAR THE MOUTH OF GIRUWA CREEK A THOUSAND YARDS EAST OF SANANANDA POINT. THEY WERE SGT.ANDREW HUSS OF CASSOPOLIS,MICH.; CORP. BYRIL GARIETY OF OCONOMOWOC,WIS., AND PVTS.EUGENE HENDERSON OF ATLANTA,KAS., AND HARRY BERCH OF DETROIT.

JAN 27 1943

BUT STARTING AT THE BEGINNING, I BEGAN WALKING TO THE SEA IN THE COMPANY OF CAPT.PETER ANGELO, WELLESLEY,MASS.; LIEUT.JIM WALKER, BOSTON, AND SGT.JOE O'CONNOR, FORMER FIREMAN OF WORCESTER,MASS., NOW ON DUTY WITH A PORTABLE HOSPITAL.

THEY WERE GOING FORWARD TO A FORMER JAP AREA TO INSPECT HOSPITALS AND SEE WHAT THEY COULD FIND IN THE WAY OF MEDICAL EQUIPMENT.

FOR THE FIRST THREE-QUARTERS OF A MILE, MUCH WORK HAD BEEN DONE TO MAKE THE ROAD "JEEPABLE." THEN WE MET A GROUP WHO TOLD OF KILLING 16 JAPS, ONE OF THEM AN OFFICER, JUST AS THEY WERE PREPARING THAT MORNING TO TRY TO SLIP THROUGH THE AMERICAN LINES. THIS WAS THE COMPANY WHICH YESTERDAY KILLED 38 JAPS WHO WERE TRYING TO GET THROUGH TO THE WEST.

THE GROUP I SAW INCLUDED PVT.LAWRENCE R.GREENWAH OF CALEDONIA, ILL. FARTHER ON WE WERE JOINED BY CPLS.NELSON HUNTSMAN, CANTON, MASS., AND NORMAN PURINTON, LISBON FALLS,ME., SURGICAL-MEDICAL TECHNICIANS FOR A PORTABLE HOSPITAL. BUT THEY SOON DRIFTED OFF INTO THE BRUSH ALONG THE ROAD.

JAN 27 1943

UP TO THIS POINT MOST OF THE JAP BODIES HAD BEEN BURIED, BUT AS WE NEARED THE COAST, I MUST HAVE PASSED HUNDREDS---SOME KILLED IN RECENT DAYS, AND OTHERS WERE BLEACHED SKELETONS AND SKULLS. ONE SKULL WAS LYING ALONE IN THE GRASS AT THE ROADSIDE. A PASSING AUSTRALIAN FOUND A JAP SOLDIER'S CAP, PLACED IT ON THE SKULL AND REMARKED, "NOW THE SUN WON'T BOTHER HIM SO MUCH."

BEHIND THE SHELTER OF A SHRUB, WITH A RIFLE TRAINED ON THE ROAD, SAT PVT.JAMES HATHCOK, LUCEDALE,MISS. HE AND PVT.GORDON JOYNER, PEORIA,ILL., WERE ALTERNATING ON GUARD DUTY FOR ONE OF THE COMPANIES. EACH HAD KILLED A JAP DURING THE NIGHT FROM HIS GUARD POST, DIRING AT SHADOWY FIGURES IN THE MOONLIGHT.

THESE JAPS DIDN'T BEAR OUT THE STORIES I HAD HEARD OF STARVATION, OR RESEMBLE PRISONERS I HAD SEEN WEARING RAGS. THEY WERE WELL FED, AND HAD AMPLE RATIONS OF RICE AND DRIED FISH. THEY WERE WEARING BRAND NEW UNIFORMS.

I CAME UPON A PARTY OF ENGINEERS RESTING AFTER A MEAL OF IRON RATIONS, WITH THE INEVITABLE TEA.

THEY WERE A CHEERFUL GROUP OF ROADBUILDERS WHO CALLED THEMSELVES "MUCHERS." THE DETAIL INCLUDED PVTS.EDWARD ZUPERKU, SCHILLER PARK,ILL., AND BILL HILLIARD, DURHAM,N.C.

ANOTHER 200 YARDS ALONG THE ROAD SEVERAL MEN WERE POKING AROUND SOUVENIR HUNTING AND JAP HUNTING, INCLUDING CORP.ADAM NARYKA, SIOUX CITY,IA., AND PVT.NICK STATHAS, 1211 WEST AINSLIE, CHICAGO.

ON THE WAY BACK I STOPPED TO CHAT WITH MACHINE GUNNERS WHO WERE PACKING UP THEIR GEAR AFTER CONTRIBUTING TO THE DAY'S SUCCESS. AMONG THEM WERE PVT.ARNOLD M.GUSTAFSON, MENTOR,MINN., A 30-CALIBER MACHINE GUNNER, AND CHESTER CHOWRON, 5144 S.ABERDEEN, CHICAGO, AMMUNITION CARRIER.

AT THE CROSS ROAD WERE THE 27-MILLIMETER GUN CREWS HEADED BY OUR ESCORT, SERGEANT MCKNIGHT, WHO SEVERAL DAYS AGO HAD ENTERED A JAP PERIMETER JUST AFTER THE ENEMY WITHDREW AND BROUGHT BACK, WITH THE AID OF ONLY ONE MAN, A WATERCOOLED 50-CALIBER MACHINE GUN.

HIS FIRST GUNNERS, WHO HAD BLASTED SEVERAL PILLBOXES, WERE CORPS.TED SMARSZEZ, 1106 HESTON, TOLEDO,O., AND JAMES PETERSON, 5734 SOUTH MOZART, CHICAGO. THE NUMBER TWO GUNNERS WERE PVTS.JOHN CHYEZEWSKI, 5938 57TH ROAD, MASPETH,N.Y., AND DOMINICK AIELLO, 3210 SOUTH WELLS, CHICAGO. PVT. JACK A.STERN OF MILWAUKEE,WIS., WAS THE LEADER AND THE LIAISON MAN WAS CORP.MARTIN J.SETTLE, OF MARTINSDALE,MINN.

"OUR LOSSES IN THE PAPUAN CAMPAIGN HAVE NOW BEEN COMPILED AND ARE LOW," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID. "AS COMPARED TO THE ENEMY, THEY ARE LESS THAN HALF THAT OF HIS GROUND FORCE LOSSES INCLUDING NOT ONLY OUR BATTLE CASUALTIES BUT OUR SICK FROM NATURAL CAUSES. IN THE AIR THEY AMOUNT TO A VERY MUCH LOWER PROPORTION AND ON THE SEA OUR LOSSES WERE NEGLIGIBLE.

"THESE FIGURES REVERSE THE USUAL RESULTS OF A GROUND OFFENSIVE CAMPAIGN, ESPECIALLY AGAINST PREPARED POSITIONS DEFENDED TO THE LAST WHEN LOSSES OF THE ATTACKER USUALLY ARE SEVERAL TIMES THAT OF A DEFENDER. TWO FACTORS CONTRIBUTED TO THIS RESULT; FIRST, THERE WAS NO NECESSITY OF A HURRY ATTACK BECAUSE THE TIME ELEMENT IN THIS CASE WAS OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE; AND, SECOND, FOR THIS REASON NO ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO RUSH POSITIONS BY MASS AND UNPREPARED ASSAULT. THE UTMOST CARE WAS TAKEN FOR CONSERVATION OF OUR FORCES WITH THE RESULT THAT PROBABLY NO CAMPAIGN IN HISTORY AGAINST A THOROUGHLY PREPARED AND TRAINED ARMY PRODUCED SUCH COMPLETE AND DECISIVE RESULTS WITH A LOWER EXPENDITURE OF LIFE AND RESOURCE."

BY HARRY CROCKETT

WITH A BRITISH NAVAL STRIKING FORCE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, JAN. 20-(DELAYED)-(AP)-CLIMAXING A FIVE-DAY SERIES OF SUCCESSES, BRITISH LIGHT BUT HARD-HITTING NAVAL FORCES LITERALLY BLAZED A TRAIL OF CRASHING STEEL AND BRILLIANT FLAME OVER THE MOONLIT MEDITERRANEAN LAST NIGHT AND EARLY TODAY AND SANK 11 AXIS SHIPS.

(THE RESULTS OF THESE ENCOUNTERS HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED PREVIOUSLY IN OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUES.)

NUMERICALLY IT WAS THE BIGGEST SINGLE NIGHT'S BAG OF ENEMY SHIPPING IN THE EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN SINCE H.M.S. AURORA AND PENELOPE DESTROYED A 10-SHIP CONVOY OFF MALTA MORE THAN A YEAR AGO.

THIS SUCCESS MADE A TOTAL OF 14 SHIPS SUNK IN A FIVE-DAY OFFENSIVE, MUCH OF WHICH I HAVE WATCHED FROM THE BRIDGE OF H.M.S. NUBIAN (A1,870-TON DESTROYER OF THE TRIBAL CLASS COMPLETED IN 1938).

LAST NIGHT'S GRAND FINALE BEGAN IN THE LIGHT OF A BRILLIANT

JAN 27 1943

MOON AT ABOUT 11 P.M. AND SO CLOSE TO THE TRIPOLITAN COAST OFF SIDI ALI, NORTHWEST OF TRIPOLI, THAT THE SALVOES FIRED BY THE OPPOSING FORCE ON SHORE WERE CLEARLY SEEN. THE SKY WAS ALIGHT FOR MILES WITH COASTAL ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE, FLARES AND BOMBS.

MOVING SOUTH OF THE GULF OF GABES OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE BRITISH WARSHIPS SPOTTED THEIR FIRST VICTIM SILHOUETTED IN THE MOONLIGHT NEARLY FIVE MILES AWAY.

JAN 27 1943

SPEEDING DIRECTLY SHOREWARD THE SHIPS' FIRST SALVO SMASHED INTO THIS SHIP, AN ARMED TRAWLER, AND THERE WAS NO NEED FOR MORE. OBVIOUSLY CARRYING A CARGO OF GASOLINE, THE TRAWLER WENT UP IN ONE VAST COLORFUL EXPLOSION AND SHEET OF FLAME.

HARDLY A MILE AWAY THE WARSHIPS SUDDENLY CAME UPON TWO MORE SHIPS, AN ARMED TRAWLER AND A SCHOONER, BOTH HEAVILY LADEN.

A STREAM OF POMPOM EXPLOSIVE TRACERS AND A BLINDING FLASH FROM THE MAIN ARMAMENT FROM EACH WARSHIP WAS REQUIRED THIS TIME. THE TRAWLER MANAGED TO GET OFF ONE SALVO FROM HER FAIRLY HEAVY GUNS BEFORE SHE AND HER COMPANION WERE HIT AND SUNK IN LESS THAN A MINUTE.

FLARES FROM ENEMY AIRCRAFT OUTSHONE THE BRILLIANT MOON AS THIS JOB WAS FINISHED, BUT THE AERIAL ATTACK FAILED TO MATERIALIZE AS THE WARSHIPS TURNED NORTH AND SPED AWAY, ALTERING COURSE AND OFTEN AVOIDING FLOATING MINES.

JAN 27 1943

THEN TAKING A GENERALLY NORTHERN COURSE, OUR SHIPS DISCOVERED THE SILHOUETTES OF THREE VESSLES TO STARBOARD AND THREE TO PORT--OBVIOUSLY A CONVOY FROM TRIPOLI DISPERSING. TWO WERE ARMED TRAWLERS, TWO WERE HEAVILY LADEN 2,000-TON MERCHANTMEN, ONE AN ITALIAN MOTOR LAUNCH AND THE OTHER WAS A GUNBOAT.

THE NEXT FEW MINUTES SAW THE SKY ABLAZE WITH BRILLIANT FLAME AND SCREAMING SHELLS. THE TRAWLERS FIRED ALL THEY HAD BUT THEY WERE DOWN WITHIN A FEW MINUTES.

THEN CAME THE MERCHANTMEN'S TURN. THE TRAWLERS WERE STILL BLAZING FURIOUSLY AS ROUND AFTER ROUND WAS POURED INTO ONE OF THE CARGO SHIPS. TWO TORPEDOES FINISHED HER OFF AS THE CREW PLUNGED INTO THE COLD WATER. THE SECOND MERCHANT SHIP ALREADY WAS ABANDONED AS THE FIRST 12 BLAZING ROUNDS OF SHELL CRACHED INTO HER, SENDING HER DOWN. LIKE MOST OF THE OTHERS THE ABANDONED SHIP EXPLODED BEFORE DISAPPEARING UNDER THE WATER.

JAN 27 1943

THEN CAME A CHASE OF TWO SMALL CARGO CRAFT, ONE OF WHICH SIMPLY SEEMED TO DISAPPEAR IN A CLOUD OF SMOKE AFTER A SALVO.

THE ITALIAN NATIONAL EMBLEM WAVED IN THE WIND AND GLISTENED IN THE SEARCHLIGHT AS A CHASE OF AN ITALIAN NAVAL AUXILIARY FOLLOWED. SOON THE GUNNERS GOT THE RANGE, AND SHE TOO WENT UP IN A CLOUD OF SMOKE AND HISSING STEAM FROM MANY ROUNDS FIRED INTO HER STERN.

SO WOUND UP AN ACTION IN WHICH THE BRITISH SHIPS PREVIOUSLY HAD SUNK TWO BIG MERCHANTMEN AND TWO AUXILIARIES AND DAMAGED A DESTROYER IN FIVE DAYS.

AT A U.S. BOMBER BASE SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, JAN.26-(DELAYED)-(AP)-FROM A SEAT IN THE CLOUDS I SAW RANGOON SUFFER A PUNCH FROM THE TENTH UNITED STATES AIR FORCE.

JAN 27 1943

DOCKYARDS AGAIN WERE SEVERELY PUMMELED AND SET ABLAZE AND A FREIGHTER IN THE HARBOR WAS LEFT BURNING BY THE CASCADE OF BOMBS FROM OUR HEAVY MACHINES.

PAMPHLETS WERE SCATTERED BY OUR MISSION WHICH WAS A CONTINUATION OF THE EVER-ACCELERATING AERIAL OFFENSIVE ON JAPANESE-OCCUPIED BURMA, LEAVING THE WAY CLEAR FOR EVENTUAL ALLIED EFFORTS TO RECWPLPICNANOTHER STEPPING STONE TO TOKYO.

WE ENCOUNTERED NO JAPANESE FIGHTERS, BUT WE FLEW THROUGH A HOT BARRAGE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT BURSTS AS WE STREAKED RIGHT ACROSS THE PANCAKE-FLAT CITY IN BROAD DAYLIGHT TO THE DOCKS ALONG THE BROWN, MEANDERING RANGOON RIVER.

LEAVING THE WAY CLEAR FOR EVENTUAL ALLIED EFFORTS TO RECAPTURE ANOTHER STEPPING STONE TO TOKYO.

WE ENCOUNTERED NO JAPANESE FIGHTERS, BUT WE FLEW THROUGH A HOT BARRAGE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT BURSTS AS WE STREAKED RIGHT ACROSS THE PANCAKE-FLAT CITY IN BROAD DAYLIGHT TO THE DOCKS ALONG THE BROWN, MEANDERING RANGOON RIVER.

JAN 27 1943

WATCHING THIS STUFF EXPLODE ALL AROUND GAVE ONE A STRANGE SENSATION, A LITTLE LIKE WATCHING A TALKIE WHOSE SOUND TRACK WAS OUT OF COMMISSION.

ONE COULD SEE AN UGLY BURST BUT COULD NOT HEAR THE "TALK." NOR DID WE FEEL ANYTHING. THOUGH IT TOOK LITTLE IMAGINATION TO KNOW WHAT HAPPENED IF THE BURSTS CAME CLOSER. NONE OF OUR PLANES WAS HIT.

TWO FLIERS FROM NORTH CAROLINA FLEW THE PLANE IN WHICH I WAS A PASSENGER--FIRST LIEUT.RICHARD T.HENNING OF ALBEMARLE, THE PILOT, AND FIRST LIEUT.ALLAN A.LATHAM OF MONROE, THE CO-PILOT.

OTHERS OF THE CREW WERE: SECOND LIEUT.THOMAS RIDGWAY (CORRECT) OF DURANT, OKLA., BOMBARDIER; STAFF SERGT. JAMES FRANKLIN OF TOWNSEND, MONT., RADIO OPERATOR; STAFF SERGT.NIQUITTE OF TWO RIVERS, WIS., ENGINEER; STAFF SERGT. EDDE RUSE, MANHATTAN, MONT., TAIL GUNNER AND STAFF SERGT. BERT STRODEM OF REDDING, CALIF., ASSISTANT RADIO OPERATOR AND BELLY GUNNER.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA JAN 26-(DELAYED)-(AP) CAPT.JAMES DEWOLF OF KEARNEY, NEB., ADDED HIS NAME TODAY TO THE GROWING LIST OF FLYING FORTRESS PILOTS WHOSE PLANES ARE CREDITED WITH DIRECT HITS ON JAPANESE VESSELS IN RABAUL HARBOR, NEW BRITAIN.

DEWOLF SAID HIS BOMBARDIER, LIEUT.JOHN JAMES OF WOODWARD, OKLA., LANDED A HIT ON A MEDIUM-SIZED SHIP AT THE WHARF ON A SECOND RUN OVER THE HARBOR.

JAN 27 1943

"WE GLIDED IN AND WHEN I GUNNED THE ENGINES, THE JAPANESE TURNED THEIR SEARCHLIGHTS IN THE WRONG DIRECTION, SO THEY DIDN'T CATCH US UNTIL AFTER WE DROPPED THE BOMBS. WE SAW THE VESSEL CATCH FIRE."

DEWOLF'S CO-PILOT AND NAVIGATOR WERE LIEUTS.WOODROW THORE, DILLON, S.C., AND WILLIAM MCCAMY, SCOTSBORO, ALA.

OTHER B-17 PILOTS RAIDING RABAUL INCLUDED LIEUTS.JAMES DIEFENDORFER, SPRAGUE, W.VA., WILLIAM THOMPSON, CANTON, OHIO, FRANCIS DENAULT, WEST SPRINGFIELD, MASS., AND JAMES MURPHY, OF ROUNDUP, MONTANA.

MURPHY SAID HE DROPPED BOMBS ON A TRAIN OF BOATS, BUT BELIEVED EACH BOMB FELL BETWEEN A BOAT.

B-25'S ATTACKED LAE AGAIN, STARTING FIRES AT THE AIRDROME.

PILOTS AND BOMBARDIERS ON THE FLIGHT INCLUDED CAPT.DAVID CONCLEY, WICHITA, KAS.; LIEUTS.ALDEN HICKS, MONACA, PA.; JOHN BROMAGE, CRANFORD, N.J.; THOMAS CLINE, AUGUSTA, KY.; CECIL LILES, CORSICANA, TEX.; RICHARD TOBIN, BOSTON, AND JOHN DEENS, ASHEVILLE, N.C.

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, JAN 27-(AP)-IN ONE OF THE WAR'S STRANGE QUIRKS, THE DEFENDERS OF STALINGRAD TODAY ARE GERMAN, NOT RUSSIAN, FIGHTING ATTACK AGAINST THE BATTERED RUINS IN THE HEART OF THE CITY AND IN ANOTHER POCKET SLIGHTLY TO THE NORTH.

THIS REMNANT OF NAZI FORCES ONCE NUMBERING 22 DIVISIONS--220,000 MEN AT FULL STRENGTH--HAS BEEN WHITTLED DOWN TO 12,000 MEN, THE RUSSIANS SAID. A SPECIAL COMMUNIQUE DECLARED THESE DOOMED.

"IT IS ONLY A MATTER OF TWO OR THREE DAYS," IT SAID, "BEFORE THEY ALSO WILL BE COMPLETELY ANNIHILATED."

BATTLEFRONT DISPATCHES REPORTED THE RED ARMY PROCEEDING RELENTLESSLY WITH THE DESTRUCTION OF THE TRAPPED TROOPS.

(A RUSSIAN MID-DAY COMMUNIQUE AS RECORDED IN LONDON BY THE SOVIET MONITOR SAID THAT THE 534TH GERMAN INFANTRY REGIMENT IN THE STALINGRAD TRAP HAD SURRENDERED IN MASS AFTER NIGHT-LONG FIGHTING, AND THAT SOME UNITS OF THE 669TH INFANTRY REGIMENT WERE WIPED OUT.

(THE COMMUNIQUE REPORTED 1,467 OTHER GERMANS TAKEN PRISONER IN A TRAP ON THE VORONEZH FRONT, AND SAID THE RUSSIANS GAINED FURTHER GROUND ON THE SOUTHWESTERN FRONT AND IN THE CAUCASUS, CAPTURING A NUMBER OF ADDITIONAL TOWNS AND VILLAGES.

JAN 27 1943

(THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE, IN A BERLIN BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE WAS EXTENDING TO NEW SECTORS, AND REPORTED THAT THE REMNANT OF THE GERMAN SIXTH ARMY, HOLDING ON IN THE DEBRIS OF STALINGRAD, WAS RESISTING BITTERLY AGAINST CONSTANT SOVIET LAND AND AIR ATTACKS.

(THE GERMAN ACCOUNT SAID "IN THE KUBAN DISTRICT GERMAN MOVEMENTS WERE CONTINUED ENTIRELY ACCORDING TO PLAN"--A PHRASE USED BY THE GERMANS RECENTLY IN ACKNOWLEDGING WITHDRAWALS. THE GERMANS REPORTED FIERCE FIGHTING IN THE NORTH CAUCASUS AND ALONG THE LOWER DON, AND SAID "AN ATTEMPT MADE BY THE ENEMY TO PREVENT CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW DEFENSE POSITION WEST OF VORONEZH AND TO BREAK INTO GERMAN LINES... WAS REPULSED WITH HIGH CASUALTIES.")

30.24 -679

TASS PUBLISHED A WAR REVIEW WHICH SAID RUSSIAN SUCCESSES HAD BEEN ON SUCH A SCALE THAT THE GERMANS HAD BEEN FORCED TO TELL THEIR PEOPLE THEIR ARMIES HAD MET REVERSES AND FACED STILL FURTHER LOSSES.

A115

"THE CHANGE IN THE TONE OF THE HITLERITE PROPAGANDA AFFORDS IRREFUTABLE PROOF OF THE FACT THAT HITLERITE GERMANY HAS ENTERED THE STAGE OF GRAVE MILITARY DEFEATS WHICH WILL INEVITABLY BRING HER TO COMPLETE COLLAPSE," SAID TASS.

JAN 27 1943

THE RUSSIANS REPORTED THAT IN THEIR CLEAN-UP AT STALINGRAD TO DATE THEY HAD SEIZED 523 GERMAN PLANES, 4,297 TANKS, 2,978 PIECES OF ARTILLERY AND VAST QUANTITIES OF OTHER IMPORTANT MATERIAL.

THEY DECLARED THAT THE IMPORTANT STALINGRAD-POVORINO, STALINGRAD-SALSK AND STALINGRAD-TATSINSKAYA RAIL LINES HAD BEEN MADE AVAILABLE AGAIN FOR RUSSIAN USE.

RED STAR SAID THE FROZEN STEPPE WEST OF STALINGRAD WAS LITTERED WITH "THOUSANDS OF CARS AND TRUCKS, MOST OF THEM UNDAMAGED," WHICH WERE RENDERED USELESS TO THE NAZIS WHEN THEIR WAY OF ESCAPE FROM STALINGRAD WAS CUT.

THE ARMY NEWSPAPER SAID SOME OF THE NAZI COMMANDERS--MONG THEM LIEUT.GEN.DANIELS, COMMANDER OF THE 367TH DIVISION; GEN.SCHVERING, COMMANDER OF THE 79TH DIVISION, AND GEN.OPPENDLENDER, COMMANDER OF THE 305TH DIVISION, ABANDONED THEIR TROOPS AT STALINGRAD BY PLANE AFTE THE GERMANS REJECTED A SOVIET ULTIMATUM TO SURRENDER.

MOSCOW- INSERT IN RUSSIAN AFTER THIRD GRAPH X X X COMPLETELY ANNIHILATED."

THE RUSSIANS SAID THE BIGGEST GROUP OF GERMANS-- SOME 8000-- WERE JAMMED INTO AN OYSTER-SHAPED POSITION JUST BACK FROM THE HIGH WEST BANK OF THE VOLGA IN AN APARTMENT-HOUSE AND SMALL FACTORY SECTION NORTH OF THE CITY. THE POSITION HAS DESCRIBED AS ABOUT A MILE AND A HALF LONG, AND A QUARTER-MILE WIDE.

JAN 27 1943

THE OTHER GROUP-- ABOUT 4,000 GERMANS-- WAS REPORTED PENNED IN A CIRCULAR POSITION NEAR THE CENTRAL PART OF THE CITY.

THEY CARRIED SLOGANS SUCH AS "CONCENTRATION CAMPS FOR SPIES," "LIQUIDATION OF THE FIFTH COLUMN," "RECOGNITION OF THE SOVIET UNION," AND "ALL FOR THE TRIUMPH OF THE DEMOCRACIES."

RIOS TOLD THEM CHILE HAD "TAKEN THE ONLY STAND WORTHY OF ITS TRADTION AND SPIRIT" IN BREAKING WITH THE AXIS, AND HE CALLED FOR INCREASED PRODUCTION TO AID THE AMERICAN WAR EFFORT.

"MY FELLOW CITIZENS SHOULD KNOW," HE SAID, "THAT DIFFICULT TIMES ARE COMING. THE COUNTRY MUST ACT IN UNISON. WE NEED TO INCREASE OUR PRODUCTION AND RESTRICT OUR PRIVILEGES."

HE REMINDED THE CROWD THAT HE HAD PROMISED FAIR TREATMENT OF AXIS NATIONALS, BUT ALSO GAVE A "LAST WARNING" THAT "I WILL PUNISH SEVERELY ANY ACT CONTRARY TO THE COMMON INTERESTS OF AMERICA."

RIO DE JANEIRO, JAN. 27—(AP)—GETULIO VARGAS, JR., 23, SON OF THE BRAZILIAN PRESIDENT, WAS PLACED IN AN IRON LUNG TODAY UNDER OBSERVATION INDICATING HE WAS SUFFERING FROM INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

OTTAWA JAN 27-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TODAY THAT NOTHING COULD HAVE GIVEN "MORE IN THE WAY OF FRESH LIGHT ON THE HORIZON" THAN THE CASABLANCA MEETING OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL.

FEB 28 1943

HE SAID IT WAS "GRATIFYING" THAT AGREEMENT HAD BEEN REACHED ON WAR PLANS FOR 1943, THAT GENERALS CHARLES DE GAULLE AND HENRI GIRAUD HAD MET, AND THAT MORE AID WAS SLATED FOR CHINA AND RUSSIA.

HE SAID HE PREFERRED TO WAIT UNTIL THE NEW SESSION OPENS TOMORROW FOR A FULL DISCUSSION ON THE NORTH AFRICAN CONFERENCE.

OTTAWA JAN 27-(AP)-AN ESTIMATED 91,800 MALE CANADIANS IN THE UNITED STATES, AGED FROM 18 TO 38, WHO HAVE NOT DECLARED THEIR INTENTION OF BECOMING AMERICAN CITIZENS ARE SUBJECT TO CALL IN THAT COUNTRY UNDER THE U.S.SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM, THE GOVERNMENT SAID IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TODAY IN REPLY TO A QUESTION.

SUCH CANADIANS, WHEN CALLED FOR SERVICE IN THE UNITED STATES, ARE NOTIFIED THROUGH ENLISTMENT CENTERS THAT THEY MAY ELECT TO SERVE WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES, THE GOVERNMENT SAID.

FEB 28 1943

THE NUMBER WHO HAVE ENLISTED IN THE CANADIAN FORCES AT UNITED STATES ENLISTMENT CENTERS TOTALS 294. IN ADDITION, AN UNKNOWN NUMBER OF MEN VOLUNTARILY PROCEEDED TO CANADA FOR ENLISTMENT.

ENLISTMENT CENTERS FOR CANADIANS IN THE UNITED STATES WERE OPENED AT DETROIT, BOSTON, ST.PAUL, SEATTLE, BUFFALO AND BANGOR, ME. THOSE AT BUFFALO AND BANGOR HAVE SINCE BEEN CLOSED.

VANCOUVER, B.C., JAN.27-(CANADIAN PRESS)-IN ORDINARY TIMES GROUPS ARE FREE TO ORGANIZE TO PRESS THEIR CLAIMS FOR RECOGNITION BUT IN WARTIME SUCH PRESSURES ENDANGER THE SAFETY OF THE NATION, DONALD GORDON, PRICES BOARD CHAIRMAN, SAID IN AN ADDRESS PREPARED FOR DELIVERY LAST NIGHT TO THE VANCOUVER BOARD OF TRADE.

THE CHIEF CANADIAN PRICE-CONTROL OFFICER SAID THERE WAS A MISTAKEN IDEA ABROAD THAT A PRICE CEILING SHOULD BE IMPOSED SO THAT PROFIT MARGINS OR PRE-WAR STANDARDS COULD BE MAINTAINED.

"WHEN THE IMPACT OF WAR RESTRICTIONS BEGINS TO BE NOTICED THERE MAY BE A TENDENCY (AMONG GROUPS) TO COMPARE OR CONTRAST WHAT THEY CONSIDER TO BE THEIR SACRIFICES OR HARDSHIPS WITH THOSE OF OTHER INDIVIDUALS OR GROUPS, WITH THE RESULT THAT FRICTION AND RESENTMENT DEVELOP," HE SAID.

"IN ORDINARY TIMES EVERY INTEREST, EVERY GROUP OR CLASS IN THE COMMUNITY IS FREE TO ORGANIZE IN ORDER TO PRESS ITS CLAIM FOR RECOGNITION. BUT THE PLAIN FACT IS THAT IN TIMES OF WAR SUCH PRESSURES ENDANGER THE SAFETY OF THE NATION.

"NO CONCESSION WRUNG BY ONE CLASS FROM ANOTHER UNDER PRESSURE OF VITAL WARTIME NECESSITY IS GOING TO BE OF ANY USE IF THE JAPS OR THE HUNS ARE GOING TO BE THE ONES WHO DECIDE WHICH HAD THE BETTER OF THE ARGUMENT. NO PERSON HAS THE RIGHT TO USE THE WAR FOR HIS GREATER PERSONAL GAIN."

IN A REVIEW OF PRICES BOARD ACTIVPZPWRWPINMLDZWUUFIJ

IN A REVIEW OF PRICES BOARD ACTIVITIES IN HOLDING PRICES UNDER THE GENERAL CEILING IMPOSED LATE IN 1941, GORDON SAID "ENDLESS PRESSURES" OPERATE TO DEFEAT THE CEILING.

"FOR EXAMPLE, PRESSURE FOR WAGE INCREASES IS PERSISTENT AND CONTINUOUS," HE SAID.

EVERY WAGE INCREASE HAD SERIOUS IMPLICATIONS IN REGARD TO MAINTAINING THE CEILING. SINCE THE PRICE CEILING WENT INTO EFFECT, MANY PRODUCERS HAD SHARED IN THE "SQUEEZE" DEVELOPING FROM THE SPREAD BETWEEN ESTABLISHMENT OF RETAIL PRICES AND THE INCREASED COST OF REPLACEMENT GOODS. BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY HAD ABSORBED TO THE FULL THE COST OF LIVING BONUS.

FEB 28 1943

D21

"IF STILL FURTHER WAGE INCREASES TAKE PLACE, HOWEVER, MANY INDUSTRIES WILL BE UNABLE TO MEET THEM AND WE SHALL BE FACED WITH EITHER HAVING TO INCREASE PRICES FOR THEIR PRODUCTS OR PROVIDING RELIEF BY WAY OF SUBSIDY," GORDON SAID.

"THE FIRST ALTERNATIVE MEANS A DEFEAT OF THE PRICE CEILING, WITH INFLATION AGAIN UNDER WAY; THE SECOND BECOMES AN ADMINISTRATIVE TASK OF SUCH MAGNITUDE THAT IT IS, IN MY OPINION, QUITE UNMANAGEABLE, EVEN IF PUBLIC OPINION WOULD SUPPORT SUCH A WIDESPREAD EXTENSION OF THE SUBSIDY PRINCIPLE.

"IF WAGE INCREASES ARE SECURED AT THE EXPENSE OF THE ANTI-INFLATIONARY POLICY, I SAY EARNESTLY THAT THE WAGE EARNER WILL BE OBTAINING A VERY FLEETING ADVANTAGE. THE ANTI-INFLATION POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT HAS, AT HEART, THE BEST LONG-RUN INTERESTS OF THE WAGE-EARNING CLASS. TO WRECK THAT POLICY, OR TO MAKE ITS ADMINISTRATION IMPOSSIBLE, IS AN ACT OF SELF-DESTRUCTION."

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

BOMBAY, JAN 25-(DELAYED)--OUT HERE WHERE THE EAST IS VERY EAST AND REGARDS THE WEST AS ANOTHER WORLD THERE IS MUCH DOUBT AS TO THE EXACT SIGNIFICANCE OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER AND CONSEQUENTLY GREAT ANXIETY OVER ITS APPLICATION AFTER THE WAR.

TO PUT IT BLUNTLY, THERE IS A WIDESPREAD IDEA THAT THE CHARTER IS DESIGNED FOR THE "WHITE RACES" AND THAT IT DOESN'T APPLY TO ASIATICS.

I AM NOT TALKING ABOUT INDIA ALONE, BUT ALSO OF CHINA AND THE SMALLER COUNTRIES. IT IS A SHOCKING FACT THAT ONE IS CONSTANTLY HAVING IT IMPRESSED UPON HIM THAT PEOPLE OUT HERE NOT ONLY ARE IN DOUBT, BUT MANY OF THEM ARE DOWNRIGHT SUSPICIOUS.

THE SUSPICIONS ARE EXPRESSED IN DIVERS FORMS. SOME SAY THEY BELIEVE BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES ACTUALLY HAVE POST-WAR EXPLOITATION OF THE ORIENT IN MIND. OTHERS ARE MORE CHARITABLE THROUGH EQUALLY PESSIMISTIC IN THE VIEW THAT ONCE THE ALLIES HAVE WON THE WAR THEY WILL FORGET TO IMPLEMENT THE CHARTER IN THE ORIENT.

RUSSIA ALSO IS SUSPECT. HOWEVER, OUT HERE AS BACK IN THE WEST, THE SOVIET IS AN ENIGMA TO A GOOD MANY FOLK WHO ARE INCLINED TO REGARD THE U.S.S.R. AS A LONE WOLF AND NOTE THAT IT HAS INTERESTS BOTH IN THE OCCIDENT AND IN THE ORIENT.

THE JAPANESE, OF COURSE, ARE EXPLOITING THE "WHITE RACE VERSUS THE ASIATICS" THEME FOR ALL IT IS WORTH. DAILY THEY BROADCAST THIS POISONOUS SEED OF PROPAGANDA AND NOT ALL OF IT FALLS ON STONY GROUND.

SO FAR, AS REGARDS THE UNITED STATES, THERE IS FAR LESS A DISPOSITION TO CHARGE HER WITH HAVING ULTERIOR MOTIVES THAN TO DOUBT HER TENACITY OF PURPOSE IN CARRYING OUT THE ATLANTIC CHARTER. I AM CONSTANTLY ENCOUNTERING THE IDEA THAT AMERICA MAY HAVE A RETURN TO ISOLATIONISM AFTER THE WAR AND LEAVE EUROPE AND ASIA TO COOK IN THEI OWN FAT. I FOUND THAT THOUGHT ESPECIALLY PERSISTENT IN CHINA WHEN I WAS THERE RECENTLY.

MY DEFINITE IMPRESSION IS THAT THE ORIENT GENERALLY REGARDS UNCLE SAM AS MAINLY HONEST ALTHOUGH THERE ARE THOSE WHO WOULDN'T PUT A SHARP P[illegible]SE DEAL BEYOND HIM.

IN ANY EVENT, THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT THAT THIS PART OF THE WORLD IS LEANING HEAVILY ON THE UNITED STATES NOT ONLY TO SEE IT THROUGH THE WAR, BUT TO ASSIST IT IN RECONSTRUCTION AFTER THE CONFLICT.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S FOUR FREEDOMS AND THE ATLANTIC CHARTER ARE A PILLAR OF FIRE WHICH UNTOLD MILLIONS IN THE ORIENT ARE FOLLOWING DESPITE VAGUE FEARS THAT SOMETHING WILL HAPPEN TO DISAPPOINT THEM. IT IS AMAZING THE WAY THIS BILL OF RIGHTS HAS CAPTIVATED IMAGINATIONS THROUGHOUT THE ORIENTAL WORLD. I ENCOUNTER IT AT EVERY TURN AS I TRAVEL FROM COUNTRY TO COUNTRY.

NOT UNNATURALLY ONE'S MIND REVERTS TO THE CLOSING DAYS OF THE LAST WAR. I WAS ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND NEVER SHALL FORGET HOW FIGHTI[illegible] SUSTAINED BY PRESIDENT WILSON'S FOURTEEN POINTS. DAY AFTE[illegible]ICERS SOUGHT ME OUT AND ASKED WHAT WAS THE LATEST WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT FOR WHOSE IDEALS THEY WERE FIGHTING.

PROBABLY MANY OF THE PRESENT DOUBTS REGARDING THE EFFICACY OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER ARE REALLY FEARS IMPELLED BY THE UNHAPPY DEVELOPMENTS GROWING OUT OF THE LAST WAR. IT IS FOR THIS REASON THAT I HAVE REPORTED THIS UNWELCOME NEWS ABOUT THE FEELING IN THE ORIENT NOW. I BELIEVE IT IS SOMETHING WHICH COULD BE REMEDIED. TO MY MIND THE EASIEST WAY TO DO IT WOULD BE THROUGH A CATEGORICAL STATEMENT OF ASSURANCE FROM THE MAN WITH WHOM THIS NEW BILL OF RIGHTS IS ASSOCIATED--PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

30.24-683

PMS INTERPRETIVE

BY GLENN BABB

FEB 28 1943.

THE PRIMARY SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CASABLANCA MEETING OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IS SUMMED UP IN A PHRASE OF THE COMMUNIQUE WHICH REPORTED IT TO THE WORLD. IT WAS INTENDED TO DRAW "THE UTMOST ADVANTAGE FROM THE MARKEDLY FAVORABLE TURN OF EVENTS AT THE CLOSE OF 1942," TO CATCH THE RISING TIDE OF ALLIED VICTORY AND GOOD FORTUNE AND RIDE IT TO FULL FLOOD.

THEREIN LIES THE GREAT DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THIS MEETING AND ITS THREE PREDECESSORS. THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRIME MINISTER HELD THEIR ATLANTIC CHARTER CONFERENCE AGAINST THE BACKGROUND OF VAST RUSSIAN DEFEATS; HONGKONG AND MANILA FELL DURING CHURCHILL'S WASHINGTON VISIT AT THE END OF 1941; THE TOBRUK DIASTER AND THE ROMMEL THREAT TO SUEZ COINCIDED WITH HIS SECOND JOURNEY TO THE UNITED STATES LAST JUNE. BUT EVEN AS THE CASABLANCA DELIBERATIONS PROCEEDED TRIPOLI FELL, THE ITALIAN EMPIRE WAS FINISHED AND THE TASK OF CLEARING A CONTINENT FOR THE ATTACK ON HITLER'S EUROPE WAS REDUCED TO THE DIMENSIONS OF A LOCAL SIEGE OPERATION.

DOUBTLESS THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEMS OF TUNISIA AND THE FRENCH GENERALS OCCUPIED MUCH OF THE CONFEREES' ATTENTION, BUT THE DISCUSSIONS LOOKED FAR BEYOND NORTH AFRICA, BOTH IN TIME AND SPACE, ACHIEVING ACCORDS AND PLANS THAT COULD BE REVEALED ONLY IN THE MOST GENERAL TERMS.

FIRST AND LAST IT WAS A MILITARY CONFERENCE. THE GENERALS AND ADMIRALS HELD THE CENTER OF THE STAGE. THE CIVILIANS REMAINED IN THE BACKGROUND. AND WHILE MESSRS.ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL, BOTH ADEPT AT COMBINING AN IRON PURPOSE WITH A DIPLOMAT'S APPROACH, SPENT SOME TIME ON THE DE GAULLE-GIRAUD PROBLEM, THEY DOUBTLESS MADE CLEAR TO THOSE TEMPERAMENTAL WARRIORS THEIR DETERMINATION THAT FRENCH POLITICS SHOULD NOT INTERFERE WITH THE GREAT OBJECTIVE, COMPLETE VICTORY. THIS WAS PRIMARILY A COUNCIL OF WAR, TO PLAN THE STROKES THAT WILL CRUSH HITLER.

THE ANNOUNCED RESULTS OF THE CONFERENCE ALREADY ARE BEING CRITICIZED BECAUSE OF THE QUESTIONS LEFT UNANSWERED. NO SUPREME WAR COUNCIL FOR THE UNITED NATIONS WAS UNVEILED; THE NAME OF THE ALLIED COMMANDER IN CHIEF FOR THE INVASION OF EUROPE WAS NOT DISCLOSED. JOSEPH STALIN AND CHIANG KAI-SHEK WERE NOT PRESENT, ALTHOUGH STALIN WAS INVITED.

A85

THE RUSSIAN LEADER, IT IS EXPLAINED, IS TOO BUSY WITH THE VAST CAMPAIGN HE PERSONALLY IS DIRECTING AS THE RED ARMY'S COMMANDER IN CHIEF. STALIN'S CHIEF INTEREST, NATURALLY AND PROPERLY, IS WITH THE IMMEDIATE JOB OF EXPELLING THE NAZIS FROM HIS MOTHERLAND; HE CAN HARDLY BE EXPECTED TO SHARE FULLY THE ANGLO-SAXON LEADERS' CONCERN WITH MORE DISTANT LANDS AND TIMES. THERE STILL IS NO SUBSTANTIAL BASIS FOR THE HOPE THAT HE WILL MAKE RUSSIA'S WAR MATCH THE GLOBAL SCOPE OF THE CONFLICT HIS ALLIES ARE WAGING BY DECLARING WAR ON JAPAN.

THE CASABLANCA COMMUNIQUE THROWS NO NEW LIGHT ON THE BURNING QUESTION OF AID TO CHINA.

BUT IT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED THAT THE OMISSIONS ARE OMISSIONS OF REVELATION, NOT NECESSARILY OF DECISION OR ACTION. THERE IS VERY

EXPLICIT ASSURANCE THAT "THE ENTIRE FIELD OF THE WAR WAS SURVEYED THEATER BY THEATER THROUGHOUT THE WORLD." IF WE ARE NOT TOLD OF PLANS FOR A SUPREME WAR COUNCIL NOR INTRODUCED TO A NEW ALLIED GENERALISSIMO NOR GIVEN BLUE PRINTS OF THE CAMPAIGN WHICH WILL FOLLOW TUNISIA--OR MAY EVEN BE SPRUNG BEFORE TUNISIA IS LIQUIDATED-THAT DOES NOT MEAN THAT THESE PLANS WERE NOT MADE AND THE INSTRUMENTS AND MEANS CHOSEN. HITLER WOULD LIKE TO KNOW THE ANSWERS TO THESE QUESTIONS, TOO. WE CAN AWAIT THE RESULTS WITH MORE EQUANIMITY AND CONFIDENCE IN THE FUTURE THAN HE CAN.

"NOTHING LIKE THIS PROLONGED DISCUSSION BETWEEN TWO ALLIES HAS EVER TAKEN PLACE BEFORE," SAYS THE COMMUNIQUE. IN MANY RESPECTS, INDEED, IT WAS UNPRECEDENTED, IN THE SPECTACULAR JOURNEYS OF THE PRINCIPALS, IN THE GLOBAL SCOPE OF THE PLANNING AND PERHAPS ALSO IN THE EXTENT OF COMMON ACTION AGREED UPON BY TWO GREAT SOVEREIGN POWERS. THE NEAREST PARALLELS ARE THE TRAGIC COUNCILS OF MAY AND JUNE, 1940, WHEN CHURCHILL AND HIS COLLEAGUES SOUGHT TO STAY FRANCE'S PLUNGE INTO THE ABYSS, OR THE SERIES OF MEETINGS IN FRANCE IN THE SPRING OF 1918 WHICH PLACED THE SUPREME ALLIED COMMAND IN THE HANDS OF FERDINAND FOCH. ALL WERE HELD AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF DISASTER, NONE LIGHTED BY HOPES LIKE THOSE OF TODAY. THE FOCH OF 1918 WAS CHOSEN TO AVERT CATASTROPHE; THE FOCH OF 1943, HIS IDENTITY STILL TO BE DISCLOSED, WILL BE ENTRUSTED WITH THE JOB OF KEEPING THE TIDE OF VICTORY FLOWING.

WHILE THE FULL FRUITS OF THE CONFERENCE MUST BE WITHHELD FROM THE UNITED NATIONS UNTIL THE TIME COMES TO DISCLOSE THEM WITH SHATTERING FORCE TO HITLER AND HIROHITO, THE VERY NATURE AND SETTING OF THE CASABLANCA GIVE FIRM JUSTIFICATION FOR CONFIDENCE THAT ALLIED LEADERSHIP IS IN THE HANDS OF BOLD, FAR-SEEING, VIGOROUS MEN, C ILIAN AND MILITARY ALIKE. THESE DAYS OF GREAT OPPORTUNITY CALL FOR GREAT DECISIONS. A POLICY THAT MEASURES UP TO THE TIMES OF COURSE INVOLVES THE TAKING OF TREMENDOUS RISKS; OVERCAUTION, OF WHICH NEITHER FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT NOR WINSTON CHURCHILL ARE OFTEN ACCUSED, MIGHT PROVE DISASTROUS. BUT NEITHER THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC NOR THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH, WHOSE COMBINED MIGHT WILL BE FELT INCREASINGLY THIS YEAR ON ALL THE CONTINENTS AND ALL THE SEAS, WAS FOUNDED BY PLAYING IT SAFE.

GUARDED LANGUAGE HIDES MUCH OF THE SUCCESS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL HAD IN PUTTING THE FRENCH EMPIRE INTO THE WAR.

THE COMMUNIQUE OF THE TWO TALL FRENCH GENERALS, DE GAULLE AND GIRAUD, MERELY SAID THEY AGREED UPON THE "UNION IN WAR OF ALL FREE FRENCHMEN FIGHTING SIDE BY SIDE" TO LIBERATE FRANCE.

IN REALITY THE PRESENT COOPERATION OF THE TWO FACTIONS OF FRENCH IS LIKELY TO INCREASE BY MANY DIVISIONS THE FRENCH ARMIES AND TO SWING INTO ACTION A CONSIDERABLE PART OF THE OLD FRENCH FLEET.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES FROM ALGIERS AND LONDON SHOW THAT NEITHER OF THE FRENCH LEADERS IS JOYOUS AND THAT "ANY DEFINITE SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THE TWO IS GOING TO BE A LONG TEDIOUS PROCESS."

THAT IS THEIR PRESENT ATTITUDE BUT THE STORY OF THE RECENT PAST AND THE REASONABLE PROBABILITIES OF THE FUTURE MAKE THE TEMPORARY

SQUABBLING OF TWO FIRM-MINDED UNDIPLOMATIC SOLDIERS LOOK VERY SMALL.

THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL CASABLANCA WAR TALKS SOUGHT TO DISSIPATE MISUNDERSTANDINGS AND TO INJECT PATRIOTIC GOODWILL INTO OPPOSING LEADERS. NEITHER NEEDED ANY PATRIOTIC STIMULATION BECAUSE BOTH ARE GOOD FRENCHMEN, BUT THEY UNDOUBTEDLY LEARNED THAT IF THEY DIDN'T SUBMERGE THEIR TEMPERAMENTAL IDEAS AND THINK SIMPLY OF WINNING THE WAR TO FREE FRANCE THEY MIGHT BE UNLUCKY. ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL COULDN'T AVOID VERY WELL USING SOME STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT THE DUTY OF ALL THE FRENCH TO FIGHT FOR FRANCE NOW WHILE THE ALLIES CAN USE THEIR HELP, TO THROW GERMANY OUT OF FRANCE. THEIR LONG FACES AT CASABLANCA SHOWED THEY BOTH HAD SOME BAD NEWS. IT TAKES TIME FOR STUBBORN MEN LIKE THEM, LACKING YOUTHFUL RESILIENCE, TO FORGET GRIEVANCES.

ALL THE POLITICAL GRUMBLING IN NORTH AFRICA OBSCURES THE REALLY BIG PART FRANCE PLAYS AND WILL PLAY IN THE WAR.

BECAUSE THE FIGHTING FRENCH FORCES ARE SMALL, PEOPLE THINK OF FRANCE AS OUT OF THE WAR SINCE THE CAPITULATION, JUNE 17, 1940.

IN REALITY, FRANCE OR THE FRENCH MADE TWO GREAT MILITARY CONTRIBUTIONS IN THE PAST FEW MONTHS.

FEB 28 1943

A112

1-THE GREAT MASS NAVAL SUICIDE AT TOULON, NOVEMBER 27, 1942 TOOK FROM THE GERMAN GRASP ABOUT HALF THE FRENCH FLEET. THREE SCORE WARSHIPS WERE SCUTTLED BY THEIR CREWS BY FRENCH COMMAND WHEN THE GERMANS TRIED TO ENTER THE CITY DOUBTLESS TO SEIZE THE FLEET. THE OTHER HALF OF THE FLEET WAS IN AFRICA, INTERNED AT ALEXANDRIA OR ELSEWHERE.

2-THE PEACEFUL DELIVERY OF NORTH AND WEST AFRICA TO AMERICAN FORCES BY ADMIRAL JEAN DARLAN, COMMANDER OF ALL FRENCH LAND, SEA AND AIR FORCES.

BOTH OF THESE SEEMED LIKE EXCELLENT TURNS OF LUCK BUT THEY WERE MORE THAN THAT. THEIR EFFECTS CONTINUE TODAY AND THEY ARE EXAMPLES FOR OTHER FRENCHMEN TO FOLLOW.

FEB 28 1943

THE TOULON SCUTTLING NEITHER ADDED TO THE ALLIED FLEET NOR DIMINISHED THE GERMAN BUT IT RELEASED MANY BRITISH WARCRAFT FROM NEGATIVE TASKS OF WATCHING THE FRENCH PORT, BLOCKADING IT AND REMAINING NEARBY IN FORCE TO PREVENT ITS ESCAPE UNDER GERMAN CONTROL IT REALLY INCREASED GREATLY ALLIED NAVAL POWER, IT DISCOURAGED THE GERMANS AND ABOVE ALL IT PROVED TO THE WORLD AND TO ALL FRENCHMEN THAT SUBJUGATED FRANCE IS ON THE ALLIED SIDE.

ADMIRAL DARLAN, ASSASSINATED CHRISTMAS EVE, GAVE FRENCH NORTH AND WEST AFRICA TO THE ALLIES ALMOST WITHOUT A BATTLE. BEFORE HE TOOK CHARGE THERE WAS FIGHTING AT ORAN, ALGIERS AND CASABLANCA AND THERE WAS DOUBT WHETHER NORTH AFRICA COULD BE TAKEN WITHOUT A REAL WAR OF CONQUEST. THE UNITED STATES CHOSE GENERAL HENRI GIRAUD, HERO OF TWO ESCAPES FROM GERMAN PRISONS, TO HEAD THE FRENCH MILITARY AND CIVIL AUTHORITY IN NORTH AFRICA. DARLAN, AT FIRST A PRISONER, CONVINCED THE AMERICANS THAT HE WAS ON THE ALLIED SIDE. HE PROMISED TO DELIVER THE COUNTRY AND ITS ARMED FORCES. HE KEPT HIS PROMISE BEFORE HE WAS KILLED. HE TURNED OVER DAKAR, LONG FEARED AS A POSSIBLE NAZI BASE THAT MIGHT CUT THE SUPPLY LINE AROUND AFRICA TO INDIA AND SUEZ. HE PROMISED TO PUT BACK IN COMMISSION THE REMAINING HALF OF THE FRENCH NAVY AT DAKAR, CASABLANCA AND ALEXANDRIA, LONG OUT OF SERVICE BUT FORMIDABLE WHEN READY.

BY INDUCING OR COMPELLING DE GAULLE AND GIRAUD TO WORK TOGETHER AND TO DECLARE FOR FRENCH UNITY ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL HAVE LEFT FRENCH GRUMBLERS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES' "VICHY POLICY" NO PLACE TO GO. THEY MUST LINE UP WITH THE FRENCH WHO ARE FIGHTING FOR FRANCE OR THEY'LL BE OUTSIDE THE PALE OF FRENCHMEN. [illegible] 28 1943

THE "VICHY POLICY" WHICH DE GAULLE AND MANY BRITISH AND AMERICANS CRITICIZED CONSISTED IN MAINTAINING THE UNITED STATES EMBASSY IN VICHY UNTIL THE LAST, SEEKING TO PREVENT MARSHAL PETAIN FROM YIELDING TO THE GERMANS. THE FACT THAT THE FRENCH FLEET WAS SCUTTLED SHOWS THAT FRANCE IS ON THE ALLIED SIDE AND THE UNITED STATES' ATTITUDE MAY HAVE HAD MUCH TO DO WITH KEEPING ALIVE FRENCH PATRIOTISM. DARLAN IN VICHY COULD HAVE DELIVERED THE FRENCH FLEET TO HITLER BUT HE DIDN'T.

ALSO THE CRITICS COMPLAIN THAT VICHYITES WERE IN POWER IN NORTH AFRICA AND STILL ARE. THEY OBJECT TO THE APPOINTMENT OF MARCEL PEYROUTON AS GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF ALGERIA, THE "STRONG MAN" WHO IS TO CLEAN OUT ANY FIFTH COLUMN. DEFENDERS OF AMERICAN POLICY SAY SIMPLY THAT GENERAL EISENHOWER DOES WHAT HE DOES AS MILITARY EXPEDIENCY. THEY OBSERVE THAT GIRAUD COULDN'T TURN OVER NORTH AFRICA AND THAT ADMIRAL DARLAN COULD AND DID. THEY ASK WHAT CANDIDATES THE CRITICS HAVE FOR ADMINISTRATIVE JOBS INSTEAD OF THE MEN TRAINED TO THE TASK. THEY RECALL THAT PEYROUTON BROKE WITH VICHY FRANCE WHEN LAVAL RETURNED TO POWER JUST AS DID OTHERS WHO THEN JOINED DE GAULLE.

WAR, LIKE POLITICS, MAKES STRANGE BEDFELLOWS.

[illegible] THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE JOHN EVANS, INTIMATELY ACQUAINTED WITH FRANCE FOR MANY YEARS AND FORMERLY CHIEF OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BUREAU IN PARIS, TELLS WHY THE EFFORTS OF ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL TO SETTLE THE NORTH AFRICAN POLITICAL UPHEAVAL WERE FAR FROM WASTED.)

BY JOHN EVANS

ASSOCIATED PRESS CHIEF OF FOREIGN SERVICE

THE FAILURE OF THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL WAR PARLEY AT CASABLANCA TO ACHIEVE FULL AND FRANK UNITY AMONG THE FRENCH PROBABLY MASKS GREATER SUCCESS THAN APPEARS.

ON THE FACE OF THINGS, TO PUT IT BLUNTLY, ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL SEEM TO HAVE READ THE RIOT ACT TO HIGH COMMISSIONER GENERAL HENRI GIRAUD AND GENERAL CHARLES DE GAULLE, LEADER OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH.

WES GALLAGHER, HEAD OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS STAFF IN NORTH AFRICA SAYS IN HIS DISPATCHES THAT "ANY DEFINITE SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THE TWO I GOING TO BE A LONG TEDIOUS PROCESS."

MEANTIME THE TWO FRENCH GENERALS PUBLICLY PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO LIBERATE FRANCE BY "UNION IN WAR OF ALL FREE FRENCHMEN FIGHTING SIDE BY SIDE WITH ALL THE ALLIES" AND ANNOUNCED ESTABLISHMENT OF REGULAR LIAISON, IF NO MORE.

THE REAL SUCCESS IS THAT THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRIME MINISTER, WHO HOLD THE PURSE STRINGS AND WHO HAVE FORCE AND PRESTIGE WITH THEM, HAVE OBLIGED THE TWO SPARRING FRENCHMEN TO TALK THINGS OVER AND TO REALIZE THAT THEY MUST SUBORDINATE THEIR VIEWS TO THE GOOD OF FRANCE. ONCE THEY EXPERIENCE THE VALUE OF COOPERATION, EVEN UNDER PRESSURE, THEY MAY GET THE HABIT, ESPECIALLY WHEN THEY KNOW THAT THE

IG POWERS ARE TIRED OF THEIR SQUABBLING.

ANOTHER LONG RANGE BENEFIT MAY COME OUT OF THIS EXPERIENCE BECAUSE, IF IT WORKS, IT WILL DEMONSTRATE TO OTHER DISSIDENTS OF OTHER COUNTRIES THAT THERE IS MORE TO BE GAINED BY BURYING THE HATCHET THAN BY STRIVING FOR A CONTROL THEY WON'T GET ANYWAY. THE UNITED STATES IN PARTICULAR IS EMPHASIZING A POLICY THAT EACH COUNTRY MUST DECIDE AFTER THE WAR WHAT GOVERNMENT, WHAT LEADERS IT WISHES. THAT MEANS THAT NOT ALL THE GOVERNMENTS-IN-EXILE WILL MOVE BACK INTO THEIR COUNTRIES. THE PEOPLE WHO STAYED AT HOME AND SUFFERED WILL BE THE MASTERS OF THEIR FUTURES.

IN THE NORTH AFRICAN PROBLEM THE TROUBLESOME POLITICAL HUBBUB WAS THIS:

DE GAULLE AS LEADER OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH INSISTED THAT NONE CONNECTED WITH THE VICHY GOVERNMENT SHOULD HAVE POWER AND THAT ALL THE VICHY SYMPATHIZERS SHOULD BE SUBDUED AND SOME OF THEM JAILED. HE WAS FURIOUS WHEN GENERAL EISENHOWER PUT THE LATE ADMIRAL JEAN DARLAN IN CIVIL CONTROL OF NORTH AFRICA. HE WAS ANGERED FURTHER WHEN THE PRESENT GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF ALGERIA, MARCEL PEYROUTON, WAS INSTALLED. PEYROUTON SERVED AS MINISTER OF INTERIOR AT VICHY AND AFTERWARDS AS AMBASSADOR TO THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC BUT HE BROKE WITH VICHY WHEN PIERRE LAVAL RETURNED TO POWER.

GIRAUD AS HIGH COMMISSIONER OF FRENCH NORTH AND WEST AFRICA WAS THE UNITED STATES' FIRST CHOICE FOR FRENCH LEADER THERE. UNFORTUNATELY GIRAUD WAS LITTLE KNOWN AND WITHOUT REAL INFLUENCE IN AFRICA. THEREUPON ADMIRAL DARLAN APPEARED, JOINED THE ALLIES AND DELIVERED TO THEM THE COUNTRY INCLUDING DAKAR THE GREAT FORTIFIED PORT. HE WAS A VICHYITE BUT HE ALONE WAS ABLE TO GIVE FRENCH NORTH AFRICA PEACEFULLY TO THE AMERICAN ARMY. HE WAS ASSASSINATED, WHICH PROBABLY SAVED THE POWERS MUCH GRIEF.

GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE ARE GIANTS. GIRAUD IS ABOUT 6 FEET 6 INCHES TALL AND DE GAULLE IS ONLY TWO INCHES SHORTER.

BOTH ARE STUBBORN SOLDIERS, MILITARY IN THEIR MINDS, GOOD GENERALS AND POOR DIPLOMATS. NO ONE EVER HAS QUESTIONED EITHER'S PATRIOTISM.

DE GAULLE LEANED TOWARD POLITICS IN LONDON. HIS OPPONENTS SAID HE EXPECTED TO HAVE HIS GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE TAKE OVER FRANCE AFTER THE WAR BUT DE GAULLE INSISTED HE HAD NO POLITICAL AMBITION AND HE WOULD LET THE FRENCH IN FRANCE FORM THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT.

NEITHER THE UNITED STATES NOR GREAT BRITAIN RECOGNIZE DE GAULLE'S GROUP AS THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT. THEY DEAL WITH IT ONLY AS A FRENCH GROUP FIGHTING TO FREE FRANCE. BOTH THE BIG POWERS REALIZE THAT DE GAULLE IS NOT A BIG FRENCH POLITICAL FIGURE AND THEIR PRESENT IDEA IS THAT THE ALLIES MAY HAVE TO MAINTAIN ORDER IN FRANCE AND OTHER COUNTRIES AFTER THE WAR AND THEMSELVES SUPERISE FREE ELECTIONS OF NEW GOVERNMENTS.

WHEN THOSE POLICIES ARE KNOWN, IT IS EASY TO SEE THAT ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA

28 1943

OTHER COUNTRIES AFTER THE WAR AND THEMSELVES SUPERVISE FREE ELECTIONS OF NEW GOVERNMENTS.

WHEN THOSE POLICIES ARE KNOWN, IT IS EASY TO SEE THAT ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA MUST HAVE TALKED VERY PLAINLY TO DE GAULLE. IT IS REASONABLE TO SUPPOSE THEY TOLD HIM--AND GIRAUD--THAT FRANCE FELL

THROUGH INTERNAL DISSENSION, THAT FRANCE IS FORTUNATE THAT THE ALLIES ARE FIGHTING A WORLD WAR FOR HIGH AIMS THAT INCLUDE FREEDOM FOR FRANCE AND THAT THE POWERS WHO ARE SPENDING BLOOD AND MONEY TO LIBERATE THE FRENCH WON'T BE HAMPERED BY PERSONAL BICKERING OVER POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS OR TOO CLOSE SCRUTINY OF THOSE WHO WISH TO FIGHT THE AXIS. THEY MAY HAVE MADE IT CLEAR ALSO THAT NEITHER OF THE GENERALS WOULD MARCH TRIUMPHANTLY INTO FRANCE TO BE PRESIDENT OR PREMIER OR ANY OTHER KIND OF A RULER. THEY DOUBTLESS SAID THE FRENCH IN FRANCE MUST PICK THEIR GOVERNMENT.

IG POWERS ARE TIRED OF THEIR SQUABBLING.

ANOTHER LONG RANGE BENEFIT MAY COME OUT OF THIS EXPERIENCE BECAUSE, IF IT WORKS, IT WILL DEMONSTRATE TO OTHER DISSIDENTS OF OTHER COUNTRIES THAT THERE IS MORE TO BE GAINED BY BURYING THE HATCHET THAN BY STRIVING FOR A CONTROL THEY WON'T GET ANYWAY. THE UNITED STATES IN PARTICULAR IS EMPHASIZING A POLICY THAT EACH COUNTRY MUST DECIDE AFTER THE WAR WHAT GOVERNMENT, WHAT LEADERS IT WISHES. THAT MEANS THAT NOT ALL THE GOVERNMENTS-IN-EXILE WILL MOVE BACK INTO THEIR COUNTRIES. THE PEOPLE WHO STAYED AT HOME AND SUFFERED WILL BE THE MASTERS OF THEIR FUTURES.

IN THE NORTH AFRICAN PROBLEM THE TROUBLESOME POLITICAL HUBBUB WAS THIS:

DE GAULLE AS LEADER OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH INSISTED THAT NONE CONNECTED WITH THE VICHY GOVERNMENT SHOULD HAVE POWER AND THAT ALL THE VICHY SYMPATHIZERS SHOULD BE SUBDUED AND SOME OF THEM JAILED. HE WAS FURIOUS WHEN GENERAL EISENHOWER PUT THE LATE ADMIRAL JEAN DARLAN IN CIVIL CONTROL OF NORTH AFRICA. HE WAS ANGERED FURTHER WHEN THE PRESENT GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF ALGERIA, MARCEL PEYROUTON, WAS INSTALLED. PEYROUTON SERVED AS MINISTER OF INTERIOR AT VICHY AND AFTERWARDS AS AMBASSADOR TO THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC BUT HE BROKE WITH VICHY WHEN PIERRE LAVAL RETURNED TO POWER.

GIRAUD AS HIGH COMMISSIONER OF FRENCH NORTH AND WEST AFRICA WAS THE UNITED STATES' FIRST CHOICE FOR FRENCH LEADER THERE. UNFORTUNATELY GIRAUD WAS LITTLE KNOWN AND WITHOUT REAL INFLUENCE IN AFRICA. THEREUPON ADMIRAL DARLAN APPEARED, JOINED THE ALLIES AND DELIVERED TO THEM THE COUNTRY INCLUDING DAKAR THE GREAT FORTIFIED PORT. HE WAS A VICHYITE BUT HE ALONE WAS ABLE TO GIVE FRENCH NORTH AFRICA PEACEFULLY TO THE AMERICAN ARMY. HE WAS ASSASSINATED, WHICH PROBABLY SAVED THE POWERS MUCH GRIEF.

GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE ARE GIANTS. GIRAUD IS ABOUT 6 FEET 6 INCHES TALL AND DE GAULLE IS ONLY TWO INCHES SHORTER.

BOTH ARE STUBBORN SOLDIERS, MILITARY IN THEIR MINDS, GOOD GENERALS AND POOR DIPLOMATS. NO ONE EVER HAS QUESTIONED EITHER'S PATRIOTISM.

DE GAULLE LEANED TOWARD POLITICS IN LONDON. HIS OPPONENTS SAID HE EXPECTED TO HAVE HIS GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE TAKE OVER FRANCE AFTER THE WAR BUT DE GAULLE INSISTED HE HAD NO POLITICAL AMBITION AND HE WOULD LET THE FRENCH IN FRANCE FORM THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT.

NEITHER THE UNITED STATES NOR GREAT BRITAIN RECOGNIZE DE GAULLE'S GROUP AS THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT. THEY DEAL WITH IT ONLY AS A FRENCH GROUP FIGHTING TO FREE FRANCE. BOTH THE BIG POWERS REALIZE THAT DE GAULLE IS NOT A BIG FRENCH POLITICAL FIGURE AND THEIR PRESENT IDEA IS THAT THE ALLIES MAY HAVE TO MAINTAIN ORDER IN FRANCE AND OTHER COUNTRIES AFTER THE WAR AND THEMSELVES SUPERISE FREE ELECTIONS OF NEW GOVERNMENTS.

WHEN THOSE POLICIES ARE KNOWN, IT IS EASY TO SEE THAT ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA

WHEN THOSE POLICIES ARE KNOWN, IT IS EASY TO SEE THAT ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA MUST HAVE TALKED VERY PLAINLY TO DE GAULLE. IT IS REASONABLE TO SUPPOSE THEY TOLD HIM--AND GIRAUD--THAT FRANCE FELL

THROUGH INTERNAL DISSENSION, THAT FRANCE IS FORTUNATE THAT THE ALLIES ARE FIGHTING A WORLD WAR FOR HIGH AIMS THAT INCLUDE FREEDOM FOR FRANCE AND THAT THE POWERS WHO ARE SPENDING BLOOD AND MONEY TO LIBERATE THE FRENCH WON'T BE HAMPERED BY PERSONAL BICKERING OVER POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS OR TOO CLOSE SCRUTINY OF THOSE WHO WISH TO FIGHT THE AXIS. THEY MAY HAVE MADE IT CLEAR ALSO THAT NEITHER OF THE GENERALS WOULD MARCH TRIUMPHANTLY INTO FRANCE TO BE PRESIDENT OR PREMIER OR ANY OTHER KIND OF A RULER. THEY DOUBTLESS SAID THE FRENCH IN FRANCE MUST PICK THEIR GOVERNMENT.

Roosevelt Meets Vargas in Brazil In Stop-Over on His Flight Home After Call on President of Liberia

JAN 28 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Amid the picturesque surroundings of Liberia, a republic founded by Negroes freed in the United States, President Roosevelt stopped off on the way back to America from his momentous conference in Casablanca to inspect American Negro troops and a rubber plantation supplying a vital war product.

A dispatch datelined today at Monrovia, capital of Liberia, and released at the White House tonight, said Mr. Roosevelt had paid his respects to President Edwin Barclay at the third stop of his return trip homeward.

FLIES TO BRAZIL

(It was announced at Rio de Janeiro that President Vargas and President Roosevelt had conferred at Natal, Brazil, main terminus of the South Atlantic airplane service to Africa. The announcement did not say when the meeting occurred.)

In Liberia he saw Negro troops, engineers and a part of a defense detachment, he drove through African villages of round, straw-thatched huts, and he viewed a 69,000-acre Firestone Rubber Co. plantation with its thousands of acres of new rubber shoots and mature growths where latex was running into cups.

2000 MILES SOUTH

The dispatch was the first to reveal anything of Mr. Roosevelt's movements following the Casablanca conference at which he, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and American and British military chieftains worked out plans to force "an unconditional surrender" upon the enemy Axis.

Monrovia is approximately 2000 miles southward, by straight airline, across the western hump of Africa from Casablanca.

The President and Churchill concluded their parley last Sunday, and the dispatch said they had motored 150 miles southward to Marrakech, old Berber and Arab town at the foot of the Atlas Mountains, where they spent the night. They parted the next day and President Roosevelt flew to Liberia with one intervening stop, which was not identified.

IN ARMY TRANSPORT

The dispatch from Monrovia said the President and his party, traveling in two four-motor Army transports, landed at Roberts Field, about 50 miles from Monrovia. They were greeted there at the officers' mess hall by Persident Barclay and Clarence L. Simpson, Liberian Secretary of State, and by Frederick P. Hibbard, American charge d'affaires.

After lunch the two Presidents, the dispatch said, rode out to a parade ground in a jeep and reviewed the 41st Engineers and a part of a defense detachment commanded by Colonel A. A. Kirchoff.

A band played the American and Liberian national anthems and rendered full honors. The two Presidents then toured up and down the lines of troops.

DRIVE TO PLANTATION

George Seybold, general manager of the Firestone plantation, drove the party to the rubber plantation through Liberian villages.

The White House said the dispatch was signed by Captain George E. Durno of the Army Air Corps, a former White House correspondent.

ALEXANDER PRESENT AT EISENHOWER TALKS

American Troops Reach Maknassy in Drive Toward Gulf—Axis Reports U. S. Assault Is Already On.

JAN 28 1943

By the Associated Press.

A climactic Allied offensive in North Africa, a prelude to the actual invasion of Europe, was sharply foreshadowed today with the disclosure that the top military leaders of the United States and Great Britain have held a secret forty-eight-hour war council at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

At the same time, a Berlin military spokesman declared that Gen. Eisenhower's American Expeditionary Force in Tunisia was planning a major offensive, and the Vichy radio said that American troops originally concentrated 150 miles southwest of Tunis have opened the attack. The Axis reports suggested an American attempt to drive a wedge between the converging armies of Marshal Rommel and Col.-Gen Jurgen von Arnim in central Tunisia.

These reports were not officially confirmed by the Allies, but tonight, in a broadcast picked up by Reuters in London, the Algiers radio declared that American troops had reached Maknassy, thirty-three miles from the Gulf of Gabes, in an advance toward the rear of the Mareth Line.

The secret war conclave followed swiftly on the heels of President Roosevelt's Master Plan conference with Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca, French Morocco.

Those in Attendance.

The meeting was held in the headquarters of Gen. Eisenhower, and for the United States was attended by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Ernest J. King Commander in Chief of the Navy Lt. Gen. H. H. Arnold, Commander in Chief of the Army Air Forces, and other high officers.

Britain was represented by Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British joint staff mission in Washington; Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord; Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander in chief in the Middle East; Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of combined operations (Commandos), and Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, naval commander of the Allied North African forces.

The seven men named conferred day and night for two days with General Eisenhower. General Marshall and Admiral King stayed at General Eisenhower's residence and Lord Mountbatten, Marshal Dill, Admiral Pound and Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied naval commander in North Africa, occupied joint quarters.

Step Long Foreseen

All the conferences centered around General Eisenhower. This, combined with the presence of General Alexander, was taken as an indication the Allies are planning a union of all forces in the Mediterranean into one great theater with a co-ordinate command.

Such a step has long been foreseen by military experts as a necessity when Eisenhower's and Alexander's armies join as they appear to be doing in Tunisia.

Others at the conference included Lieutenant General B. B. Somervell, commanding United States Army Services of Supply; Lieutenant General Sir Hastings Ismay, chief of staff to the office of the British Minister of Defense, and W. Averell Harriman, American lend-lease co-ordinator in England.

The conference, second in importance only to the Casablanca meeting, undoubtedly worked out many details of the broad strategy planned by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill for 1943.

General Marshall attracted attention among soldiers throughout Algiers, where he inspected a number of troops. He had planned to visit the Tunisian front and took off in a Flying Fortress for an advanced base, but after three hours in the air he was driven back by adverse weather.

General Ismay brought a full report of the Casablanca meeting as seen through Churchill's eyes. Admiral King last visited Algiers as a midshipman forty years ago. He conferred with Admiral Cunningham frequently during the two days.

Council Foreshadows Future Invasion of Europe From South

By the Associated Press. GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28.—A 48-hour conference here attended by the best military brains in Britain and America today sharply foreshadowed the day when the United Nations will use North Africa as a springboard into Europe.

The military chiefs conferred with Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the Allied expeditionary force in North Africa after speeding eastward from the Casablanca conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

That they came to this theater after the policy-making Casablanca conference was taken as an indication the Allies consider a Mediterranean offensive against the Axis as one of the best bids for victory.

Allied Strategy Mapped At Game Of Backgammon

Allied Headquarters In North Africa, Jan. 28 (AP) — Decisions which will guide United Nations' strategy in this critical year of the war apparently were shaped largely over a backgammon board.

During their ten days in Casablanca, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt did much of their work at night and usually did not retire until 2 or 3 A. M., long after most of the members of their party.

At these night sessions the President and the Prime Minister often played backgammon while discussing and formulating the world strategy of the United Nations.

U. S. FORCE 33 MILES FROM GABES GULF

Thrust To Maknassy Reported, Pinching Rommel Escape Corridor

High Allied Officers Meet 48 Hours—Hints Of Big Drive Seen

JAN ED. BALL 28 1943

(By the Associated Press)

London, Jan. 28—American troops were reported to have narrowed Marshal Erwin Rommel's escape corridor to thirty-three miles and a combined Giraud and de Gaulle French column threatened the southern end of his protective Mareth line today.

Indications grew that the Allies were beginning a major offensive in Tunisia.

Among these indications was a forty-eight-hour military conference held by the highest military officials of Britain and the United States, which was concluded at Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in North Africa.

Reported At Maknassy

The Algiers radio, as heard by Reuters, said American troops had reached Maknassy, only thirty-three miles from the Gulf of Gabes in an advance toward the rear of the Mareth line only seventy-five miles to the southeast.

Simultaneously, the broadcast said, British troops to the north were showing marked activity in the Medjez-El-Bab and Bou Arada regions facing Tunis and Bizerte.

A French communique announced that the Italian garrison had evacuated Gadames, in Tripolitania, some 195 miles south of the end of the fortified Mareth line, and that the fort had been occupied by the combined forces of Gen. Henri Giraud and of Gen. Charles de Gaulle of the Fighting French.

Connection Threatened

The American thrust, obviously aimed at either Sfax or Gabes or at the coast between, put these troops in a position to sever the connection between Rommel to the south and the Axis forces of Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim around Tunis and Bizerte to the north.

The radio broadcast said the enemy troops retreated to the north and a number of them were captured.

Maknassy was the scene of an American raid early this week, when the Americans answered a German dare to "come out and fight" and captured eighty prisoners.

Axis Reports Drives

The Axis, apparently anticipating a major attack, put out reports through the Paris and Vichy radios saying that British-American forces concentrated in the regions of Medjez-El-Bab and Bou Arada already had "begun an offensive against the Axis forward positions" in Tunisia.

It was added that in the southern sector strong American and French forces were massing for a companion offen[sive].

No such pres[sure] activity was indicated from Allied North African headquarters, the communique reporting that activity on the Tunisian front had been confined to patrolling.

Aim Of Offensive

The coordinated drives would be aimed at cutting the Axis corridor into three segments.

This would involve driving a spearhead from Medjez-El-Bab to the coast, isolating the Tunis-Bizerte area; and another from Maknassy to the coast between Sfax and Gabes, separating the central Axis-held sector from the enemy forces which Rommel is trying to mass behind the Mareth Line in eastern Tunisia, after his debacle in Libya.

During the day, a Cairo communique announced that the British Eighth Army had been in contact with Rommel's forces as early as yesterday about the town of Sabratha, a small point roughly midway between Tripoli and the Tunisian border.

Move Into Flat Country

The pace of the pursuing British had been somewhat slowed by the rocky and gully-cut terrain, but it was expected to rise now since the British are moving into open, flat country dotted here and there with marshes.

The conference at Eisenhower's headquarters was held by military principals who had sped eastward after attending the Churchill-Roosevelt meeting at Casablanca.

This Mediterranean war council was attended for the United States, by:

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the navy.

Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander in chief of Army Air Forces.

For Britain the conferees were:

Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British joint staff missions in Washington.

Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander in chief in the Middle East.

Vice - Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of combined operations (the Commandos).

Other high officers attended the conferences for both nations.

The fact that all was centered about General Eisenhower and that General Alexander was present suggested that the Allies were planning a coordinate command for the whole of the Mediterranean.

Message From President

General Eisenhower announced the receipt of this confident message from President Roosevelt to the American forces:

"My brief visit to North Africa has given me increased assurance and a deeper feeling of pride in the leaders and men of the American armed forces.

"The officers and men who landed with the initial assault, those who are now carrying on at the front in Tunisia and those who are training themselves for future combat are deserving of the highest commendation.

Alertness Is Noted

"I could not but note your alertness, your smartness and the pride you take in yourselves and your splendid equipment. I return to the United States with renewed confidence that the American soldiers, equipped with the best equipment the world can produce, led by men who have proved themselves in battle, and all imbued with the will to win, shall be victorious.

"Officers and men of the armed forces in North Africa—I commend you.

"ROOSEVELT, Commander In Chief."

3 U. S. Airmen, Downed, Elude Tunisia Captors

JAN FEB 29 1943

Rout Nazi Guards, Destroy Auto and Reach Base; 3 Companions Missing

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28 (AP).—Three members of a B-26 Martin bomber crew told today how they were shot down behind the German lines in Tunisia, overpowered their captors and made their way back to the American lines after seven days.

They are Lieutenant G. H. Ogburn, of Meridian, Miss., the pilot; Sergeant H. D. Smedegar, of Lewisville, Ind., the tail gunner, and Sergeant N. F. Parsons, of Birmingham, Ala. The other three members of the six-man crew became lost and have not been reported.

The plane, on its first mission, was shot down by a ME-109 and crash-landed near a highway. Crawling from the wreckage, the men saw motorcycles and trucks on the road, but apparently the Germans had not noticed the plane. Crowds of Arabs gathered and a deal was made for a guide to take them back through the German lines.

They passed a night at a village, but as they started to leave the next day they ran into a German command car. There was no chance of getting away without running a gantlet of machine guns, so they came out quietly.

"The German in charge of the bunch frisked us and took our guns," Ogburn said. "He put all six of us in the back seat of his car and gave a machine gun to a guard in the front seat. It was a mistake to give the machine gun to the guard because I don't think he knew how to use it.

"As soon as we drove around a curve, one of the boys jumped the German driver and another guard. While they were being overpowered, Sergeant Smedegar was grabbing the wheel and gear-shift lever to keep the car from turning over."

The Germans were thrown out of the car and the crew sped up the mountain road. They pushed the car over a cliff and set out on foot.

For the next three days and nights, hey wandered through the hills. In a narrow gulch they ran into a German sentry who opened fire. In the ensuing excitement, Ogburn, Smedegar and Parsons became separated from the other three men.

After hiding for a while the three men continued their trek until they finally located a village occupied by Americans.

From there it zigzags through the Ousseltia Valley to a point 25 miles northwest of Kairouan. It then swings to the southwest slightly and runs south to a point 20 miles due east of Gafsa. (The Algiers radio placed the line here 47 miles east of Gafsa.) After that there are only patrol areas.

Roosevelt Hails American Troops In North Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today the receipt of a message from President Roosevelt declaring he was returning from North Africa to the United States with the renewed confidence that American soldiers "shall be victorious."

The text of the message, addressed to American soldiers in North Africa by Mr. Roosevelt as Commander-in-Chief, follows:

"My brief visit to North Africa has given me increased assurance and a deeper feeling of pride in the leaders and men of the American armed forces.

COMMENDS TROOPS

"The officers and men who landed with the initial assault, those who are now carrying on at the front in Tunisia and those who are training themselves for future combat are deserving of the highest commendation.

"I could not but note your alertness, your smartness and the pride you take in yourself and your splendid equipment. "Officers and men of the armed forces in North Africa—I commend you."

Axis Holds Half Tunisia, Zigzag Line Divides Foes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Colonel General Jurgen von Arnim's Axis army holds approximately half of Tunisia as Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces try to squeeze in.

The opposing lines are long and straggling, over mountains and vast plateaus.

At many places there are no clearly defined lines where the Germans and the Allies hold strong positions in patrol areas and send out armored units every day to cover the zones.

THE GERMAN LINE

Roughly the German line runs as follows:

Beginning at a point 28 miles due west of Bizerte on the coast, the line drops south to Salem, 7½ miles northwest of Mateur. It then runs southwest to a point 12 miles southwest of Mateur, where it swings southeast and passes two miles east of Medjez el Bab.

Dropping down to a point near Goubellat, the line then extends due south for almost 30 miles to a point 14 miles southwest of Djebibina.

2 U. S. Officers Tell Of Perilous Journey Dodging Axis Patrols

Texan, Fearing Capture In Tunisia, Ate Confidential Notes

JAN FEB 29 1943

By HAROLD V. BOYLE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 23 (Delayed)—Two officers of a tank destroyer unit are back with their own troops today after they separately made perilous two-day treks through the mountains dodging German patrols.

They are Capt. Benjamin A. G. Fuller, 24, of 376 Randolph avenue, Milton, Mass., and Lt. Lawrence E. Marcus, 25, member of the Dallas, Tex., mercantile family.

"We were attacked shortly before dusk Jan. 20 on a ridge north of Hir el Abrici, which is about 13 miles north of Ousseltia," Capt. Fuller said. "The enemy had between 50 and 75 armored vehicles, including a number of Mark IV tanks.

"Our company of tank destroyers and light tanks was on a purely defensive mission, and as long as we could see the enemy we made out okay, but after darkness fell they overran us by weight of numbers and I ordered a withdrawal.

"During the battle the French had thrown up a road block behind us and opened fire on our column, mistaking us in the darkness for Germans. Lt. Frederick C. Miner of Bronxville, N. Y., swiftly swung the column away from the bridge and forded the vehicles across the river at another point and got his guns safely back to Ousseltia. It was a wonderful job and showed real initiative.

Cut Off by Germans.

"I had stayed back at the crossroads where the battle took place in hopes of rounding up any of our missing men and was cut off by about two dozen German foot soldiers. I had picked up two men—Corpl. Leitner of Brooklyn and Pvt. Harry Ellenmark, who lives in some town in New Jeresy—one British lieutenant and 10 British soldiers.

"We lay hidden in the cactus and debated whether to face almost certain suicide by attacking or try to work our way through the German lines. It seemed more like common sense to get back to our own side. Before pulling out, however, we left them a farewell to remember us by.

"We saw six jerries in a group near the corner of a stone house and threw the only four grenades we had at them and then lit out across country toward the mountains to the west.

"Our grenades must have finished them off, because they didn't fire back at us. Some other Germans about 500 yards away let go at us with machine pistols but missed. Their machine pistols are something like our tommy guns but fire much faster—once you hear them you never forget them.

Suffered from Cold at Night

"We reached the mountains okay and spent a day and a half more crossing them. Cold winds made the nights awful, but we couldn't risk lighting fires. The only thing we had to eat was emergency rations, and we slept in the day from exhaustion.

"When we got to Siliana, which is held by the French, the first man I met was Lt. Marcus, who had gotten out safely by another route. We came back together."

Lt. Marcus was cut off from the unit once during the battle and crawled back 150 yards under machine-gun fire to reorganize his men and direct a battery of 75s on the Germans. After his battery was forced back again, he was trapped on a ridge which was betwen the lines, and was fired at both by the Germans and the Americans.

"I was lucky to find a U-shaped group of rocks which gave me shelter, with a little maneuvering," said Lt. Marcus, who twice has been given the Croix de Guerre by the French for gallantry in previous actions.

"I was afraid I would be captured, so I ripped out sections of my notebook having confidential information, and ate them. They weren't too digestible.

"For two hours I kept busy digging my shelter deeper with my mess spoon before the Germans advanced on the ridge and set up an infantry mortar 50 yards in front of me, and a command post 75 yards behind me. They argued a lot, shouting angrily at each other, and if I understood German I would have known all their plans.

Strolled Past Nazis.

"I decided it was better to die than be captured so I decided to walk slowly through their lines, figuring if I went slow they wouldn't suspect I was one of the enemy. It was an awful temptation to hurry, but I got up and as calmly as I could strolled to a cactus patch and down into a gully.

"For two hours I walked through a soupy fog parallel to the German lines and heard German voices all the way. At the last Nazi outpost a German soldier heard me and suspected something was wrong. When he came out of a radio truck I ducked behind a bush and waited until he went back, afraid he might investigate and find me only a few paces away.

"I moved south for a while, but after I saw a cloud of dust on the road the next morning I turned west again, thinking the Germans possibly had taken Ousseltia. I had no water left in my canteen, and only four lumps of sugar and two small pieces of candy to eat. I was so thirty I wet my lips at night with moisture on the pine trees.

"That trip across the mountains was rocky and rough going and left me completely exhausted. I saw a beautiful farmhouse in the valley with French native soldiers near, so I knew it was all right to go there. The first thing I did was drink a quart of water in about two seconds.

"When I got back to my unit, everyone was surprised, as one of my men had reported I was apparently killed. They told me they were already about to divide up my baggage, but I got there in time to save my cigarettes."

Americans In Maknassy.

London, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Reuters quoted an Algiers radio broadcast tonight as saying that American troops had reached Maknassy, thirty-three miles from the Gulf of Gabes, in an advance toward the rear of the Mareth Line, seventy-five miles to the southeast.

Enemy troops retreating toward Tunis have been dispersed and a number captured, it was declared. The broadcast was further quoted as saying that British troops were showing great activity in the Medjez-el-Bab and Bou Arada regions to the north.

On Monday it was reported officially that United States troops had raided Maknassy and British observers who have been speculating on the likelihood of an American drive to keep the Rommel and Von Arnim forces apart pointed out that if the Americans should sustain this thrust, they would hit the east coast between Gabes and Sfax, well north of the Mareth Line.

French Join Forces.

Also tonight the Algiers radio said that the French forces of Gen. Giraud and De Gaullists from the Lake Chad area have joined in the conquest and occupation of Gadames, Italian stronghold in the desert 300 miles southwest of Tripoli. The Italians were stated to have withdrawn in the face of the French advance.

This was the first joint occupation placing Gen. Giraud's forces side by side with the Fighting French led by Brig.-Gen. Jacques le Clerc. Gadames lies in Tripolitania near the Algerian frontier just below the southern tip of Tunisia.

Dour Jap Words Noted On Casablanca Parley

London, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast tonight a pessimistic commentary of the Japanese newspaper Yomiuri Hochi on the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting at Casblanca. As recorded here by the Soviet monitor, the newspaper said:

"When we recall how carefully the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa was prepared and the scale on which it was made, there is no ground for further optimistic conclusions concerning the future outlook."

Concerning Russia, the Moscow radio quoted the paper:

"In her large-scale summer offensive, Germany scored comparatively little success and subsequently she was even compelled to retreat, which testifies to the enormous strength of the U. S. S. R."

Commons to Get Report From Churchill Soon

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—A report to the House of Commons on the Casablanca conference will be made by Prime Minister Churchill "at the earliest possible moment when it is literally physically possible," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden promised today.

He told Commons he could not now predict an exact date for Churchill's appearance, however.

Meanwhile, today it was learned that the fighting French are considering sending Gen. George Catroux to head Gen. de Gaulle's delegation in Washington.

Gen. Catroux, head of the De Gaullist forces in Syria, is usually intrusted with the most important diplomatic tasks within the Fighting French movement.

Members of the De Gaullist National Committee were reported eager to continue the discussions which Gen. de Gaulle had with President Roosevelt at Casablanca.

Having failed to achieve a complete rapprochement with Gen. Henri Giraud, Gen. de Gaulle was reported planning no further action beyond the appointment of a mission—probably composed of four or five men—to represent the Fighting French in North Africa.

16 Hours a Day During Conference

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—A WAAC officer who used to work for the Civil Service in Denver found herself helping make history at the recent Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Casablanca and had "the most wonderful time of my life," she said today.

Captain Louise Anderson of Denver was the only woman present at last Sunday's press conference held by the President and the Prime Minister. She was the official stenographer.

OTHER WAACs THERE

But there were four other WAACs from the headquarters of Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied North African commander, serving at the 10-day military conference.

They were Captains Alene Drezmal of St. Paul, Minn., Mattie A. Pinette, Fort Kent, Me., and Martha E. Rogers, Jackson, Miss., and Ruth M. Briggs, Westerly, R. I.

Although the tension at the conference was terrific, these five women have had other notable war experiences, too. They were aboard an Allied ship torpedoed in December off the North African coast. They were transferred to a British destroyer and safely reached Oran, Algeria.

DINED WITH PRESIDENT

"We left here Jan. 11 for the Casablanca conference," Captain Anderson said. "It was all a big secret and we did not know until some time after we got there that the President and Prime Minister were going to be there.

"We worked like dogs 16 hours a day during the conference but it was all worth while when the President invited us to dinner.

"It was not at all like a girl would dream about having dinner with the President. He was so informal, and made everyone feel right at home. You cannot put a thing like that into words. It was marvelous."

TALK WITH CHURCHILL

After dinner, she said, Prime Minister Churchill dropped in and stayed late talking with the five WAACs. None of them ever had seen either the President or Prime Minister before.

The WAACs said they started their work in the mornings during the 10-day meeting, and usually finished about midnight.

Asked if she and the others ever were allowed to leave the Presidential compound, Captain Anderson said "I don't know whether we could have gone or not, but we never had the time to try."

"We never saw so many generals in our lives," she added. "They were everywhere."

All the WAACs received letters of commendation from the President. Even more prized to Captain Anderson was the Presidential signature on her roll of "Short Snorter Bills."

She is an ardent "Short Snorter," a participant in an Air Force autograph game, and she reaped a bumper crop of signatures, getting two Roosevelts—the President and his son, Lieutenant Colonel Elliott Roosevelt.

KOSTORNOYE CAPTURED IN LATEST PUSH

City's Fall Marks 45-Mile Russian Advance West Of Voronezh

Caucasus Forces Seize Oil Center—Stalingrad Nazis Cut To 8,500

[By the Associated Press]

Moscow, Jan. 28—The Russians plunged forward on all fronts from Leningrad to the north Caucasus today, capturing one of the important refining centers of the Maikop oil field, further reducing the doomed Stalingrad garrison and driving still farther west from Voronezh toward Kursk.

[The Germans announced a retreat west of Voronezh to a new, shortened line despite "most serious fighting and weather." The Stalingrad resistance was termed unshaken. Violent Russian attacks southeast of Lake Ilmen by "numerically superior forces" were declared unsuccessful. Other Russian drives were reported near Lake Ladoga, on the western front opposite Moscow and in the Caucasus.]

The noon communique listed a general, three colonels and four lieutenant colonels among the captives, increasing by the hour, in attacks on the doomed Stalingrad forces.

Only 8,500 Nazis Left

Fewer than 8,500 isolated and hungry men, short of ammunition, were said to remain in the trap.

Russian forces striking out from Tuapse on the Black Sea of the western Caucasus recaptured Neftegorsk, twenty-five miles southwest of Maikop. Tass said an oil refining industry, noted for production of aviation fuel, was located at Neftegorsk. It was partly evacuated and partly destroyed when the Germans took the region in the summer. Near the city are oil sources rivaling those of Grozny.

Apsheronskaya, six miles nearer to Maikop, also was captured.

Reds Closer To Kursk

The capture of Gorshechnoe on the Valuiki-Kastornoe railway placed the Russian drive on the Voronezh front midway between Moscow and Stalingrad, less than eighty miles from Kursk. Just to the south, the Russians are seventy-eight miles from Kharkov, hub of the whole German position in south Russia.

The enemy was counter-attacking in the north Caucasus in a vain effort to stem the Russian drive that threatened to encircle all his men in the Caucasus. Despite these desperate German efforts, the Russians said they seized a number of populated places overnight and dispatches said the Red army was driving nearer Kropotkin and Tikhoretsk, important rail junctions on the Rostov-Baku line.

25 Miles From Kropotkin

The Reds were less than twenty-five miles from Kropotkin and forty miles from Tikhoretsk. Should these cities fall, the remaining Germans in the Caucasus would have great difficulty escaping.

Dispatches reported the Russians were tightening their semi-circle around Rostov as troops on the southern and southwestern front pressed forward. The Russians are fifty-six miles away to the east on the lower Don; sixty miles away in the Salsk region, and less than seventy miles from Rostov in the north.

The capture of Atamanon on the branch railway from Rostov to Salsk placed the Russians in the Salsk area only sixty miles from Rostov.

Operations In North

The Soviet communique reported continued offensive operations on the Volkhov and Leningrad fronts but did not specify gains. Vast amounts of booty were listed on other sectors.

As the fight at Stalingrad neared its conclusion, taking its place with the decisive battles of history, the Russians said not a single air transport had gotten through to drop munitions or food to the pocketed Germans. Weakening fire indicated the enemy was running short of shells, and dispatches said the last few transport planes destroyed were loaded with munitions.

"Hitler's Finished"

Recently captured prisoners were quoted as saying their officers exhorted them to hold Gumrak, their last airdrome within the encircled pocket that now has been wiped out west of the city.

They quoted their officers as saying "you'll be taken back to Germany by transport planes." When Gumrak fell, the Soviets seized 3,000 parachutes and many of the prisoners were said to have shouted at their surrender:

"Hitler kaput! (Hitler's finished.) Our officers ran away and left us."

Soviet artillery poured tons of cannon shells into Germans hiding in the ruins of the city Hitler confidently boasted he would take.

Tikhoretsk and Kropotkin Face Encirclement—Nazis Tell of Voronezh 'Withdrawal'

1943

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Friday, Jan. 29—The Red Army, was developing its threat to Kursk, one of the starting points of Germany's 1942 offensive, today after capturing the railway junction of Kastornoe, eighty-three miles to the east, while in the Caucasus the Russians were menacing Tikhoretsk and Kropotkin after outflanking those two railway junctions below Rostov.

A special communiqué last night announced the capture of Kastornoe, junction on the Moscow-Donbas and Voronezh-Kursk railways, and the midnight communiqué told of swelling Caucasus victories.

The Red Army, pounding hard after the battered Germans, were said to have entered Gulkevichi, only eight miles southeast of Kropotkin, and to have captured Kalnibolotsk, within twenty miles of Tikhoretsk on the northeast.

Other Russian units were swarming into the Maikop oil region—striking virtually from all sides. The Germans last Fall had appeared confident that they would be using Maikop's wells as a fuel base for their "Caucasian conquest."

[The Germans acknowledged their retreat west of Voronezh, describing it as a "withdrawal" to shorten the front. They implied that the Soviet offensive was widening northward. An "imperturbable" Axis defense is frustrating Red Army encirclement manoeuvres, Berlin claimed.]

"War materials and prisoners were taken" in the capture of Kastornoe, the Soviet special bulletin said. The occupation of this junction has given the Russians an important center for their push toward Kursk and the railway connecting it with Kharkov, Ukraine capital to the south.

New Red Offensive Blasts Nazis Along Black Sea Coast

Russians Driving North From Tuapse Sector Toward Maikop Oil Field

1943

By [illegible] GUNTHER,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—The thrust of a new Russian offensive launched from the Tuapse sector of the Black Sea coast, was given in today's official announcement of the Red Army's occupation of Apsheronskaya and Neftegorsk, two cities southwest of Maikop, center of the only oil region Hitler's armies were able to take in Russia.

Apsheronskaya is little more than 19 miles from Maikop and Neftegorsk is 25 miles southwest of the oil center which was burned and blasted by the Russians before they moved out in the face of the German advance early last summer. It was held unlikely that Hitler's troops were able to get much oil out of the Maikop fields.

New Wedge Drives at Rostov.

The news of this advance, tying in with other successes reported in the Caucasus which would help encircle the Maikop area, came as the Russians pushed another spearhead into the arc bristling against Rostov and as fresh reports came of the surrender of thousands of cold, war-weary Axis troops on other fronts.

The Russian midday communique told of the capture of a number of towns in the Caucasus, but did not identify them.

(Tremendous losses were declared also to have been inflicted on the Germans in driving them out of two populated places on the Voronezh front and more towns were reported taken on both the southern and southwestern fronts.

(In all of the engagements, the communique said sizable stores of military equipment were captured.

Stalingrad Nazi Force Reduced.

(The reduction of the trapped Axis forces before Stalingrad continued, the Russians said, asserting that a German general, three colonels and other officers were among those who surrendered during the night.

("The Germans put up a weak fire of resistance," the communique reported. "Every hour the number of prisoners is growing."

(This was the sector where the Russian winter offensive first cast a loop about 220,000 Axis besiegers of Stalingrad, a figure that had shrunk by Russian count to 12,000 two days ago. The Soviet high command then promised that that force would be exterminated "in two or three days."

1943

(By last night the Russians figured the force at 8,500 with hundreds surrendering to the Red Army forces that hemmed them in.)

The latest thrust toward Rostov was from Salsk, whence a Red Army spur had raked northwestward along the railway to Ataman, within 60 miles of Rostov.

Meanwhile, other units had pressed on beyond Belaya Glina, on the main Stalingrad line and only 40 miles from Tikhoretsk, it was reported.

The other spearheads bearing down on Rostov were located by the Russians at points 70 miles north of the city and 56 miles to the east, on the Lower Don.

Other reported successes on the southern front brought the capture of Novo Alexandrovskaya, 30 miles due east of Kropotkin and Rashivatskaya, 20 miles southeast.

At Novo Alexandrovskaya the Soviet troops would be in position to flank Kropotkin from the north, and the whole operation in this area and along the Baku-Rostov Railway past Armavir formed another segment of the arc being drawn about Maikop.

(London reports said the Germans were assembling escape barges at Novorossisk, Black Sea naval base now occupied by the Nazis, to transport their armies out of the Caucasus if they cannot hold Rostov.)

In the northern sector of the central front, the Red Army was said to have swept into Gorshechnoye, 80 miles east and slightly south of Kursk, a German strongpoint and base on the Moscow-Kharkov railway.

In the Varvorovka - Shelyakino sector of the Voronezh front the Russians reported 5,000 Axis troops, including high officers, had surrendered after only a short battle.

It was in this area that more than 64,000 Axis troops already had been reported taken prisoner.

Encircling Maikop Fields as Cossack Cavalry and Planes Flail Fleeing Foe

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Russians were fast encircling two key Caucasus railway junctions at Tikhoretsk and Kropotkin, and also the oil fields at Maikop tonight, while on the Voronezh front the Red Army seized the important junction of Kastornoye, seventy-five miles from the big Nazi base of Kursk. These developments were reported in two Russian communiques broadcast by Moscow and reported here by the Soviet radio monitor.

With the seizure of Kalnibolotskaya in the Caucasus the Russians were only eighteen miles northeast of Tikhoretsk. The occupation of Gulkevichi put the Red Army only eight miles southeast of Kropotkin.

A special communique announced the capture of Kastornoye intersection of the Voronezh-Kursk and Valuiki-Yelets railways. "War materials and prisoners were taken," it added.

The regular midnight bulletin then announced the capture of Kalnibolotskaya and Gulkevichi in the Caucasus, and these other developments of the day:

The Red Army seized Novopokrovskaya, only twenty-seven miles east of Tikhoretsk, where the Rostov-Baku line connects with the Stalingrad-Novorossisk railway. Only twenty-eight miles to the southeast the Russians occupied Ilyinskaya as they closed in on Tikhoretsk,

Thirty-five miles below Tikhoretsk, the Red Army began also to encircle Kropotkin, which is the junction for the Rostov-Baku line and another east-west railway running from Novorossisk on the Black Sea to the Kalmyck steppes.

Here the Red Army took Otrada-Kubanskaya, sixteen miles southeast of Kropotkin, on the main railway line. They also seized Petropavlovskoye and Mikhailovskoye, twenty-seven and thirty miles south of Kropotkin. Other Russian units are about twenty-five miles to the east of the junction.

With the occupation of Petropavlovskoye and Mikhailovskoye, the Russians disclosed their troops now are rapidly overrunning the area north and south of the Maikop oil fields. The former is thirty-seven miles northeast of Maikop, and Moscow announced the capture yesterday of Apsheronskaya, nineteen miles southwest of Maikop, in a drive apparently launched by Red Army units pushing from Tuapse on the Black Sea coast.

The Soviet units pushing west from Armavir to join the Tuapse forces captured Kurgannaya, thirty miles beyond Armavir and almost midway to Maikop.

Maikop already is considered lost to the Axis, Moscow dispatches said. Russia's heavily-armored, low-flying Stormov planes were raking withdrawing German columns, inflicting terrible punishment on them, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

One pilot was quoted as saying that these planes wrecked 150 German vehicles on one road, and the Germans also were being pursued by Cossack cavalry, and Russian tank-riding infantrymen.

During the day one single Soviet unit in this theater was credited with destroying 200 Axis troops and destroying nine tanks and seventeen trucks. Soviet artillery also dispersed and wiped out part of an enemy motorized battalion.

Cossack cavalrymen riding over the plains were darting across the highways where German infantry was retreating. More than 300 Germans were killed in one action. Others surrendered along with their equi[illegible]

At Stalingrad the Russians still were whittling down the last few doomed thousands of hungry, winter-worn Nazi legions that once had numbered 220,000 men. During the day three German prisoners, the communique said, were released to return to their units. They brought back seventy more officers and men "who had decided to lay down their arms."

German resistance apparently was stiffening on the southwestern and lower Don fronts, where the Russians did not claim any gains. The Red Army last was reported only a few miles from Voroshilovgrad, Donets basin industrial center, in the southwestern drive, and only fifty-six miles from Rostov in the lower Don drive.

MUTINY REPORTED IN NAZI ARMY

Moscow, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—The Tass News Agency published today a dispatch from Berne which said it was reliably reported that mutinies broke out last month in German units stationed at Bayonne and Dijon, France, when they were ordered to the Russian front.

Four German officers and eighteen men were shot at Bayonne, the dispatch said, while a platoon of infantry at Dijon which protested against being sent to Russia was disarmed and sent under escort in sealed cars to Germany.

Tricky Reds Changed Map, Nazis Complain

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—The German press is attempting to explain defeats on the Soviet front by declaring that the Russians tricked them, a Swedish correspondent reported today.

Russia's concealment of her real military power and skill in camouflage resulted in surprises for the Germans even during the second year of the campaign, the press complained.

The Russians were said to have changed the names of many places, built new towns whose existence was kept secret and laid new railways which were not shown on any maps available to the Germans.

Red Army in Petsamo, Swedish Source Says

1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Morocco radio broadcast a report today credited to "a Swedish source" that the Red Army had entered Petsamo, Finland.

The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press.

(This report lacked cocnfirmation from any other source. The Morocco radio at Rabat is in French hands although reportedly supervised by the Allies. There have been hints that it might be used by the Allies in the war of nerves against the Axis.)

The port of Petsamo and the district of the same name are above the Arctic Circle in the narrow portion of Finland which separates Soviet Russia from Far Northern Norway. The port, some 65 miles northwest of Russia's port of Murmansk, is Finland's outlet to the Arctic Ocean.

There have been no reports from Russia or Germany of army activity in that region. Murmansk, a vital port for Allied supplies flowing to Russia, however, has been under German air attack regularly.

NAZIS 'WITHDRAW' AGAIN

Explain Voronezh Retreat as Plan to Shorten Front

German forces west of Voronezh, the former anchor of their Don River line, are withdrawing to a new, shortened line, the German High Command announced yesterday.

Its communiqué, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, reported what appeared to be a new major Russian offensive not yet announced by Moscow, an extension of the grand southern offensive hitherto confined to sectors below Voronezh.

"Heavy fighting west of Voronezh is continuing with undiminished vigor," the communiqué said. "After repulsing all enemy attempts at encirclement, the German troops, obeying orders, are withdrawing to a new, shortened line. Strong Luftwaffe formations, supporting the ground forces, inflicted heavy losses in men and materiel on the attacking Russians."

"At the centers of the battle of defense in the east, our armies are withstanding imperturbably the pressure of the enemy, notwithstanding the most serious fighting and weather conditions," was the High Command's summation of the Russian campaign.

"In Stalingrad," it continued, "the heroic resistance of the defenders [remnants of the German Sixth Army] is unshaken. Soviet assaults against the western and southern fronts collapsed."

U. S. Raid Shows Nazis' Scarcity Of Good Flyers

American Crews Find Defenses Weak at Wilhelmshaven

By GLADWIN HILL,
Associated Press Foreign Correspondent.

AT A UNITED STATES BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 28.—The first bombing of Germany by the United States Army Air Forces reflects the growing strength of the American air arm in Britain and presages a continuing series of attacks against the heart of the dwindling Nazi Empire.

The pilots, bombardiers and the rest of the crews participating in the raid by Flying Fortresses and Liberators assayed the results today with the declaration that they would do better and the German defenses did not do so well.

The unexpected weakness of anti-aircraft and fighter plane defense over Wilhelmshaven indicates that the Germans have not enough first-class aerial talent to cover all vulnerable points, it was agreed here.

Cold and cloudy conditions over the targets there and at Emden limited the high-altitude daylight precision bombing which is an American specialty, but the execution of yesterday's raid was held to indicate that American bombers are gaining skill in coping with conditions less than favorable. This fact also expands greatly their potential field of operations.

Col. Curtis Lemay of Columbus, Ohio, the commander of one group of bombers, said the raid went "pretty well, except that it was rather dull compared with some we've had. Given a bit of better weather, we'll give 'em a show next time that will really mean something."

Sergt. C. E. Chezem of Tulsa, Okla., a waist gunner of the Gopher, one of the Fortresses, said that the pilots of the German fighters which sought to intercept them appeared to be "just green—they attacked only the rear planes."

Men of another Fortress named "Carter and His Pills" said that the German fighter pilots "were just primary and basic training fellows, they didn't know which way to kick the rudder."

Their Fortress, named for its pilot, Capt. J. W. Carter of Lawton, Okla., has weathered 11 raids without a scratch.

Two German fighters attacked the plane yesterday simultaneously from each side. Engineer Sergt. S. A. Kirk of Lincoln, Ark., the left waist gunner, and Sergt. R. A. Livengood of Butler, Pa., nailed them at the same time.

Some of the other bombers that went out on the raid—only three failed to return—bore such names as "Devil's Playmate," piloted by Lt. I. D. Benson of Anguilla, Miss.; "Royal Flush," piloted by Lt. Harold Beasley of Andalusia, La.; "Connecticut Yankee," piloted by Lt. James Verinis of New Haven, Conn.; "Jack the Ripper," piloted by Capt. William Crumm of Scarsdale, N. Y., and "Kickapoo," piloted by Capt. John W. Eames of Shreveport, La.

There was no official estimate of German losses but crews of several planes said they were sure they got their attackers.

The crew of the Carter plane said it got at least two and the Devil's Playmate crew claimed two. The Royal Flush and the Connecticut Yankee each claimed three.

One claimant to being the first over Germany was Lt. Edward Hennessy of Chicago, pilot of the Banshee, but Lt. William Calontoni of Brownsville, Pa., claimed the honor on the basis that he was the navigator in a bomber on the right flank of the forward element of formation which wheeled over Germany, swinging him across the border first.

The air forces may arbitrate the claims.

The Fortress Butch, piloted by Lt. R. A. Saunders of Youngstown, Ohio, carried Maj. Errol R. T. Holmes, a royal artillery flak expert on liaison duty and the first British soldier to go on an American raid.

Maj. Holmes expressed his astonishment at the precision of the Americans' formation flying.

Duesseldorf Blasted In 'Quickest Blitz' by British Air Armada

LONDON, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Hundreds of tons of explosives and fire-bombs were delivered in blitz style on Duesseldorf last night by a heavy force of the biggest Royal Air Force bombers, flying the night schedule of a stepped-up aerial offensive on Germany.

It was the 51st raid on the great industrial centre. The Air Ministry, terming the attack "Duesseldorf's quickest blitz," said most of the thousands of bombs carried were dropped within 10 minutes of the 20-minute raid.

SATURATION RAID

The report of one pilot indicated it was a "saturation raid," one so concentrated that it overwhelms the capacity of defenses to deal with the bombers. He noted that anti-aircraft fire, intense at first, gradually thinned out until there was little, if any, flak.

Only six bombers were lost out of a force officially designated as "heavy," indicating several hundred planes were in action. In the last raid on Duesseldorf, on Oct. 9, 1942, the British lost 31 planes, but the disparity in losses probably was due to differences in weather conditions rather than to enemy action.

Last night was so black that the RAF pilots saw only a few enemy fighters as they plumped many 4000-pound block-busters amid fires started by thousands of incendiaries to silhouette the targets.

"Preliminary reports of last night's raid on the Rhineland by Lancasters and Halifaxes show several hundred tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped on Duesseldorf in 20 minutes," an authoritative statement said.

The Air Ministry had reported that six bombers were missing from a heavy attack on industrial objectives in the Rhineland, which continued a cycle of raids featured by the first United States Air Force assault on the Reich and the first bombing of Copenhagen.

Dusseldorf, a center of transport and heavy industry in Northwest Germany, is 160 miles southwest of the Wilhelmshaven naval base which, with Emden, was heavily pounded yesterday by United States heavy bombers.

Nazis Strike Back.

The German high command, in a communique broadcast from Berlin, sought to discount the effect of the American blows. It declared that "a daylight attempt under the cover of cloud to bomb targets at Helgoland Bay were foiled by fighters and AA defenses.

Striking back by daylight, German flyers attacked a southeast coast town of England this morning, inflicting considerable damage and some casualties.

Some of Britain's biggest aircraft, Lancasters and Halifaxes, each capable of carrying four 2-ton block-busters, were officially reported to have participated in the blows against the Rhineland.

The ministry described the attack as "heavy," but did not indicate the actual number of planes participating.

The thunderous series of bombings was acclaimed by Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, head of the RAF bomber command, as the beginning of a campaign "to bust Germany wide open."

Lend Weight to Strategy Talks.

Psychologically the raids gave weight to the historic parley between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca, where they and their military leaders laid plans for "more intense prosecution of the war by land, sea and air."

The Berlin radio reported that the RAF attack last night was directed against the North German coastal area and said eight of the raiders were shot down—indicating that the number of planes participating probably was fairly large.

The same area was given a heavy pounding yesterday as swarms of United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators hammered the naval base at Wilhelmshaven and related industries at nearby Emden.

While the American planes were thus engaged, Mosquito bombers of the RAF subjected the Danish capital of Copenhagen to its first bombing, striking at factories turning out war materials for the Germans.

The previous night British bombers had raided the German submarine base at Lorient and the port of Bordeaux in Occupied France.

In contrast with the wide scope of Allied aerial operations, not a single German plane was reported over Britain throughout last night.

Attacks From Africa Expected.

Observers said the stepped-up Allied air offensive, with the RAF carrying the war to Germany by night and the United States Army Air Forces by day, would bring home to the German people the fact that their once-vaunted air force no longer has control of the air in the west.

It was expected that the raids on Europe by British-based bombers soon would be supplemented by air attacks from newly-won Allied bases in North Africa.

The first all-American raid against Germany proper yesterday involved a round-trip flight of some 800 miles for the Flying Fortresses which struck at Wilhelmshaven. The Liberators carried out the assault on Emden in a surprise follow-up to this blow.

Three of the American bombers failed to return from the forays, which were carried out without fighter escort, but United States headquarters said the Americans shot down a number of German planes attempting to intercept them.

Copenhagen Factories Hit.

Airmen who participated in the raids said they had encountered surprisingly little opposition.

The main target of the RAF bombers which attacked Copenhagen were factories engaged in turning out Diesel engines for Nazi submarines. Dispatches from Stockholm, Sweden, said that two big factories in the Danish capital had been set afire and that five persons were killed and 50 injured.

It was feared, the Stockholm reports said, that an examination of the ruins would disclose an even larger toll of casualties.

Damage in the bombed sections of Copenhagen, these sources declared, necessitated the removal of some 7,000 persons to public buildings taken over as emergency shelters.

In addition to bombing Copenhagen, British planes also attacked railway targets in Northern France and enemy shipping off the Dutch coast yesterday. Only one RAF plane was reported lost in all these operations.

Duesseldorf, called the administrative capital of the Ruhr, although it is not actually in the industrial valley, is the home of steel plants, iron foundries, machine-tool makers and armament works and is rated as important industrially as near-by Essen.

Heavy RAF Assault Follows U. S. Blow At Wilhelmshaven

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The RAF hit the German city of Duesseldorf with several hundred tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs last night during the fourth Allied aerial blow at the German war machine in two nights and a day, it was announced today.

Britain To Call Women Under 40 To War Duty

London, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ernest Bevin, Labor Minister, told the House of Commons today the call-up age of women for industrial mobilization would be arised from 30 years to 40 and indicated that thousands of other snot called would be required to do part-time work.

The new order, to become effective February 22, also will prevent women from the ages 18 to 40 from changing employment except through exchanges controlled by the Labor Ministry, Bevin said. This restriction previously applied only to those between 18 and 30.

In addition, the Minister said that housewives from 18 to 45 years old, except those with children under 14, would be directed to do part-time work.

Commons Hears Debate On Civil Service Reform

London, Jan. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Lord Beaverbrook were singled out today by Secretary Brown of the Civil Service Association as men whose educational qualifications would limit them in the British Civil Service under present rules.

Speaking in a House of Commons debate on civil service reform, Brown said of the Prime Minister:

"It is very fortunate he never went into civil service. His educational qualifications would have kept him in a clerical grade all his life. He was a very bad student and the only examination he would have been capable of passing at that age would have been a clerical examination."

Of Lord Beaverbrook, publisher and former Minister of War Production, he commented: "His formal educational qualifications are very low. . . . If he had come into civil service he would have got chucked out."

URGES MORATORIUM ON WARTIME BABIES

London, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—A moratorium on child-bearing until the end of the war was urged today by Alderman M. Campbell, a member of the Wembley Council.

"No woman on earth, or at least of the nations engaged in the war, should bring children into the world for the duration of the war," he argued.

His statement came during a debate on the question of granting special leave during confinement for married women on the council's permanent staff.

Compulsory Labor Decreed For All Men 16 To 65 And Women, 17 To 45—Death Threat For Slackers

[By the Associated Press]

London, Jan. 28—A drastic new decree instituting compulsory labor service for all German men from 16 to 65 and all women from 17 to 45 was announced by the German radio today with strong hints that the death penalty will be applied to slackers.

The announcement was made after days of an intense propaganda barrage in the German press and radio warning that Adolf Hitler's Reich is at a crisis in the war because of continued reverses on the Eastern front and that the situation calls for the most bitter sacrifices.

Hitler May Speak Tomorrow

In their discussions of the growing seriousness of the situation eBrlin radio commentators have been dwelling with increasing frequency on the date of January 30, te tenth anniversary of Hitler's coming to power. There were numerous suggestions that he might use the occasion Saturday to discuss full implications of the drastic measure, including the death penalty.

Although there was no official announcement of a forthcoming Hitler speech, the German Fuehrer hardly ever has missed this opportunity.

One German broadcast said the anniversary "is generally expected in Berlin to be marked by the presentation of some kinds of statement by prominent quarters."

New Armies To Be Found

"The extraordinary fierceness of the fighting against the Soviet Russians has led to a fresh impetus of determination in Germany," one Berlin broadcast explained. "New armies therefore are being put up and jobs held by these men must be filled."

Hints of the death penalty were contained in a radio spokesman's forecast, before the labor draft was announced, in which he cited a seventeenth century German war decree providing such penalty for desertion from military duty. Then the spokesman, Joachim Schiefer-decker, of the propaganda ministry, added pointedly:

All Must Contribute

"These are ordinances of total war. They will rule the coming new mobilization of all remaining energy at home."

The preamble of the decree, as issued by Labor Commissioner Fritz Sauckel merely said that "all German men and women must place their energies exclusively at the disposal of the fighting and working peoples community in this world-encircling battle for preservation."

Barrel Scraped, Swiss Say

All persons affected must register at the nearest labor bureau. The only exceptions, it was said, were persons already working forty-eight hours a week, boys and girls in school, foreigners, clergymen, women with one child below school age, women with at least two children under 14 and expectant mothers.

The Labor Bureau will examine all registrants to determine the tasks to which they will be assigned, the decree said, although they may express preferences for the type of work they wish to do.

This scraping of the bottom of the barrel by Germany for the last reserves in manpower to keep her war machine running was commented upon by the Swiss newspaper, Le Curieux, as quoted in a dispatch received here.

"Germany's position closely resembles that of 1918," the paper said. "Her last reserves are now being mobilized and will leave the nation's human resources exhausted."

1,000,000 Men Needed Yearly

Informed London sources doubted that even this Draconian measure would meet Germany's manpower needs.

According to the best estimates available to these sources, Germany must recruit at least a million men a year to fill the gaps in her army of from 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 men.

She is reported to have achieved this in 1941 and 1942 by calling up in two classes each year instead of one. Each class is supposed to have produced about 500,000 men.

This year, however, only the 1926 class can be called—and Germany must find another 500,000 men somewhere. The only source open appears to be the supply of skilled workers, and the present decree seemed to be aimed at tapping that source.

earliest attainment of final victory."

[A German broadcast picked up in New York said the Hitler anniversary "is generally expected in Berlin to be marked by the presentation of some kind of statements by prominent quarters." It added that the official program for the day had not yet been announced.]

Students, clergymen, foreigners and women with one child below school age or two children under 14 and men and women already employed were reported to be the only general exceptions to the decree. Mothers who have but one child of school age are to be called if there are not sufficient childless wives.

Before the Berlin announcement, informed London quarters said that drastic new laws, with perhaps even the death penalty for failure to comply, were likely to be announced or foreshadowed in a speech by Hitler on the tenth anniversary of his rise to power Saturday.

It was said that the German leader might effect this by placing his people under modified martial law.

French Salvation Army Dissolved, Bern Hears

Bern, Jan. 28 (AP)—The French Salvation Army was dissolved by an official decree published today, a Vichy dispatch to the Journal de Geneve said.

Its activities, the decree declared, "conflicted with national relief measures."

22 Men, One Woman Executed In Austria

Stockholm, Jan. 28 (AP)—Austrian newspapers report that twenty-two workmen and one woman have been executed by the Gestapo within Austria since January 1, bringing to eighty-three the total known executions there in the last two and a half months.

Most of these put to death were said to have been charged with treason or preparation for treason in connection with the circulation of defeatist literature or of pamphlets advocating an independent Austria.

Hitler Decrees Compulsory War Labor For Men 16 to 65 and Women 17 to 45

JAN 29 1943

London, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Compulsory labor service for all German men from 16 to 65 and women from 17 to 45 was decreed today by the German Government, according to an announcement broadcast by the Berlin radio and picked up by the Associated Press.

The decree required all persons affected to register at local labor offices.

In London authorities said that this represented labor mobilization on an unprecedented scale.

In a preamble to the decree, Adolf Hitler's labor commissioner, Fritz Sauckel, warned the German people, already under heavy pressure to produce for war needs, that they must devote their "energies solely to fighting and working for the community and thus make possible the

Casablanca Assures Allies 'Unremitting' Offensive, Soong Says

Chinese Press Reaction Favorable Despite Lack Of 'Big Four' Council

JAN 29 1943

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Jan. 28.—Foreign Minister T. V. Soong hailed the Casablanca conference today as insuring unremitting offensive operations against the Axis nations.

He said in a statement:

"To the confusion of Germany, Italy and Japan the year 1943 will prove that the United Nations are no longer on defense but possess a burning determination and ever-expanding strength to encompass the unconditional surrender of the aggressor nations.

"All are resolved that from now on the war will itself be unremittingly carried to the enemy equally in the Far East and in Europe."

The Chinese press which had hoped the Casablanca conference would produce a "big four" war council, generally indorsed the meeting and urged formation of the council without delay.

The official Central Daily News went beyond the general press emphasis on the need of concentrating against Japan by declaring that "the best way to crush the war lords' aggressive force is to crush Japan first."

Another high Chinese authority said that China had not been invited to Casablanca, but he confirmed the conference announcement that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had been kept informed of the proceedings. The authority said he could not confirm reports that it had been decided to keep the Oriental theater "passive" this year.

This source, who insisted on remaining anonymous, said the Casablanca conference had removed any chances of a negotiated peace with Japan.

"China will not rest until she has marched troops into Japan and occupied some of her cities, even if only as a token," he said.

He emphasized that China has no territorial ambitions beyond recovery of territories lost to Japan, including Manchuria and Formosa.

The official "Central Daily News" went beyond the general press emphasis on the need of concentrating against Japan by declaring that "the best way to crush the war lords' aggressive force is to crush Japan first."

Ta Kung Pao admitted that Russia and China had not been "overlooked," but pointed out that it was not known what aid had been promised China and expressed a hope that the help would be "more practical."

Most of the papers hailed the meeting of the French generals, Giraud and De Gaulle, as a great achievement of the parley.

The Catholic newspaper Social Welfare criticized the situation in these words: "The present military council in Washington does not include the representatives of the major allies and therefore does not possess the right to direct the whole situation.

"A big four council should be formed and in every theater of war the commander in chief should be chosen according to his ability, experience and seniority without regard to race or nationality."

U. S. Schooner Sunk, 16 Safe After 19 Days

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Sixteen survivors from a United States six-masted schooner shelled and sunk by a German submarine in the South Atlantic have reached Capetown after a 19-day voyage in a lifeboat.

Fourteen of the survivors were sailors from the United States; one was a Canadian and one a Briton. The only casualty was the first officer.

In the 19 days they spent trying to reach land the crew's daily food ration consisted of a biscuit, a cube of meat, half of a canned apricot and a little bread supplemented by raw flying fish.

Chinese Defeat Force Of Japanese On Coast

Chungking, Jan. 28 (AP)—Shore defenders inflicted heavy losses on Japanese troops who landed from two warships on the coast of Kwangtung province near Swatow January 21, the Chinese higs command said today.

It reported that the Japanese withdrew to their ships immediately after the engagement.

Chinese Clear Foe From Yunnan Area

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—All enemy troops who penetrated the southwest China province of Yunnan around Talo, near the border of the Shan States, have been cleared out, a Chinese army spokesman said today.

The Japanese occupied Talo on Jan. 14, he said, but the town was retaken a few hours later.

He added that the commander of the 56th Japanese Division had arrived with several thousand troops at a small town 20 miles south of Tengchung and was conferring with other Japanese officers, but said "whether this presages a renewed Japanese drive on the Salween front remains to be seen."

JAN 29 1943

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 28 (AP)—R. A. F. Blenheims bombed Japanese targets yesterday on the Mayu peninsula and Aryab Island, and native troops recently defeated an enemy patrol at a village in the Kale area, east of the Chin Hills, a British communiqué said today.

LOSSES LIGHT IN NEW GUINEA

MacArthur Says Campaign Was Cheapest in History.

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Allied casualties in the Papuan campaign, in which a Japanese Army previously estimated at 15,000 men was destroyed, were less than half of those of the enemy, Gen. MacArthur declared today. These figures are the reverse of the usual results in a ground offensive, where the attacking side generally loses several times as many men as the defenders, the Allied commander declared.

"Probably no campaign in history against a thoroughly prepared and trained army produced such complete and decisive results with a lower expenditure of life and resources," he added.

Gen. MacArthur explained that one reason for this was the fact that utmost care had been taken for the conservation of the forces and no attempt was made to storm enemy positions without careful preparation.

Sick Included in Estimate.

Allied air losses were even less in proportion to the Japanese, Gen. MacArthur said, while Allied sea losses were negligible, being confined entirely to small boats.

The general gave no actual figures in Allied casualties but made it plain that he had included the sick as well as dead and wounded in comparing them with Japanese losses. Many American and Australian troops were stricken with fever during the jungle fighting.

The regular Allied communique reported continuing aerial attacks on Japanese bases, including Finschhafen, Lae and Salamaua in New Guinea, where airdrome runways, fuel dumps and buildings were bombed. Allied bombers also attacked the airdrome at Gasmata, New Britain and enemy installations at Kai and Aroe islands between New Guinea and Timor.

The communique reported that a small Allied merchant vessel had been sunk by Jap planes off Wessel Island in the Arafura Sea northwest of Australia, but said casualties were light.

MEDALS AWARDED TO 7 ARMY FLYERS

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—Seven officers of the United States Army Air Forces who flew on more than fifty missions were awarded Distinguished Flying Crosses today for extraordinary achievement.

They were:

First Lieuts. Arthur L. Burger of Springfield, Mass.; George F. Callahan of 128-16 148th street, South Ozone Park, L. I., N. Y.; William E. Carlson of 434 West 23d street, New York city, and Henry D. Hudson of Watervliet, N. Y.; Major Jack A. Wilson of Marion, Ill., and Capts. Frank M. Fazio of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., and Meryl M. Smith of North East, Pa.

Lieuts. Burger, Callahan, Carlson and Hudson were cited for extraordinary achievements while participating in aerial flights from July to November. The citation said that these men demonstrated outstanding flying ability throughout these operations.

Major Wilson and Capts. Fazio and Smith were decorated for their abilities in flights between August and October.

Lieut. Callahan was awarded a Silver Star earlier this month for shooting down a Jap Zero plane. He is 27 years old and was employed by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, 395 Seventh avenue, before joining the Air Forces in 1940. He arrived in Australia early last year.

At his home in South Ozone Park today his mother, Mrs. Anna R. Callahan, was at church, but his brother Bill, a war worker, said that she would not be surprised to hear of the newest decoration.

"George has written home from time to time, telling of planes he'd shot down, but in his latest letter, which we received yesterday, he didn't say he was to be decorated again," he said.

ALLIED FLIERS STRIKE AT 10 PACIFIC POINTS

Airdrome on Timor Strafed—Ship Hit at New Britain

AT UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Friday, Jan. 29 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur's ever busy air arm has struck the Japanese in ten places, the noon communiqué reported today.

Long range fighters heavily strafed the Fuiloro airdrome on Portuguese Timor. In Binnen Bay, Amdoina, an Allied heavy bomber attacked a Japanese merchantship and shot down one of five Japanese planes which attempted to intercept.

In the Aroe Island area, long range fighters strafed enemy floatplanes on the water off Dobo. One was destroyed.

Japanese ships in Open Bay, New Britain, were strafed by an Allied heavy bomber.

In New Britain's Wide Bay, an Allied heavy bomber scored near hits from a low altitude on a Japanese cargo vessel and capsized a nearby boat. It also strafed a coastal village.

At Gasmata, New Britain, a medium bomber raided the airdrome. The airfield at Cape Gloucester was attacked by a heavy bomber.

Over New Guinea, heavy bombers wrecked installations near the airdrome at Wewak. A heavy bomber raided the Finschafen area and attack planes struck at Mubo.

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 28 (AP)—The belief that Japan is preparing a major military operation against Northern Australia was expressed today in Australian Government quarters.

Government informants, whose identity could not be disclosed further, said information had been received that the Japanese were increasing their concentrations of troops and shipping in areas from which Northern Australia would be threatened.

JAPS IN ALEUTIANS BOMB U. S. SHIPS

Washington, Jan. 28 (A. P.).—The Navy announced today that two Japanese float planes attacked United States ships somewhere west of our positions in the Aleutian Islands. No damage was suffered, the Navy said. It was the first such Japanese attack in the Aleutian Islands in months, a Navy spokesman said.

The Japanese planes probably were operating out of Kiska. What type of United States ships were attacked was not specified.

A communique said that the two planes attacked the ships operating to the westward of United States positions in the Aleutians.

In the South Pacific yesterday United States troops on Guadalcanal Island continued to advance to the west despite enemy resistance. Forty Japanese were killed and five prisoners and some enemy equipment were captured.

JAP-AMERICAN UNIT OF ARMY TO BE FORMED

General Emmons Directed To Induct 1,500 As Volunteers

Move Follows Announcement By Stimson On New Outfit

FEB 29 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Honolulu, Jan. 28—Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons reported today he had been directed to induct 500 Americans of Japanese descent as volunteers in the army. 1500

The statement by the commander of the Hawaiian Department, United States Army, followed word from Washington that the army had plans for a combat unit of loyal Japanese-Americans.

General Emmons, who also is Military Governor of Hawaii, said "these volunteers will be formed into combat units on the mainland and will, when trained, be sent into an active theater of operation.

Praises This Group

"A large percentage of the officers will be citizens of Japanese ancestry.

"The places of induction, the age limit, and other information will be announced at the earliest practicable date."

"Once in a great while," the general said, "an opportunity presents itself to recognize an entire section of this country for its performance of duty. All people of the Hawaiian Islands have contributed generously to our war effort. Among these have been Americans of Japanese descent.

"Their role has not been an easy one. Open to distrust because of their racial origin and discriminated against i ncertain fields of defense effort, they nevertheless have borne their burdnes without complaint and have added materially to the strnegth of the Hawaiian area.

Volunteer Combat Service

"They have behaved themselves admirably under most trying conditions and have bought great quantities of war bonds and by the labor of their hands have added to the common defense.

"In view of these facts and by War Department authority I have been designated to offer Americans of Japanese ancestry an opportunity to serve their country.

"This opportunity is in the form of voluntary combat services in the armed forces. The manner of response and record of these men will establish as fighting soldiers will be one of the best answers to those who question the loyalty of American citizens of Japanese descent in hawaii."

Five Zeros Blasted as Bombers Strike Japs Heavily at Wake

U. S. Planes and Crews From Hawaii Stage Second Raid Without Loss

FEB 29 1943

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS HAWAIIAN AIR FORCE, Jan. 28.—Dumbo the Avenger, four-motored Liberator bomber, is back from a trip halfway to Japan with several flights of companion planes after the second raid on Jap-held Wake Island in five weeks. But it has a shot-up engine and some fuel tank holes to show for it.

Col. William A. Matheny of Carrington, N. Dak., who commanded the mass raid December 24, led this repeat performance which was primarily a reconnaissance mission and secondarily a bombardment task.

"In 10 minutes over Wake at noon on January 25 we covered three islands in full reconnaissance by splitting our flight into several sections, and 90 per cent of our bombs hit their targets," Col. Matheny said.

"Eight Jap Zeros attacked us. One went spinning into the ocean, and we saw four others smoking in spins, but didn't wait for them to hit the water.

No Casualties Occur.

"My lead plane was the target of attack of all eight Zeros and these Liberators sure can take it. One of my engines was shot out and there were two hits in the oil tank, another in the engine mount and a bullet through the bomb bay gas tank, but we all got through okay and there wasn't a single casualty in our flight force.

"We got over Wake at noon and were 10 minutes over the target. We saw the blackened ruins of our previous December 24 raid and we smashed several new buildings the Japs had built."

Capt. Philip R. Krieg, Oak Harbor, Wash., navigator of Col. Matheny's plane, said:

"Three Jap planes took off after we dropped our bomb load and eight Zeros in all came after us and put up a 20-minute battle as we headed home."

Others on the mission included Lt. Don Manchester, bombardier, of Spokane, Wash.; Dan J. Taylor, fire control officer, of Portsmouth, N. H., and Co-Pilot Stanley E. Schreiber, Galesburg, Ill., all on Col. Matheny's plane. Other flight leaders included Capt. Dana B. Billings, Ripon, Wis., and Maj. Edwin S. Gren, El Centro, Calif.

The number of planes involved was not disclosed.

"The boys all went for it in a big way and would go back tomorrow if given the chance," Col. Matheny said. "Most all of them were in the last mass raid five weeks ago.

"It was a surprise to the Japs. They didn't open up with anti-aircraft fire or start to take off in the Zeros until I dropped my bombs. Either they were completely surprised or awfully careless.

Flack Comes Late.

"Then as we turned away there was plenty of anti-aircraft fire, with the air filled with puffs of smoke, but not close to us.

"We observed considerable new construction since our last pulverizing raid and there were two supply ships, small ones, in the harbor. We saw only eight planes.

"The attack by the Zeros started on us after we left Wake and were homing. It lasted 20 minutes. All concentrated on our lead plane, although some other planes got some of it. After the Japs delivered their attack singly on my plane they would do a couple or three slow barrel rolls. They put on a little exhibition of flying. No fighter pilot can resist the temptation to show off."

The amount or extent of the damage was undisclosed, but Capt. Krieg said he saw large columns of heavy smoke, like oil fires. Several buildings were demolished.

JAPAN REAFFIRMS PACT WITH RUSSIA

Will Respect Neutrality Treaty as Long as Soviet Does, Diet Is Told

FEB 29 1943

BURMESE STATE PLEDGED

Tojo Declares Readiness to Grant Independence Also to the Philippines

Japan intends to respect her neutrality pact with Russia and assumes the Soviet Government will reciprocate, Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani declared yesterday, according to versions of his speech to Parliament broadcast by Axis radios.

A Berlin version recorded by The Associated Press quoted Mr. Tani as saying that Tokyo's "policy of respecting the neutrality pact with the Soviet Union concluded in April, 1941, has undergone no modification." This attitude, he added, was "based on the assumption that the Soviet Government will likewise respect the pact."

Mr. Tani, addressing the Diet as it reconvened after a long New Year recess, remarked that "almost all the American states, including Chile, have now succumbed to the pressure of the United States."

"Should Argentina maintain her policy of neutrality notwithstanding this pressure, we shall entertain all the more respect for her," said Mr. Tani. "It is the desire of Japan to continue friendly relations with Argentina."

Jap Victory Assured By Conquests, Tojo Tells Postponed Diet

Nippon Now Wealthy in Resources Foes Lack, Premeir Asserts

By the Associated Press.

Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet today that victories achieved by Japan's armed forces during the last year had laid the foundations for certain victory over the United States and Britain, whom he charged with "sinister ambitions to dominate the world."

The Premier, whose address was reported by the Tokio radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, boasted that Japan's position both for offense and defense had been completed by the establishment of outlying bases and by the acquisition of vast natural resources.

Session Delayed a Week.

The address marked the reconvening of the Diet after the New Year recess. The session had been delayed a week because of Tojo's illness, according to Japanese announcements, and the Tokio radio said the Premier still was suffering from fever.

Tojo said casually that "of course it will require great efforts on our part to make these resources demonstrate their real wealth and power," but said that Japan's position, nevertheless, was secure.

"In contrast to our position," he said, "the United States and Britain —which boasted of their wealth and resources before the war—now are exposing a great shortage in vital war resources.

"As for the supply of rubber and tin which they previously obtained from the Southwest Pacific regions, they now are so uneasy and distressed they cannot succeed in concealing their predicament."

Fight for "Great Ideal."

Turning to Japan's war aims, the Premier said the Japanese people were fighting for a "great ideal" they had cherished for 3,000 years—"to enable all countries, each in its proper place, and all peoples to live their lives in peace and security."

Japan, he declared, sought only to "bring about real world peace in co-operation with our allies, who share the same purpose."

"This object," Tojo added, "compared with the traditional ambition of the Anglo-American countries to promote their own prosperity at the sacrifice of other countries and monopolize the world by exploiting other peoples, is wholly different in its essence."

HALSEY DENIES SOLOMON SHIP CREWS SHIRKED

Refutes Charge Seamen Refused To Unload Vessels At Guadalcanal

Admiral Cites Their Cooperation And Courage In Face Of Attack

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Jan. 28—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., reported today from the South Pacific that at no time had merchant seamen refused to unload ships at Guadalcanal Island, as charged in a report which a House committee has undertaken to investigate.

Halsey, commander of United States forces in the South Pacific, added that merchant seamen had not failed in any way to cooperate with the fighting forces on Guadalcanal.

FEB 29 1943

His report followed publication in the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal of a story quoting marines, home from Guadalcanal, as saying that union seamen refused to unload a ship because it was Sunday, and after working some hours on Saturday, had laid off until Monday.

Dozen Ships Arrived

The admiral's report said more than a dozen vessels manned by merchant seamen have reached Guadalcanal since marines landed on the island.

"Under the supervision of naval officers," Halsey said, "the crews participated in unloading all of them."

"The report stated," the navy said, "that none of the crews has ever refused to discharge its ship's cargo, and the merchant seamen's cooperation, efficiency and courage on some occasions in the face of enemy attack have won high praise."

Curran "Grateful"

In New York, Joseph Curran president of the National Maritime Union, said in a statement the members "are extremely grateful for the statement by Admiral Halsey giving the lie to published stories that crews refused to unload a ship or lies that National Maritime Union Guadalcanal Island on Sunday because it was against union rules."

"We maintain," he said, "that this story was Hitler-inspired and promoted by the sixth column press in an effort to shatter civilian morale and slander merchant seamen who have already lost more men through enemy action, proportionately, than any other armed service.

"We no wreiterate our demand for an investigation into the source of this story by Attorney General Biddle, and we expect every newspaper that printed the original falsehood to give Admiral Halsey's statement equal prominence and to run it in full."

Rumor Placing Air Transport Losses At 50% Called Vicious

Assistant War Secretary Lovett Says That 99.7% Of Aircraft Accepted Were Delivered In 1942

[By the Associated Press]

JAN 29 1943

Washington, Jan. 28—Assistant Secretary of War Robert A. Lovett today branded as "vicious, reckless and completely untrue," a rumor that "fifty per cent. of personnel in army planes en route to our fronts are killed in transit."

In a letter to Representative Brooks (D., La.), read in the House, Lovett said that during 1942, 99.7 per cent. of all aircraft accepted for domestic ferrying and foreign flight delivery by the air transport command were delivered to their destinations.

Brooks had called the rumor to the attention of the assistant secretary.

Lovett said that the percentage of fatal accidents to deliveries in such operations was only .2 of 1 per cent. during the six-month period ending December 31, 1942.

"Such a record would be gratifying even under peacetime conditions," Lovett continued. "Remembering that flight delivery of our modern high performance aircraft is made to ten active overseas air fronts completely encircling the globe (from sub-zero temperatures of the Arctic to the sub-tropical climates of Africa and the southwest Pacific) the accomplishment is a superb one and an extraordinary tribute to the pilots, the machines and the operating and supervisory personnel."

Lovett asked Brooks for assistance in tracing the rumor to its source.

Vandegrift Untells Epic Of Guadalcanal Marines

Leathernecks' Commander, Back Home, Tells Story Of Ceaseless, Day-And-Night Fighting

[By The Associated Press]

Washington, Jan. 28—While American army forces strengthened their grip on Guadalcanal, the story of how the Solomon island foothold was first seized and then held despite terrific Japanese attacks was unfolded today by Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, commander of the marines who did the job.

It was a story of unending day-and-night warfare from early August until the army recently took over, of grim searches for mobile Jap guns which often were so close they literally fired in the marines' faces, of a return to Indian-style jungle fighting—and of a siege so many-sided that "what we thought was our rear once turned out to be another front."

Morale Never Wavered

But through it all, the morale of the marines never wavered and "not once did I doubt that we would hold Guadalcanal," Vandegrift said at his first press conference since returning from the Pacific battle scene.

The marine commander stressed that "on Guadalcanal it wasn't the individuals or the individual services that counted. You couldn't tell a marine from an army or a navy man—and you couldn't tell any of those from the construction workers. It was a team that worked as a whole—and worked splendidly."

He said the air corces operated in complete cooperation with the ground troops.

Meanwhile, a navy communique reported that United States soldiers on Guadalcanal are advancing westward in the face of stiff Jap resistance, and told an unsuccessful two-plane Jap raid on American ships in the Aleutian island area of the North Pacific.

The communique's report that forty Japanese were killed and only five taken prisoner drew a grim encore from Vandegrift, who said the marines on Guadalcanal had little choice when it came to taking prisoners.

Says Japs Shot Selves

"You can't take a prisoner unless he will surrender," he said. "The average Jap fighting man won't be taken alive, if conscious—and many of the officers shot themselves when our men rushed up to capture them. Most of our prisoners were construction troops."

Vandegrift said the secret of successful jungle fighting in the islands lay in modernizing the old "French and Indian War" strategy, and that the marines, "trained for years in that type of battle," quickly adapted themselves to jungle conditions.

He saw the American grip on Guadalcanal as vital to the Pacific offensive but declined comment on strategy speculation.

"I just worked on Guadalcanal," he grinned.

4 TO 1 U.S. AIR SUPERIORITY IS REPORTED

Box Score For 1942 Put By Stimson At 1,349 To Only 309

JAN 29 1943

Secretary Reviews War On All Fronts At Press Conference

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—The army's air power, in "brilliantly successfully" operations around the globe, has established a 4-to-1 combat superiority over the aerial strength of the Axis, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

In a review of the war's progress on all fronts, Stimson presented at his press conference a box score on the work of the Army Air Forces in the last eleven months of 1942—a total of 1,349 enemy aircraft shot down or probably destroyed in aerial combat, against losses of only 309 American planes.

JAN 29 1943

Third In December

Nearly a third of these enemy losses were inflicted by army flyers in December, when, Stimson said, air operations increased considerably due to the North African campaign. In that month 419 Axis aircraft were definitely or probably destroyed with a loss of only ninety-eight army planes.

"Probables" are claimed by the air forces, Stimson explained, only when the enemy planes are seen falling out of control or in flames, but the actual crash—or abandonment of the stricken ship by a parachuting pilot—is not observed.

The score of enemy losses, said the Secretary, was confined to the bag of aerial combat—no enemy planes brought down by anti-aircraft fire were included. However, the army losses of aircraft in his report included those destroyed by enemy anti-aircraft guns.

Other Developments

As to other developments of the war, Stimson noted the following recent reports from the battle fronts:

(1). In recent days German officials have begun to tell the German public for the first time of the Nazi military disaster in Russia.

(2) Marshall Rommels' forces, in full flight toward Tunisia, abandoned the Libyan capital of Tripoli without a fight, pausing only for an unsuccessful effort to destroy harbor facilities and air fields.

(3) French and American troops in Tunisia threw back a German thrust designed to widen Rommel's corridor of escape along the coast.

(4) General MacArthur's Australian and American troops have cleaned the last of a force of 15,000 Japanese out of eastern New Guinea.

(5) The American troops on Guadalcanal in the Solomons are "steadily narrowing the area occupied by the Japanese and, considering the numbers engaged, are inflicting heavy casualties."

The Secretary said that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill "undoubtedly were heartened" during their conference at Casablanca by these reports.

U. S. Sets Up Fighting Squads Of Loyal Japanese-Americans

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A revision of policy to ease restrictions on Americans of Japanese ancestry and employ loyal ones in war work was announced today along with plans for an Army unit of Japanese-Americans.

The Army unit is to include infantry, artillery, engineer and medical personnel organized in a combat team. Announcing the decision to form it, Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said: "The War Department's action is part of a larger program which will enable all loyal American citizens of Japanese ancestry to make their proper contribution toward winning the war—through employment in war production as well as military service."

First of the Japanese-Americans to be utilized in the United States it was revealed in Cleveland, will be 10,000 who will be taken from ten Western relocation centers to relieve farm and factory labor shortages in Ohio, Michigan and West Virginia. Harold S. Fister, director of a new War Relocation Authority branch in Cleveland, indicated that further such redistributions were being planned with the co-operation of the Japanese-American's evacuated from strategic areas to the centers.

A few hours after the Washington announcement it was disclosed by Lieutenant General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian Department at Honolulu, that he had been ordered to [illegible] Japanese-American volunteers. General Emmons reported that the men would be formed into combat units on the mainland and later sent to active war theaters. Many of the officers will be of Japanese descent, he said.

Some Japanese-Americans already are serving in the Army, but there are no units of the size of the projected combat team which presumably, would number several thousand men.

Organization of the unit, aside from its military value, might have psychological and propaganda importance in Asia. There was no indication, however, that this figured in the decision. Secretary Stimson said it was based on recognition of "the inherent right of every faithful citizen, regardless of ancestry, to bear arms in the nation's battle."

About two-thirds of the 110,000 Japanese now held in detention centers are American citizens, the War Relocation Authority reported. However, some are Japanese-educated and of probable loyalty to their ancestors' homeland.

For some time there has been agitation both within the government and without for release of those citizens of unquestioned loyalty. Currently a Senate Military Affairs subcommittee is studying this problem in considering a resolution by Senator Mon C. Wallgren, Democrat, of Washington, to transfer supervision of the camps from the War Relocation Authority to the War Department.

W. R. A. has been investigating individuals in detention camps and releasing a few found to be of undoubted loyalty. Recently, these releases were at the rate of about ten a day, it said.

The advice of Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, was sought by the Senate subcommittee.

Chairman Albert B. Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, asserting the committee had been informed that nearly two-thirds of 110,000 Japanese in the colonies could be released for military or production service, said: "If this is true, something should be done to separate the loyal Japanese from the avowed enemies of this country in those camps.

C. A. B. Blames Bomber Pilot in Air Rendezvous

Crash That Killed 12 Laid to Army Man Absolved in Case by Court Martial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics Board held today that a collision between an Army bomber and an American Air Lines transport over Palm Springs, Calif., last Oct. 23, was caused by the "reckless and irresponsible" action of Lieutenant William N. Wilson, twenty-five years old, the bomber pilot.

Twelve persons, including nine passengers, were killed when the big twenty-one-passenger plane crashed from 9,000 feet after its tail had been sheared off by a propeller of the B-34 bomber of the Ferry command.

Lieutenant Wilson was acquitted by an Army court martial which investigated the case.

"The evidence of the record," the C. A. B. said in a formal report, "leaves no doubt as to the cause of, or the responsibility for, this accident. The pilot of the bomber testified with great frankness to the facts, which showed that he diverged from his military mission to fly the bomber in close proximity to the air liner for the express purpose of signaling a friend in the co-pilot's seat of the latter plane. Such conduct was wholly without justification.

No Recognition Given

"The investigation discloses no basis for any inference that the pilot in command of the air liner was aware of the reason for Lieutenant Wilson's conduct or that he sought in any manner to co-operate with Lieutenant Wilson in any plan of reciprocal saluting. Both the pilot and co-pilot of the bomber testified that they observed no maneuver of recognition from the air liner in response to the bomber's wing-dip salute.

"We are driven to the conclusion that this collision resulted from the reckless and irresponsible act of the bomber pilot and that the captain (pilot) of the air liner was without fault."

All aboard the air liner were killed.

(The C. A. B.'s authority in the case is limited to announcement of its findings; it has no punitive power or power over licensing of civilian flyers.)

JAN 29 1943

Meeting Is Recounted

The air liner was piloted by Charles Fred Pedley, forty-two years old, who had flown more than 17,000 hours. The co-pilot was Louis Frederick Ruppert jr., twenty-six, a friend of Lieutenant Wilson.

Ross Offered Dusky Beauty, Part of Crown

FEB 29 1943

Chieftain Seeks to Reward Marine, Former Champion, for Stopping Native Idol

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28 (AP).—The story of how Barney Ross, United States Marines hero and former boxing champion, knocked out a native "champion" in Samoa and was astonished when a native chief offered him his daughter in marriage as a reward, was disclosed here today.

Ben Malamude, former Pittsburgh basketball player serving as a pharmacist second class, related the incident in a letter. Referring to Ross as "one of my patients," Malamude wrote:

"Incidentally, in Samoa, the Marines made Barney get into the ring with a colored native French soldier, who was giving our Army and Navy heavyweights a going-over.

"This guy weighed 215 pounds, and was the idol of all the natives. Everyone wanted Barney (former welter, junior welter and lightweight titlist), to fight him, but Ross didn't care for the idea. The prestige of the Marines was at stake, however, and the match was finally made.

They used sixteen-ounce gloves but Barney had the Samoan on the deck eleven times before putting him away in the sixth round. Ross became the big hero then, and one of the native chiefs offered him his daughter in marriage and wanted him to share his crown."

FIRST LADY WRITES TO MRS. SULLIVAN

Waterloo, Iowa, Jan. 28 (A. P.) —Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has sent a message of condolence to Mrs. T. F. Sullivan of Waterloo whose five sons are reported missing in the service of the Navy. Mrs. Roosevelt, who herself has four sons in the service wrote:

My Dear Mrs. Sullivan:

You and your husband have given a lesson of great courage to the whole country, and in thinking of this war and what it means to all mothers of the country, I shall keep the memory of your fortitude always in mind, as I hope other mothers with sons in the service will do.

It is heartening that parents who have suffered the loss you have, can always find solace in your faith and your abiding love for our country.

Sincerely Yours,
ELEANOR ROOSEVELT.

"THE RISKS OF RESULTING ARGUMENTS ARE OBVIOUS," HE CONTINUED. "GERMAN WORKERS, HOWEVER, ARE COMPLETELY IMMUNE AGAINST THE DANGERS THAT MIGHT RESULT FROM SUCH A SITUATION, SINCE THE GERMAN COMMUNITY TODAY IS STANDING LIKE A SOLID ROCK."

THE ENCIRCLED AXIS FORCES, NOW BELIEVED TO NUMBER LESS THAN 8,500 OF THE ORIGINAL 220,000 THAT LAID SIEGE TO STALINGRAD, ARE GIVING UP THE STRUGGLE, THE RUSSIANS INDICATED.

"IN THE VICINITY OF THE CENTRAL SECTOR OF STALINGRAD THE GERMANS PUT UP A WEAK FIRE OF RESISTANCE. EVERY HOUR THE NUMBER OF PRISONERS IS GROWING," THE WAR BULLETIN REPORTED.

TWO DAYS AGO THE RUSSIANS SAID THE TRAPPED GERMAN FORCES NUMBERED ABOUT 12,000 AND PROMISED THEIR EXTINCTION WITHIN TWO OR THREE DAYS.

LONDON, JAN 28-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES ARMY EIGHTH AIR FORCE WAS ONE YEAR OLD TODAY AND JUBILANT OVER HAVING ENDED ITS FIRST YEAR WITH ITS FIRST RAID ON GERMANY PROPER IN YESTERDAY'S SMASHES AT THE NAVAL BASES OF WILHELMSHAVEN AND EMDEN.

ACTIVATED IN THE UNITED STATES AT SAVANNAH, GA., WITH 61 OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN, THE EIGHTH HAS BEEN IN COMBAT FROM BRITISH BASES SINCE JULY WHEN ITS FINAL CONTINGENTS ARRIVED FROM THE UNITED STATES.

MAJ.-GEN. IRA C.EAKER, CHIEF OF THE BOMBER COMMAND, PRAISED THE WORK OF THE CREWS IN THEIR FIRST ATTACK ON GERMANY. HE SAID IT WAS "BUT THE BEGINNING OF MANY SUCH ATTACKS."

IN A LITTLE MORE THAN SIX MONTHS OF AERIAL WARFARE, THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTERS HAVE CARRIED OUT MORE THAN 2,600 PATROLS AND HEAVY BOMBER GROUPS HAVE FLOWN ON 31 MISSIONS. ITS MEN HAVE RECEIVED NEARLY 700 DECORATIONS FOR VALOR.

THE ORIGINAL GROUP WAS DRAWN FROM THE THIRD AIR SUPPORT COMMAND AND A HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON AND FILLED WITH RECRUITS FROM THE REGULAR ARMY, THE NATIONAL GUARD AND SELECTEES. UNITS CAME TO BRITAIN SEPARATELY, THE FIRST LEAVING SAVANNAH IN APRIL.

BRIG. GEN. ASA N.DUNCAN, COMMANDER DURING THE ACTIVATING PERIOD OF THE EIGHTH AND LATER ITS CHIEF OF STAFF, WAS REPORTED MISSING LAST NOVEMBER ON A FLIGHT TO NORTH AFRICA. HE IS PRESUMED TO BE DEAD.

GEN. EAKER CAME TO ENGLAND FEB. 20 WITH SIX OFFICERS TO LAY GROUNDWORK FOR THE GROUP. BY JULY THE FIRST HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUP WAS COMPLETE.

AFTER MONTHS OF INTENSIVE TRAINING WITH THE RAF, UNITED STATES MEDIUM BOMBERS OPENED THEIR OFFENSIVE WITH A RAID ON NAZI WAR FACTORIES IN HOLLAND JULY 4.

HEAVY BOMBERS MADE THEIR FIRST RAID AUG. 17, AGAINST ROUEN WITHOUT LOSS. UNTIL THE "BIRTHDAY RAID" ON WILHELMSHAVEN AND EMDEN YESTERDAY, U.S. BOMBERS HAD CONCENTRATED ON SUBMARINE PENS AND AIRFIELDS ALONG THE FRENCH COAST.

THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER COMMAND HEADED BY BRIG.-GEN. FRANK O'D.HUNTER WAS ACTIVATED AT SELFRIDGE FIELD, MICHIGAN, AND MADE ITS FIRST SWEEP OVER ENEMY TERRITORY JULY 26 FLYING WITH THE RAF AGAINST NAZI AIRDROMES AT ST.OMER AND ABBEVILLE. THE FIGHTERS HAD THEIR FIRST HEAVY COMBAT IN THE DIEPPE RAID IN AUGUST AS PART OF AN AERIAL CANOPY OVER THE NAVAL AND GROUND FORCES.

IN A LITTLE MORE THAN SIX MONTHS, THE FIGHTERS HAVE FLOWN MORE THAN 1,600 OFFENSIVE PATROLS AND MORE THAN 1,000 DEFENSIVE PATROLS.

AMONG THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE DECORATIONS ARE 40 DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES AND FOUR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSSES.

LONDON, JAN. 28--(AP)---MISS ELLEN C. WILKINSON, PARLIAMENTARY SECRETARY FOR THE HOME SECURITY MINISTRY, SUFFERED SCALP INJURIES AND THE FRACTURE OF ONE ANKLE TODAY IN THE HAPPY LANDING OF A GLIDER FROM WHICH SHE VIEWED A BRITISH DEMONSTRATION AT THE AIR-BORNE DIVISION HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND.

LONDON, JAN. 28-(AP)-- SIR DENNIS HERBERT, FORMER DEPUTY SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS WHO WAS RAISED TO THE PEERAGE LAST WEEK, HAS ASSUMED THE TITLE OF BARON BEE HEMINGFORD OF WATFORD.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, JAN 28-(AP)-LT.-GEN. A. G. L. MCNAUGHTON SAID TODAY THAT THE LESSONS LEARNED AT DIEPPE LAST AUGUST WERE MADE USE OF BY THE ALLIES IN THE NORTH AFRICA LANDINGS.

PLANNING AND CONDUCT OF THE CANADIAN-LED ASSAULT OPERATION ON DIEPPE WERE STUDIED "FROM EVERY POSSIBLE ANGLE" AND WILL SERVE AS A GUIDE FOR FUTURE OPERATIONS OF THE KIND, SAID THE COMMANDER OF THE CANADIAN ARMY IN BRITAIN.

MCNAUGHTON TALKED TO WAR CORRESPONDENTS AFTER THEY HAD CONCLUDED A VISIT TO THE CANADIAN ARMY.

ONE ASKED WHETHER THE DIEPPE RAID WASN'T CALLED "A BADLY-KEPT SECRET." THE GENERAL REPLIED "I WOULDN'T SAY THAT." HE EXPLAINED THAT THE GERMANS KNEW "SOMETHING HAD TO BE DONE" FROM THE WEST BY THE UNITED NATIONS AND CONSEQUENTLY THEIR DEFENSES FROM NORWAY TO SPAIN WERE MAINTAINED IN A STATE OF ALERT.

HE RECALLED THE ACCIDENTAL ENCOUNTER SHORTLY BEFORE THE DAYBREAK LANDINGS AT DIEPPE OF FORWARD ELEMENTS OF THE RAIDING FORCE AND AN AXIS CONVOY NEAR THE FRENCH COAST. THAT ENCOUNTER, HE SAID, PUT THE NAZIS ON GUARD AND PARTLY UPSET THE RAID TIMETABLE.

STOCKHOLM, JAN. 28 -(AP)- ALL TAXIS HAVE BEEN ORDERED OFF THE STREETS OF BERLIN TO SAVE FUEL LEAVING ONLY A LIMITED NUMBER AVAILABLE THROUGH THE POLICE POLICE CARS AVAILABLE FOR EMERGENCIES, A DISPATCH FROM THE GERMAN CAPITAL REPORTED TODAY.

MOSCOW, JAN 28-(AP)-THE RUSSIAN PRESS PROMINENTLY DISPLAYED NEWS TODAY OF THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL MEETING AT CASABLANCA AND THE U.S. BOMBER RAID ON WILHELMSHAVEN.

BOTH ITEMS OBVIOUSLY WERE WELCOMED BY THE PEOPLE AND THEIR LEADERS AS CONTRIBUTING TO THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY AND ITALY. AN INVASION OF EUROPE BY RUSSIA'S ALLIES IS EXPECTED CONFIDENTLY, ALTHOUGH THE RUSSIANS DO NOT APPEAR AS IMPATIENT AS THEY WERE LAST SUMMER.

WRITERS IN PRAVDA AND IZVESTIA CONSTANTLY SAY THEY ARE CONFIDENT THE ALLIES SOON WILL HELP THE SOVIET BY ATTACKING THE CONTINENT.

NEWS OF THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCE SPREAD QUICKLY OVER MOSCOW AFTER THE RADIO ANNOUNCED THE MEETING AT 6 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT. WRITERS SPECULATED WHETHER AN INVASION OF ITALY, FRANCE OR NORWAY WAS PROJECTED.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JAN 28-(AP)-GEN. GEORGES CATROUX, FIGHTING FRENCH HIGH COMMISSIONER IN SYRIA, MAY SOON TAKE HIS PLACE IN THE GOVERNMENT OF GEN. HENRI GIRAUD AS GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE'S REPRESENTATIVE IN NORTH AFRICA, IT WAS RELIABLY REPORTED TODAY.

CATROUX, IT WAS STATED, WOULD HAVE THE DUAL ROLE AS A MEMBER OF THE GIRAUD GOVERNMENT AND AT THE SAME TIME AS THE REPRESENTATIVE OF DE GAULLE.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT GEN. GIRAUD WILL HAVE A SIMILAR REPRESENTATIVE IN THE DE GAULLE NATIONAL COMMITTEE IN LONDON, IT WAS SAID.

(IN LONDON, IT WAS REPORTED THAT CATROUX MAY BE SENT INSTEAD TO WASHINGTON TO HEAD GEN. DE GAULLE'S DELEGATION THERE.)

FEB 29 1943

CATROUX IS ONE OF THE FIGHTING FRENCH LEADERS WHO ENJOYS SOME POPULARITY AMONG OFFICERS OF THE FRENCH AFRICAN ARMY. SOME SOURCES HAVE PREDICTED THAT HE WOULD REPLACE GOV.-GEN. AUGUSTE NOGUES OF MOROCCO WHOSE REGIME IS UNDER HEAVY FIRE FROM SEVERAL SOURCES.

HE HAS BEEN CRITICISED FOR FAILURE TO REPEAL ANTI-JEWISH AND ANTI-FREE MASON LAWS WHICH WERE ENACTED UNDER GERMAN INFLUENCE, AND FOR CONTINUED OPERATION OF THE FASCIST "GROUPEMENT" SYSTEMS OF TRADE CONTROL.

UNDER THE CLOTHING RATIONING SYSTEM STILL IN FORCE IN MOROCCO AN APPLICANT FOR CLOTHING MUST STATE ON HIS QUESTIONNAIRE WHETHER HE IS JEWISH, A FREE MASON OR A MEMBER OF THE PRO-FASCIST VETERANS LEGION. IF HE IS JEWISH OR A FREE MASON HIS REQUEST FOR A RATION COUPON MAY BE DELAYED FOR WEEKS OR MONTHS, ACCORDING TO LIBERAL ELEMENTS WHO COMPLAIN OF THE SYSTEM.

MOST HEAVILY CRITICISED IS THE "GROUPEMENT" SYSTEM, A SORT OF FASCIST-DISTORTED FARMERS' COOPERATIVE. UNDER THIS SYSTEM DEALERS IN ALL ESSENTIAL COMMODITIES IN MOROCCO, SUCH AS WHEAT, BARLEY, SALT, FISH AND EGGS, WERE ORGANIZED IN GROUPEMENTS. THE GROUPEMENT BUYS UP THE ENTIRE CROP AND SELLS IT FOR HIGH PRICES. SOME LEADERS IN THESE GROUPS ARE REPORTED TO HAVE MADE FROM 15,000,000 TO 20,000,000 FRANCS DURING THE PAST TWO YEARS SELLING FOODSTUFFS FOR TRANSSHIPMENT TO GERMANY.

THE GROUPEMENT RULES PROVIDE FOR NUMEROUS RESTRICTIONS AS TO MEMBERSHIP, WHICH USUALLY ARE AIMED AT JEWS, FREE MASONS AND DEGAULLISTS.

FEB 29 1943

THE ANTI-FREE MASON FEELING IN THE FRENCH ARMY DATES BACK TO THE DREYFUS CASE BUT HAS REACHED A NEW HEIGHT UNDER THE VICHY REGIME, PRODDED BY THE AXIS.

AS A RESULT OF THE MASS SELLING BY THESE GROUPEMENTS, PERSONS TRADING OUTSIDE THEM ARE SELDOM ABLE TO COMPETE.

EVEN THE AMERICAN ARMY HAS BEEN BUYING FROM THE GROUPEMENTS, AND AS A RESULT PRICES HAVE GONE UP TREMENDOUSLY.

EGGS WHICH USED TO SELL AT NINE FRANCS A DOZEN NOW SELL FOR 18 FRANCS.

CONSEQUENTLY THE LOCAL PEOPLE FEEL THAT THE AMERICAN ARMY IS

CAUSING THEM UNNECESSARY HARDSHIP. FEB 29 1943

IT IS UNDERSTOOD, HOWEVER, THAT THE ARMY IS TAKING STEPS TO FIX PRICES WHILE AN AMERICAN ECONOMIC MISSION IS SEEKING TO BREAK UP THE GROUPEMENT SYSTEM BY PROVIDING THAT THE GROUPEMENTS REVEAL THEIR METHODS OF QUALIFYING MEMBERS BEFORE ANY DEAL IS PUT THROUGH.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JAN. 28-(AP)-ALLIED AIR FORCES HAVE RESUMED THE OFFENSIVE IN TUNISIA WITH A SERIES OF ATTAVKS ON NAZI GROUND TARGETS AND A BLAST AT TWO ITALIAN DESTROYERS, ONE OF WHICH WAS LEFT IN A SINKING CONDITION, THE ALLIED SPOKESMAN ANNOUNCED TODAY. FEB 29 1943

BAD WEATHER LIMITED GROUND ACTIVITY TO PATROLLING.

B-25 MITCHELL BOMBERS, ESCORTED BY P-38 LIGHTNINGS, FOUND THE TWO DESTROYERS 100 MILES OFF TUNIS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN NARROWS AND SCORED TWO DIRECT HITS THAT LEFT ONE BURNING AND SHIPPING WATER. THE SPOKESMAN SAID FOUR BOMBS FELL CLOSE TO THE STERN OF THE OTHER DESTROYER AND PROBABLY DAMAGED IT.

THE RAF AND THE 12TH AIR FORCE COMBINED IN SWEEPS WITH SPITFIRES, LIGHTNINGS, WARHAWKS AND BOSTON BOMBERS, RAKING NAZI TRANSPORTS AND FUEL DUMPS WITH CANNON FIRE OVER A WIDE AREA.

RAF SPITFIRES BLEW UP A GERMAN GASOLINE TRUCK ON THE ROAD BETWEEN TUNIS AND ONT DU FAHS, DE

TUNIS AND PONT DU FAHS, DESTROYING A TANK AND A TANK CARRIER AT THE SAME TIME. STAFF CARS WERE SHOT UP AND GERMAN OFFICERS LEAPED INTO DITCHES AND FIELDS TO ESCAPE THE RAIN OF BULLETS.

LIGHTNINGS STRAFED A TRUCK COLUMN, LEAVING MANY VEHICLES IN FLAMES.

BOSTON BOMBERS, ESCORTED BY WARHAWKS, BOMBED AXIS TROOP CONCENTRATIONS AT THE HAMGET OF MEZZOUNA, 13 MILES EAST OF MAKNASSY, AND THE OBSERVERS REPORTED MANY DIRECT HITS.

THE RAF ROUNDED OUT A 24-HOUR ATTACK WITH A NIGHT RAID ON BIZERTE, AXIS-HELD NAVAL BASE.

ALL AMERICAN PLANES WERE REPORTED TO HAVE RETURNED FROM THE OPERATIONS. A COMMUNIQUE SAID ONE ALLIED AIRCRAFT WAS MISSING.

"ADDITIONAL REPORTS," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, "SHOW THAT IN THE ATTACK ON ALGIERS ON THE NIGHT OF THE 26TH AND 27TH OF JANUARY FOUR MORE ENEMY BOMBERS WERE DESTROYED, MAKING SIX IN ALL THAT NIGHT."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, JAN 28-(AP)-GEN. HENRI GIRAUD'S HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TONIGHT HIS FORCES HAD REOCCUPIED FORT SAINT IN THE EXTREME SOUTHEASTERN CORNER OF TUNISIA. (PREVIOUS TRANSMISSIONS OF THIS ANNOUNCEMENT ERRONEOUSLY DESCRIBED THE PLACE AS FORSIN.)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA JAN 28 (AP)-FOURTEEN MEMBERS OF B-25 BILLY MITCHELL BOMBER CREWS WERE GIVEN CREDIT TODAY FOR HITTING AN ITALIAN DESTROYER IN THE MEDITERRANEAN NARROWS. THEY ARE:

DAKAR, FRENCH WEST AFRICA (DELAYED)-(AP)-THE FIRST BIG CONVOY OF FRENCH SENEGALESE SOLDIERS, FIERCEST OF ALL NATIVE AFRICAN FIGHTERS, HAS SAILED FROM DAKAR TO REINFORCE ALLIED FORCES IN MOROCCO, ALGERIA AND TUNISIA.

THESE RED-FEZZED COLONIALS, MOST OF THEM SIX FEET OR MORE TALL, MARCHED TO THEIR SHIPS WITH FLAGS FLYING AND BANDS PLAYING. THEY STEPPED ALONG WITH A SMILE, OBVIOUSLY EAGER FOR ACTION AFTER MONTHS AND MONTHS OF PREPARATION.

FEB 29 1943

THEY BORE WITH THEM ONE OF THE MOST POWERFUL OF ALL MILITARY WEAPONS--A BITTER AND LASTING HATRED OF THE ENEMY.

DISTINGUISHED FOR GALLANT SERVICE IN FRANCE BOTH IN 1914-18 AND IN 1940, THESE SENEGALESE HAVE BEEN KNOWN AS SOLDIERS UNABLE TO FORGIVE OR FORGET. THEY HAVE BEEN BIDING THEIR TIME, NURSING MEMORIES OF LOSSES IN PREVIOUS BATTLES, OF MISTREATMENT AS PRISONERS AND OF EXPLOITATION AT GERMANY'S HANDS WHEN SHE CONTROLLED A LARGE SECTION OF AFRICA.

THE MAN WHO DIRECTED THE TRAINING OF THESE NATURAL-BORN FIGHTERS, GENERAL PIERRE M.TRISTANI, SELECTED THE VANGUARD FROM A RESERVOIR OF MORE THAN 60,000 MEN. MANY OF THEM HAD BEEN STATIONED IN SENEGAL FOR MONTHS; OTHERS WERE SCATTERED THROUGHOUT THE OTHER COLONIES COMPRISING FRENCH WEST AFRICA.

THOSE SENT NORTH, THE GENERAL BELIEVES, HAVE NO EQUAL IN BAYONET FIGHTING. HE SAID HE WAS EQUALLY CONFIDENT THEY WOULD LEARN QUICKLY TO HANDLE THE MODERN WEAPONS COMING FROM THE UNITED STATES--THE GARAND RIFLE, MOTORIZED EQUIPMENT AND ANTI-TANK ARTILLERY.

GENERAL TRISTANI SAID THAT THE SENEGALESE EN ROUTE TO THE COMBAT AREAS WERE SELECTED FROM FRENCH AFRICA'S MOST WARLIKE TRIBES--THOSE HAVING HAD THE LEAST CONTACT WITH WHITES. THEY HAVE COME FROM THE SUDAN, THE NIGER RIVER BASIN, THE HIGH IVORY COAST, THE INTERIOR OF GUINEA AND OTHER INLAND REGIONS WHERE THERE ARE NO BOATING OR FISHING TO SPOIL THEM FOR FIGHTING.

FEB 29 1943

THE BEST SENEGALESE SOLDIERS, HE SAID, DO NOT COME FROM SENEGAL BUT FROM THE FRENCH SUDAN.

"THE TRIBES OF THE SUDAN, CUT OFF FROM THE OTHERS, ARE FAR THE MOST WARLIKE," HE SAID. "THEY ARE THE MATERIAL FOR OUR VERY BEST NATIVE TROOPS. WE CALL THEM SENEGALESE BECAUSE WE SETTLED SENEGAL FIRST AND AFTERWARD APPLIED THE NAME TO ALL OUR NEGRO SOLDIERS."

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,JAN.27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-CAPT.OSCAR ELLIS OF TUSCALOOSA, ALA., INTELLIGENCE OFFICER FOR A SQUADRON OF BILLY MITCHELL BOMBERS, HAS DEVELOPED A NEW TECHNIQUE FOR COPING WITH THE ANNOYANCES OF NOCTURNAL AIR RAIDS.

WHEN THE ALARM SOUNDS THE CALL TO COVER, HE ALWAYS TAKES AN INSECT GUN ALONG AND SPRAYS HIS SLIT TRENCH AND ITS OCCUPANTS TO KEEP MOSQUITOES AWAY.

"WE MIGHT AS WELL STICK OUT OUR RAIDS IN VOMFORT," HE GRINNED.

ELLIS SAID ONE MEMBER OF THE SQUADRON SWORE SO BITTERLY AT THE JAPS EACH TIME THEY CAME OVER THAT THE OTHERS TOLD HIM:

"WE'RE NOT FUSSY, BUT YOU'RE SO SACRILEGIOUS THAT YOU'RE NOT SAFE TO HAVE AROUND. IF YOU DON'T CLEAN UP YOUR LANGUAGE A LITTLE, YOU'LL HAVE TO DIG A SLIT TRENCH OF YOUR OWN."

"FINALLY," ELLIS SAID, "HE DID DIG A TRENCH OF HIS OWN OUT OF EARSHOT OF THE OTHER TRENCHE NOW EACH TIME WE HAVE A RAID AT NIGHT, HE GOES TO IT ALONE, TING BLASPHEMIES WHICH WE CAN'T HEAR ANY MORE."

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,JAN.27-(DELAYED-(AP)-JAP BOMBERS RAIDING PORT MORESBY EARLY TODAY MET NIGHT INTERCEPTION FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 103 ATTACKS ON THE NEW GUINEA CAPITAL.

THE THREE RAIDERS DROPPED A NUMBER OF BOMBS, CAUSING SOME DAMAGE BUT INFLICTING NO CASUALTIES. ONE BOMBER WAS HIT BY AN AMERICAN NIGHT FIGHTER AND POSSIBLY FAILED TO REACH ITS BASE.

PILOT ROBERT FAUROT OF CAPE GIRARDEAU,MO., HUSKY BROTHER OF DON FAUROT, THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI FOOTBALL COACH, WAS AMONG THE AMERICANS TO CHALLENGE THE ENEMY'S NIGHT ASSAULT.

"I SAW MY BULLETS HIT ONE PLANE IN THE WINGS," HE SAID. "IT FELL OUT OF THE FORMATION AND STARTED LOSING ALTITUDE. IT HAD DROPPED 5,000 FEET BY THE TIME I LOST IT IN THE DARKNESS. THERE'S A GOOD CHANCE IT NEVER GOT HOME."

THE JAPS CAME IN AT EXTREMELY HIGH ALTITUDE, BUT SEARCHLIGHTS PINPOINTED THEM TO HELP OUR INTERCEPTION. THE BOMBERS FIRED AT THE INTERCEPTORS BUT FAILED TO INFLICT DAMAGE.

DURING THE DAY ALLIED PLANES BOMBED OR STRAFED LAE, MALAHANG, MUBO AND FINSCHHAFEN ON THE JAPANESE-HELD COAST OF NORTHERN NEW GUINEA AND GASMATA ON NEW BRITAIN ISLAND.

GROUND FORCES IN THE SANANANDA AREA CONTINUED TO MOP UP JAP STRAGGLERS FROM THE ENEMY'S DEFEATED PAPUAN ARMY. IN THE 24 HOURS ENDING AT 6 P.M. TODAY, THE ALLIES KILLED 22 JAPS AND IMPRISONED SIX, MOSTLY BETWEEN GONA AND SANANANDA.

MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS HAD MORE THAN USUAL SUCCESS IN RAIDING LAE AND MALAHANG ON WHAT HAS BECOME KNOWN AS THE MILK RUN, A ROUTINE DAILY BOMBING FLIGHT.

CAPT.A.G.THOMPSON OF WASHINGTON,D.C., THE FORMATION LEADER, SAID ALL BOMBS DROPPED AT LAE LANDED IN THE AIRDROME TARGET AREA, STARTING A PARTICULARLY BIG FIRE, APPARENTLY IN A FUEL DUMP.

ANKARA, TURKEY, JAN 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TRAVELERS RETURNING TO TURKEY FROM BULGARIA REPORT THAT GENERAL UNREST AND EVEN RIOTS WERE PRECIPITATED AFTER GERMANY MADE NEW DEMANDS ON THE BULGARIANS SHORTLY AFTER THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR, CHIEFLY FOR HELP AGAINST RUSSIA.

THE REPORTS SAID THAT BULGARIA MIGHT BE FORCED TO CONTRIBUTE PERHAPS 10 DIVISIONS TO HITLER'S ARMIES, BUT THAT THE GERMANS FACED TROUBLE IF THEY INSISTED ON USING BULGARS IN RUSSIA.

THE BULGARIANS LONG HAVE LOOKED TO THE RUSSIANS AS BROTHER SLAVS AND THEIR BEST FRIENDS AND HAVE CONSIDERED IT UNTHINKABLE THAT THEY WOULD BE REQUIRED TO BEAR ARMS AGAINST THE PEOPLE WHO GAVE THEM THEIR INDEPENDENCE IN 1877.

THE TRAVELERS SAID IT WAS FELT THAT THE BULGARS MIGHT BE MORE WILLING TO FIGHT TURKEY OR OPPOSE AN ALLIED INVASION IN THE BALKANS, BUT THE BASIC BULGARIAN POLICY IS TO KEEP THE ARMY HOME FOR DEFENSE OF THEIR MACEDONIAN OR THRACIAN GAINS WHENEVER THE AXIS COLLAPSES.

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND WAS REPORTED THREATENING TO MAKE THE BULGARIANS EVACUATE MACEDONIA AND THRACE AS A PENALTY FOR REFUSING TO AID THE GERMAN WAR EFFORT, BUT KING BORIS, IT WAS SAID, IS HOLDING ALOOF.

GERMAN DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES IN ISTANBUL WERE REPORTED AS SAYING--POSSIBLY FOR ALLIED EARS--THAT HITLER HAD ASKED BULGARIA FOR 20 DIVISIONS TO FIGHT RUSSIA NEXT SUMMER.

ONE TRAVELER RECENTLY OUT OF BULGARIA SAID THAT THAT COUNTRY NOW APPEARED TO FEEL THE EFFECTS OF THE WAR LEAST OF ALL OF THE SOUTHEASTERN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES. PRICES WERE REPORTED 30 PER CENT LOWER THAN IN TURKEY; WHITE BREAD AND FLOUR ARE AVAILABLE, UNLIKE TURKEY WHERE EVEN BROWN BREAD IS RATIONED; BUT THERE ARE MEATLESS DAYS IN BULGARIA, ALTHOUGH TURKEY HAS MEAT DAILY.

THE MOST NOTABLE THING IN BULGARIA, SAID THIS TRAVELER, WAS ROADBUILDING EVERYWHERE BY COMPULSORY LABOR. FEW GERMANS WERE SEEN STATIONED IN BULGARIA BUT BY RAILROADS AND HIGHWAY A CONTINUAL FLOW OF GERMAN TROOPS TO AND FROM GREECE AND YUGOSLAVIA WAS REPORTED.

BY GLENN BABB

GENERAL TOJO MADE HIS ANNUAL REPORT TO HIS PEOPLE ON THE STATE OF THE NATION TODAY. HIS PROBLEM, AS HE ADDRESSED PARLIAMENTN WAS TO PRESENT A HOPEFUL PICTURE OF THE WAR IN WHICH JAPAN HAS NOT WON A MAJOR VICTORY SINCE THE CONQUEST OF BURMA WAS COMPLETED NEARLY NINE MONTHS AGO. TO KEEP MORALE HIGH HE SHIFTED EMPHASIS FROM THE PURELY MILITAGY ASPECTS TO A CONTRAST BETWEEN JAPAN AS THE POSSESSOR OF A VAST NEW WEALTH AND THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN AS THE NEW "HAVE NOT" NATIONS.

FEB 29 1943

"TODAY AFTER ONE YEAR OF OUR WAR OF JUSTICE," HE TOLD THE DIET, "THE SOUTHERN AREAS, THE WORLD'S FOREMOST TREASURE HOUSE, HAS BEEN COMPLETELY SECURED BY US. X X X IN CONTRAST TO OUR POSITION THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN, WHICH BOASTED OF THEIR WEALTH AND RESOURCES BEFORE THE WAR, NOW ARE EXPOSING A GREAT SHORTAGE IN VITAL WAR RESOURCES."

THERE IS FAR TOO MUCH TRUTH IN THE JAPANESE PREMIER'S PICTURE TO SUIT AMERICANS, WHO, BECAUSE OF JAPAN'S CONQUESTS IN THOSE SOUTHERN REGIONS, HAVE HAD TO FOREGO SOME OF THE MORE LUXURIOUS FEATURES OF A STANDARD OF LIVING FAR ABOVE THE DREAMS OF THE AVERAGE SUBJECT OF THE MIKADO. BUT THAT IS JUST ONE SIDE OF THE PICTURE. PERHAPS THE JAPANESE PEOPLE CAN GET SOME SPIRITUAL COMFORT OUT OF THEIR PREMI

30.24- 711

DESCRIPTION OF THEIR NEW WEALTH; IT IS CERTAIN THAT THEY ARE A LONG WAY FROM GETTING ANY PHYSICAL COMFORT OUT OF IT.

FEB 29 1943

THE AMERICAN WHO SHIVERS IN THE 60 DEGREES OF HIS OIL-HEATED HOME AND EXPENDS SHOE LEATHER WHERE HE USED TO WEAR OUT RUBBER NEED NOT ENVY THE LOT OF TOJO'S COMPATRIOTS, WHOSE SHODDY FOOTWEAR IS NO PROTECTION AGAINST SLUSHY, MUDDY STREETS AND TO WHOM 60 DEGREE HEAT WOULD BE UNDREAMED OF WINTER COMFORT. NOT FOR THEM IS THE OIL OF THE EAST INDIES OR THE RUBBER OF MALAYA. THE ARMY GETS IT ALL--ALL, THAT IS, THAT JAPAN HAS THE MEANS OF GATHERING AND THE SHIPPING TO HAUL.

THE KEY REMARK OF THE PREMIER'S SPEECH WAS THIS: "OF COURSE IT WILL REQUIRE GREAT EFFORTS ON OUR PART TO MAKE THESE RESOURCES DEMONSTRATE THEIR REAL WEALTH AND POWER." THAT DOUBTLESS SUMS UP THE TASK ON WHICH TOJO'S GOVERNMENT IS CONCENTRATING ITS GREATEST EFFORTS. JAPAN HAS WON GREAT WEALTH, TAKEN IT OUT OF THE RESOURCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND ADDED IT TO HER OWN.

BUT THE QUESTION IS WHETHER SHE HAS THE CAPACITY TO USE IT WITH ANYTHING LIKE THE EFFECTIVENESS WITH WHICH IT WAS USED BY ITS FORMER OWNERS. SHE HAS YET TO PROVE THAT SHE CAN GET THE RUBBER AND OIL AND TIN BACK TO HER INDUSTRIAL BASES; SHE SUFFERS FROM AN ACUTE SHIPPING SHORTAGE. AND EVEN IF THE RAW MATERIALS WERE ASSURED OF DELIVERY TO HER WAR FACTORIES IN JAPAN OR THE NEW INDUSTRIAL CENTERS SHE IS TRYING TO ESTABLISH ON THE CONTINENT, SHE HAS YET TO PROVE THAT SHE HASMTHE PLANTS OR THE LABOR SUPPLY TO CONVERT THESE MATERIALS TO THE USES OF WAR.

TOJO'S SPEECH HAD BEEN POSTPONED A WEEK, AND THE TOKYO RADIO MAINTAINED ITS ORIGINAL EXPLANATION, THAT THE DELAY WAS DUE TO THE PREMIER'S COLD. HE STILL HAD A FEVER, THE BROADCAST SAID, BUT APPEARED NEVERTHELESS TO AVOID FURTHER HALTS IN THE DIET'S WAR PROGRAM. OUTSIDE JAPAN THE SPECULATION WAS THAT THE DELAY CLOAKED A CRISIS IN TOKYO OVER EFFORTS OF THE PREMIER AND THE MILITARY POWER FOR WHICH HE SPEAKS TO GATHER COMPLETE CONTROL OF WAR PRODUCTION INTO THEIR OWN HANDS. IT WAS HARDLY TO BE EXPECTED THAT TOJO WOULD DWELL ON THIS IN HIS SPEECH AND THOSE PARTS OF IT WHICH REACHED THIS COUNTRY (ATMOSPHERIC CONDITIONS BLACKED OUT PART OF IT) CONTAINED NO HINTS OF TROUBLE BEMIND THE SCENES.

TOJO PROMISED HIS PEOPLE VICTORY IN GENERAL TERMS, BUT ASIDE FROM THE GENERAL ASSURANCE THAT JAPAN'S POSITION FOR OFFENSE AS WELL AS DEFENSE HAD BEEN ESTABLISHED BY SEIZURE OF THE NECESSARY BASES THERE WAS NO SPECIFIC PROMISE OF NEW CONQUESTS. THE GENERAL PICTURE THAT HE SEEMED TO BE GIVING HIS PEOPLE WAS OF A JAPAN THAT HAS WON WHAT SHE WANTS AND HAS THE RESOURCES TO STAND OFF THE GREAT POWERS BENT ON DEPRIVING HER OF THE FRUITS OF HER AGGRESSIONS.

Roosevelt, Vargas Talk on Warship For a Day Under Air-Sea Guard, Plan Intensified Fight on U-Boats

Natal Conferences End In Complete Accord on Brazil's Share in War

The Two Presidents Tour Cheering City

Pledge That West Africa Will Never Again Be Threat to the Americas

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan 29.—President Getulio Vargas announced tonight that a complete accord on the war effort had been reached between the United States and Brazil as a result of his conferences with President Roosevelt aboard a United States destroyer yesterday in the Potengi River harbor at Natal.

President Vargas made his statement soon after returning here by plane from the parleys at the easternmost stronghold of the hemisphere.

He said the affairs of the nations at war were the principal subjects of the discussions. Optimistic over the outcome, he said he had encountered a "firm decision in the crusade in which we all are engaged."

"Highly Optimistic"

Smiling broadly, as he received newspaper representatives at a conference in the Presidential palace, President Vargas said he was "highly optimistic" following his talks with President Roosevelt and a "complete accord between the two nations has been reached on military and economic co-operation between Brazil and the United States, which is an integral co-operation without restrictions.

His first act upon returning in an American four-motored bomber from Natal was to confer for an hour with Foreign Minister Aranha.

The salient points developed at the press conference were these:

1. Complete agreement has been reached on war operations.

2. Brazil agrees to do her part and fill any need of the United Nations.

3. The United Nations are prepared for a long war, but "surprises may happen."

4. President Roosevelt was "completely satisfied" at the outcome of the Casablanca conference, as one of the chief objectives had been to obtain the co-operation of a united France in the war effort.

Calls Agreement Complete

"We conferred at length over all points relating to our common interest and particularly over the co-operation of Brazil and the United States," President Vargas said.

"I can assure you that our agreement was complete on all points we discussed.

"I found President Roosevelt in the best of health and spirits, his intense activity demonstrating a firm decision to carry forward the crusade in which we all are engaged. President Roosevelt was frankly optimistic over the outcome of the battle."

"We discussed the affairs of the war," he continued, "and the problems which may present themselves after peace. The greatest part of the conversations was devoted to the necessity of winning the war, and on this theme was centered co-operation between Brazil and the United States, which is an integral co-operation without restrictions.

"Once we are at war our co-operation is complete. All that the United States may judge necessary we will continue to give."

Asked about his impressions as to the duration of the war, President Vargas said "the Allied nations are preparing for a long war, not wishing to be too optimistic, because war has surprises. German military power evidently is declining. There may be a collapse one moment or the other. But generally, we are preparing for the emergency and are considering a long war."

"I found the President of the United States fully satisfied with the results of the Casablanca conference, one of the purposes of which was to achieve unity of the French people," he added.

He said the President was deeply impressed by his inspection of Natal defense installations.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt and President Vargas had said in a joint statement that it was the aim of their countries to "make the Atlantic Ocean safe for all" and that they were in complete agreement that the West African High Brazilian and United States military, naval and air force officers attended the conferences. They were devoted to discussion of Brazil's part in the United Nations war program in line with the Roosevelt - Churchill agreements previously reached at Casablanca.

The two Presidents, representing the largest American republics, personally inspected the great air bases and military and naval installations here on a long afternoon tour.

President Vargas arrived at Natal late Wednesday afternoon in a four-motored United States military transport plane from Rio de Janeiro. He disembarked at the military airport and immediately went aboard the destroyer which had dropped anchor in the winding river off Natal.

President Roosevelt arrived in his great flying boat Thursday morning, landing at the seaplane base adjoining the river port.

During the conferences on the destroyer and while the Presidents were inspecting the installations, a constant patrol of bombers and fighters ranged overhead and far out to sea.

The destroyer was surrounded by fleet torpedo boats and heavily armed launches constantly circling to prevent the approach of any other vessels.

The two participated in three separate conferences during the day and evening. The morning round began immediately upon Mr. Roosevelt's arrival and was attended only by the two principals and their closest aids. It lasted until noon.

After lunch, the parleys continued with military, naval and air force officials of both countries participating for discussion of joint operations.

Make Tour of City

At the end of the afternoon, the Presidents and other officials went ashore to visit the city. The streets were lined with cheering throngs despite the declaration of a business holiday in the hope that the center of the city would be relatively free of crowds.

The Presidents maintained animated conversations during the inspections which were principally devoted to the airfield outside the city, where warplanes jumped off for Africa and the active war theaters.

They then had dinner aboard the destroyer and resumed the conferences with the afternoon group. Both passed the night on board and apparently stayed up late to talk.

They engaged in another brief, private conference this morning before President Vargas started back to the capital.

Traveling with President Vargas were Rear Admiral Jonas Ingram, commander of the Allied naval forces in the South Atlantic; Brigadier General Robert Walsh, chief of the South Atlantic wing of the Air Transport Command; Ambassador Jefferson Caffery; Harold Simms, American Consul at Natal, and various military advisers.

Mr. Vargas chatted at the airport with his Cabinet members, saying he had "a very enjoyable trip and was somewhat rested."

The noted commentator, J. S. Maciel jr., writing in the government-controlled afternoon newspaper "A Noite" called the Roosevelt-Vargas meeting a "logical consequence" of the Casablanca conferences, and said that if Brazil had forces in battle overseas there would have been Brazilian representation at Casablanca.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP) President Roosevelt and President Vargas of Brazil, in a momentous conference aboard a United States destroyer at Natal Thursday, agreed that "it must be permanently and definitely assured" that West Africa and Dakar will never again become a blockade or invasion threat to the Americas.

In a shipboard setting reminiscent of that which produced the Atlantic Charter of Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the leaders of the two biggest countries of North and South America formulated a declaration holding significant potentialities for the war and the peace.

Aims to Make Atlantic Safe

Reminiscent of the Atlantic Charter's pledge of freedom of the seas for all, too, was the Roosevelt-Vargas declaration that their two countries aim "to make the Atlantic ocean safe for all."

A joint statement from the two presidents, released by the White House tonight, made known that the Axis submarine campaign figured importantly in their conversations, and said, "President Vargas announced greatly increased efforts on the part of his country to meet this menace."

The meeting place of the leaders of the two American nations was described in the statement as an "unannounced location" in Brazil. However, dispatches from Rio de Janeiro said it was disclosed upon President Vargas' return there that the conferences were held aboard a United States destroyer anchored in the Potengi harbor at Natal, key point on the Brazilian "hump" extending toward Africa, and a trans-south Atlantic air center.

Joining in at least some of the conversations were Brig. Gen. Robert Walsh, commander of the South Atlantic wing of the Air Transport command, and Rear Admiral Jonas Ingram, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in the south Atlantic.

Statement Not Explained

There was no official interpretation of the reference to Dakar and West Africa. A possible implication, however, was that the matter of assuring the Americas against aggression from the African coast would be one for whatever international instrumentality to maintain peace may be set up after the war. It could take the form of a pledge from France of its complete and continuous demilitarization.

The White House release fell into three parts. First was the joint statement by the two presidents. It related that they met, had lunch, inspected and reviewed army, navy and air forces of the two nations, then passed the evening in discussion of the problems of the war as a whole and especially the joint Brazilian-United States effort.

President Roosevelt informed President Vargas of "the very significant results" of the Casablanca conference.

Summing up, the two presidents were quoted:

"This meeting has given us opportunity to survey the future safety of all the Americas. In our opinion each of the republics is interested and affected to an equal degree. In unity there is strength. It is the aim of Brazil and of the United States to make the Atlantic ocean safe for all. We are deeply grateful for the almost unanimous help that our neighbors are giving to the great cause of democracy throughout the world."

Since all the American republics except Argentina are at war with the Axis or have broken diplomatic relations, the references to equal interests and strength in unity possibly were addressed particularly to that country.

Following the joint statement was a "memorandum for the press" from Mr. Roosevelt. This explained that he believed his African conferences with Prime Minister Churchill were "so vital to the war effort" that he should delay his return to the United States to talk informally about it with Mr. Vargas.

Inspects Ferry Stations

He had also had opportunity, he noted, to inspect vital operating points of the ferry command which speeds supplies by air to all war fronts.

Finally, the White House added: "The presidents of the two nations—United States and Brazil—are old friends and their talks were timely and profitable in every way."

Revelation of the scope of the conversations stirred speculation as to whether Brazil might send an expeditionary force to aid in the final crushing of the German armies. Mr. Vargas hinted at such action less than a month ago. At that time he said in an address that Brazilian participation in the war would "not be limited to a simple expedition of symbolic units."

Lieut. Gen. S. Embick, chairman of the Inter - American Defense board, commented, "We can be confident that Brazil as an ally will be even more important in months to come as she takes her place in the new grand strategy of the democratic nations."

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — President Roosevelt is taking advantage of his precedent-breaking trip [illegible] stopping on the way home to confer with the heads of [illegible] governments [illegible]

The latest of these meetings came yesterday, when Mr. Roosevelt saw President Vargas of Brazil at Natal, main South American terminus of [illegible] line service to Africa. As they talked, Brazilians celebrated the first anniversary of that nation's break with the Axis.

While details were not immediately available, it was taken for granted that the two Chief Executives would discuss Brazil's strategic role in hemispheric defense. The waters off Brazil recently have been the scene of numerous sinkings by U-boats.

It was understood that Adm. [illegible] Ingram, Commander of U. S. Naval Forces in the South Atlantic, and Ambassador Jefferson Caffery sat in on the talks.

Natal, situated on the bulge of Brazil, is the main eastern terminus of transatlantic plane services operating between South America and Africa. It is the site of an important Brazilian naval base from which U. S. naval forces operate and likewise the site of a great U. S. Army base from which American planes take off for fighting fronts in the Old World.

Meanwhile the White House disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt had paused on his journey homeward from Casablanca to greet President Barclay of Liberia, on the western bulge of Africa.

There he reviewed American Negro troops and inspected a rubber plantation.

News of his Liberian visit was contained in a dispatch from Monrovia, released through the White House, which told for the first time of Mr. Roosevelt's travels after the President, Prime Minister Churchill, and the American and British High Commands charted their 1943 war plans in a 10-day conference at Casablanca, Morocco.

The conference ended Sunday, and the President and Prime Minister drove southward 150 miles to Marrakech, an ancient Berber and Arab town at the foot of the Atlas Mountains. There they spent the night and there they said their farewells the following day.

One Other Stop

With one intervening stop, which was not long, it might have been Timbuctoo, the plane flew overland, or Dakar if it followed the coast), Mr. Roosevelt and his party flew to Liberia by four motored army transport.

George Seybold, general manager of the Firestone Rubber Company's 69,000-acre plantation took charge of the party after the troop review.

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 29. — (AP) President Roosevelt and President Getulio Vargas of Brazil sat in an army jeep bearing the lucky number seven yesterday afternoon when they reviewed naval troops here and inspected coastal fortifications.

Each wore tropical white clothing and panama hats as a naval band played and their jeep passed slowly down the line of officers and men.

RUSSIAN RESERVES SWING INTO ACTION IN OREL PROVINCE

Troops Advance 31 Miles, Encircle Large Enemy Force.

100,000 CAPTIVES HELD

Kropotkin, 130 Miles Below Rostov, Falls to Soviet Force.

NAZI UNITS ISOLATED

Axis Garrisons in Maikop Oil Fields Menaced by Red Advance.

MOSCOW, Saturday, Jan. 30 — (AP) Fresh Red army forces plunging into action for the first time in Russia's huge winter offensive have swept in to Orel province to a point within 65 miles of Kursk after smashing and encircling seven German divisions, approximately 105,000 men, in three days, and scoring gains of 31 miles, a special Soviet bulletin announced last night.

In addition the toll of Axis captives was nearing 100,000 men since the big drive west of Voronezh began in mid-January.

JAN 30 1943

In the Caucasus the Russians also reported the fall of Kropotkin, vital rail junction 130 miles below Rostov. This development isolated large Nazi forces in the Maikop oil fields to the southwest, and increased the immediate Russian threat to Tikhoretsk, another strategic junction, 35 miles north of Kropotkin.

Col. General F. I. Golikov's forces attacking west of Voronezh joined forces with those of General Reiter to the northwest in the drive into Orel province which has opened up a south-central sector stabilized for more than a year.

90 Miles From Orel

The Russians occupied Gremyachye, 28 miles west of the Moscow - Kastornoye railroad. This town is 90 miles southeast of Orel and 65 miles northeast of Kursk, the big Nazi base on the railway leading southward to the Ukrainian capital of Kharkov.

In their advance the Soviets were using the same tactics of encirclement and annihilation that doomed 220,000 Axis troops at Stalingrad.

The seven new German divisions that were routed and whose remnants now are reported being wiped out with no chance of escape, are trapped in the area of Kastornoye, recaptured railway junction 50 miles west of Voronezh.

The Russian entrance into Orel northwest of Kastornoye represents the right flank of the successful drive from Voronezh; the left wing captured Novy-Oskol, 90 miles northwest of Kharkov, the special bulletin said.

In the Caucasus the Russians captured the key rail junction of Kropotkin, only 130 miles from Rostov, in their continuing drive north toward Tikhoretsk, now thirty-five miles away. Tikhoretsk already is menaced by Russian units on the east and northeast.

[A Russian midnight communique recorded at London by the Soviet monitor there said the Russians had also taken Temirgoevskaya, twenty-five miles southwest of Kropotkin, in the effort to cut off the retreat of the German forces at Maikop, forty miles southwest.]

Other Soviet troops were reported closing in on the important Caucasus rail junctions of Kropotkin and Tikhoretsk.

Envelopment of the Caucasian cities and the spread of a pincers movement around the Maikop oil field provided the most spectacular gains claimed for the Soviet troops in current fighting, but the capture of Kastornoye also gave impetus to the drives against Kursk and Kharkov, two strong points of German depth-in-defense lines in the Voronezh "hinge" sector.

Kastornoye sits at the intersection of the Vornezh-Kursk railway with the Valuiki-Yelets rail line. The city is seventy-five miles east of Kursk and about 170 miles northeast of Kharkov. Its importance in relation to Kharkov is that the Russians previously had announced capture of Valuiki, which is 120 miles south of Kastornoye and about seventy-five miles east of Kharkov.

Importance of Kursk.

If Kursk can be taken, the north-south rail line between Smolensk, Kharkov, Melitopol and the Crimea would be cut; Kharkov would be flanked, and the fluidity of German supply lines would be hampered.

In the Caucasus, the troops which had advanced along the Baku-Rostov railway were said to be at Gulkevichi, only eight miles southeast of Kropotkin.

This represented an advance of about 215 miles from Mozdok, recaptured early in the Caucasus campaign, and while this swift march was taking place the Soviet troops were sending arms north and south of the railroad in other offensive actions.

Meanwhile, the encirclement of the Maikop oil field loomed with a Red Army column reported pushing twenty-eight miles out of Armavir along the Tuapse rail and pipe line right-of-way to capture Kurgannaya, almost halfway to Maikop. Previously the Russians had reported the capture of Apsheronskaya, nineteen miles southwest of Maikop, presumably by troops that had thrust up from the Tuapse sector.

LONDON, Jan. 29—Tearing huge gaps in Axis puppet ranks west of Voronezh, the Red Army has killed, routed, or trapped seven enemy divisions in three days, and run its captive toll to nearly 100,000 prisoners since mid-January, Moscow announced tonight in a special communique recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor.

JAN 30 1943

In the Caucasus the Russians overran the Kuban stronghold of Kropotkin, 130 miles below Rostov, and swept on toward Tikhoretsk, key rail junction 35 miles farther north, the Russians said.

In a lengthy special bulletin the Russians announced these results on the Voronezh front, which now has been expanded to include the lower part of the central front:

Big Gains About Voronezh

Advances of 24 to 31 miles on a 43-mile front in three days, putting the Red Army within 75 miles of Kursk, and 55 miles of Belgorod, two key Axis "hedgehog" bases on the Kursk-Kharkov railway.

The killing of 12,000 Axis troops, and the capture of 14,500. Up to Thursday, the communique said, 86,000 Axis troops had been captured since the Voronezh offensive began Jan. 13.

Three Italian Generals Taken

The capture today of Novy-Oskol, 55 miles east of Belgorod, in which an entire Italian Alpine Corps was wiped out or taken prisoner. The prisoner toll was 11,000 Italians, including the divisional commanders, Generals Battista, Pascalini, and Umerci, and their staffs.

This raised the grand total of prisoners to 97,000. Axis deaths on the battlefield, reckoned in many thousands but not yet disclosed by the Russians, would put the Axis casualties in killed or captured well beyond 100,000.

More than 200 localities have been recaptured by the Russians above and below the 50-mile railway between Voronezh and Kastornoye on the line running to Kursk.

German Divisions Being Annihilated

This has been done in three days, the communique said. This front had been manned mostly by Rumanians, Hungarians, Italians and other satellite troops, but the seven Axis divisions that were routed, killed or now are being annihilated in this area were German, the communique said.

They were listed as the 383d, 82d, 340th, 377th, 323d, 57th and 68th Nazi infantry divisions. Added to these were one regiment of the 45th division and a regiment of the 299th.

"The remainder of these formations and units are tightly encircled and are being wiped out by our troops in the area east of Kastornoye," the communique said.

The presence of so many German divisions in this area indicated the Nazis were rushing reinforcements to bolster the sagging lines of their puppet troops.

Great Booty Captured

In the same three-day period "according to incomplete data," the Russians said they captured 107 tanks, 340 guns, 254 machine-guns, 8,000 rifles, 40 radio transmitters, 1,217 trucks, 307 motorcycles, trains with military loads, and 36 ammunition, arms and food depots.

The Russian break-through in this area where the Axis has been building its famed hedgehog defenses ever since last fall was accomplished by Soviet troops that struck from the north, east, and south.

Among the towns now in Russian hands in this area are: Lachinovo, 10 miles west of Kastornoye which is the junction of the Voronezh-Kursk and Valuiki-Yelets railways; Naberezhnoye, 10 miles north of Kastornoye; Gorshehnoye, 22 miles south of Kastornoye; Zemlyansk, 25 miles northwest of Voronezh; and innumerable other places within this roughly triangular area.

The location of the newly-won towns above Kastornoye and Voronezh bears out a German radio commentator's announcement last night that the Russian Voronezh front now had overlapped with the lower central front which extends northwestward to the Orel area.

The same German radio commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, acknowledged tonight that the Red army had "made some progress" in this drive above and below Voronezh, but sought to ease this bad news with a statement that they were not to an extent "to justify the enormous (Russian) sacrifices."

"Full of Vicissitude"

The German High Command earlier had announced that "northwest of Voronezh there was heavy fighting full of vicissitude," and otherwise indicated that the Germans were retreating in "planned movements."

Novy-Oskol, where the Russians said they killed or captured an entire Italian Alpine Corps, is about 75 miles south of Kastornoye. The Russians hold many points on this line, including the Valuiki junction, 55 miles below Novy-Oskol.

FEB 1 1943

Possession of this north-south railway will give the Russians a springboard for their next lunge toward the main Kursk-Kharkov railway which was the starting point for Germany's backfiring 1942 offensive that reached east to the upper Don, Stalingrad on the Volga, and the Caucasian mountains far to the southeast.

Enemy at Stalingrad Perishing

At Stalingrad, 350 miles southeast of Kastornoye, the Russians said they were putting to death the last few ragged thousands of an Axis assault army that once had numbered 220,000 men. Moscow dispatches said 5,000 or 7,000 were all that remained in the Russian noose.

The advance on Rostov, gateway city to the Caucasus, was accelerated with the Red army's announced capture of Kropotkin. This town is the junction of a railway running west from the Kalmyck steppes to Novorossisk on the Black sea, and the one running north to Rostov.

Its seizure threatens further to trap German forces in the Caucasus of Maikop, 60 miles to the southwest. Other Russian units coming up from the south are within 30 miles of Maikop.

1,000 Germans Killed at Kropotkin

(More than 1,000 Germans were killed in street fighting inside Kropotkin, said the regular midnight Russian communique recorded by the Soviet Monitor in London.

(At Kastornoye on the Voronezh front this communique said Axis prisoners included 2,000 caught aboard two supply trains at the city's railway station. A German divisional headquarters also was reported captured there.

(In the Stalingrad encirclement more than 300 Germans were killed during the day and 150, including "many officers and one general," were taken prisoner.

(The Russians acknowledged determined resistance on the southern front near Rostov where "the Germans are bringing up a large number of tanks and motorized infantry . . . Soviet troops repulsed enemy counter-attacks and slowly advanced."

HARBOR AT SFAX SMASHED IN RAID

Most Powerful U. S. Attack in North Africa Hits Axis Supply Port.

Paris Radio Says Rommel Has Halted His Long Retreat Inside Tunisia.

JAN 30 1943

London, Jan. 30 (AP).—The harbor and railway yards at Sfax, a supply port vital for the regrouping of Axis forces in Tunisia, were declared today to have been hard hit by the Twelfth United States Air Force in that outfit's greatest raid of the war. At Allied headquarters in North Africa an Air Force spokesman said that the raid was of the saturation type—which suggests the loosing of hundreds of bombs in a relatively limited area—and the first of its kind ever carried out in North Africa.

Flying Fortresses and medium bombers, escorted by Lightning fighters, struck Sfax in four waves yesterday, blasted the rail lines and harbor facilities heavily, left many fires burning and shot down six Axis planes which attempted to intervene. The spokesman said the number of planes employed was the largest ever sent by the Twelfth against a single target, and the Italian High Command acknowledged that the damage was heavy.

Zuara Reported Evacuated.

Meanwhile today Marshal Rommel's narrow escape corridor in Tunisia was reported menaced by an American thrust toward the Gulf of Gabes, but continued bad weather appeared to be limiting the scale of action on the entire front, and the full significance of the American push which, according to the Algiers radio, had reached Maknassy, only thirty-three miles from the east coast, was obscure.

The Axis radios again betrayed a case of jitters by suggestions that the British First Army had already begun a big assault in Tunisia. Yesterday the same radios had reported that the Americans had launched or were preparing an offensive. Today's communique from Allied headquarters in North Africa declared: "There is no change in the ground situation."

Today's communique from Cairo, on the other hand, indicated that the vanguard of the British Eighth Army, driving westward in pursuit of Rommel, had reached the vicinity of Zuara, which is sixty-five miles west of Tripoli and only thirty-five miles from the Tunisia border. The announcement told of continued advances and spoke of "artillery exchanges in the coastal sector near Zura."

The gradual narrowing of Rommel's escape corridor is illustrated by the fact that Sfax, on the upper curve of the Gulf of Gabes, is by air only 150 miles northwest of Zuara.

Italy Is Again Blasted.

The Cairo communique also reported that artillery duels were in progress yesterday in that area, but gave no other details of operations on the land front. While aerial activity over the battle zone was restricted by bad weather yesterday, it added, Allied airmen struck again at targets in the south of Italy and Sicily in a follow-up to attacks on the same area the previous night.

In reporting the saturation raid on Sfax, Allied headquarters also said that Axis troops and vehicles in Tunisia were bombed and shot up in a series of other raids from the Pont du Fahs area to the Ousseltia Valley, and three enemy bombers were reported shot down out of a small formation which attacked Algiers last night. From all the operations two Allied aircraft were reported missing.

Italians Admit Damage.

On the other hand, the Italian High Command declared that Axis troops had captured new positions in Tunisia, omitting details, and said that counter-attacks were mounted against the continuing pressure of the British Eighth Army. Allied aerial blows against both Italy and Axis positions in North Africa were acknowledged, in the communique broadcast from Rome and several waves of Allied planes were admitted to have caused heavy damage at the port of Sfax. Suggesting a heavy toll of dead and wounded, it added that "the number of casualties has not yet been ascertained."

Allied planes loosed explosives and incendiaries and machine-gunned a passenger train in the neighborhood of Cefalu, Sicily; shot up railways and roads in Palermo and Cosenza provinces and raided Syracuse, the High Command added, mentioning twenty-six dead and thirty-four injured as victims of these forays.

The Sfax raid, which was delivered yesterday, was driven home by the largest number of planes ever sent by the 12th U. S. air force against a single target. Flying Fortresses led off followed and supported by medium bombers, B-25 Mitchells and B-26 Marauders and escorted by P-38 Lightning fighters. Six Axis planes rising to the defense were shot from the sky.

Direct Hits on Docks

"The Fortresses," said the air force spokesman, "scored direct hits on the docks, starting large fires, while B-25's dropped bombs at 50-foot intervals and all over the freight yards."

The B-26's concentrated on harbor works and warehouses, setting off big fires.

Allied fighter planes were thrown against enemy troops in the Ousseltia valley and against Axis armored forces to the north of that sector.

All these widespread operations in the Tunisia theater cost only two Allied planes. An overnight enemy bombing attack in the Algiers area cost him three bombers.

The Axis radios, nervously anticipating the major Allied blows which were believed in preparation, continued to broadcast reports of this or that Allied offensive action, all of which were invalidated by the announcement of the Allied command:

There was no further word during the day of the activities of the American ground forces which earlier had been reported pointed toward the rear of the Mareth line in southeastern Tunisia, behind which considerable of Marshal Rommel's forces have been deployed.

4 Waves of U. S. Bombers Blast Axis Tunisia Base at Sfax

JAN 30 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 29 (AP)—The 12th U. S. Air Force executed its heaviest attack of the war yesterday in a four-wave raid on Sfax which left many fires raging in that supply port for Axis armies in Tunisia, a communique announced today.

The spokesman said the raid was of "the saturation type"—which suggests the loosing of hundreds of bombs in a relatively limited area—and the first of its kind carried out in the North African theatre.

The communique said there was no change in the ground situation.

[This continued silence on an Algiers radio report that American troops were driving toward the coast after a thrust to Kakнassy, only 33 miles from the Gulf of Gabes, increased observers' doubts that the report was accurate.]

Flying Fortresses led the Sfax attack. Medium bombers, Mitchells and Marauders, followed the four-engined planes in loosing their destructive cargoes. Lightning fighters formed the escort. Six Axis planes which sought to intercept were downed.

"The number of planes used was the largest the 12th Air Force had ever sent against a single target," a spokesman said.

[The Italian High Command admitted heavy damage and said "the number of casualties is not yet ascertained."]

The blow at Sfax was one of a series of raids in the continuing aerial offensive to hamper Axis efforts to merge the armies of Field Marshal Rommel and Col. Gen. von Arnim.

Fighters attacked Axis troops in the Ousseltia Valley and pounced on armored vehicles farther north. Roads in the Pont du Fahs area were bombed Wednesday night. Three enemy bombers were reported shot out of a small formation which dropped explosives in the Algiers area last night. Two allied aircraft were missing from the various operations.

A Cairo communique today indicated that the 8th Army had reached the vicinity of Zuara, 65 miles beyond Tripoli and about 35 miles from the Tunisian border. The bulletin reported artillery duels yesterday in that area.

While aerial activity over the battle zone was restricted by bad weather, the communique said, Allied airmen struck again at southern Italy and Sicily.

African Political Problems Unsettled

Giraud Says Agreement Is on 'Liaison on Military, Economic and Financial Matters' Only—deGaullist Hits Ex-Vichy Men.

JAN 30 1943

By Relman Morin

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—French political complications concerning North Africa appeared as numerous as ever tonight after Gen. Henri Honore Giraud declared that he was in agreement with Gen. Charles de Gaulle only on "liaison on military, economic and financial matters" and that no prospects of any single united French movement existed at present.

Hits Ex-Vichy Men

At the same time, a member of de Gaulle's own staff, returning from the Casablanca meetings, forecast a revolution in metropolitan France when the German hold there is broken if ex-Vichy men continue to have a part in the North African administration.

"Even General Giraud must understand that," said the Fighting French officer, Maj. Claude de Boislambert.

Addressing a press conference at Allied headquarters in North Africa, Giraud declared "the question of politics" had not been taken up with de Gaulle, the Fighting French leader, when the two were brought together during the historic Roosevelt-Churchill meetings.

"There is no question of a single United French movement throughout the world at the present time," said the high commissioner for French North and West Africa.

"We are establishing a permanent liaison on critical economic and military questions."

Giraud pointed out, however, that this discussion with de Gaulle at Casablanca was a preliminary step to others which would be taken.

"Both de Gaulle and I have agreed we must go progressively and methodically in our negotiations," he said.

Regime Not Aim

In a statement issued before the conference, the high commissioner brought out for the first time that his government "does not aim at establishing any kind of regime, but only at assuring the best day-to-day administration of the French territories remaining free."

"This government is the temporary custodian of French sovereignty until the forty millions of Frenchmen at home can freely express their opinions," the statement continued.

During the conference, the general asserted he was willing to give the Jews in North Africa back their property and allow Jewish children in the schools. He added, however, that "these moves must be made gradually."

He said that so far as he was concerned Jews, Communists and all creeds were entitled to be treated exactly alike in North Africa as long as they worked for the good of France.

"The policy of the Germans is completely against the policy of the French in regard to Jews," he said, adding that the time he spent in Nazi prisons in Germany made him hate Hitler's measures.

Assured of Arms

Disclosing that he had asked President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for substantial equipment for the French Army at once, Giraud said he was assured he would get it.

"The British and Americans have loaned the French some weapons in Tunisia, but this is but a drop in the bucket," he said. "I hope public opinion in America and Britain will help speed up the sending of arms."

De Boislambert, who joined de Gaulle after escaping from a Vichy prison, declared the North African situation was fraught with dangerous possibilities. He said bitterness against the Vichyites was so great in France that "retention of these men can easily lead to civil war and revolution."

The French people respect General Giraud, he said, but refuse to accept the men around him in North Africa.

"Having suffered so long under Vichy, their greatest fear is that Vichy men will accompany Allied landings in France if and when a second front is established there," he said.

Praises F. D. R.

De Boislambert said President Roosevelt's "kindness and open-hearted reception" of de Gaulle at Casablanca overwhelmed the Fighting French leader. He said the President, speaking flawless French, exclaimed:

"Ah, and this is General de Gaulle. I recognize you from your photographs."

Later, de Boislambert said, de Gaulle described the President as a "really very great man of state who sees things from an extremely lofty point of view."

De Boislambert escaped last Dec. 1 after being held for 16 months for "treason," which meant he favored de Gaulle. He wandered through France disguised as tramp. Gradually he made his way to the coast, living with members of the vast French underground movement, and finally reached England recently.

He still was wearing hobo's rags and a shaggy beard when he entered de Gaulle's offices.

Appointed to Staff

Because of his 10 years' experience in the French African empire, de Gaulle immediately appointed him a member of his staff, which was preparing at the time to leave for Casablanca.

Asked today whether it would be possible to remove men who formerly were Vichy officials from the North African government "without breaking it down," de Boislambert parried: "That's a question of high politics that I can't answer."

But he said the loyalty of the French military in North Africa arises from the customary obedience of soldiers to whoever is in command. He said the allegiance of the civil population there was uncrystallized.

"A series of Allied victories would quickly settle that," he concluded.

GIRAUD DENIES FRENCH UNITY IS IN PROSPECT

Declares All That Is Looked For Is Military and Economic Liaison.

TELLS OF DE GAULLE TALK

JAN 30 1943

African High Commissioner Says Politics Was Passed Over---To Ease Jewish Laws.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud declared today that there were no prospects of any single united French movement at the present time, and that the only agreement between himself and Gen. Charles de Gaulle would be one "of liaison on military, economic and financial matters."

Gen. Giraud, the High Commissioner for French North and West Africa, told a press conference that he had not taken up the question of politics with Gen. de Gaulle, the leader of the Fighting French, when the two were brought together during the Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Casablanca.

"There is no question of a single united French movement throughout the world at the present time," he said. "We are establishing a permanent liaison on critical economic and military questions.

To East Jewish Rights

Gen. Giraud told the conference that he was willing to give back to the Jews in North Africa their property and allow Jewish children in the schools, but added that "these moves must be made gradually."

Before the conference the General issued a long statement, much of it repeating material previously covered but saying in addition that the discussion with Gen. de Gaulle at Casablanca was a preliminary step to others.

Not a Regime.

Speaking of the Jewish question later he said he had no sympathy with German views thereon, but added that the question in North Africa was "an internal one in which the world as a whole has no interest."

In the statement preceding the press conference the general declared for the first time that his Government "does not aim at establishing any kind of regime, but only at assuring the best day-to-day administration of the French territories remaining free."

"This Government is the temporary custodian of French sovereignty until the forty millions of Frenchmen at home can freely express their opinions," the statement said.

Gen. Giraud said that he had asked President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for substantial equipment for the French Army "before summer—at once," and that he was assured he would get it.

"The British and Americans have lent the French some weapons in Tunisia, but this is but a drop in the bucket," he added. "I hope public opinion in America and Great Britain will help speed up the sending of arms."

De Gaulle Is Overwhelmed.

London, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—Major Claude de Bois Lambert, a Fighting French officer who attended the Casablanca Conference as a member of Gen. de Gaulle's staff, said today that President Roosevelt's kindness and open-hearted reception of Gen. de Gaulle at Casablanca had overwhelmed the French general.

He said that the President, speaking flawless French, exclaimed: "Ah, and this is Gen. de Gaulle. I recognize you from your photographs."

After the meeting, he added, Gen. de Gaulle described the President as a "really great man of state who sees things from an extremely lofty point of view."

Reich Observes Tenth Year of Nazism Today

JAN 30 1943

Berlin to Shun Flags and Theatricals; Goebbels and Goering Will Speak

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—Germany, in the midst of the fourth winter of war, will observe tomorrow the tenth anniversary of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's rise to power. No announcement has been made that Hitler will speak, but war-time conditions customarily veil his utterances until just before he goes to the microphone.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister, will read a proclamation from Hitler, possibly dealing with total mobilization of the civilian population—a move, announced yesterday, which drafts all men from sixteen years to sixty-five and all women from seventeen to forty-five. Goebbels will read the proclamation over the radio at 4 p. m., tomorrow (11 a. m., New York time).

Flags in the streets and other Nazi theatricals will be absent this year, Berlin announced. Lavish display of flags would be out of keeping with the melancholy news for Germany from Russia and North Africa, London observers said.

Reich Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering will make an anniversary speech to the army at 11 a. m., and Arthur Axmann, youth leader, will speak to German youth two hours earlier.

The German radio announced that it would broadcast tomorrow for seven consecutive hours without a break to foreign countries.

The anniversary of Hitler's appointment as chancellor by President Paul von Hindenburg has been a favorite occasion for Hitler oratory.

Last year he poured out praise for the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, blamed the Russian winter for German reverses in the east and promised that 1942 "will again be a year of great victories."

On Jan. 30, 1941, he declared: "When the hour comes we will give the decisive blows . . . and the gentlemen will have to acknowledge this historical fact in the course of the war."

On Jan. 30, 1940: "For centuries Germany and Russia have lived in peace. Why shouldn't that be possible in the future? I believe it will be possible if both nations want it."

On the 1939 anniversary, eight months before he invaded Poland, Hitler said: "For the fifth time the anniversary of the non-aggression pact with Poland is approaching. All true friends of peace will today probably hardly agree with the value of this agreement. I believe in a long peace."

GERMANY FIGHTS MANPOWER CRISIS

Berlin Radio Hints Situation Serious on Tenth Anniversary of Hitler Rule.

JAN 30 1943

LONDON, Jan. 29—(AP) The campaign to mobilize every last reserve of the German nation for a crisis in which "defeat would transform Germany into a museum such as Greece" went into high gear in Berlin tonight as the Nazis prepared to observe tomorrow the tenth anniversary of Hitler rule in the middle of the fourth war winter.

A DNB broadcast from Berlin, referring to the new decree drafting for labor all men from 16 to 65 and all women from 17 to 45, quoted Fritz Sauckel, Germany's manpower dictator, as saying, "It's not Stalingrad, but the fact that the war is reaching a climax which has led to the mobilization of all Germans."

A Stockholm dispatch quoting the Frankfurter Zeitung which appealed to every German's sense of duty to do his part, said "Some must offer blood, others sweat," and added that defeat would transform Germany into a museum such as Greece after the Roman conquest.

Mobilization Home Front

Another Berlin broadcast plainly indicated that the German government was preparing to take still other measures to mobilize the home front to an even greater extent than in the past.

It quoted Economics Minister Walther Funk as announcing in the Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper, that the concentration on efforts to win the war would necessitate the closing down of many industrial plants and commercial firms which are still doing work not definitely important in a military sense.

This will be necessary, he said, in spite of the fact that "many thousands of firms already have closed down by command in connection with industrial rationalization and standardization measures."

Funk estimated that "about 10 per cent of all German commercial enterprises already had been closed."

He declared, according to the broadcast, that "it is absurd to keep shops open which are practically out of stocks" and which sell only to "pet customers."

Other broadcasts emphasized Germany's "emphatic determination to fight and win," and declared "Germany will fight through to the end."

Recall Party's Struggle

In this connection they recalled the years of struggle of the Nazi party, a now familiar theme.

Thus, the Voelkischer Beobachter editorial was quoted as saying "whenever the National Socialist movement won a victory the intensity of the fighting was high. Whenever a setback was experienced or a loss sustained the stubborness of the fighting was redoubled. Exactly thus must be the attitude x x x of the entire German nation toward the German front in the east."

Informed diplomatic sources in London said that Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels was acquainting the German people of the reverses on the eastern front by "virtue of necessity" and by "telling some of the truth" was trying to get greater effort from the German masses.

The Nazis have adopted pessimistic tactics before, these sources pointed out, "but never to such a degree."

Reichstag Extended Until Jan. 30, 1947

London, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—The German radio announced last night that a decree had extended the present Reichstag until January 30, 1947.

Allied Bombers Continue Blows Against U-Boats

Bostons Smash at Rail Link to Base at Brest; Holland, France and Belgium Raided

JAN 30 1943

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—American-built Boston bombers joined in the air offensive against U-boats today when, as part of big daylight sweeps over occupied territory, they struck at a railway running across France to the German submarine base at Brest. Their target was the important 300-foot-high viaduct at Morlaix in Brittany, over which runs the main rail track to Brest. An Air Ministry communique did not disclose the results of the raid.

In other daylight sweeps—which cost the British one bomber and three fighters and the Germans five fighters, including two Junkers 88's in the Bay of Biscay—American medium bombers smashed at objectives in Ijmuiden, Holland; Spitfires kept up attacks on communications in northern France and Belgium, shooting up trains and barges; and torpedo bombers sank a large German supply ship off Norway.

Authoritative sources disclosed that Britain has a new naval torpedo aircraft which will be an additional improvement in her fleet air arm.

The plane, which is a new development, is a monoplane, but no other details were disclosed. It will replace the high lift biplane.

In addition, these sources said, the staff at the Admiralty dealing with naval air matters has been augmented and additional British naval air representatives have been appointed in Washington.

SUCCESS IS NOTED IN WAR ON U-BOATS

Gen. Larson Hopes to Expand Patrol Arcs to Cover All of Atlantic.

LONDON, Jan. 29—(AP) "Improvement" has been registered in the war against Axis submarines, Brig. Gen. Westside T. Larson, commander of American air forces combatting the U-boats, said today.

His command patrols off the Atlantic coast of the United States and has a unit operating in Britain with the R.A.F. coastal command.

Gen. Larson said that the Americans were flying Liberator bombers on joint missions with the R. A. F. over the Bay of Biscay, greatest eastern Atlantic avenue of Hitler's submarines.

U. S. fliers have scored kills and successfully fought off German plane attacks, he said. He added that his branch of the service hoped to set up a chain of patrol arcs to protect Allied shipping the whole way across the Atlantic.

High U.S. Officer Being Flown From Casablanca Back to Britain Lost for Hours in Atlantic Fog

By LEO EGANHAM,
Associated Press Foreign Correspondent.

AN AMERICAN BOMBER COMMAND STATION, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 29.—The pilot of a Flying Fortress who flew a high-ranking United States officer from Great Britain to the Casablanca conference and back to Britain disclosed today that on the return trip his big bomber was for hours in fog and bad weath over the Atlantic before it made emergency landing in Northern Ir land with only 45 minutes' gas su ply left.

(The high officer was not ide tified for reasons of censorship.)

After an almost "zero" ceiling had forced him to fly for several hundred miles only 150 feet above the ocean, the pilot, Capt. Clifton Pyle of Marshall, Tex., said he sighted unfamiliar land which he and his crew finally determined was Eire.

Capt. Pyle said he was haunted by the fear he might be forced to land in the neutral country with his high-ranking passenger and be interned there for the duration of the war. He made his gas "stretch" by thinning it with more than the usual amount of oxygen and finally reached an airport in Northern Ireland with his tanks nearly empty.

"On the trip to Casablanca the weather was good and the flight uneventful," Capt. Pyle said, "but coming back we ran into fog and bad weather off the coast of Spain. We were supposed to get a 'fix' on our position at a certain point over the Atlantic, but when we arrived there we found our radio had failed."

After flying for a long time in thick fog entirely by instruments, Capt. Pyle said he asked his distinguished passenger if he advised continuing as they were or going down below the [illegible]. The passenger left it to the crew.

Capt. Pyle said he decided to go below. The Fortress came out of the overcast about 500 feet above the water, he said, but the ceiling later dropped lower until he was forced to skip along only 150 feet from the waves.

"We finally sighted land, but didn't know whether we were off the coast of England, France or Ireland," Capt. Pyle continued. "We flew north along the coast and finally decided it must be Southern Ireland.

"Our gas was getting very low and we knew if we landed in a neutral country we were liable to be interned —and here we had a high-ranking officer aboard. We really were doing some sweating until we reached Northern Ireland."

The crew refueled the plane and it again took off for England, only to run into more bad weather. Capt. Pyle decided to land at once when he sighted a balloon barrage.

"If we hadn't had such an important person aboard we would have gone up into the soup and flown over the balloons by instrument," Capt. Pyle said, "but we didn't want to take even the slightest chance."

The passenger continued on to his destination by train and the bomber reached its station the following day.

Capt. Pyle sandwiched the trip to Casablanca between raids on targets in Axis-occupied Europe. On January 13, the day before taking off for North Africa, he brought a Fortress home from Lille, France, on two badly damaged engines, with its hydraulic system shot out of commission, its radio compartment damaged by flames and one crew member wounded.

Nazis Assail Gen. Mihailovich, Make Serbs Virtual Hostages

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Gen. Nedic, commander of Nazi forces occupying Yugoslavia, has issued a proclamation virtually making hostages of the people in four Serbian districts in a new warning to the populace against aiding Gen. Draja Mihailovich, the Yugoslav government in exile said today.

JAN 30 1943

Yugoslav officials said the extent of the patriot general's activities and the growing fear that Yugoslavia will be the theater of a second front in Europe probably occasioned the warning, which threatened Serbians with stern penalties.

Gen. Bader's proclamation, published in the Serbian newspaper Novo Vreme January 26, described Gen. Mihailovich, who is the government in exile's war minister, as "public enemy No. 1" and specifically named four Serbian districts which have been giving him aid. It threatened that strong measures will be taken beginning with the people of these districts if any general outbreak occurs in Yugoslavia.

Informed London quarters expressed belief that diplomatic action directed toward bridging differences between Gen. Mihailovich and Yugoslav partisans was in progress. The partisans are not included in Gen. Mihailovich's army and on numerous occasions have clashed with his forces.

Gloomy Dean Gloomier

Fears Middle Class Will Disappear

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Very Rev. W. R. Inge, the former "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's, expressed concern today lest the Beveridge Plan for post-war England eliminate the middle class through inflation and taxation.

Writing under the title "as a bourgeois myself," Dr. Inge said in an article in the Church of England newspaper:

"I agree with Euripides that 'of the three classes it is the middle class that saves the country.'

"The populace may be corrupted by the promise of Utopia, of 'panem et circenses' (food and amusement), the dole and the dogs. But the working man individually is such a good fellow and so intelligent I hope he will resist the bribes of politicians, especially if his 'betters' set a good example of self-denial."

Earthquakes in Bosnia Set Record for Duration

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 29—The Reuter news agency reported from Istanbul, Turkey, tonight that one of the longest series of earthquake shocks ever recorded in Europe had been in progress in Central Bosnia, part of Yugoslavia, since Dec. 29.

During the first week shocks came every quarter hour, and even now five to six shocks are recorded daily, the agency said.

Material damage was heavy, but only nineteen lives have been lost, the report said. Twelve Moslem towns were reported razed.

'Second Front' Battle Fought in Lecture Hall

JAN 30 1943

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—A "second front" battle is being fought out in an oak-paneled London lecture hall by several hundred American, British and Canadian senior officers. Their drawing-board battle deals with the part the newly created Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers would play in a landing by a British force in enemy-occupied territory.

The problem is based on a theoretical situation which would prevail in April, providing a British force had got well established on the Continent after making an invasion thrust in March.

Bulgaria Mobilizing Resources

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—The Rome radio, in a broadcast heard by The Associated Press, said today that mobiliaztion of all Bulgaria's resources had been ordered following a conference in Sofia among King Boris III and members of a delegation headed by the President of the Sobranje (Parliament).

Beaverbrook Wants Debate on Aid to Reds

London, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—Lord Beaverbrook, former Cabinet Minister, called today for an open parliamentary debate on aid to Russia to determine whether shipments of airplanes and tanks can swiftly be increased during the next several months.

Lord Beaverbrook is a former Minister for War Production. Before holding that post he had been at various times Minister of Aircraft Production, Minister of State and Minister of Supply.

62-Ton Nazi Tanks in Tunisia

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 30 (AP)—Germany's monster sixty-two-ton Tiger tanks, equipped with 188-mm. guns, have appeared in Tunisia, a Reuter dispatch from that front said today.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP) Reuters reported in a dispatch from Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, today that a British or American four-motored bomber crashed last night at Sidi Rahini, near Ceuta, killing all seven members of the crew.

British Rely on U. S. For 20% of War Goods

BIRMINGHAM, England, Jan. 29 (AP). — Production Minister Oliver Lyttelton told an audience of workers today that Great Britain depends upon the United States for roughly 20 per cent of the nation's war supplies. This, he said, includes such diverse items as clothing for troops and equipment for bomber squadrons, but excludes merchant ships.

Over the whole field, Lyttelton said, Britain produced 50 per cent more in 1942 than 1941.

How Americans Smashed Nazis' Ousseltia Push

Frontline Story of Tunisian Action Given By Correspondent.

JAN 30 1943

By Harold V. Boyle

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 25—(Delayed)—(AP)—This is one front-line observer's story of how the Americans broke the backbone of the German drive down the Ousseltia Valley.

In daylong action in which American tanks, artillery and infantry worked in perfect unison, the Nazis were slapped back several miles to the head of the valley and the Americans seized heights dominating the road to Kairouan.

Battle Opens at 9 a. m.

The battle opened at 9 a. m., but the Norfolk, Va., colonel commanding an American combat team already had pushed forward some distance and was taking the initiative.

I rode to the battle area in a jeep with Capt. William Bryne, 25, of Garden City, N. Y., who got a bullet through a leg in the Oran landing. We arrived near the command post at 9:45 a. m. Following is my log for the remainder of the day:

9:45 a. m.—We are pushing forward with our infantry through pine scrub country resembling the Rocky Mountains on a small scale. Firing ahead indicates we are in contact with the enemy. We meet a mine-laying group which includes Sergeant Billy Wesson, 22, Alvarado, Tex., Private Jake Weber, 25, Reading, Pa., and Private Donald Perkins of Bellmore, Long Island, N. Y.

10:45 a. m.—We're in luck. Just met a colonel who piled us into his jeep. This is the way to go to battle.

11 a. m.—Our ride is halted by boulders. It's uphill on foot now. Machine-gun bullets are beginning to whine around us.

11:45 a. m.—Our 105-millimeter artillery shells have made Jerry put his tail between his legs and take cover. More machine-gun bullets and we take shelter in a gully, where we meet Lieut. Carl Riede, of Burlington, Vt., Sergeant Carol Sanicki, 22, South Deerfield, Mass., and Corp. Victor Lister, 22, Augusta, Me.

Reach Forward Command Post

12:45 p. m.—We reach the forward command post of Lieut.-Col. Clarence Beck of Daytona Beach, Fla. He is directing an attack on the last hill between us and the Kairouan road. Talked with Lieut. Lloyd D. Magill, 22, of Concord, Tenn., whose uniform is stained with the blood of a wounded buddy he has been assisting. Lieut. Robert Keith of Portland, Me., has a narrow escape when a mortar shell bursts near him.

1:00 p. m.—Our artillery just crowned the German command point across the Kairouan road. The order came: "Cease fire, mission accomplished." Also at this post is infantry Captain George Juskalin, 28, of Fitchburg, Mass., and Capt. Bill Farrell, 26, of Wilmington, Del.

2:15 p. m.—Our artillery is beating a tattoo on Tefila Hill. Between bursts I can see Jerry crawl out for another go with his machine-guns. There are fewer German 88s now. We just knocked out two of their guns.

3:15 p. m.—Back to our battalion command post for lunch of crackers and chocolate.

4:00 p. m.—The attack now has been launched against the last two German-held hills at the pass leading to Kairouan. The entire front is one mass of flame. Jerry isn't taking this lying down.

Rain Begins to Fall

5:00 p. m.—Rain is falling. Our artillery is laying down a beautiful smoke screen for the advancing infantrymen. "We'll have to dig them out," an officer says. "They are too well dug in to be flushed out with artillery."

5:30 p. m.—Getting dark and I have to hitch-hike to headquarters to get a typewriter. The last thing I see is our infantry edging forward through sleet and smoke in the direction of the enemy positions. On the way back a soldier stops us just in time as our engineers touch off three mines left in the road by the retreating Germans.

6:30 p. m.—At headquarters I learn that our tanks in unopposed reconnaissance up the valley during the day found piles of equipment abandoned by the Germans.

7:00 p. m.—At the mess tent I had a meal of soup, stew and tea and soon to bed. That is what a newsman's day is like at this front.

Bomb Injures 25 Nazis in Lyons

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 29 (AP).—A Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch from Geneva reported today that twenty-five German soldiers had been seriously wounded at Lyons, France, by the explosion of a bomb hurled into their ranks by a cyclist who escaped. The dispatch said two civilians who fled from the scene instead of aiding in the search for the bomb-thrower were shot.

Viennese Official Is to Replace Slain Heydrich

JAN 30 1943

By the Associated Press.

Dr. Ernst Kaltenbrunner, former police chief in Vienna and the Danube region, has been appointed chief of the German Security Police by Adolf Hitler, the German radio said yesterday in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

He succeeds Reinhard Heydrich, who was assassinated May 27 in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia.

Kaltenbrunner, a Nazi Storm Troop leader, was representative in public security affairs in Austria after that country was taken over by the Germans in 1938.

7 Reported Dead in Plane Blast

MADRID, Jan. 29 (AP)—The official Spanish news agency reported today that an American-type four-motored bomber exploded in the air last night over the Sidi Rahini quarter in the outskirts of Ceuto, Spanish Morocco, killing seven members of the crew. The explosion occurred shortly after the plane had passed over Ceuta with landing lights turned on, the dispatch said.

NAZIS CONFISCATE SWEDISH MAGAZINE

Stockholm, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—The Swedish picture weekly Se was confiscated from the newsstands last night by the police after the pro-Nazi daily Dagsposten had accused it of making "scandalous insinuations against the German legation."

Tens of thousands of copies of the offending issue already had been sold, however, before the police took action.

30.24-717

In complaining, the Dagsposten said:

"Se puts a map of Stockholm quite close to Premier Hansson's declaration about preparations against a sudden attack against the country, with the caption: 'An enemy within the country may be able in case of a sudden attack to collaborate with the attacking force. Even the capital runs this risk, which is shown in this interesting map.'"

The accompanying map, Dagsposten pointed out, shows how close the German legation and consular buildings, German travel bureaus and various German firms are to Stockholm's vital strategic defense centers, such as the radio and public utilities.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 29. — (AP) The German consulate here received instructions from Berlin not to fly the Nazi Swastika tomorrow on the tenth anniversary of Hitler's rise to power.

R. A. F. Blasts Akyab Again

Continues Pounding Burmese Island in Night and Day Raids

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 29 (AP).—Royal Air Force flyers are continuing their pounding of Akyab Island, the British disclosed today. Two night raids and a series of day raids were reported in a communique on action in western Burma. Bombers attacked objectives on the island Wednesday night; bombers and fighters swept over the area yesterday, and again last night the Akyab zone was raided, the British said.

Of land action, the war bulletin reported only the usual patrols along the Arakan coast, which is north of Akyab.

Australian Bill To Send Militia Abroad Offered

Curtin's Plan Assailed by Menzies as Too Limited; Bad Effect on U. S. Seen

JAN 30 1943

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 29 (AP).—A bill to enlarge the geographical boundaries within which Australia's militia and conscripted soldiery may serve was offered in the House of Representatives today by Prime Minister John Curtin and drew immediate criticism as not far-reaching enough in its effects.

The opposition was led by former Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who described the Curtin proposal as "astonishingly inflexible, parochial and isolationist."

Curtin asked that the Commonwealth defense act be amended to permit the service of militia and draft troops anywhere south of the Equator in the zone between the 110th and 159th meridians of east longitude, but only in such particular areas of this zone as may be specified by proclamation.

Under the law as it stands service of enlisted men in those branches of the armed forces is restricted to the Dominion itself, its possessions and mandates. Curtin's suggested liberalization would allow their use as well in certain of the Netherlands East Indies, Dutch New Guinea, Timor and a portion of the Solomon Islands.

The proposed amendment, Menzies said, "makes sorry reading in the light of constant public appeals for help from other countries." Menzies in particular criticized the exclusion from the area of Singapore, Malaya, Sumatra, Burma, the southern Solomons—including Guadalcanal—New Zealand and New Caledonia, all of which said were "highly relevant to Australia's defense and the defeat of the Japanese."

Percy C. Spender former Army Minister, declared that the bill "gave notice to the world, especially to America, from whom we sought aid, that, although her troops are serving thousands of miles from her mainland and close to ours, we do not propose to fight outside an exceedingly limited area."

Curtin said: "The world knows Australians have fought in all theaters and will continue so to fight."

Australia's overseas forces have been composed of volunteers.

"There is no question of Australian forces being available to fight wherever they best can fight in the common cause," he continued. "The law as passed by the Menzies government imposed limitations on the use of the militia, and the present proposal is to extend the limits within which the militia can be used far beyond those fixed by the Menzies government."

Cuts Through Solomons

The 110th Meridian skirts the western tip of Australia and the 159th passes through the Central Solomons on the east, while the equator crosses the northern tier of the Netherlands Indies.

Japanese Flee Near Salamaua After Allies Repel Patrol Attack

JAN 30 1943

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 30 (Saturday).—General Douglas MacArthur's forces are pursuing strong Japanese patrols toward Salamaua, 140 miles northwest of Buna in New Guinea, after repulsing an attack west of Mubo, an Allied headquarters communique announced today.

At the same time an official announcement said that the death of Lieutenant General Tomatori Horii, who commanded the Japanese army of 15,000 men which was practically exterminated in months of fighting in the Buna area, had been confirmed by captured documents and prisoners.

The communique announcing that New Guinea warfare was now being transferred aggressively by the Australians and Americans to the Salamaua area said the Japanese patrols attacked the Allied positions west of Mubo, twelve miles south of Salamaua, but were repulsed.

The outpost was the scene of a surprise raid by Allied forces in which more than 100 Japanese were killed and an enemy headquarters and a radio station destroyed during a recent three-day action.

Salamaua is only about twenty miles southeast of Lae, the most important Japanese base in all New Guinea. Lae has been the target in some of the heaviest Allied aerial assaults of the Southwestern Pacific war, and Salamaua has come in for its share of this pounding too.

"Strong hostile patrols attacked our positions west of Mubo and were engaged by our outposts," General MacArthur's noon communique said.

"Considerable casualties were inflicted on enemy detachments between Kaisinek and Wanoumi. The enemy now is withdrawing with our forces in pursuit."

This marked the first ground activity of note in New Guinea since the Allies wound up their triumphant conquest of the Papuan Peninsula with the capture of Sanananda.

Reaching northwest of the Salamaua area, Allied medium and heavy bombers raided the Japanese-held base of Gasmata on the southern shore of New Britain Island, [illegible] the runway at Cape Gloucester on the northwestern tip of the island.

A written statement was issued here on the death of General Horii with the details of how he died—by drowning.

Horii and several members of his staff were with Japanese advance forces in the Owen Stanley Mountains last fall when the Australians rolled the invaders back from the Port Moresby area toward Buna.

After the battle of Oivi, Horii's headquarters was established at Papaki. Australian troops surrounded that point, leaving open as the only means of retreat the Kumusi River.

American planes attacking Japanese installations on the eastern side of the mountain range destroyed the Wairopi bridge over the Kumusi. The river at the time was in full flood because of heavy rains.

Horii and an aide, Lieutenant Colonel Toyonari Tanaka, and other officers then had a number of rafts built between Nov. 10 and Nov. 15 and tried to cross the swollen Kumusi. The two officers and a large number of Japanese troops were drowned when their craft overturned in the raging river, the statement said.

"Washing Machine Willy," who gained notoriety for a time by the regularity of his nightly bombing trips [illegible] Americans, [illegible] anti-aircraft shell got him Jan. 14 but he since has been replaced.

Command Post At Guadalcanal Taken From Foe

2 More Pockets Destroyed; Planes Hit 2 Destroyers, 3 Ships, Down 10 Zeros

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP).—American troops continuing their war of extermination against the Japanese on Guadalcanal Island captured a large enemy command post on Wednesday, the Navy Department announced today, while war planes struck hard at Japanese ships and base installations in the central Solomons.

A Navy communique gave the following results of operations on Wednesday and Thursday (Solomons time):

Two Japanese destroyers, two cargo ships and a tanker were damaged by American bombing attacks, one of the cargo ships probably sunk.

Thirty-six Japanese killed and three captured when the command post was taken. Two additional pockets offering resistance were destroyed. A large amount of enemy equipment fell into American hands.

Ten Zeros Shot Down

Ten enemy Zero fighters were shot down with a loss of four American planes. Six other Japanese planes were probably destroyed. Enemy installations on Kolombangara Island were bombed by Army medium bombers which started a large fire at the Japanese base.

The thirty-six Japanese killed at the command post raised to 715 the number of enemy troops reported slain in Guadalcanal in the last ten days. In addition forty-eight have been reported captured. Thus a fifth of the enemy troops estimated to have been on the island ten days ago have been put out of action.

Japanese plane and ship losses in the Solomons to date, as compiled from Navy communiques, stand at 791 planes destroyed in combat and fifty-seven ships sunk, seven probably sunk and ninety-eight damaged.

The location of the command post was not specified in the communique, but a Navy spokesman said that it probably was somewhere in the four-mile strip of coastal country between Kokumbona and Tassafaronga. Kokumbona, seven miles west of the airfield, was captured on Jan. 23. Tassafaronga is the next relatively large village held by the enemy in the line of the American advance.

While American ground forces were pushing forward on Wednesday, the enemy sent over a force of dive and high-level bombers to attack American base positions. American fighters intercepted them and the Navy said that "incomplete reports indicate" that nine Zeros were destroyed and six other probably destroyed. The four American planes listed officially as missing were lost at that time.

Enemy Wild Frustrated

The enemy attack was frustrated and none of the planes dropped bombs.

The American raid on Kolombangara Island, 190 nautical miles northwest of Guadalcanal, also was carried out on Wednesday. Marauder medium bombers with Airacobra fighters made the attack, which resulted in a large fire, and all returned safely.

Wednesday evening Dauntless dive-bombers and Avenger torpedo planes, protected by Wildcat fighters, attacked an enemy destroyer and a cargo ship in Vella Gulf, a thirteen-mile-wide body of water between Kolombangara and Vella Lavella Islands. Two direct hits were scored on the cargo vessel which was "left sinking," the communique said, and several near hits damaged the destroyer which was left smoking.

The other destroyer and cargo ship and the tanker were discovered next day fourteen miles

American Planes at Guadalcanal Down Japs at Ratio of 3 to 1

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 16.—(Delayed)—(AP) American planes operating from Henderson field, aided by anti-aircraft defenses, shot down Japanese planes at a ratio of more three to one between Aug. 20 and Jan. 15, it was disclosed today.

In the period of just under five months 584 Japanese planes were destroyed against a loss of 180 American craft, and the score continues to mount despite the fact that most of the air fighting has shifted from over Henderson Field itself to the vicinity of the enemy's bases.

The highest single day's bag of Jap planes was [illegible] 29, were shot down. Enemy craft destroyed were [illegible] Zero fighters, [illegible] floatplanes, [illegible] types.

American [illegible] for the [illegible] 90 pilots and crew members [illegible] were not estimated, but are known to have been much higher.

Among the Japanese victims was northwest of Kolombangara, where they were attacked by dive-bombers and torpedo planes with Lightning fighter escort. The destroyer was hit by a torpedo and suffered a "large explosion," the Navy said. The cargo ship took a direct hit and the tanker suffered several near hits. Both vessels were left dead in the water.

Four enemy Zeros attempted to intercept the attack on the ships and one was shot down.

ST. QUENTIN WON'T RETURN TO FRANCE

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—French Ambassador Rene de Saint Quentin said today that he was ignoring orders from Vichy to return to France with all of its embassy and consulate staff.

M. Saint Quentin, former French Ambassador to the United States, said he already had communicated with Gen. Henri Giraud, High Commissioner of French North Africa, offering full co-operation with the Giraud Government.

The Ambassador said the Vichy order did not mean a rupture of relations with Brazil, but instead a retirement of diplomatic representation.

M. Saint Quentin was appointed Ambassador to Brazil September 5, 1940, soon after his recall from Washington by the Petain Government.

Kay Francis En Route To United States

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—The Government news agency said today Kay Francis, film actress, had passed through Natal by airplane on the way from Lisbon to the United States. The date was not stated, but she was believed here to have arrived Tuesday and departed Wednesday.

CHILE POLICE CONTINUE CRACKDOWN ON NAZIS

JAN 30 1943

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 30—(AP) Police today raided a German club here under anti-spy regulations which have been rigidly enforced since Chile broke off relations with the Axis and reported the confiscation of a secret radio transmitter and documents on operations of a Nazi espionage network.

One Argentine and one Chilean complained to police that they were attacked last night by a group they identified as belonging to the "assault guard," a German organization of the Sportsverein.

It was announced that Sweden permanently will represent Japanese interests in Chile while Spain will represent the Germans and Italians.

Canada Sees Little Value In Internee's Data

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (AP).—A spokesman for the External Affairs Department last night said the Canadian government's Dr. Ernst [illegible] Hanfstaengl "was not planned to" "ordinary [illegible]" was during the time [illegible] Canada, but had the status [illegible] internee.

The spokesman said Hanfstaengl asserted he was a refugee from Hitlerism but was not a prisoner in Canada for any length of time.

"Had he been a prisoner of war, he would have been under our jurisdiction, but because of his status we were merely acting for the British government in the matter," the spokesman said.

"I doubt," he added, if they got anything more out of him than we did." The spokesman did not think any revelations which Hanfstaengl might have made in the United States would be of much value.

'Putzi' Hanfstaengl Still Being Quizzed By Officials Here

Former Nazi Press Chief Gives Information, but Warders Are Silent

JAN 30 1943

By the Associated Press.

Dr. Ernst "Putzi" Hanfstaengl, one-time foreign press chief of the Nazi party, apparently is still dispensing information about Adolf Hitler and his associates—but only to Uncle Sam.

The American-educated German who once was the Fuehrer's favorite piano player was reported by reliable sources last night to have given the Government inside information on Nazi leaders while being held incommunicado and under military guard in this country.

The officials said, however, they didn't know what use was being made of the information or what agency was questioning Hanfstaengl.

"Putzi" escaped from Germany in 1937 and later was interned in Canada as an enemy alien. He was brought to this country about 10 months ago and is quartered somewhere in or about Washington.

The State Department yesterday denied reports that Hanfstaengl is an employe of the department and the Office of War Information also declared it had never employed him.

Quizzed at Length.

He has been quizzed "at length and very carefully," a Government official said, and has "volunteered a lot of information about the Nazi party, the leaders of the party, and the personalities around Hitler."

But this source said he did not know which agency was doing the questioning or what use was being made of the information gleaned from Hansfstaengl.

It was indicated the War and State Departments both were involved in "Putzi's" removal to Washington. It was hinted he was in Army hands, but that the special arrangements for his crossing the Canadian border were made by State Department officials.

Because he is regarded as a "rather unstable genius," and has been out of touch with Germany for at least five years, he "hasn't been consulted on anything of importance," it was said.

General Data Valuable.

The virtual captive has been able, however, to give some valuable information on the Nazi party's methods of operation, the personal weaknesses of those surrounding Hitler and general background on the character of many of those whose words still have weight with the Fuehrer.

Officials expressed complete belief that Hanfstaengl's entire sympathies now are with the United Nations. This reversal was brought about by two events, it was hazarded: The enlistment of his American-born son, Egon, a Harvard University student, in the Army Air Forces a year before Pearl Harbor; and, second, the Pearl Harbor assault itself. "Putzi's" mother was an American, as was his wife, from whom he has been divorced.

Stettinius Says Lend-Lease Made Offensive War Possible

Tells House Committee British Isles Became an Impregnable Base for Launching African Drive.

Washington, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—American lend-lease aid has made the British Isles an impregnable base for offensive operations, Edward R. Stettinius, lend-lease administrator, told Congress today. He asked for continuance of lend-lease aid until July, 1944.

In testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Mr. Stettinius said that a large part of the North African campaign and the Middle East, Italian Africa, Syria and Madagascar offensives stemmed from the British Isles.

JAN 30 1943

He related that the program was resulting in supply by other United Nations of food, munitions, services, barracks and transportation to United States troops stationed in those countries, as well as making American weapons of war available to Britain, China, Russia and this nation's other allies.

The passage of legislation to extend the act appeared certain, as Republican leaders in Congress have declared they would not oppose continuance of an act which has provided billions of dollars' worth of aid to others of the United Nations, but there were demands for a detailed accounting of how the program is being carried out.

Will Give Details in Secret.

As the first witness, Mr. Stettinius told the committee that "if there is any question to be debated in connection with the lend-lease act it is to my mind the question of why we have not sent more to our Allies, not whether we should continue to send supplies to them."

At the request of Representative Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts, Mr. Stettinius promised to furnish to the committee in secret session a report on what proportion of the aid is getting through to its destination.

He disclosed that the State Department now is discussing with representatives of other governments the post-war use of such facilities as airports and docks construced with lend-lease money.

His agency, he said, was keeping a careful account of exchanges under lend-lease, but added that it was impossible to estimate the dollar value of reciprocal aid received by the United States.

Asked by Representative Eberharter, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, if aid was being forced upon nations not wanting it, he replied:

"We don't feel that that is an accurate statement."

Aid was given, he added, only when requested.

Under questioning Mr. Stettinius said that nothing is released to another nation that has "not been proved to be a war essential."

He explained that at the outset of the lend-lease program the aid went almost entirely to help win the battle of Britain, adding:

"The flow of arms, food and other materials to Britain has helped to sustain first a defensive operation and now an increasingly powerful series of offensive thrusts on the seas, in the air, and on the many land fronts of the war."

Britain is now "one of the great arsenals of democracy," he said and added:

"The pooling of United Nations resources is nowhere better illustrated than in Britain. Our troops in Britain have received as reciprocal aid such weapons and munitions of war as Spitfires, twenty-five pounder guns and other artillery, small arms, Grenades and mines.

JAN 30 1943

Lists Reciprocal Gains.

"Barracks, transportation, canteen supplies, blankets, medical supplies, have been supplied. In spite of the severe shortages which exist in the United Kingdom our fighting forces have received large quantities of British-grown food. Battle damage suffered by our fighting ships and our merchantmen has been repaired in the United Kingdom as reciprocal aid."

In discussing the aid to Australia, he said that this country was sending arms for her troops and machine tools and raw materials for her rapidly growing arsenal. In return, he said, Australia is furnishing practically all the food consumed by our men in the South Pacific area, is expanding her food program to supply the southwest Pacific area, has supplied camps, airfields, repair depots, a complete tire rebuilding and maintenance plant and numerous other items.

From New Zealand, he said, great quantities of food had been supplied to American troops, without cost to this country, so much "that eggs, milk and fruit are in short supplies and the civilian population is feeling the pinch."

He dealt at length with the situation in China, "a crucial battlefront in this global war."

"We have not," he said, "been able under lend-lease to supply all the aid that is needed in China, or that we would have liked to have supplied." He described China's heroic stand against Japan as one of the "bright chapters in the history of the world."

He told of difficulties of transportation to China before and after Burma fell and said that now even greater effort must be exerted to get supplies into China.

Stettinius said that supplies are being flown across the highest mountains in the world under almost impossible conditions.

"But they are getting through," he said. "They are getting through in pitifully small amounts in terms of what China needs, but at an accelerating rate. We will not—and we should not—stop until all ingenuity and every effort is expended to move more aid into China."

The lend-lease administrator said that food shipments to Russia have not amounted to a large proportion of our lend-lease aid in the past, but that they were being increased greatly.

Of the Egyptian campaign, he reported that between February and November, 1942, the United States exported under lend-lease and under cash purchase to Egypt over 1,000 planes, many hundreds of tanks, 20,000 trucks and hundreds of pieces of artillery.

Byrd Appeals To Senate to Reject Flynn

He Is 36th Senator to Oppose Confirmation; Only 30 in Favor of It

22 Democrats Still Are Uncommitted

Opposition Says Majority of One Can Be Obtained to Cancel Appointment

JAN 30 1943

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia, demanded today that the Senate assume the responsibility of rejecting President Roosevelt's appointment of Edward J. Flynn, former Democratic national chairman, as Minister to Australia.

Senator Byrd, who has supported the President's foreign policies but often differed with him on domestic issues, said in a statement that the appointment "will not be helpful to our war effort in the Pacific and will be resented by our ally, Australia, even though that government cannot express its displeasure."

Senator Byrd's announcement that he would vote against confirmation boosted to thirty-six the number of Senators publicly committed in opposition to the nomination, compared with thirty on record as favoring it. Twenty-two Democrats and eight Republicans remain publicly uncommitted and apparently will cast the deciding votes next week.

Opposition Claims 49 Votes

Opposition Senators assert forty-nine members, a bare majority, will vote against the nomination, but Administration strategists dispute this, asserting they have sufficient votes for confirmation.

The opposition of another Democrat, Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada, was revealed today when it became known that he had arranged to "pair" with Senator Robert R. Reynolds, Democrat, of North Carolina, a supporter of the nomination, if Senator McCarran fails to return to Washington from a Western trip in time to vote.

Senator Warren R. Aiken, Republican, of Vermont, announced for the first time that he would vote against the nomination. The opposition of Senator Eugene D. Milliken, Republican, of Colorado, was disclosed in arrangements made for him to "pair" with Senator James G. Scrugham, Democrat, of Nevada, openly committed to vote for Flynn, if either is absent.

Thus, thirty Republicans and six Democrats are committed against confirmation, with twenty-nine Democrats and a Progressive, Senator Robert M. La Follette jr., of Wisconsin, on record as supporters. Arrangements have been made to pair Senator La Follette with Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, of California, an opponent of the appointment, if Senator Johnson is absent.

Byrd Gives Opinion

Senator Byrd said he had carefully reviewed testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee and could find "no convincing statement" that Mr. Flynn was qualified "by experience or temperament for the very important duties that such an appointment assigns him."

He held it impossible for a Senate committee to "try" Mr. Flynn on the charges against Mr. Flynn's record but added that "a careful review of these charges convinces me that, to say the least, there was a lack of ethical nicety shown by Mr. Flynn which does not add either to his reputation or his stature."

He thought it unfortunate that "the issues involved in this appointment should have been precipitated," but that it would be "more unfortunate if the Senate did not perform its constitutional obligation to grant or withhold its approval of the President's nomination, acting as an independent branch of the government."

Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, of Indiana, proposed earlier that Mr. Flynn end the controversy over his appointment by requesting President Roosevelt to withdraw his name from consideration.

Senator Van Nuys, who voted against Mr. Flynn in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in what he said was a protest against the submission of controversial nominations in war time, told reporters he believed the withdrawal of Mr. Flynn's name would be a "very wholesome solution" to a situation which had found the senate almost equally divided on the question of confirmation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP).—An Army plane carrying seven commissioned officers and two non-commissioned oficers has been missing over the Caribbean since last Sunday, the War Department announced today.

Those aboard included Colonel Walter Sumpter Smith, chief of the Transport and Facilities Division of the Air Support Command, and Major Lewis H. Barringer, of Washington, chief of the Glider Production and Training Unit of the Air Support Command.

Others on the plane were First Lieutenant John L. D'Azzo, of Tampa, Fla.; First Lieutenant Anees K. Khoury, of Chester, Pa.; Second Lieutenant John T. Torello Ipilot), of 335 Orchard Street, Bridgeport, Conn.; Second Lieutenant Albert O. Bain (co-pilot), of Walsenburg, Colo.; Second Lieutenant John G. Marvin (navigator), of Cincinnati; Technical Sergeant Joseph Dragelis (engineer), of Tamaqua, Pa., and Sergeant John A. Miller (radioman), of Kaloma, Iowa.

Colonel Smith, who has been on duty with the air forces since November, 1940, formerly was chief of the airport division of the Work Projects Administration, in charge of construction of hundreds of airports by the W. P. A. throughout the country. Later he was chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority Air Safety Board and head of the interdepartmental engineering commission which built the new National Airport at Washington.

Major Barringer, former president of the Glider Society of America, has written a number of books on gliding. Born in Wayne, Pa., he attended Haverford College and Princeton University. Before entering the Army last year, he was in charge of training glider pilots for the Army Air Forces at Phoenix, Ariz.

The War Department said the plane left San Juan, P. R., Sunday and no information about it has been received since. Its destination on the flight was not disclosed.

Halsey Defends Merchant Seamen

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — Merchant seamen had the assurance today of Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., Commander of the U. S. Forces in the South Pacific, that they have displayed "co-operation, efficiency and courage" in unloading ships [illegible]

From the South Pacific Adm. Halsey reported that never had the merchant seamen refused to unload ships at Guadalcanal as charged in a report now under investtigation by a House Committee.

Under supervision of Naval officers, Halsey said, the crews of more than a dozen vessels that have reached Guadalcanal since marines landed on the island have participated in unloading all of them.

TWO TORPEDOES SINK SHIP

British Merchant Vessel Victim of Submarine Off Africa

JAN 30 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Navy reported today that a medium sized British merchant vessel was sunk in the South Atlantic off the coast of Africa in mid-October when hit by two torpedoes almost simultaneously.

The fate of thirty-five persons aboard was described as still uncertain, while fifteen survivors safely reached land, although where was not stated.

Two officers and an apprentice seaman were killed by the explosions of the torpedoes.

"While survivors were leaving the scene," the Navy said, "the submarine surfaced and circled the floating debris. The German commander, speaking English inquired the name of the merchantman and then ordered the submarine away."

The first torpedo damaged the vessel amidships and the second exploded the boilers. The vessel quickly plunged bow first to the bottom.

21 NAVY FLIERS CITED FOR ALEUTIAN CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP) Twenty-one Navy men have been advanced in rating for meritorious achievements in aerial operations in the Aleutians campaign, the Navy reported today.

Three fliers among them were described as showing "a fine example of zeal and conscientious effort to make their planes excell in combat." They also "made repeated flights on tactical missions in extremely hazardous weather conditions," the report said.

The 18 other men promoted, the Navy said, "demonstrated courage, zeal and willingness to meet the enemy in combat and participated in bombing attacks in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire."

Four U. S. Ships Sunk By Wolfpack of Subs Off South America

25 Men Lost, 28 Missing In Mass Attack on Escorted Convoy

By the Associated Press

JAN 30 1943

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 29—Apparently goaded to desperation by ever-lengthening United States convoy routes, the Axis sent a wolfpack of submarines against an escorted fleet of merchant ships off the South American coast this month and blasted four American vessels to the bottom.

Twenty-five men were lost and 28 others were missing from the four craft. Some of the missing were believed to be safe. The sinkings raised to 608 the reported number of United Nations and neutral ships lost in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

It was the first wolfpack action reported in Western Atlantic waters and news of it, told here by survivors with Navy permission, lent emphasis to warnings by high Government officials that the submarine menace remains great. Wolfpack tactics long have been used in North Atlantic convoy lanes.

First Official Admission.

Release of news of this heavy torpedo assault was the first public acknowledgement by United States naval authorities that convoys were operating to South America, although Brazilian officials had mentioned them.

The attack came at night, survivors said at Miami. The first ship hit burst into flames and a red glow lighted the scene as other torpedoes streaked through the water and roared against thre other craft, sinking them. The sea became filled with floating wreckage and swimming men.

The counter action by escort vessels and an Army bomber cannot be described. The master on one sunken vessel, Capt. Michael F. Barry, 52, of Brooklyn, asserted he would like to see those men get medals for their fine work."

Capt. Barry went down with his ship but popped to the surface and was picked up.

Signals Sub

One survivor saw [illegible] swiftly near where he [illegible] a bit of floating wood and signalled it with his flashlight. Then, he realized he was signalling an attacking submarine that had surfaced and was maneuvering to launch another torpedo.

A crewman from another ship, William O'Connor of New York, told how he clung to a packing case for 12 hours awaiting rescue. Three other men, one a youngster on his first voyage, also supported themselves on the case.

"I felt like giving up for a time, but I knew if I let go and drowned it would discourage that kid," said O'Connor. "I hung on. He was as bright and chipper as could be. Nothing worried him."

"An Army bomber was overhead," said Capt. Barry. "He flew back and forth, talking with a sub-chaser by radio, directing him from one man to another. The sea was rough, and the surface craft would never have found them all without the pilot's aid."

O'Connor took up the story:

"The bomber flew over our [illegible] case many times. Finally the ship turned and came directly to us.

"A sailor boosted me up, and when I got on board I found that this Navy ship had almost 150 survivors on her deck. The crew was fine to us. They fed us, and gave up their quarters to some of the merchant seamen."

Skipper Cleared in Ship Sinking

Captain of the Coolidge Says Court-martial Acquitted Him After Hitting 2 Mines

JAN 30 1943

San Francisco, Jan. 29 (A. P.).—Capt. Henry Nelson, skipper of the liner President Coolidge, which struck a mine and sank while being used as a troopship in the south Pacific, disclosed in an interview that he had been given a Navy court-martial and cleared in connection with the ship's loss.

Capt. Nelson, speaking at his home here yesterday, said that if the ship had not been beached quickly "we would have lost at least 45 per cent of those aboard —she would have sunk in twenty minutes."

The vessel carried 4,000 troops when it sank somewhere in the Solomons area and only four men were lost, according to announcements by the Navy and Secretary Knox on December 15 last.

Capt. Nelson said, however, [illegible] o men, crew mem- ound to have been final check-up was d, too, that his ship struck a second mine and that this blast was even more terrific than the first a few moments earlier. Earlier Navy announcements said merely that the ship struck a mine.

JAN 30 1943

Acquitted of All Blame.

The captain disclosed that he was placed in protective custody along with his officers after the sinking. The Navy flew him to a South Pacific island, held the court-martial and acquitted him of all blame, he said.

He explained his ship's loss this way:

"We contacted two destroyers prior to the entry [into a South Pacific harbor] where the ship struck the two mines. No information was given to us and no challenge was made by either of the two ships, and the first information was from a signal station in the harbor telling me to stop, that we were approaching danger.

"I in turn stopped the engines and backed the engines, but with the speed that we were carrying, we still went too far and we struck two mines. I immediately, with the speed we had left, headed the ship for the beach and ordered "Abandon ship," which was done and completed in forty-five minutes by more than 4,000 personnel for which there is only a loss of two crew members."

He said that the Coolidge sailed from a West Coast cort and was proceeding toward its second port of call when it sighted a destroyer and asked if it could provide any information.

"The answer was negative," Capt. Nelson said. "Later on, at a point which covered the harbor, we spotted a ship. He challenged me. We displayed our nationality and call letters. Nothing further was said and I proceeded in through a certain channel, which I considered the proper channel—the one we should approach.

"No one stopped me—no patrol—there was no indications of mine fields or any danger. We kept going.

"Just as we were about to enter the real harbor, a blinker message broadcast on a station ashore one word:

"'Stop.'"

The ship sank in a little more than an hour after striking the two mines.

JAN 30 1943

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT UNION WAS BEING BLOCKED CHIEFLY BY DE GAULLE, THE FIGHTING FRENCH LEADER IN LONDON, AND THERE WAS NO INDICATION THAT AN AGREEMENT REACHED AT THE RECENT CASABLANCA MEETING WAS BEING CARRIED OUT AS YET. ONE OF THE PROVISIONS OF THE AGREEMENT, IT HAS BEEN REPORTED, WAS THAT GEN.GEORGES CATROUX, WHO HAS BEEN HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR SYRIA, WOULD BE SENT TO ALGIERS TO TAKE A HIGH POST IN THE GIRAUD GOVERNMENT AND ALSO ACT AS LIAISON OFFICER BETWEEN THE TWO FRENCH MOVEMENTS.

THIS WAS TO BE DONE IMMEDIATELY BUT SINCE RETURNING TO LONDON GENERAL DE GAULLE IS SAID TO BE BALKING AT CARRYING OUT THE PLAN.

WHILE A PRIMA DONNA ATTITUDE ON THE PART OF BOTH MEN IS MAKING ANY DEFINITE SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THE TWO FRENCH MOVEMENTS EXTREMELY DIFFICULT, IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT GIRAUD IS INCLINED TO GO FARTHER TOWARD REACHING AN AGREEMENT THAN DE GAULLE.

JAN 30 1943

MEANWHILE, THE HEAD OF THE DE GAULLE MOVEMENT IN NORTH AFRICA HELD A MEETING WITH GIRAUD, AFTER WHICH HE WAS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE SAID HE WAS SATISFIED WITH GIRAUD'S PROMISES TO ALLOW THE DE GAULLIST PARTY TO OPERATE FREELY ON THE CONDITION THAT THEY STARTED NO DISORDERS IN NORTH AFRICA. DE GAULLISTS HOPE SOON TO RESUME PUBLICATION OF THEIR PAPER, WHICH HAD BEEN SUPPRESSED.

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

NEW DELHI, JAN. 28-(DELAYED)-THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL CASABLANCA CONFERENCE SEEMS BOUND TO GIVE A FURTHER LIFT TO THE ALREADY SOARING ALLIED MORALE BUT ITS CHIEF SIGNIFICANCE NATURALLY MUST BE IN ITS MILITARY IMPORTANCE AND ON THIS BASIS THERE ARE TWO OUTSTANDING FACTS TO NOTE.

FIRST, THAT THE UNITED NATIONS' WAR EFFORT HAS BEEN SO SATISFACTORY ASTO PERMIT A GREAT NEW OFFENSIVE PROGRAM WHICH THE CONFERENCE HAS LAID DOWN.

JAN 30 1943

SECOND, THAT THE ALLIED LEADERSHIP IS DISPLAYING ENERGETIC INITIATIVE IN CAPITALIZING ON THE PRESENT HIGHLY FAVORABLE MILITARY SITUATION.

THIS COMBINATION OF SUCCESS AND INITIATIVE WHICH HAS BEEN INCREASINGLY APPARENT IN RECENT MONTHS IS HAVING AN EXCELLENT EFFECT ON THE MORALE AMONG THE UNITED NATIONS IN THIS PART OF THE WORLD.

SOME INDIANS HAD BEEN ENTERTAINING DOUBTS AS TO THE LIKELIHOOD OF AN ALLIED VICTORY. HOWEVER, THE TREND OF FIGHTING IN NORTH AFRICA, RUSSIA AND THE PACIFIC APPEARS TO HAVE REMOVED THAT UNCERTAINTY.

CHINA, WHILE NOT QUESTIONING AN ULTIMATE ALLIED SUCCESS, HAS BEEN EXTREMELY DISSATISFIED WITH THE STRATEGY OF DEVOTING THE MAIN ALLIED ENERGY TO KNOCKING OUT HITLER FIRST. MY OBSERVATION IS THAT WHILE THAT FEELING STILL EXISTS CHINA IS ACCEPTING THE SITUATION MORE PHILOSOPHICALLY IN VIEW OF THE RECENT ALLIED

SUCCESSES. ONE WOULD EXPECT THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCE TO HAVE A FURTHER GOOD EFFECT AMONG OUR COMRADES.

THE DECISION TO CONTINUE OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS WHICH WILL DRAW AS MUCH WEIGHT AS POSSIBLE OFF THE RUSSIAN ARMIES IS THE LOGICAL OUTCOME OF THE TREND OF THE EUROPEAN CONFLICT.

ONE NATURALLY ENVISAGES THE BEGINNING OF NEW MAJOR OPERATIONS AGAINST HITLER.

JAN 30 1943

HOWEVER, IT STRIKES ME THAT THERE IS NO REASON TO JUMP TO THE CONCLUSION THAT THE ALLIED INITIATIVE IS TO BE CONFINED TO THE WESTERN THEATER. WHILE HITLER IS THE KEYSTONE OF THE AXIS STRUCTURE, IT IS ESSENTIAL TO KEEP THE JAPANESE SO THOROUGHLY ENGAGED THAT THEY WILL BE UNABLE TO UNDERTAKE ANY RESCUE OPERATION ON BEHALF OF THEIR GERMAN ALLY.

HITLER UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD GIVE HIS RIGHT ARM IF HE COULD PERSUADE THE JAPANESE TO ATTACK RUSSIA NOW, OR EVEN TO UNDERTAKE THE INVASION OF INDIA. THUS IT IS THE BUSINESS OF THE UNITED NATIONS TO KEEP THE MIKADO'S FORCES ON THE DEFENSE.

IT WOULDN'T BE SURPRISING, THEREFORE, TO SEE FURTHER ALLIED OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS DEVELOPING IN THE PACIFIC ALTHOUGH PRESUMABLY AN ALL-OUT DRIVE AGAINST JAPAN WON'T BE UNDERTAKEN UNTIL HITLER HAS BEEN ELIMINATED OR RENDERED HARMLESS.

THE CRUX OF THE POSITION NOW IS THAT HITLER'S BACK UNDOUBTEDLY IS BROKEN. AS A MATTER OF FACT, THIS COLUMN MADE THAT CLAIM LAST FALL WHEN IT BECAME APPARENT THAT THE GERMANS HAD BEEN STYMIED IN AN EFFORT TO CRASH INTO THE LOWER CAUCASUS AND THE MIDDLE EAST.

SINCE THEN, I HAVE PUT THE QUESTION TO MANY NOTED MILITARY MEN IN EUROPE AND ASIA AND WITHOUT EXCEPTION THEY HAVE AGREED WITH THIS VIEWPOINT. THE ONLY UNCERTAINTY REMAINING IN THEIR MINDS WAS HOW LONG IT WOULD TAKE TO FINISH THE ALL HIGHEST. THERE WERE DIFFERENCES OF OPINION ON THAT POINT BUT THE CONCENSUS WAS THAT UNLESS THE ALLIES HAD BAD LUCK OR USED POOR JUDGMENT, THEY OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO TURN THE TRICK BY THE END OF THE YEAR.

JAN 30 1943

WHAT OFFENSIVES ARE MOST LIKELY IN AN EFFORT TO ACHIEVE THIS END IS THE QUESTION.

HITLER'S STRONGEST REMAINING ASSET IS HIS ARMY. ANOTHER MOST DANGEROUS WEAPON IS HIS SUBMARINE FORCE, WHICH CONTINUES TO DEPRIVE THE ALLIES OF HUGE QUANTITIES OF SHIPPING NEEDED TO TRANSPORT MEN AND WAR EQUIPMENT TO DISTANT THEATERS. THE MENACE OF HIS GREAT AIR FORCE WHICH ONCE THREATENED THE DESTRUCTION OF ENGLAND ALREADY HAS BEEN SOLVED.

MOST MILITARY EXPERTS AGREE THAT THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY TO ANNIHILATE THE GERMAN ARMY AND THAT IS TO ENGAGE IT ON THE BATTLEFIELD. THIS MEANS THE OPENING UP OF THAT MUCH DEBATED SECOND FRONT IN EUROPE.

30 24-727

I HAVE YET TO FIND A SINGLE EXPERT WHO DOESN'T FEEL THAT THE LOGICAL WAY TO GET AT HITLER'S ARMY IS THE HARD WAY--THAT IS TO PUT AN ALLIED ARMY ASHORE IN FRANCE FROM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL AND SMASH THROUGH HIS MAIN DEFENSES. THAT WOULD INVOLVE A HUGE EXPENDITURE, OF COURSE, AND MUST BE PRECEDED BY A TERRIFIC AERIAL BOMBARDMENT.

I SHOULD SAY THAT THIS PRELIMINARY AIR ATTACK MIGHT BE EXPECTED TO START IN THE NEAR FUTURE IF THE ASSUMPTION IS CORRECT THAT SUCH A SECOND FRONT IS CONTEMPLATED.

JAN 30 1943

THERE PROBABLY ARE OTHER USEFUL SPOTS AT WHICH AN INVASION OF EUROPE COULD BE MADE. STILL, THE WAY THINGS STAND, ONE WOULD LOOK FOR THE MAJOR DRIVE TO BE MADE THROUGH THE TOUGHEST SPOT.

ANOTHER VITAL THEATER WHICH WILL BE VULNERABLE AS SOON AS THE AXIS IS DRIVEN FROM NORTH AFRICA WILL BE ITALY. IT WILL BE MORE THAN PASSING STRANGE IF THE UNITED NATIONS DO NOT STAGE A BIG OFFENSIVE AGAINST MUSSOLINI WITH THE IDEA OF REMOVING ITALY ENTIRELY FROM THE WAR. THAT WILL BE POSSIBLE ONCE THE ALLIES HAVE CONTROL OF ALL BASES OF NORTH AFRICA AND HAVE OPENED UP THE MEDITERRANEAN AGAIN TO SHIPPING.

COINCIDENT WITH THIS MUST COME AN INTENSIFICATION OF THE DRIVE AGAINST AXIS SUBMARINES. PRESUMABLY, THE IMMEDIATE SAFEGUARD OF SHIPPING MUST BE AN INCREASE OF DESTROYER ESCORTS. AS FOR THE ULTIMATE SOLUTION OF THE U-BOAT PROBLEM, THERE IS MUCH FOOD FOR REFLECTION IN A REMARK MADE TO ME SOME MONTHS AGO BY A FAMOUS EUROPEAN AIRMAN.

JAN 30 1943

"IF YOUR GARDEN IS PESTERED WITH WASPS, YOU DON'T TRY TO DESTROY

THEM BY HUNTING DOWN EACH INDIVIDUAL WASP AND KILLING HIM," HE SAID, "YOU FIND THE WASPS' NEST AND DESTROY IT. A SURE WAY TO GET HITLER'S U-BOAT FLEET IS TO WIPE OUT HIS SHIPYARDS AND BASES BY INTENSIVE BOMBING."

ONCE GERMANY HAS BEEN RENDERED IMPOTENT, IT WILL BE POSSIBLE TO CUT LOOSE THE COMBINED BRITISH AND AMERICAN AIR AND SEA FLEETS AGAINST JAPAN. THEY WILL HAVE TERRIFIC STRIKING POWER THAT NO NATION ON EARTH COULD WITHSTAND.

AS I HAVE REMARKED IN PREVIOUS ARTICLES, THE WAY THINGS LOOK OUT HERE, IT WILL BE NECESSARY TO USE INDIA AS ONE OF THE MAIN BASES. FROM HERE BURMA CAN BE RECAPTURED AND THIS WILL ENABLE THE ALLIES TO POUR EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES INTO CHINA TO EQUIP THE CHINESE ARMY, WHICH MOST CERTAINLY EXPECTS AND WANTS TO DO THE JOB OF EVICTING THE JAPANESE FROM THE ASIATIC CONTINENT.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 29-(AP)-Anti-Nazi Germans from five Latin republics organized the "Congress of the other Germany" today and called on Germans through South America to organize resistance to Hitler.

JAN 30 1943

Representatives were here from Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay. The congress prepared resolutions declaring its solidarity with the democracies, its determination to aid in crushing Hitler, proposing more energetic measures against the Nazi fifth column and demanding punishments for Nazi leaders responsible for the war.

Early last August, Count Carlo Sforza and leaders of his "Free Italy" movement met here and pursued a similar course against the Fascist regime in Italy.

WASHINGTON, JAN 29-(AP)-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SURPRISE CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS MAY HERALD A MORE ACTIVE ROLE ON THE BATTLEFRONTS OF LAND AND SEA FOR BRAZIL, TRADITIONAL FRIEND OF THE UNITED STATES AND RICH STOREHOUSE OF VITAL RAW MATERIALS.

THE MEETING CAME NOT ONLY IN THE WAKE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S MOMENTOUS STRATEGY CONFERENCE WITH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL NEXT DOOR TO THE NORTH AFRICAN BATTLEFIELD, BUT ALSO LESS THAN A MONTH AFTER THE BRAZILIAN CHIEF OF STATE HAD HINTED STRONGLY OF PLANS FOR HIS COUNTRY'S ACTIVE INTERVENTION ON THE FIGHTING FRONTS.

IT WAS ONLY A WEEK AGO, TOO, THAT REAR ADMIRAL JONAS H. INGRAM, COMMANDER OF THE UNITED STATES NAVAL FORCES IN THE SOUTH ATLANTIC, ANNOUNCING THE SINKING OF FIVE AXIS U-BOATS IN BRAZIL-

30.24-731

IAN WATERS, SAID THAT THE OPERATIONS WERE "ABSOLUTELY OFFENSIVE." HE PRAISED THE BRAZILIAN NAVY AND AIR FORCE AS "DOING A GREAT JOB."

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT THAT THE MEETING ADDED TO THE STRONG FRAMEWORK OF FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN THE TWO REPUBLICS THAT HAS EXISTED SINCE BRAZIL DECLARED ITS INDEPENDENCE IN 1822. DEMOCRATIC LEADER BARKELEY OF THE SENATE COMMENTED, FOR EXAMPLE, THAT IT WAS VERY SYMBOLIC BECAUSE IT EXEMPLIFIES UNITY AND FRIENDSHIP EXISTING BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND ALL REPUBLICS OF THE HEMISPHERE. I WISH MEETINGS OF THIS SORT COULD TAKE PLACE MORE FREQUENTLY."

THE CONFERENCE MAY ALSO BE OF SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE IN THE FUTURE STRATEGY OF THE ENTIRE HEMISPHERE IN THE FAST-MOVING GLOBAL CONFLICT. BRAZIL AND VARGAS HAVE MULTIPLIED IN STATURE IN THE LATIN AMERICAN SCENE SINCE THE RIO DE JANEIRO GOVERNMENT DECLARED WAR AGAINST GERMANY AND ITALY.

AS AN ACTIVE PARTNER OF UNCLE SAM IN THE WAR, BRAZIL HAS BECOME MORE AND MORE POTENT AT THE COUNCIL TABLES OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS IN SHARP CONTRAST TO THE INCREASINGLY ISOLATED POSITION OF HER NEIGHBOR, ARGENTINA, THE ONLY REPUBLIC MAINTAINING DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS.

JAN 30 1943

THERE IS EVERY POSSIBILITY THAT THIS HEMISPHERE POLITICAL PICTURE CAME IN FOR DISCUSSION BETWEEN THE TWO PRESIDENTS.

LIKEWISE THE VITAL ROLE BRAZIL IS PLAYING IN SUPPLYING THE UNITED STATES WITH KEY RAW MATERIALS AND THE EFFORTS OF THIS COUNTRY IN HELPING BRAZIL TO MAINTAIN ITS ECONOMY PROBABLY RECEIVED SCRUTINY FROM THE TWO LEADERS.

BRAZIL IS SPEEDING THE PRODUCTION OF CRUDE RUBBER FROM THE FABULOUS AMAZON VALLEY. SCARCE METALS, VITAL VEGETABLE OILS AND MANY OTHER PRODUCTS ARE FLOWING FROM FERTILE BRAZIL TO UNITED STATES WAR FACTORIES.

THE MOST POWERFUL AND SUCCESSFUL OF ALL ADOLF HITLER'S ALLIES IS GIVING PUBLIC NOTICE THAT SHE IS HAVING NO PART IN HIS CRUSADE AGAINST BOLSHEVISM, AT LEAST FOR THE TIME BEING. IN HIS OUTLINE OF FOREIGN POLICY TO THE PARLIAMENT YESTERDAY FOREIGN MINISTER TANI DECLARED THAT JAPAN INTENDS TO RESPECT HER NEUTRALITY PACT WITH RUSSIA AND EXPECTS RUSSIA TO RECIPROCATE.

NO ONE, OF VOURSE, TAKES TANI'S STATEMENT AS AN IRONCLAD GUARANTEE OF JAPAN'S PACIFIC INTENT. IF THE KWANTUNG ARMY SMASHED ACROSS THE AMUR INTO SIBERIA NEXT WEEK IT WOULD NOT BE THE FIRST TIME THAT JAPAN HAD ATTACKED FIRST AND DECLARED WAR LATER. RUSSIA HAD THAT EXPERIENCE AT PORT ARTHUR IN 1904, JUST AS THE UNITED STATES HAD AT PEARL HARBOR IN 1941. BUT IN THIS CASE THERE IS STRONG EVIDENCE THAT THE CIVILIAN FOREIGN MINISTER'S PEACEFUL PROFESSIONS ARE CONSONANT WITH THE REAL INTENT OF THE WARLORDS. LESS THAN A MONTH AGO GENERAL TOJO HIMSELF SAID THE REASON FOR STRENGTHENING THE JAPANESE GARRISONS ALONG THE MANCHUKUO FRONTIER WAS TO MAKE SURE THAT "TME UNDISTURBED PROGRESS OF THE EASTERN ASIATIC WAR (AGAINST AMERICA, BRITAIN AND CHINA) IS GUARANTEED."

IF THERE EVER WAS A CHANCE THAT JAPAN WOULD ATTACK RUSSIA TO HELP HITLER--WHICH TO THIS WRITER SEEMS DOUBTFUL--THAT POSSIBILITY HAS BEEN REDUCED ALMOST TO THE VANISHING POINT BY THE RED ARMY'S DISPLAY OF RESURGENT POWER ON TME VOLGA AND THE DON. AN IRONIC FEATURE OF THE SITUATION IS THAT THERE IS GOOD REASON FOR BELIEF THAT HITLER ENCOURAGED YOSUKE MATSUOKA TO SIGN THAT NEUTRALITY PACT AT MOSCOW AT EASTER TIME IN 1941 AS PART OF THE ELABORATE CAMOUFLAGE

WITH WHICH HE TRIED TO MASK REPARATIONS FOR HIS INVASION OF RUSSIA JUST TEN WEEKS LATER. THE JAPANESE FELT THEMSELVES TRICKED AND MANY OF THEM HAVE NEVER FORGIVEN THE FUEHRER FOR THAT EMBARRASSMENT.

THOSE FIRST ESTIMATES OF JAPAN'S ATTACK ON THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN AS HYSTERICAL AND SUICIDAL OR, ON THE OTHER HAND, AS PART OF A FAR-REACHING AXIS MASTER PLAN, LONG SINCE HAVE BEEN REPLACED. IT IS REALIZED NOW THAT IT WAS THE RESULT OF COLD-BLOODED, LONG-RANGE CALCULATION IN WHICH JAPAN'S INTERESTS ALONE WERE CONSIDERED AND IN WHICH THE IMMEDIATE TASKS AND ULTIMATE RISKS WERE WEIGHED CAREFULLY AGAINST PROBABLE GAINS. THE GAMBLE WAS JUDGED WELL WORTH THE TAKING. EVIDENCE ACCUMULATES THAT AN ATTACK ON RUSSIA WAS NO PART OF THE PROJECT, IN WHICH ANY AID AND COMFORT THAT MIGHT BE GIVEN GERMANY AND ITALY WAS LARGELY COINCIDENTAL. JAN 31 1943

THE PLAN OF CAMPAIGN ADOPTED WAS THAT OF THE "SOUTH SEAS" EXPANSIONISTS IN WHICH NAVAL LEADERS--AS DISTINGUISHED FROM THE BLACK DRAGON-KWANTUNG ARMY CLIQUE--ARE PREDOMINANT. THE NAVY-FOSTERED EXPANSION PROGRAM IS RUNNING INTO SERIOUS DIFFICULTIES NOW IN THE SOLOMONS, NEW GUINEA AND ELSEWHERE IN THE "SOUTH SEAS." THE TIME MAY COME, THEREFORE, WHEN THE CONTINENTALISTS, THE KWANTUNG ARMY CLIQUE, WILL DEMAND A REVERSION TO ITS GENERATION-OLD SCHEMES FOR SEIZURE OF EASTERN SIBERIA. BUT THE CURRENT TREND OF THE WAR, ESPECIALLY IN RUSSIA, DOES NOT ENCOURAGE THE BELIEF THAT SUCH A CHANGE IS IMMINENT.

THIS HAS ITS OBVERSE SIDE FOR THE UNITED NATIONS. AS LONG AS JAPAN HONORS HER MOSCOW PACT THE CHANCES OF RUSSIA'S PLUNGING INTO THE PACIFIC WAR REMAIN REMOTE. JOSEPH STALIN'S ABSENCE FROM THE CASABLANCA MEETING SUPPORTS THIS ESTIMATE OF THE SITUATION. FOR THE RUSSIAN LEADER THE PURPOSE THAT OVERSHADOWS ALL OTHERS IS EXPELLING THE INVADERS FROM SOVIET TERRITORY AND MAKING HIS WESTERN FRONTIERS IMPREGNABLE.

UNTIL THAT IS DONE THE EASTERN QUESTIONS OF THE EASTERN BORDER CAN WAIT--UNLESS JAPAN ATTACKS. JAN 31 1943

THE CAGEY ADMIRALS AND GENERALS IN TOKYO SEEM EQUALLY INCLINED TO LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE. FOR THE UNITED NATIONS THIS MEANS THAT ANY PLANS FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF JAPAN BASED ON THE EASY ASSUMPTION THAT EVENTUALLY WE SHALL HAVE SIBERIAN BASES FOR BOMBING OF TOKYO AND OSAKA REST ON A MOST UNSUBSTANTIAL FOUNDATION.

Hewitt Was Cool Through It All

Admiral Responsible for Debarkation in Morocco Slept Well on Voyage.

JAN 31 1943

An East Coast Port, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—The convoy—one of the biggest in the world's history—zigzags a crazy quilt course across the submarine-infested Atlantic. There are troop transports, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, ammunition ships, minelayers and supply ships.

Many men planned the movement of these men and ships, but one man carried the responsibility of the entire operation: the successful landing of American troops in Africa. If you picture him as wild-eyed, nervously pacing the bridge of the convoy's flagship, spurning food and sleep in anxiety—you are badly mistaken.

"I had quite a lot on my mind, but I slept pretty well, and I ate too much and put on weight," Vice-Admiral Henry Kent Hewitt said in his first exclusive interview since his amphibious forces put the A. E. F. safely ashore on Africa's beaches.

"You do everything you can—then you hope for the best," he said tersely.

"One of our biggest worries," the Admiral related, "was caused by weather reports showing that surf conditions on the West African coast were favorable for troop-landing operations on an average of only five days per month."

However, when the great armada dropped anchor eight miles off the Moroccan coast on the morning of November 8, "conditions were fine. But on the morning of November 9 we could not have landed. So, you see that Providence had quite a little to do with our success.'

Many Things to Consider.

In planning the big operation, Admiral Hewitt pointed out, "we had to consider the presence of the French battleship Jean Bart, a cruiser, destroyers and about a dozen submarines at Casablanca. There was also the French squadron at Dakar and an unknown number of Axis submarines off the African coast."

It was planned to land at three principal points—at Fedhala, at Safi and at Mehdia. "We had one rehearsal in United States waters," the stocky, gray-haired officer disclosed. "Troop elements which were to land at Fedhala were rehearsed in landings. The groups that were to land at the other two places were sent out for a week's training.

"The troops were organized into combat teams, each team being a cross-section of infantry, artillery and anti-tank units."

A firing range was established on an uninhabited island for the benefit of escort ships which were to provide artillery support for the African landing operations.

All the transports were loaded and the first section sailed late in October in a southeasterly direction, escorted by cruisers and destroyers. On the following day the second section sailed. The two sections joined at sea. A heavy covering force of battleships and other craft had sailed from one port and Air Force units had sailed from another to join the convoy.

Admiral Hewitt laughed as he recalled the little merchant ship left behind because she had been delayed by repairs. Loaded to the gunwales with gasoline and bombs—"she was a roman candle," said the Admiral—the ship sailed later without escort, and churning a straight course while "we wandered all over the ocean," she overtook the convoy some 300 miles short of its destination. "The lieutenant in command of her was determined to be in on the show," the Admiral said with a chuckle.

This ship delivered her gasoline and bombs at an important air field at Port Lyautey following capture of the field by troops carried up the Sebou River aboard a destroyer. In its upstream advance the destroyer encountered fierce resistance from units of the French Foreign Legion stationed in an old Moorish fort, and had to ram a submarine net the French had stretched across the river.

Admiral Hewitt said the destroyer employed in this operation was one of three old "cans" taken along for special operations. The other two, their masts removed, paved the way for the landing of an armored force at Safi.

A group of Mosquito light bombers, Britain's fastest, swept over the German capital precisely at 11 A. M. to hurl explosives on the city and to throw into an hour's confusion the start of Goering's broadcast. From the German radio, which never left the air, listeners here heard muffled shouts and the explosion of what may have been bombs or anti-aircraft guns.

At noon the Nazi capital was raided again and one bomber failed to return from the second foray, it was announced here tonight. All had returned safely from the first.

In Hitler's absence, "with his soldiers," his address was read by Goebbels to an audience of 10,000 in the Sportspalast. Goebbels, in a speech preceding the reading, declared that "only nations that speak of capitulation go under; the word 'capitulation' never existed in our vocabulary and never will."

JAN 31 1943

Says Germans Must Fight.

Hitler's proclamation told the German people: "We must fight on doggedly until the whole continent has been saved. The blows we may suffer are nothing in comparison to what they would be if barbarism swept across Europe."

The only previous occasion on which Hitler failed to address the German people on the Nazi anniversary was in 1938 when he contented himself with reviewing troops in Berlin and awarding prizes to civilians for their accomplishments in arts and sciences.

Although no details of the raid were announced immediately, it was considered possible that the swift Mosquitos had swept across Germany at tree-top level to evade and confuse the defending German fighter planes and anti-aircraft defenses. The Berlin radio did not leave the air at any time during the raid.

The R. A. F. chose its fastest light bomber for the spectacular foray. The sleek, twin-motored Mosquito was named because of its slim lines. Its skin is of plywood, which eliminates rivet heads and enhances its speed—reputedly close to 400 miles an hour.

The Berlin radio subsequently issued this statement: "Three British planes penetrated into Germany under the cover of thick clouds today. This operation was carried out for propaganda purposes only."

Goering Threatens British.

In a ninety-minute speech Goering promised the Germans ultimate victory. Originally scheduled to speak at 11 A. M.—the hour the Mosquito bombers struck—he finally got under way at noon, apparently a few minutes after the raiders had passed. Goering had once promised the German people that British bombers would never cross their frontiers. Today he said that the British will be repaid for this affront.

Goering went on to say that there will be a new Nazi offensive in the spring, and declared: "On the day we finally crush the Bolshevik resistance, I will remember what the R. A. F. has done to Germany."

Speaking in an unusually subdued voice, Goering continued in part:

"Der Fuehrer is the greatest German in history. . . .

"Europe can exist only if Germany is strong. . . . Democracy means exploitation of the working people, Bolshevism means slavery for the people, slavery and misery, and both are waging war against us. . . .

"This is a fight of philosophies and races. Though some may say it is imagination, we believe in it: our Nordic, Germanic race is the bearer of the highest culture and the highest values.

"We believed . . . that the war would be over soon. The East was not regarded as a danger. We . . . had just seen how a war had gone in the East. A small, incredibly courageous nation had withstood the Russians. Thus what kind of danger could threaten the Reich from the East?

"It was very hard and required the entire hardness of last winter to see that the first war against Finland was possibly the cleverest and greatest camouflage in history. While the Russians let some armies fight in Finland, partly with superannuated arms, they had built up over a decade and a half the most gigantic armament ever produced by a nation. . . .

"The icy Russian winter broke upon us with incredible severity and force. . . . But here again it was, above all, Der Fuehrer who, despite all weaklings who were whining before him, held the Eastern front with his strength. And from this strength and his genius when the days grew longer the German Army started a new gigantic push and beat the enemy in battle after battle, when the world believed that the German Army had been smitten to the ground.

Goering credited the death struggle of the German forces trapped at Stalingrad with having upset the Russian winter offensive.

"If the German defenders in Stalingrad had failed to concentrate upon themselves sixty, seventy, or even eighty Soviet divisions, then the Soviet attempts at a break-through probably would have succeeded."

Goebbels for Der Fuehrer.

Goebbels, before he read Der Fuehrer's proclamation, denied that Germany would be placed under martial law, declaring that there was no necessity for this as the people were united and willing to make any and all sacrifices for victory.

"If they think we have no reserves left, they will soon see them," he declared. "Only nations that speak of capitulation go under. The word capitulation has never existed in our vocabulary and never will."

Goebbels warned the German people that they faced hard punishment if they failed to give the utmost to the war effort.

"Attempts to sabotage the German war effort will be suppressed by the severest penalties," he warned. "Defense regulations we shall make will be binding on every one, and no exceptions can be made."

Alluding to the entrapped German Army before Stalingrad, he said that: "In a thousand years to come every German will still know that Germany, at Stalingrad, has set the final stamp to ultimate victory. A people which fight as the Germans are fighting at Stalingrad can and must win."

During the long interval before the start of Goering's speech, the announcer kept saying at frequent intervals: "There will be a few more minutes' delay in Marshal Goering's speech." At least one loud "bang" was clearly audible to London radio listeners, who had received no previous hint that the RAF was raiding the capital.

It was the second time since he was appointed chancellor by President Paul von Hindenburg 10 years ago that Hitler himself had not addressed the German people on the anniversary. The streets were unadorned with flags, and it was a somber day in the Nazi capital even before the bombs began to fall from the winter sky.

In the great night raids of January 16 and 17 on the German capital the RAF employed its biggest four-motored bomb-carriers, each capable of freighting 8 or 10 tons of "block busters" or other explosives.

Informed sources here said today's daylight attack obviously was not on so large a scale of destruction.

Deceived by Strength.

Goering made a left hand admission that Germany had been deceived by Russia's strength on the basis of the Red Army's showing in the Finnish war, which he said was "the cleverest camouflage known in the history of the world."

He harped repeatedly on the need for German unity.

"Today we are united and shall fight to the very last for our way of life," Goering declared. "One of our enemies is also united and conditioned by a way of life. Russia would long ago have collapsed had it not been for the strength this gives her."

Addressing himself to the German Army, the Reichsmarshal said, "many of you experienced the rigors of the Russian winter and the weakness of certain German commanders.

"It was then that the fuehrer, with his display of toughness, held the whole German front himself."

Tries to Bolster Spirit.

After recounting the hardships encountered in the Russian campaign, Goering attempted to bolster the German spirit with the assertion "I am convinced that Russia is now using her last reserves."

Goering announced that Hitler had ordered the mobilization of all remaining resources of Germany.

Turning to what he called Russia's deception in the Finnish war, Goering said, "We had seen a small but gallant nation (Finland) fight heroically for many months against this vast empire and we thought 'What danger can possibly come from that empire in the east?'"

"It required all the hardships of last winter to realize that Russia's war against Finland was perhaps the cleverest, greatest camouflage in world history," Goering said.

"While the Russians had few armies fighting Finland with partly equipped obsolete arms they spent the last decade and a half building up the most powerful armaments which ever had been made by any nation."

The observation came from the man who long and often boasted Germany had the world's best and most powerful war tools.

Vast Military Machine.

The Russians were able to build up a vast military machine, Goering contended, "because their armaments were made not by a free people, but by slaves * * * all Russians made nothing else. They had nothing to make life more beautiful.

Goering conceded, "It is not easy to fight Russia. Our enemy is hard, his leadership barbaric and disobedience means death."

The Reichsmarshal said it was Hitler's celebrated intuition that dictated the Nazi attack on Russia.

"The strength of the Russians was known," he said apparently contradicting other parts of his speech, "but the Fuehrer's intuition warned him we must attack all the same."

Fast Mosquitos Bomb Nazi Capital, One Plane Lost.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON, Jan. 30—British planes making their first daylight raid in history on Berlin today twice crashed Hitler's gloomy tenth anniversary party, and their bombs upset the broadcast explanations of Reichsmarshal Goering and Propaganda Minister Goebbels as to why the German armies are meeting reverses in Russia.

Hitler told the German people in a proclamation on the tenth anniversary today of his rise to power that they must win the war or be enslaved by Bolshevists.

In the Fuehrer's absence, Goebbels read the address before an audience of 10,000 persons at the Sports-palast.

Hitler was reported off somewhere "with his soldiers" when the R.A.F.'s fast Mosquito bombers struck precisely at 11 a. m., Berlin time, as the be-medalled Goering was ready to talk at the Air ministry in the heart of Berlin.

Explosions Heard on Radio

Explosions could be heard over the Berlin radio here in London. There were shouts, too, indicating turmoil within the ministry as the plump Goering and his audience scrambled for shelter.

The Berlin radio remained on the air to advise listeners from time to time that "there will be a few more minutes' delay in Marshal Goering's speech."

The delay lasted until noon, an hour later.

Then at 4 p. m., the Mosquitos struck again, this time as Goebbels was beginning to talk in the Sportspalast. The propaganda minister had been delegated by Hitler to read a proclamation spoken to his people on the anniversary of his rise to power in 1933.

One Mosquito Lost

No British planes were lost in the first raid, and only one was missing after the second attack.

The R.A.F. pilots roared over Berlin at a high level instead of usual rooftop height employed by these swift bombers that can carry four 500-pound bombs and attain speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

The British raids apparently were heavy only in a psychological way. Berliners were kept busy running to shelter and keeping an eye on the sky while listening to their leaders simultaneously spur them to total effort and threaten death to shirkers.

Neither Hitler, Goering, nor Goebbels tried to predict when the promised German victory would come. Goering dwelt for some time in his 90-minute talk on why Germany ever attacked Russia in the first place, finally attributing it to Hitler's "intuition."

He said the Russians had grossly "camouflaged" their inept 1939-40 winter war against Finland, then in an apparent contradiction of himself later said that Germany knew the Soviet's true strength when the Nazis invaded Russia.

Severe Penalties for Sabotage

Goebbels made a long speech promising severe penalties for any attempted sabotage of the German war effort before reading Hitler's proclamation. Even while he was speaking a Reuters dispatch from Zurich said 17 German workers at Dusseldorf had been condemned to death for sabotage.

The second raid did not delay Goebbels' speech and the reading of Hitler's proclamation as far as could be determined here. British listeners heard nothing to compare with the confusion caused by the first raid.

Britions of course were jubilant over this double slap at the Germans which was timed perfectly for its most embarassing effect on Nazi leaders.

One returning pilot, Sergt. J. Massey, was quoted by the Air ministry news service as saying: "We made for the center of Berlin and bombed. Only one thing startled me—the stillness over Berlin. We saw only one squirt of flak on the way out."

Another said Berlin resembled a "spider web," and an officer asked him "Did you get the spider?"

Emden Naval Base Raided

British bombers during the day also raided the Emden naval base and other targets in northwest Germany. Wellingtons were used on these attacks, and four were lost.

After the excitement of the first raid on Berlin the Germans sought to minimize its effects with this broadcast:

"Three British planes pentrated into Germany under the cover of thick clouds today. This operation was carried out for propaganda purposes only."

(A BBC broadcast heard in New York by CBS said Goering had other troubles besides "Mosquitos." After he got started again on his broadcast speech he was interrupted several times by a ghost voice heckling him on the same wavelength, and saying: "You surely don't believe that.")

Goebbels read Hitler's proclamation several hours after the Goering speech, and introduced it with a talk of his own in which he said "Capitulation has never existed in our vocabulary and it never will . . If they think we have no reserves left, they will soon see them."

Recalls Nazi Party History

Hitler devoted a large part of his proclamation to Nazi party history, picturing himself and the party as

Text of Hitler Proclamation

JAN 31 1943

JAN 31 1943

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The complete text of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's proclamation to the German people today, as read by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels over the Berlin radio and recorded and translated at London, follows:

Today is the tenth anniversary of the day on which Reich President Paul von Hindenburg handed over to me the responsibility for the leadership of the Reich.

The fourteen-year struggle for power of the National Socialist (Nazi) movement, which from the smallest beginnings became by far the strongest party of the Reich and then proclaimed itself a legal government, thereby reached a successful conclusion.

Assumption of responsibility only took place after all other parties had proved their inability to lead Germany. The Reich was suffering from the consequences of defeat after a war which she did not want and for which she was in no way prepared.

After a historic resistance which could not be broken by any enemy throughout four years of struggle, defeatist elements both from within and from without forced her into open revolution.

The American President Wilson with his fourteen points conjured up a vision of future peace which was eagerly seized upon by the German people—more so as there had been no positive war aims either among the great masses or among leading personalities.

The nation was fighting for its mere existence, and some sections of the population were therefore almost grateful to have a peace of conciliation and understanding offered it.

Immediately after the German people had thus been induced to give up their arms there came a historic swindle, a breach of promise such as world history had never known before.

Instead of a peace of conciliation and understanding came the dictate of Versailles, which debased the German nation and the nations allied to her to the level of slaves, made them militarily defenseless, deprived them of their political rights and in the economic sphere destroyed them for an incalculable period. All that was done to the German people from 1919 to 1933 in the way of wrong suppression, economic exploitation and political discrimination hit not the National Socialist but the democratic-Marxist Germany. Every attempt by the democratic, Catholic and Marxist parties to appease the world by appeal to a similar mentality which they presumed to be in existence or to make the world realize the senselessness of this dictatorship of force failed.

With toughness and persistence international Jewry first attempted to plunder the nation by capitalistic means in order to make her economy right for Jewish Bolshevism.

The madness of the so-called Versailles peace treaty, however, not only led to the destruction of German economy but equally laid waste the economic life in other countries, too, including the so-called victor states.

Toward the end of 1932 the world found itself in the throes of a steadily growing economic crisis.

Unemployment oppressed not only the German people but also the rich countries of the West, and especially the United States. During the winters of 1932-'33 the number of unemployed in Germany had risen to 7,000,000 and part-time workers to a similar figure.

The British mother country, which ruled one-quarter of the earth, had 2,500,000 unemployed.

The United States, with gigantic natural resources and unlimited fertility, had some 13,000,000 unemployed.

In Germany itself conditions of everyday life corresponded to the economic crisis.

Split up into innumerable parties and impeded by the selfish shortsightedness of representatives of individual German states as well as by the interest of various professions and parties, it appeared hopeless for any German government by old methods and with the forces at their disposal to deal successfully with the most urgent tasks, even the mere preservation of life for our people.

The internal decay of the nation made such progress that transition to chaos appeared to be the only possible solution.

While the Jewish party leaders and business hyenas on one side destroyed the political and economic basis of life to an ever growing extent, the same Jewish agitators were faced with the need of a Bolshevik revolution.

It was clear that if fourteen years of Marxism, democracy and parliamentism had managed to ruin Germany, one year of Bolshevism would have sufficed to destroy Germany completely.

The German people were disunited, rotten internally, overburdened and disrupted by debts of the rich and the states facing complete bankruptcy.

Some 14,000,000 working people had either not enough or no work at all. Economic life collapsed. Commerce ceased, shipping and transport continued to shrink.

The farmer lost his farm home. Joy of life began to wane, and a declining birthrate made the eventual end of the nation a mathematical certainty.

This, therefore, was the heritage handed over to me on Jan. 30, 1933, and for which I took responsibility.

In my first proclamation to the German people as German Chancellor I announced, in the name of the then government of the Reich, my decision to unite the nation as a prerequisite to any new uprising, to look after its rights to the best of my knowledge and according to my conscience against lunatic passions within our frontiers as well as against blackmail of the outer world.

I promised to liquidate unemployment and to prevent the German peasant from being evicted.

I asked the German people for four years to repair the destruction and decay of fourteen years..

Before four years were over the last unemployed man was back on the job.

The Jewish assault on the soil of the peasant was repulsed. Security of tenure on the land was obtained.

Industry and the economic system began to prosper again. Finances of the central and local governments were put in order. We revived the transport, improved roads and railways, built canals and began the construction of highways.

Revival of the cultural life went hand in hand with the revival of economic life. Architecture, drama, music, the cinema and broadcasting had an unprecedented boom.

All was dominated by one aim—to let the mass of the people participate in the material and cultural riches of the nation.

Without regard to birth, class or occupation of parents, every gifted child of our nation should have the chance of education at the expense of the nation and thus be given the chance of rising socially.

All that has been done since 1933 in Germany under new leadership in economy, culture and social development is so unique that nothing in a democratic country can be compared with it.

Only Fascist Italy has done anything comparable in its internal construction, thanks to the Duce.

All this could only be accomplished by concentrating all forces of the nation, directing them unitedly towards goals which were recognized as necessary.

Thus countless symptoms of our internal decay were removed within a few years.

A Germany of concentrated strength replaced the Weimar Reich torn between concessions, parties and classes and vegetating in impotence.

A single popular movement replaced the general party system of mischief.

Parliaments of state were replaced by one common representation of the German people in the Reichstag. Employers and employees were merged in the German labor front.

The film and radio ceased to be elements of decomposition of our body politic and were put to the service of national unity.

The tremendous work of legislation created the basis of the new German Reich, the like of which never existed in history.

Thanks to the inner strength of our people thus gained, the possibility of a solution of external problems was achieved.

During these long years I time and again made to the world practical propositions for sensible limitation of armaments and for loyal collaboration.

Historians will one day establish that never before were the peaceful propositions of a man met with more hatred than mine. When Germany became the example of a peaceful solution of social problems and economic difficulties, capitalist Bolsheviks interested in the exploitation of nations began to hate the new Germany.

International Jewry, in particular, increased its agitation against the new Germany, which was neither willing to bow to the national stock exchange interests nor to be intimidated by Bolshevik threats.

Only after all my suggestions for general limitation of armaments had been turned down did I order the creation of the new German Wehrmacht.

Only today do we realize fully what would have become of Germany and Europe if fate had not handed power to National Socialism on Jan. 30, 1933.

Germany of the old system would not have remained, as its political and economic misery and military helplessness would have produced ever-increasing impotence in relation to the outside world.

During the same period Bolshevism for ten years carried on planned rearmament of truly gigantic proportions for a surprise attack on Europe.

What would have become of the German people and Europe if on June 22, 1941, the German Wehrmacht had not shielded the Continent at the last moment?

Who is going to believe that the ridiculous guaranty by the Anglo-Saxon statement would have saved the world from the surprise attack by a power which knew only one goal for twenty years?

This goal was to hurl herself on Europe and annihilate its culture, but, above all, to exterminate its men in order to gain slave labor for Siberia.

What state besides Germany would have been able to stand up to that danger?

The major part of Europe has rallied round Germany since the saviors of Germany. He ranted against the Versailles treaty, against Russia, the democracies, and "international Jewry" in the familiar pattern.

With Germany in the midst of mobilizing all males from 16 to 65 and all females from 17 to 45, Hitler promised death to all shirkers in a total war effort that he said must be further increased.

"Each one," he said, "who attempts to evade his duty will be destroyed."

Hitler touched only briefly on the staggering German losses at Stalingrad, which not long ago he vowed would be taken, and he did not promise any victory dates.

"We must not expect Providence to give victory without cost," he said.

Brief Reference to Stalingrad

His only references to Stalingrad were these:

"The heroic struggle of our soldiers on the Volga should inspire everybody to do their utmost.

"From the far north to the African coast, from the Atlantic to the vast spaces of the east, from the Aegean to Stalingrad, rings the epic story which will survive for thousands of years."

As did Goebbels and Goering, Hitler stressed the win-or-perish theme. He said:

"People will go on waging this war until a new January 30 merges with a clear decision—an unequivocal victory."

Goering's speech was a mixture of explanation for Nazi reverses, an appeal for German unity, an indirect supplication to battered Axis allies and neutral countries for aid, a threat of retaliation for R.A.F. raids, and a hope that Russian energy and reserves had been spent on the eastern front.

Makes Contradictory Speech

In fact, Goering even sought to explain why Germany ever attacked Russia, and in the opinion of observers his speech was contradictory in this respect.

"It required all the hardships of last winter to realize that Russia's war against Finland (1939-40) was perhaps the cleverest, greatest camouflage in world history," he said.

"We had seen a small but gallant nation (Finland) fight heroically for many months against this vast empire (Russia) and we thought 'What danger can possibly come from that empire in the east?'"

Later, after making this reference to the "camouflaged" Russian war against Finland before Germany attacked Russia the following year, Goering said:

"While the Russians had few armies fighting Finland with partly equipped obsolete arms they spent the last decade and a half building up the most powerful armaments which ever had been made by any nation."

Still later: "The strength of the Russians was known, but the Fuehrer's intuition warned him we must attack all the same."

He recounted the hardships encountered in the Russian campaign a year ago—when "the Fuehrer, with his display of toughness, held the whole German front himself."

"I am convinced," he said in an obvious reference to Russia's present and even greater winter offensive, "that Russia is now using her last reserves."

At another point he said Russian losses were so huge that "icy-cold shudders run down one's back if one sees these losses." He did not mention German casualties.

Emphasizes Russia's Strength

The man who once boasted that Germans had their choice between guns and butter, and chose guns, kept emphasizing Russia's strength and the need of German unity to combat it.

"Russia hardly had pencils for the people in general," he said. "The whole industry worked with a single aim and Russia placed emphasis only on the four branches of her arms, namely tanks, anti-tank guns, airplanes and anti-aircraft defense.

"It is not easy to fight Russia. Our enemy is hard, his leadership barbaric, and disobedience means death."

Goering kept stressing, too, what he said was the danger to all Europe of a Russian victory. This was seen as an appeal to Axis allies to stand firm, and also an attempt to recruit presently neutral states against Russia.

"Bolshevism would not halt at the Swedish or Swiss or any other border," in the event of a German collapse, he said. "Bolshevism would flood Europe to its extreme corner."

He recalled the visit to Berlin of Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia. That was after Germany had sought and gained a non-aggression pact with Russia, only to attack the Soviets on June 22, 1941.

Goering said Molotov hinted that a good understanding was possible if Germany would close her eyes to a second attack on Finland.

"The Russian would have immediately stretched out his hand to the Swedish ore fields and secure for himself ice free ports," he said in developing this theme. "He wanted to take Rumania and from there advance into the Balkans via Bulgaria."

In what may have been a reference to increasing discontent in Germany over reverses in Russia, Goering next said:

"It must be the greatest shame for a German if he, instead of working or fighting, is gas-bagging and criticizing. He must be exposed to the disdain of the whole nation."

Calls Stalingrad Troops Heroes

Goering was more specific than Hitler about the situation at Stalingrad where the Russians trapped 220,000 men of Col. Gen. Friedrich Paulus' Sixth army and now are killing or capturing the last few thousand survivors.

He said:

"The fighters of Stalingrad have now taken the burden of this heroic struggle on their shoulders. Had they not brought these 60 or 70 or even 80 Russian divisions on themselves, had they also broken out then with the others, the Russians would probably have attained their objective.

"Now they are too late. German resistance has been organized. It could be organized and new lines fortified because out there—in the wreckage of that town—heroes fought and are still fighting."

30.24-741

1941 in the fight against the menace from the east.

Today there are only two alternatives: either Germany and her allies win or the central Asiatic flood from the east will surge over the oldest civilized continent.

All other events pale before the grandeur of this gigantic struggle.

If the new onslaught of central Asia against Europe is successful the world today will break up, just as the ancient world once was broken up by the onslaught of the Huns.

Human labor of several thousand years would have been in vain. Chaos would take place on the most flourishing Continent of Europe and unimaginable barbarism would take the place of culture.

When France and Britain in 1939 declared war on Germany without any reason, they accomplished unconsciously a good thing.

JAN 30 1943

They started the biggest conflict in history just at the moment when the Reich was at the summit of its strength. Everything accomplished since 1933 recedes in comparison with the task which faces us today.

We believe in victory because we are convinced that, provided this nation has the right leadership, it can overcome all danger and all burdens. We believe in victory because we fought it out with the same enemies before.

It depends on us alone to unstand the meaning of this war and to carry on struggle with such determination as long as necessary, until this continent can finally be regarded as safe. Such individual blows of fate as may fall on us in this struggle are nothing compared with what we would suffer if the barbaric force from the east rolled across our continent.

Every single life lost in this struggle will insure the life of future generations. In this tremendous struggle we must not expect Providence to give victory without cost. Every individual and every nation will be weighed in the balance and whoever is found wanting must fall.

That is why I said on Sept. 1, 1939, that whatever might come, neither time nor armed force could overcome the German nation.

There has been nothing in history to match the victories of Germans and their allies gained in this war.

In this war there will be neither victor nor vanquished, but only those who survive and those who are destroyed.

The National Socialist state will continue the struggle with the fanaticism which our movement had from its birth.

On June 30, 1942, I said that any weakling can take victories —only strong men can take the blows of fate.

Last winter the Jews in the plutocracies thought they saw the collapse of the German Army. That did not happen.

This winter they hope for the same thing. But they will see that the strength of the National Socialist idea is greater than their desire.

JAN 30 1943

The longer the war goes on, the more people will be united and allied with the faith. Each one will be spurred on to fulfill his duty. Each one who attempts to evade his duty will be destroyed.

People will go on waging this war until a new Jan. 30 emerges with a clear decision—an unequivocal victory.

I am filled with the deepest gratitude to all those who have shared in my work. But I must thank no less the millions of unknown German men and women who in factories, offices, railway stations, private and state enterprises put their skill and labor at our disposal. Since Sept. 1, 1939, my first thanks have been due our soldiers, marshals, admirals, generals and other officers, and especially the hundreds of thousands and millions of non-commissioned officers and soldiers.

The proud achievements of our army, navy and air force will go down in history crowned with laurels of immortality.

From the Far North to the African coast, from the Atlantic to the vast spaces of the east from the Aegean to Stalingrad, rings the epic story which will survive for thousands of years.

The home front has the duty of remaining worthy of the deeds of our soldiers.

Hitherto town and country have made enormous contribution to the war effort. Now the total labor of our nation must still further be increased.

The heroic struggle of our soldiers on the Volga should inspire everybody to do their utmost. Our enemies have decided to threaten peaceful towns and villages with cruel annihilation. Though they can destroy the houses of the people, they cannot break our spirit, but only strengther it.

What many German men and women did not know at the beginning of this war is now clear to them. That struggle which has been forced upon us by the same enemies as 1914 is a struggle to decide the continued existence or destruction of our people.

God will be a just judge. But our task is to do our duty so that we may appear worthily before Him, according to his laws of struggle for existence.

If we spare no life and shun no labor to preserve the life of our people for the future, then one day a great hour will strike and our people will be free from their external enemies.

Out of the sacrifices of the dead, from the ruins of our towns and villages, a new life will blossom forth to continue building the state in which we believe and for which we work —the Germanic state of the German nation.

From this sacrifice we will raise a home in which all the men and women of our nation may live—the National Socialist Greater German Reich.

But we must have for all time the necessary strength to protect the European family of nations from the dangers of the east. The Greater German Reich and nations allied to it will have a secure "lebensraum" (living space) in common, which is indispensable for the material existence of those peoples.

Flags and Music Missing in Glum Berlin Fete Day

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—Not since Adolf Hitler was appointed Reichschancellor in 1933 had the Germans observed the anniversary in such a somber and foreboding atmosphere as today.

Even the flags which gave Berlin and all Germany a gala air on previous anniversaries were ordered furled by Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

Reds Seize Oil and Rail Cities, Accelerate Drive on Rostov From South

Giant Tanks Smash Nazis East of Kursk

Russians Advance Toward Krasnodar on Line Leading to Kerch Straits

JAN 30 1943

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (Sunday) (AP).—Maikop, the center of the only oil resources ever captured by Adolf Hitler in his 1942 drive for precious Caucasus motor fuel, has been recaptured by the Red Army, the Russians announced early today in a special communique.

Aside from depriving the Germans of the only oil resources they ever gained in their efforts of a year and a half, the Russians seized the vital railway junction of Tikhoretsk, ninety-five miles south of Rostov, the announcement said.

[Moreover, said the regular midnight communique, as recorded in London by the Soviet monitor from a Moscow broadcast, the Russians made important advances westward toward Krasnodar, important railway center on the line leading to the Kerch Straits and the only means of escape for the Germans in the entire Caucasus if the Rostov gateway is closed. The communique said Ladojskaya, a railway station forty-eight miles east of Krasnodar and thirty-two miles west of Kropotkin had been captured. The fall of Archangelskaya, thirty-two miles north of Kropotkin and twelve miles south of Tikhoretsk, also was announced.]

Caucasus Rail Key Taken

Tikhoretsk is a vital rail key to the Caucasus, the juncture for the Stalingrad-Novorossisk and Rostov-Baku railroads. Its fall along with Maikop threatens entrapment of remnants of a Nazi army originally numbering 300,000 men, and squeezes them into a contracting northwestern corner of the Caucasus below Rostov.

Russian forces were now poised for thrusts at Krasnodar, sixty miles northwest of Maikop and about eighty miles southwest of Tikoretsk.

Meanwhile, other Soviet armies were reported pushing steadily westward on the Voronezh front less than fifty-five miles from Belgorod and sixty miles from Kursk, two of the main springboards for the Germans' offensive last year.

[On the Leningrad front, the Germans reported heavy Russian attacks south of Lake Ladoga, but claimed they were "bloodily repulsed." The Russians, they said, were hurling massed tanks and artillery formations into the battle there.]

Battlefront dispatches reported giant new Soviet tanks were spearheading the Soviet smashes toward Kursk, and the Russians also announced they still were pounding the Nazis trapped at Stalingrad and the German remnants encircled west and southwest of Voronezh.

Gain on Voronezh Front

[The Russian midnight communique, as recorded in London, said the break-through on the wide Voronezh front continued, and that more important centers fell to the advancing Russians. Soviet aircraft on various fronts Friday were credited with destroying or damaging 180 German trucks loaded with troops or supplies, silencing ten artillery batteries, smashing eight locomotives, blowing up three ammunition dumps, and sinking four transports. Three enemy infantry battalions were "dispersed and partly wiped out."

["North of Stalingrad our troops sought out the remnants of encircled enemy units. During the day on all sectors many prisoners were taken, among whom were 206 German officers. One prisoner set free to return to his unit came back the same day and brought with him 120 German soldiers. On another sector two German prisoners set free brought back 300 German soldiers." Enemy counterattacks were beaten off on the southern and southwestern fronts, the communique continued.]

West of Voronezh the tank-led Russian force which swept through Gremyachye was reported less than sixty miles from Kursk, and still advancing.

Southwest of Voronezh the force which pushed through Novy-Oskol was less than fifty-five miles from Belgorod, on the railway south from Kursk to Kharkov.

Battlefront dispatches said the Russians were in close pursuit of enemy forces, and Russian planes roared overhead raking the enemy columns with bombs and machine-gun fire.

The battle was developing over a ravine-cut steppe land dotted with German strong points and artillery emplacements as the Red Army drive fanned out along the spur rail lines north and south of Kastornoye and westward to Kursk.

JAN 30 1943

"Red Star," the army newspaper, said Kastornoye fell in a night battle after Russian flanking drives cut off the retreat of its garrison which refused to surrender and was virtually destroyed.

The Soviet Information Bureau's noon communique said forty more towns had been added to more than 200 already recaptured in this advance which cost the Germans nearly 100,000 men in captured alone.

Still further heavy losses were being inflicted upon the Germans as they gave way before the continuing attack, the communique said. It was in this sector where the Russians said the remnants of nine more enemy divisions still were held in a death trap.

The Russians said a German fortification was by-passed and two towns captured in the lower Don, and another fortified center captured in the Caucasus.

Reds Use Giant Tanks.

Moscow, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—The Russians announced today that iron giants with which they smashed a forty-four-mile-wide hole west of Voronezh—tanks described as bigger than anything the Nazis had on the Russian front—were rolling the Nazis back steadily toward Kursk in an onslaught yet unchecked.

Dispatches from this battlefront, where parts of nine German divisions were declared caught in a death trap, said the huge tanks were battering a way through enemy fortifications and over the bodies of Nazi soldiers strewn along the way.

Kursk, Belgorod and Kharkov alike were menaced by the continuing drive.

The latest advance has carried Russian forces to within sixty-five miles of Kursk, the Russians said, with the forces of Lieut.-Gen. Reiter joining those under Col.-Gen. F. I. Golikov in an attack which scored gains counted at thirty-one miles in depth and brought the toll of Axis captives to nearly 100,000 in that sector.

In three days fighting, the war bulletin said, more than 14,500 prisoners were taken and about 12,000 of the enemy were killed.

(The Russian noon communique recorded in London by the Soviet radio monitor said that 40 more towns had been taken in the offensive west of Voronezh and that 600 Germans had been captured in one engagement. In another sector the Russians were reported to have caused heavy losses to the enemy.

(Another 450 prisoners were said to have been captured as district after district near the center of the city of Stalingrad was cleaned up, and the Russians said that "many German officers deserted their units and tried to get out of the encirclement."

(The Soviet war bulletin said one group of Nazi officers dressed in soldiers' uniforms marched out of the lines under escort of a German soldier garbed in a Red Army uniform in an attempt to escape. "The whole group was taken prisoner," the communique said.)

In the Caucasus, where fighting has continued with similar intensity, the capture of the railway junction of Kropotkin was announced, putting a Russian army there on the banks of the strategically important Kuban River, sealing one of the gates to the Maikop oil fields, and furnishing a new menace to Tikhoretsk, another railway junction 35 miles north.

Fight in Streets.

Street fighting in Kropotkin resulted in the killing of more than 1,000 Germans, the Russians said.

A union of this northward driving army with that which has driven to 20 miles northeast of Tikhoretsk, on the main Stalingrad railway, was envisaged.

Kropotkin is 130 miles south of Rostov. Other columns previously were reported 60 miles southeast of Rostov, 56 miles to the east and 70 miles to the north.

The war bulletin noted that the Germans were trying to strengthen their defense of the Rostov circle with fresh troops and tank forces.

In capturing Novy Oskol, ninety miles northeast of Kharkov, the Russians said that an entire Italian Alpine corps was disposed of, with 11,000 Italians taken prisoner, including Gens. Battista, Pascalini and Umerci and their division staffs.

ADD Push on for Krasnodar

LONDON, Sunday, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two Russian communiqués, broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet monitor, indicated today that the Red Army was tightening its net in the Caucasus south of Rostov and also rapidly extending its gains west of Voronezh in the direction of Kursk and Kharkov.

JAN 30 1943

After a special communiqué had announced the recapture of Tikhoretsk and Maikop in the Caucasus, the midnight bulletin revealed a further advance westward toward Krasnodar, an important railway center on the line leading to the Kerch Strait.

The communiqué said Ladojskaya, a railway station forty-eight miles east of Krasnodar and thirty-two miles west of Kropotkin, had been captured. The fall of Archangelskaya, thirty-two miles north of Kropotkin and twelve miles south of Tikhoretsk, also was announced.

The midnight communiqué said the break-through on the wide Voronezh front continued and that more important centers fell to the advancing Russians.

Front dispatches received in Moscow said the Russians still were annihilating the remnants of nine German divisions trapped between Voronezh and Kastornoe on a forty-four mile front above and below the railway leading to Kursk.

With the capture of Tikhoretsk the Russians have compressed the German armies into the northwestern corner of the Caucasus below Rostov. It is an area about 200 miles in depth and width.

If the Germans try to escape across the Kerch Strait they will run the risk of Soviet air and surface attacks from the Black Sea fleet which still is intact at ports below Nazi-held Novorossiisk.

As for Rostov, the capture of Tikhoretsk means that gateway city, the pivot for all German armies in the Caucasus, now is exposed to attack from still another direction.

At least five Russian columns are converging on Rostov. Seventy miles to the north the Red Army is fighting on its approaches after crossing the Donets River. On the north bank of the Don another column is fifty-six miles east of Rostov. Other Russian units are sixty miles from Rostov on the south bank, while another group is the same distance to the southeast on the railway leading from Salsk. The advance from captured Tikhoretsk is the fifth Soviet column.

BIG RED TANK DRIVE BEGINS AT LADOGA

Massed Artillery Supports Push, the Nazis Admit—Russians Reported Only 45 Miles From Kursk.

JAN 30 1943

A violent new Russian assault on a broad front south of Lake Ladoga, featuring massed artillery and waves of tanks, was reported by the Berlin radio today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in New York.

Forty-two Soviet tanks were declared destroyed in yesterday's "bitter fighting" in which the opposing forces often grappled man-to-man. All Russian assaults were "bloodily repulsed," the German communique said, but the battle continued.

A Soviet drive south of Lake Ladoga probably would be aimed at the Gulf of Finland, to cut off and eventually encircle the German Army which so long besieged Leningrad—a duplication of the Soviet tactics which have all but wiped out the Nazi force at Stalingrad.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, one of the Red Army's most successful leaders, is on a northwestern sector and might have directed this latest Russian blow.

The situation at Stalingrad, the Germans reported, remained unchanged, and "the courage of the defenders (meaning themselves) unbroken."

Without further explanation, the communique reported that "volunteer detachments composed of Russian nationals" participated alongside German and Italian troops in fighting the Red Army in the middle Don region.

The British radio said that the Soviet forces "are now only forty-five miles from the great enemy base of Kursk, and sixty miles from the equally important center of Kharkov." CBS picked up the broadcast in New York city. It also heard the London radio quote Red Star, the Russian Army newspaper, as saying Voronezh province was practically cleared of Germans.

ADVANCING BRITISH MOVE INTO TUNISIA

Gen. Montgomery Continues Close Pursuit of Rommel's Corps.

JAN 30 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 30.—(AP) Advance units of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army have made their first thrusts across the Tunisian border in pursuit of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, a British communique disclosed as Allied aerial attacks stabbed at communications and supply lines of the retreating Africa corps.

With these forward elements penetrating the central sector of the Tunisian front, it was expected that it would not be long until the main body of the Eighth army swings into action.

In an apparent effort to cut off Rommel's supply lines as well as further avenues of escape, American and R.A.F. planes rained explosives on northern Tunisia, accounting for 13 Axis planes in the process.

A Middle East Communique reported that bad weather had hampered their activities, but Twelfth air force bombers, striking from the west, set fires in the Bizerte dock area and left two ships in a big Tunisian-bound convoy in flames.

The British communique spoke only of a penetration in the central sector of the front, indicating that Gen. Montgomery's patrols crossed the border some 15 to 25 miles from the coast.

There was no indication of how close the patrols approached to the Mareth line, situated about 65 miles inside Tunisia, within which part of Marshal Rommel's forces are believed already established. These fortifications were built by the French before the war to protect Tunisia against attack from the east.

Nor did the brief Cairo communique mention other British forces closing in on Zuara, last Axis port in Tripolitania. However, a Cairo dispatch said the British had engaged the retreating Germans along the coast road in the Zuara area, about 40 miles east of the border.

Tunisian Line Crossed.

London, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Forward elements of the conquering British Eighth Army yesterday thrust for the first time across the border from Libya into Tunisia, the British announced at Cairo today, and it was expected here that the main body of the army would soon sweep into action.

This renewed ground activity, apparently intended to close in on Marshal Rommel's Africa Corps, still struggling westward along the North African coast, was accompanied by sharp aerial blows at Rommel's communications and supply lines.

British Patrol Units Penetrate Tunisia

CAIRO, Jan. 30 (AP).—Forward elements of the British 8th Army moved into Tunisia in the course of patrol operations yesterday, a British communique said today.

The penetration was made in the "central sector" of the front, the communique said, indicating that the border had been crossed some distance south of the coast. The communique did not indicate how close to the Mareth Line the patrols approached.

Part of Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces have been reported established within the fortifications of the Mareth Line, constructed before the war by the French about 65 miles within Tunisia as protection against an advance from Mussolini's former colony of Libya.

Bad flying weather held aerial operations to a minimum yesterday and the previous night.

The Rome radio, broadcasting the Italian high command communique, said German fighters destroyed 13 Allied planes at an airdrome near Bone, Algeria, and that Italian torpedo planes had sunk a British destroyer of the Jarvis class and two Allied merchant ships in an attack on a convoy between Algiers and Bougie. German planes later attacked the same convoy, the announcement said, sinking three more ships and two more destroyers.

Numerous Allied bombing assaults on Axis supply bases in Sicily were reported, with one on Messina causing "considerable damage."

Two large cargo liners in a big Axis convoy moving toward the Tunisian coast were hit by bombs from Martin Marauder bombers and another ship was damaged in the docks at Bizerte. The United States flyers also attacked the Tunis airdrome, destroying a considerable number of fifty parked planes.

Most ground activity was confined to patrolling.

P-38 Lightnings escorted the Fortresses to Bizerte. Large buildings on the water front were seen to explode and hits were observed on oil tanks, a Twelfth United States Air Force spokesman said.

The Lightnings also were used to escort the Marauders which battered the convoy in the narrows. Besires the two cargo liners, there were six freighters, four destroyers and several other naval vessels.

Two Hits on Liner.

"Two direct hits were made on one cargo liner, blowing away its superstructure," the spokesman said, "the hits on the second liner started fires from which smoke rose 300 to 400 feet. Direct hits were made on another vessel of 100 to 150 feet, causing it to explode."

Another team of Marauders and Lightnings attacked the El Aquina airdrome at Tunis, destroying a considerable portion of about fifty grounded planes parked near buildings which were also hit.

The Marauders reported destroying three challenging fighters and damaging three others. The Lightnings shot down two and damaged four.

The Germans attacked the Algiers area for the third time in four nights last night and four of their bombers were destroyed.

While ground fighting in the Allied battle to prevent a junction of Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating Afrika Korps with the Axis forces in the Tunis-Bizerte area was in a lull Allied bombers also struck the airfield at Tunis and a heavily escorted Axis convoy between Sicily and Tunisia, scoring hits on two ships, the announcement said.

In these three attacks Allied bombers and fighters shot down eight enemy aircraft, and five more were destroyed in other operations, it was announced.

(The German communique reported the bombing of Algiers and claimed the destruction of three transports and two destroyers and the damaging of three other vessels. The Germans said 19 Allied planes were destroyed.)

Air attacks also continued against the Axis armies south of Tunis. Enemy vehicles on roads in the forward area were attacked.

Allied losses in all these operations were four aircraft missing.

Raeder Loses His Command Of Nazi Fleet to U-Boat Chief

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander of Germany's submarine fleet, was elevated to supreme command of the German Navy today, lending strength to the belief that the Nazis are relying on the U-boat as their main hope of winning the war.

JAN 30 1943

Doenitz, fifty years old, originator of "wolf-pack" submarine tactics, succeeds Grand Admiral Erich-Raeder, who becomes admiral inspector of the navy. Doenitz, now made a grand admiral, will remain in charge of German submarine warfare.

Known as an able, ruthless commander, Doenitz is reported to exhort his crews when they leave port: "Kill, kill, kill! That is your duty to the Fatherland and Der Fuehrer. Have no humanity in your labors. Humanity means weakness."

[The Berlin radio, in a broadcast to the German people, commented that military circles in Berlin were saying Doenitz would make the German Navy a symbol of German determination for victory in the war.]

While a great intensification of Germany's submarine warfare is expected generally in the coming spring months, London sources doubt that it will be much worse with Doenitz in top command.

Sources here were inclined to accept German explanations that Raeder's age and health were the reasons for his retirement, but they said the elevation of Doenitz, only a vice-admiral, over the heads of two admirals was probably the result of a compromise directed by Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

These sources said that since it became apparent weeks ago that Raeder would be retired to an advisory capacity ardent navy Nazis have been pushing the candidacy of Admiral Rolf Carls for commander in chief, while the old navy clique has been pushing Admiral Otto Schniewind.

Doenitz is not known as an extremely enthusiastic party man or old navy adherent, although he is believed to have backed his U-boat commanders in successful demands for an end to the practice of having some Gestapo (secret police) men placed in each crew.

While he was a submarine man in the last war, Doenitz's U-boat was brought to the surface near Malta in 1917 when attacked by a British destroyer and he was a British prisoner for a time. In 1937, while investigating ocean currents near the English coast at Portland, his submarine was spotted and forced to the surface. He sent his captain to a British destroyer to apologize.

The rise of Doenitz, reportedly at odds with Raeder for some time past over submarine tactics, has been swift. A commodore at the start of the war, he reached the rank of rear admiral Nov. 17, 1939.

Raeder had been head of the German Navy since Oct. 1, 1928.

BRITISH RAIDERS HIT U-BOAT BASE

Lorient Blasted, Fires Set—Four Bombers Fail to Return

JAN 30 1943

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP) British bombers blasted Germany's submarine base at Lorient last night for the sixth time in 16 days, the Air ministry announced today, while the Eighth U. S. air force disclosed for the first time the results of Wednesday's initial all-American assault on the German homeland.

In retaliation, a flight of four German planes bombed a town on the southeast coast of England early today, demolishing two dwellings and killing at least three persons, the Air ministry reported.

Four Bombers Lost

Four bombers failed to return from the raid on Lorient, on the Bay of Biscay, in western France, which was struck previously on the night of Jan. 26, after a lull of only two days.

A heavy tonnage of high explosive and incendiary bombs was dropped last night, the Air ministry said, but the damage was not learned immediately because of heavy clouds and poor visibility.

One bomber pilot reported seeing dull amber glows through the clouds, indicating that fires were started.

The returning crews described the anti-aircraft fire over the target area as much heavier than usual. Although no searchlights were seen, the fliers said the ground defenses sent up a heavy barrage.

Shortly after the Air ministry announcement of continued blows against the Nazi U-boat menace, the Eighth U. S. air force revealed that American Flying Fortresses and Liberators shot down 22 German fighters in the large scale raid on the Wilhelmshaven submarine base and the Emden industrial area Wednesday and came out of the daylight attack with only three bombers missing.

Apparently no more than three German planes escaped the U. S. airmen in their first blow at the heart of the Axis, for returning fliers said the defending force numbered only about 25 planes in all.

LORIENT U-BOAT BASE IS RAIDED

London, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—British bombers attacked the German submarine base at Lorient in western France again last night, the Air Ministry announced today. Four bombers are missing from the raid, it said.

It was the sixth raid on the Bay of Biscay U-boat nest in sixteen days. The Royal Air Force struck at it last on the night of January 26 after a lull of two days.

The raid of January 23 was described as a major attack and in it five bombers were reported lost. The four reported missing in last night's assault indicated that the raid was made in force.

Heavy clouds and poor visibility prevented damage from being immediately learned, but a heavy tonnage of high explosive and incendiary bombs was dropped.

Crews of returning bombers said there was far more anti-aircraft fire over the target area than usual. Ground defenses put up a heavy barrage, the flyers said, but no searchlights were seen.

The pilot of one bomber said that he saw dull amber glows through the clouds, indicating that fires were started.

In an early morning retaliatory raid, a flight of four German planes bombed a town on the southeast coast of England, demolishing two private dwellings. In one house a woman was killed and her husband buried. Next door two persons were killed.

U. S. RAID ON REICH NETTED 22 PLANES

JAN 30 1943

London, Jan. 30 (AP)—U. S. American Flying Fortresses and Liberators destroyed twenty-two German fighters in Wednesday's large scale raid on the Wilhelmshaven submarine base and the Emden industrial area, the Eighth United States Air Force announced today.

Flyers who took part in the raid reported that the German defending force numbered only about twenty-five planes, which would mean that the Americans knocked out almost the entire opposition.

On the two raids Wednesday, three bombers were lost.

Eisenhower Reported For Supreme Command

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—A new Allied command set-up in North Africa, which would leave General Eisenhower as supreme commander with a group of British "specialists" working under him, was forecast today by The News Chronicle's North African correspondent.

There was no official comment here.

Under the reported arrangement, General Sir Harold Alexander, at present commanding British forces in the Middle East, would be in charge of land operations; Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham would remain at the head of Allied naval operations, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder would command all aerial activities.

General Alexander conceived the strategy of the campaign in which the British Eighth Army drove General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel across Libya into Tunisia, while Marshal Tedder directed the supporting aerial assault.

Greetings From the Forces

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 30—In a broadcast of greetings to President Roosevelt on his sixty-first birthday today Major Gen. Russel P. Hartle, in temporary command of the United States Army forces in Europe, reiterated the President's own promise that the enemy "asked for it and is going to get it."

Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker, second in command to Major Gen. Carl C. Spaatz of the United States Army air forces in Europe, told the President that the Eighth Air Force best expressed its birthday greetings "by the courageous deeds of its combat crews, written in gratitude for the leadership of our Commander in Chief in bold air battles above the dark skies of Germany."

Captain H. G. Kirk, United States naval attaché in Great Britain, reporting progress in the vital battle against Axis submarines, said:

"Our efforts will continue until the submarine menace is overcome."

Leslie Howard, the actor, was master of ceremonies on a program which featured American soldiers and musicians.

WHEN NAVY MEN GO ASHORE THEY FIND EXCITEMENT

Film Crew, Trapped by Nazi Tanks, Get Great Pictures of War.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Here's one of the strangest stories of the African campaign—about a photographic crew from the Navy that was trapped by German tanks. The crew was attached to the photographic unit of Commander John Ford, noted moving picture director, and included Lieut. John McClain, former New York reporter and Hollywood writer; and two former Hollywood cameramen, Lieut. Kenneth Pier, who helped Ford film the "Battle of Midway," and R. R. Rhea, Chief Photographer Specialist.)

JAN 30 1943

By LIEUTENANT JOHN McCLAIN
(As Told to Gladwin Hill)

LONDON—(Delayed) I was sent to London on a "special mission." In mid-October I got orders to report to the flag officer in a certain port for "training duties," and when I looked up I was in Algiers.

Three days after the assault I walked ashore. Lieut. Kenneth Pier, who landed with a commando unit, R. R. Rhea, Chief Specialist Photographer and I were assigned to work under Col. Darryl Zanuck of the Army signal corps. We started out in a convoy for Bone on a British trawler. I can't tell you how long it took us to get there, but there were dive bombers and torpedo planes and submarines all the way—fortunately most of them manned by Italians.

We got to Bone in the morning and decided to go up to the front. Then we found a couple of generals arguing about who was going to drive a jeep, and realized the transportation problem was tough.

We located a silly-looking French delivery wagon in a garage. It was brand new, but it had been standing in the garage a year and needed new batteries. Chief Rhea told the British Supply officer he had high blood pressure or something and absolutely had to have batteries to keep him alive, and we got them.

Even Got Food

We loaded the truck with our photographic equipment and three Tommy guns and hand grenades, and convinced the British the three of us were really six officers and 29 men who'd been stranded and had to eat. So we got food enough for that many and started out.

We got about 200 miles the first night. We'd been told to watch for German planes strafing the roads so we stuck Chief Rhea on a box in the back of the truck looking out that way for planes and Pier and I kept looking up ahead. If Rhea saw a plane he was to signal by beating three times on the side of the truck. The first time he signalled, we were all in the ditch before his second beat.

The second night we got to Baja, well beyond what we had thought was the front. The town had been bombed and abandoned and the only people there were some French soldiers — mostly underground.

We asked them where the best hotel in town was, and one of them said he'd show us. He took us to the best hotel but it had been hit and gutted and was only a shell. ...We asked the soldier "can we sleep here?" and he said "you didn't say anything about that—" he'd just taken us to the spot like we'd asked to see radio city or something.

The next morning, about 20 miles out, a British reconnaissance group told us Tebourba had been taken. So at midnight we loaded our stuff into the truck and started out on the road that ran from Medjez el Bab to Tebourba. About five in the morning we came to Tebourba. It's in a valley—an orange grove and a cluster of houses.

We drove the car into a deserted farm and slept under a hay-stack We were awakened by a Stuka patrol. They seemed to think we were some kind of a military objective. JU88's came over one after another and bombed the orchard. I don't think there was a second all day when there weren't German planes in the air.

There was a windmill on the farm and we got it working and it started the light plant. We found some wine in the cellar, and had a sensational dinner.

Tanks—But German Ones

About 10 the next morning some British infantry came up and we saw about 20 tanks lining up on the brow of the next hill. We thought that was fine, at last our boys are catching up with us. I said to the British captain, 'I'm glad our tanks are coming up, because we were just starting to wonder what the situation was."

He said, "Well, the situation is that we're cut off—and those are German tanks."

He said there was a chance we might get through the shelling on the road, and we better get out while the going was good, so we started back to Medjez el Bab.

A little way along an American officer stopped us. He said the road was blocked further down by German tanks and paratroopers. We saw a farm a little way off the road and drove into it and hid the truck.

A British officer appeared and we discovered it was an artillery position—a battery of two 25-pounder guns. Just then a soldier came up and said some German tanks had just come "around the corner" down in the valley. They were the same bunch that had been after us before. There were 33 of them.

Got Swell Pictures

Right way the officer said "Lower your sights to 600 yards and fire." They knocked out seven of the tanks, and turned back the attack. Pier got swell pictures of it.

There were a great many casualties in the battery. I asked the officer if I was standing behind a big rock and that's a good place to to be in a situation like that. Now helping carry ammunition meant getting out from behind that rock. I don't like moving anyway, and I think leaving that rock was the hardest move I ever had to make.

Eisenhower Denies Allied Political Rift

Declares Murphy Has Had No National Differences With British Liaison Men

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 30 (AP).—Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower today set at rest rumors from London and Washington that Robert D. Murphy, American Minister in North Africa; Harold Macmillan, British resident minister, or William Mack, British civil liaison officer, had been at loggerheads over political or military matters.

"So far as I have been able to detect, I have never had any difference of advice from the British or American staff, whether civil, political or military, based on nationalism," the Allied commander in chief said, in a statement.

While General Eisenhower did not say there had been no differences, it was noted he stressed that there had been no purely national divergences.

"The British naturally approach a problem differently from what I would—it is our professional training—but the solution reached was approved by the whole works," he said.

It was believed that General Eisenhower's statement was meant to apply to such matters as the appointment of Marcel Peyrouton as Governor General of Algeria.

Murphy, Macmillan and Mack are General Eisenhower's advisers on political matters, such as the giving of Allied approval to political appointments in North Africa.

VOYAGE KEPT NURSES ON RUN

Seasick Patients Made Four Busy on Transport.

JAN 31 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Four American nurses, who said that they joined the Army Nursing Corps to help care for fighting men, were more than a little chagrined when their first patients proved to be a lot of seasick persons aboard a troop transport.

The four embarked with high hopes of a restful sea voyage, despite the menace of enemy submarines, but as things turned out they were the busiest persons on the ship. A contingent of WAACS was aboard, and most of the girls as well as many of the soldiers proved to be poor sailors.

"We came to work, all right," said Nurse Dorothea Lecain, 25 years old, of Cambridge, Mass., as she recalled the voyage with a rueful grin, "but I must say we didn't expect to be nursing women."

The other nurses were Kathryn Judith McCann, 25, of Scranton, Pa.; Sophie J. Lange, 25, of Buffalo, and Margaret McCormick of Rutledge, Vt.

The ship's surgeon, Dr. Nathan Sharove, a native of Richmond, Va., and a surgeon in New York before the war, also was surprised to find feminine patients in his hospital unit, but he took it all philosophically.

Miss Lecain finished her training in the Cambridge City Hospital last April and spent the summer nursing in the Cape Cod Hospital at Hyannis, Mass., before volunteering for overseas duty with a friend, Miss Ruth Donovan of Quincy, Mass. Miss Donovan was aboard another ship in the convoy bound for North Africa.

Miss McCann received her training at St. Mary's Hospital in Scranton and joined the Nurses' Corps while at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn.

Miss Lange trained at the General Hospital in Buffalo, where a sister, Mrs. Laura Ostrowskim, resides.

Miss McCormick trained at St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn and also worked for the New York Public Health Department.

All four nurses are now proudly assuming the title of second lieutenants. They will be stationed at a hospital 200 miles behind the front lines.

U. S. Troops Capture Two Hills in Tunisia Without Firing Shot

Italian Force Surrenders; Axis Ousseltia Drive Halted by Night Attack

By HAROLD V. BOYLE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

JAN 31 1943

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Jan. 26 (Delayed).—Without firing a shot or losing a man, American infantrymen in a pre-dawn assault today charged 1,000 feet up slippery slopes with a waning moon glinting on fixed bayonets and seized the twin heights commanding the road to Kairouan.

The night attack, after a day-long artillery barrage and infantry infiltration, caught the Italian garrisons completely by surprise and they surrendered without a struggle.

The American occupation of the two rugged hills—Djebel Tenilia and Hir El Jarouil—left the Allies in control of the western end of a pass to Kairouan and threw back on its heels a week-old Axis drive down the Ousseltia valley, littered with ruins where in bygone centuries the Romans once set their stamp of empire.

Attack Held Amazing.

The most amazing feature of the attack was that an operation of such size and importance was made without the loss of a single American soldier and with only a few wounded, reports said.

The commanding officer, a Norfolk (Va.) colonel, praised the artillery for "a wonderful job of support."

"It was the best night attack I have ever seen," said Capt. C. Clough, jr., of Saugerties, N. Y. "We went in there with a bang so fast the Italians were too surprised to fire, and put up no defense.

"We went up there itching to use our bayonets but they didn't give us an excuse to use them. They had the approaches to the hills full of mines and booby traps, but didn't kill any of our men."

The Italians were members of a crack division. They said they had been without food for three days. They complained the German Army had pulled out, leaving them to hold the entrance to the pass alone, and that many of their own officers had left them the night before the attack.

American officers said they expected to round up 200 or 300 prisoners by the time mopping-up operations had been completed.

Most of those taken were quite young and their uniforms were ragged and torn.

Among the junior officers who led the troops into combat was a Washington (D. C.) lieutenant.

In a tour of the battle area with Dave Rame, British newspaper correspondent, I saw many wrecked Axis vehicles and artillery pieces in the valley.

On one road was the wreckage of a car previously driven by William Stoneman, Chicago Daily News correspondent, who suffered a minor hip wound when the Germans machine-gunned his vehicle and set it afire several days ago.

Mine Smashes Jeep.

A few minutes later we heard an explosion on the side of the road 75 yards to the left and saw a plume of black smoke rising from a jeep smashed by a road mine.

We found a young lieutenant lying several feet from the jeep, lucky to be alive. He had a broken leg.

"This would have to happen to me," he said as other soldiers put splints on his leg.

The right front wheel of the jeep had been blown off and the motor ripped to bits by the blast.

The Americans had a field day joy-riding down the roads in Italian three-wheeled motorcycles, a number of which were included in the substantial stores of Axis equipment taken in the victory.

Moroccan Prince Hopes to Visit U. S.

JAN 1 1943

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRENCH MOROCCO, (AP) — Crown Prince Moulay Hassan, 13-year-old son of the Sultan of Morocco, enjoyed his first ride in an American tank so much that he confided to Lieutenant Colonel Leonard Nason, military mayor of Rabat, during the drive back to his father's palace:

"When the war is over, I am going to ask my father to let me come to America to live for a while."

The young prince, who is mechanically minded, was vastly impressed with the tank as a sample of American inventive ingenuity.

War Correspondent Cited for Gallantry

Cairo, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Henry T. Gorrell, war correspondent for the United Press, received the air medal today "for extreme gallantry under fire." Major-Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the United States Army Air Force in the Middle East, made the award.

Mr. Gorrell, one of seven correspondents who went on a raid October 3 on the Axis-held base at Navarino Bay in the Greek Peloponnessus, "undoubtedly saved the life" of a wounded American gunner, Norman Frost of Miami, Fla., by applying a tourniquet and caring for him for several hours, the citation said. His conduct, the award said, typifies the role of correspondent in all theaters of war and expresses the courage of the representatives of a free press fighting for a free world."

BURMA ACTION LIGHT

New Delhi, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Activity on the western Burmese front yesterday was limited to R. A. F. patrols along the coast and a Japanese air raid on the Maungdaw area, some fifty miles northwest of Akyab, a British communique said today.

The Japanese raiding force consisted of two bombers escorted by a few fighters and caused no damage nor casualties, the bulletin declared.

The announcement said there had been no change in the land front on the Burmese West Coast, where British forces last were reported operating in the vicinity of Rathedaung, twenty-five miles northwest of Akyab.

Reigning Prince of Important Transjordan Lives in a Tent

JAN 1 1943

(Editor's note: Transjordan, rich in the personalities and color of the Arab world, is an important area of the Middle East front, though to the rear, and presents one of the problems awaiting the peacemakers of the present war.)

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

SOMEWHERE ON THE RIVER JORDAN, Transjorden—(Delayed)—(AP) The population of the Arab world is roughly divisible into dwellers of the "houses of hair" and dwellers of the "houses of stone."

His highness, Emir Abdullah Ibn Hussein, Mecca-born descendant of the prophet Mohammed, combines the pleasures of both ways of life.

Something in the inherited characteristics of the 60-year-old potentate, something more than the winter chill of his high altitude capital at Amman, sends him for three months of each year into a tent camp on the warm plain which lines his side of the River Jordan.

Perhaps, it is the Emir's love of the wild life along the river—he is something of a naturalist and poet in his own right — or perhaps it is quite as one official at Amman told me: "His Highness just likes to live in a tent."

Goat's-Hair Tents

En route from Amman to the Emir's winter quarters, I had seen the black, goat's hair tents of the wandering herdsmen and had had explained to me the distinction between the villagers in their houses of stone and the nomads whose home is where they pitch their tents.

With eardrums strained by the steady descent from Amman's 2,430-foot altitude to the 885 feet below sea level of the Jordan valley, I emerged upon the gray plain within sight of the tent village inhabited for the season by this highness and retinue.

A score or so of white canvas tents were arrayed on the horizon, and fluttering over them and a watchful sentry was the Emir's flag.

We were swiftly ushered from a reception tent toward that which serves his highness as a drawing room. The Emir Abdullah himself met us at the entrance with a warm handshake and words of welcome. We entered and sat upon the soft, modernistically designed chairs and settees which ringed the interior of this large tent. Multiple thicknesses of oriental rugs cushioned our feet.

I had ample opportunity in the succeeding two hours to study one of the most fascinating of the world's few ruling monarchs, one whose voice in the Islam world carries far beyond the frontiers of Trans-Jordan. While the ruler chatted interestedly on the progress of the war, with an interpreter interspersing a running translation, I busied myself with mental notemaking.

The Emir Abdullah has a patriarchal air, and actually he is a grandfather. He has two wives who have borne him sons, the Emirs Talal and Naif. I did not see the Emir's wives, naturally, considering the firm Moslem code with which he rules. I understand, however, that they customarily remain at Amman in mountaintop seclusion.

The Emir is deeply religious. He is memorizing the Koran and proudly states that he has but one-fourth of it yet to be committed. He finds considerable guidance for his political and economic opinions in the Koran.

Early in our visit, he drew out a thin gold watch from beneath his robe, studied it and then left us briefly for his midday prayers.

His highness' day starts long before dawn with the first prayers and ends no later than 8:30 p.m. when he retires. His exercise consists chiefly of horseback riding and walking. He was once an active hunter, especially fond of hawking.

As his religion requires, he lives in complete abstinence from alcoholic drink. He does not smoke, and although in hospitality he might have a servant offer a round of cigarettes, the tactful and forewarned guest will decline.

The Emir wore the distinctive headdress of his people, the shawl-like "hatta" in red and white, with the corners draped back over his shoulders and the whole held in place by the double looped "aqal", or cord, in black silk. His face was lightly bronzed by life in the open. His mustache and pointed beard were only touched with gray.

The Emir sat in a brocade-upholstered chair, a telephone on the table at his right. I learned later that this was a direct line to Amman, 40 miles away. His daily routine in winter quarters calls for considerable contact with his capital.

He was richly and warmly dressed despite the mild temperature of the Jordan valley. His over-all garment was an ankle-length robe of soft camel's hair cloth. Under this he wore a tight-fitting vest-like jacket of scarlet wool and beneath it a blue shirt. His feet, surprisingly small, were in black congress gaiters.

We straggled into the dining tent, his highness leading the way, and were a considerable party for the occasion by the time all had taken their places at the long table.

The luncheon commenced without ceremony, silent native waiters padding swiftly around, always at one's elbow with a heaping platter of food when one's plate was emptied. The meal started with sliced roast chicken and boiled wheat; it ended with tiny fried cakes, suggestive of doughnuts, and platters of fruit. In between, mutton was served in two ways, along with French fried potatoes and a rice course.

JAN 31 1943

Broaches the Subject

Approximately midway between roast chicken and fried cakes and fruit, his highness broached the subject which I was to learn later has been resting heavily upon him.

I was to learn something of the considerable concern resulting in Transjordan over manifestations in America linked with the observance of the 25th anniversary of the Balfour Declaration Nov. 2. Especially a petition signed by American congressmen and senators and a telegram by Wendell Willkie which Arabs in this part of the world, the Emir Abdullah in particular, view with suppressed foreboding.

(The Emir apparently referred to the following telegram sent the mass meeting in New York last November:

("Your case for a national home has always rested upon historic rights and international law. Hitler's program of extermination of the Jewish people has made it a case for the conscience of mankind. The doors of Palestine will have to be opened to the homeless Jews of central and eastern Europe who will survive this war. The extent of that emigration must be measured by the needs of the Jewish people.

("While one cannot foresee the exact organization which will follow this war, the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine in fulfillment of the promise contained in the Balfour Declaration must find its rightful place in the new world order of tomorrow.")

JAN 31 1943

The Balfour Declaration undertook to state as British policy a favorable attitude toward establishment in Palestine of a national home for Jews. A quarter of a century of dissension, frequently bloody, has followed that declaration. Efforts to compose the differences between the Jewish minority in Palestine and the Arab majority have had a record of failure.

Roughly, Britain's position as mandate power is that the status quo should be preserved, pending some postwar settlement which would guarantee so far as possible the legitimate interests of Jews and Arabs alike.

In line with this attempted "freezing" of the dispute over who should control Palestine, Britain has sharply limited the right of Jews to buy land there and has sharply restricted immigration of Jews. In the light of what is happening to Jews in Europe this policy has come under increasing Zionist Jewish attack.

Expresses Arab Sympathy

"Arabs, like other civilized nations, look with deepest sympathy on the suffering of the Jews," his highness told me through our interpreter, carefully weighing each word. "Whatever measures can be taken to relieve their suffering should be taken, but not at the expense of Arab rights.

"The hope for some possible solution of the Jewish question must be based on the idea of a Greater Syria and not on the consideration of Palestine as a separate, isolated unit.

"Arabs have no intention of persecuting, still less of driving out the Jews who have made their homes in Palestine. On the contrary, it would only be just that in areas of Jewish settlement they be given wide powers of local autonomy and somehow in accordance with their numbers be given just representation at the federal center.

"Unless artificial barriers between the four territories (Palestine, Transjordan, Syria and Lebanon) are abolished and a federal state built up I see no hope for the peace or progress of either Arabs or Jews.

"In the war the Arabs are heart and soul with the Allies, but while other nations look to the end of the war itself we look at the end with fear and misgiving. The reason for our fears is this: powerful influences are at work which take into no account the rights of the Arab populations of the Arab countries.

Counting on U. S. Fairness

"The Arabs fear that their case will go by default through lack of opportunity to plead their cause in America and England. I know that American opinion is necessarily ill-informed about Arab affairs but also that our hope lies in the sense of justice for which the American people are famous.

"I bitterly regret that while these issues are being debated that I, an Arab, should not have the opportunity of speaking face to face with the leaders of American public opinion. I regret that Mr. Willkie did not find time to call on us when he flew around the world."

Somervell Takes New Supply Plan to Reds

Teheran, Iran, Jan. 30 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding the U. S. Army Service of Supply, declared today that the "top item is to get maximum supplies through to Russia," and said the Persian Gulf route was "the most favorable approach."

JAN 31 1943

Somervell stopped here on an airplane inspection of the Persian Gulf Service Command.

"I want to emphasize that it is almost the cardinal point to keep maximum supplies going into Russia. The Russians seem very much pleased, but they would like to get more than they have been getting. They seem satisfied with the means of increasing capacity (of the Persian Gulf Service Command) as we have explained this to them."

Somervell discussed the recent Ceseblanca conference with Russian supply representatives at Iran.

Allies Destroy 250 Japanese in Battle at Mubo

Repulse Dawn Attack With Few Losses; Bombers Hit Enemy Ship at Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 31 (Sunday) (AP).—Two hundred and fifty Japanese have been killed in the Mubo area, near Salamaua, New Guinea, a communique issued here announced today.

A communique issued yesterday had told of an attack in the Mubo area by strong Japanese patrols which was thrown back by an Allied outpost, after which the fleeing Japanese were pursued in the direction of Salamaua. Today's news bore out the indications of intensified fighting in that comparatively new battle sector. Recently, 150 Japanese were killed in an Allied raid there which lasted three days.

Allied planes resumed raids on Rabaul, New Britain, heavy bombers giving the town and harbor area a pounding which caused explosions in a Japanese vessel and started fires in whars - supply dumps, the communique said also. In New Britain's Open Bay, southwest of Rabaul, a bomber scored two hits on a 2,500-ton transport and troops on the deck were strafed.

Another frequently raided target, Lae, which is above Salamaua on the northeast New Guinea coast, was visited by attacking planes before dawn. They fired supply dumps and bombed buildings from low altitude, leaving heavy explosions and fires which were visible for twenty-five miles.

Of the Mubo fighting, the communique said: "The enemy launched a dawn attack against our positions. After six hours of fighting, the attack was broken and the enemy forced to withdraw, leaving 250 dead, including a regimental commander, Colonel Kitamura. Our losses were slight."

Allies Repulse Japs In Papua; Chase Them Toward Salamaua

Plane Installations in New Britain Combed; Horii Death Confirmed

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 30.—In the first land activity on the New Guinea front since the successful completion of the Papuan campaign a week ago, Allied troops were reported today to be pursuing strong Japanese patrols toward Salamaua after repulsing an enemy attack near Mubo.

Salamaua is approximately 140 miles northwest of Sanananda Point, where the last Japanese resistance on the Papuan Peninsula was reported crushed last Saturday, and is about 20 miles south of the important enemy base at Lae.

Mubo, site of skirmishing between Allied and Japanese patrols several weeks ago, is about 15 miles southwest of Salamaua. An Allied communique announcing the latest outbreak of fighting in this area said substantial casualties had been inflicted on the Japanese.

Allied medium bombers, the bulletin said, participated in the Mubo action. Other air formations, meanwhile, attacked the Japanese airdrome at Gasmata, New Britain, and bombed the runway at Cape Gloucester airport on the northwestern tip of the same island.

An official announcement said information obtained from prisoners and captured documents had confirmed the death of Lt. Gen. Tomatori Horii during the Papuan campaign, in which his army of some 15,000 men was destroyed.

Horii, the announcement declared, drowned with an aide and several other officers during the Japanese retreat across Papua late in November while trying to cross the swollen Kumusi River on a raft after Allied planes had destroyed the Wairopi bridge.

Fighting at Mubo.

Somewhere in New Guinea, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Fighting broke out anew in the Mubo area of northeastern New Guinea yesterday when strong Japanese patrols attempted a raid on Allied positions near Mubo.

The raid was robbed of its surprise element when the Japanese were intercepted by Allied forces at Wandumi Village. Reinforced from the rear, the Allied units fought off the enemy for several hours, but when they saw the Japanese were attempting to by-pass them withdrew 500 yards to a ridge where the battle was resumed with both sides employing mortars.

During the night the Japanese filtered into the Bulolo valley and a few succeeded in crossing the swollen Bulolo River, on the opposite side of which Allied troops were stationed.

Most of the Japanese raiders subsequently were driven back into the valley and Allied patrols later pushed forward and covered the valley without further contact with the enemy.

JAN 31 1943

General in Thick of It.

With Advance United States Troops on Guadalcanal Front Lines, Jan. 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Joseph Collins of New Orleans, in the dense jungle northwest of Kokumbona, led a small party which captured three Jap soldiers and killed three others. He set out to join a forward Army unit and was accompanied by Lieut.-Col. J. K. Bush of Salem, Ind., Capt. Paul Melichamp of Somerville, S. C., and two enlisted men.

They saw the first Jap cowering in a hole amid the tree roots. The General motioned him to come out. The Jap refused so the struggling Jap was pulled out.

Next they came upon a Jap in a hole and armed with a bayonet but no rifle. Col. Bush hit the Jap's arm, knocking the bayonet out of his hands, and then capture was easy.

The next Jap was found in a lean-to. He refused to come out. He had his hands under a blanket. Gen. Collins told Col. Bush to flip up the blanket. The Colonel did so, and the Jap reached to the top of the lean-to where a hand grenade was fastened. Col. Bush grabbed the Jap's arm, got scratched but held on. The others pinned the Jap down.

In the other three cases—the fatal ones—the General's party tried to take the Japs prisoners, but they tried to fire rifles or throw hand grenades, and were shot.

6 Jap Ships; Toll is 123

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The Navy reported today that American submarines in the Pacific had sunk six Japanese ships, including a destroyer, and damaged a seventh.

JAN 31 1943

The Navy bulletin also said that a force of Flying Fortress bombers bombed Kahili in the Shortland area. The results were not reported.

Kahili is on the southeastern end of Bougainville Island near the enemy base of Buin and quite close to the strongly-held Shortland Island sector of the northwestern Solomons. It has an airfield and has been frequently attacked by American bombers for several months.

Today's report on submarine operations was the first since Jan. 19. It raised the total of Japanese ships reported in Navy communications to have been sunk by United States undersea craft to 123. In addition, 22 have been reported probably sunk and 32 damaged for a grand total of 177 vessels successfully attacked.

Guadalcanal Native Cited: Kept Faith Under Torture

Was Silent When Foe Demanded Information About Marines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP).—A native of Guadalcanal has received a Silver Star medal by the United States for withstanding tortures rather than give the Japanese information about Marine positions on Guadalcanal.

A former member of a savage tribe in the island, the hero, Sergeant Major Vouza, of the British constabulary, previously won a British decoration for valor.

Vouza was on a mission for the marines to locate suspected enemy lookout stations Aug. 27 when he went beyond the Japanese lines and was captured. The citation said that he was "lashed to a tree, where, rather than break his faith or betray his trust, he submitted to brutal and fiendish torture."

"Severely bayoneted about the chest and throat and left for dead," the citation continued, Sergeant Major Vouza, with great strength and almost superhuman endurance, extricated himself from his bonds and made his way back to our lines with valuable information concerning the enemy Japanese."

An Army surgeon who treated him expressed amazement that any man could have survived such injuries.

U. S. and Brazil Spur Drive to Defeat U-Boats

Naval, Air, Military Chiefs in Parleys to Implement Roosevelt-Vargas Accord

JAN 31 1943

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 30 (AP).—American and Brazilian naval, air and military chiefs conferred today on means to defeat the U-boat menace in the South Atlantic and further expedite the overseas deliveries of war supplies and thus to implement the complete accord reached between Presidents Roosevelt and Getulio Vargas at Natal Thursday.

After the meeting of the naval leaders at the Marine Ministry a spokesman said "affairs of high importance were discussed."

It was obvious that they were concerned with the United Nations program to clear the South Atlantic sealanes, one of the general objectives the two Presidents agreed upon at their meeting on board an American destroyer.

The meeting was attended by Vice-Admiral Jonas Ingram, commander of the Allied forces in the South Atlantic; Rear Admiral A. T. Beauregard, chief of the North American naval mission to Brazil; Naval Minister Admiral Aristedes Guilhem and the chief of staff of the Brazilian Navy, Admiral Americo Viera Mello—all with their aides.

An expanded and determined Brazilian-American naval and air offensive against the U-boats was predicted as one of the results of the conference.

In defense against attacks on shipping, Brazilian air forces started sinking Axis submarines even before that nation was formally at war. Altogether the Brazilian forces are credited with sinking four U-boats, in addition to the four sunk in a month by Admiral Ingram's forces.

While the naval chiefs were in conference Brigadier General Robert L. Walsh, chief of the South Atlantic wing of the Air Transport Command, and Colonel Claude Adams, American military attache, conferred at length with War Minister Eurico Gaspar Dutra.

Observers regarded the Presidential meeting as having a crystallizing effect on the popular Brazilian desire to feel active in the United Nations war effort.

The press devoted big displays to President Vargas's return from Natal with the greatest news story in Brazil since the beginning of the war. They published huge pictorial displays of his trip home and old stock photographs of Presidents Roosevelt and Vargas together.

Brazil May Send Troops to War

Nation Thrilled by Visit of Roosevelt and Accord Reached With Vargas.

JAN 31 1943

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Brazilians applauded today the complete accord reached by President Getulio Vargas and President Roosevelt in their surprise conference at Natal, Brazil, and it was hinted that the co-operation without restrictions promised by President Vargas might include sending Brazilian soldiers to the African battle front.

JAN 31 1943

Smiling and optimistic after his meetings with President Roosevelt aboard a United States destroyer in the harbor at Natal, President Vargas told a press conference that complete agreement had been reached on war operations and on all points discussed.

Mr. Vargas said that he found President Roosevelt in the best of health and spirits, his intense activity demonstrating a firm decision to carry forward the crusade in which all were engaged.

"President Roosevelt was frankly optimistic over the outcome of the battle," Mr. Vargas said.

The Brazilian press, splurging the biggest Brazilian story since this nation entered the war on August 22, 1942, hinted that the meeting of the two Presidents might bring fulfillment of the wishes of many Government leaders to send Brazilian troops to the African and later the European battlefields.

President Vargas said "the allied nations are preparing for a long war, not wishing to be too optimistic because war has surprises."

"German military power evidently is declining," he said. "There may be a collapse one moment or the other. But, generally, we are preparing for the emergency and are considering a long war.

"I found the President of the United States fully satisfied with the results of the Casablanca conference, one of the purposes of which was to achieve unity of the French people."

The two Presidents, dressed in cool white suits and wearing Panama hats, rode together in a jeep while reviewing the United States forces at the airfield outside Natal. Constant patrols of bombers and fighters flew overhead throughout their conferences and inspection tours.

Presidents Speak French.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Vargas spoke French to each other most of the time, but United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery sometimes translated Mr. Roosevelt's English into Portuguese for the Brazilian President.

Military and naval officials of both nations also conferred and participated in some of the discussions. Presidents Vargas and Roosevelt met three times on Thursday and again Friday morning before Mr. Vargas started back to the capital.

President Vargas said that he also discussed with President Roosevelt problems which may arise after peace is won, but that "the greatest part of the conversations was devoted to the necessity of winning the war and on this theme was centered co-operation between Brazil and the United States, which is an integral co-operation without restrictions."

Sees Dakar Threat Over.

Washington, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—The Presidents of the United States and Brazil, reaching an accord in a personal conference, are agreed that the Atlantic must be made safe for all and that West Africa and Dakar must never again offer threats of blockade or invasion against the Americas.

On the way home from the mapping of war strategy with Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca, Morocco, President Roosevelt conferred with President Vargas aboard a United States destroyer at Natal Thursday. They told of the point they had agreed on in a joint statement last night.

In Rio de Janeiro, President Vargas asserted that a complete accord on the war effort was reached between the two American Allies, stirring fresh speculation whether Brazil might take an even more active role in the conflict by sending troops to the actual battlelines.

"It is the aim of Brazil and of the United States to make the Atlantic Ocean safe for all," they said in their joint declaration released at the White House. "We are deeply grateful for the almost unanimous help that our neighbors are giving to the great cause of democracy throughout the world."

The two Chief Executives also expressed "complete agreement that it must be permanently and definitely assured that the coast of West Africa and Dakar never again under any circumstances be allowed to become a blockade or an invasion threat against the two Americas."

They said they had spent an evening going over problems of the war as a whole, but particularly the joint Brazilian-United States effort. They considered, too, the continuing submarine danger from the Caribbean to the South Atlantic and President Vargas announced greatly increased efforts on the part of his country to meet this menace.

ROOSEVELT VISITS TRINIDAD OUTPOST

JAN 31 1943

President Gets Enthusiastic Reception, Meets Admiral Leahy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP) The White House announced tonight that President Roosevelt stopped off in Trinidad, British West Indies, Panama Canal defense outpost, en route home from the Casablanca war conferences and was given an enthusiastic reception by the populace during an inspection of American defense installations on the island bordering the Caribbean.

A dispatch datelined Port Au Spain, capital of the British colony, was made public by the White House. It said the President was met by his personal chief of staff, Admiral William D. Leahy, who was waiting at Waller field when the President's big plane landed.

The dispatch, filed by Captain George E. Durno of the Army air corps ferrying command, a former White House correspondent, said that Admiral Leahy had started out with the President for the Casablanca conference, but was forced by an attack of influenza to stay in Trinidad until the President's return trip.

"After assuring himself that the former United States ambassador to France was well," the dispatch said, "the President expressed regret that Admiral Leahy had not been able to attend the Casablanca conference."

The stop at Port Au Spain, where the chief executive visited once before on his trip back from the Buenos Aires peace conference in December, 1936, was the fourth he made since leaving French Morocco. The scene of the first has not been disclosed. The second was in Monrovia, Liberia, where he visited President Barclay and reviewed American troops. The third was at Natal, Brazil, Thursday and early Friday, where he held important war conferences with President Getulio Vargas of Brazil.

Port au Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 30 (AP).—President Roosevelt paused at this island, site of a United States base, en route home from the Allied war council in North Africa today and was surprised to find almost the entire population waiting to receive him.

When his motorcade passed through Port au Spain thousands of people lined the streets, waving and cheering.

Hhe spent the night at the U. S. Naval base while traveling by Clipper on his way to North Africa, so this was his second visit this month. Mention of the first stop was not permitted for security reasons, however.

On his second visit the President took the opportunity to inspect the U. S. Army and Navy establishments and also entertained at tea Governor and Lady Bede Clifford, both of whom are old friends, at the Macqueripe hotel.

Roosevelt was met on arrival by Admiral William D. Leahy, his personal Chief of Staff, who flew to Trinidad from Washington with him but who was unable to continue on the African trip because of an attack of influenza.

The President's tour in Africa was more extensive than has been previously reported. He visited some of the beaches where American troops made their landings and also inspected military cemeteries. It was also learned that he flew low over Dakar to insepct the harbor but did not stop.

Henry Ford Is Winning His Battle for Rubber

JAN 31 1943

By HENRY W. BAGLEY

BELTERRA, Brazil, Jan. 30.—(AP) New seedlings and flourishing new tops on bigger trees are putting a new chapter in the story of Henry Ford's 14-year effort to produce plantation rubber in quantity on his Amazon valley concessions.

Despite browned and hole-riddled leaves from South American leaf disease and black spot in certain areas, the automobile king and his technical men are convinced they now have developed rubber trees which are growing successfully in Brazil and giving a high yield in latex.

Jack Zilles of Detroit, 34-year-old plantation superintendent, who has seen many experiments give promise and then fail during his years at the Belterra and Fordlandia plantations, says he is convinced that happy combinations have now been achieved. For two years, several particular types of high-producing trees have gone untouched by the fungus disease.

The Ford people are pinning their faith on these, while they continue in their experiments with further crossings.

With an estimated potential yield of 10,000 tons of rubber per year on the 20,000-acre plantations, Belterra and Fordlandia produced approximately 120 tons in 1942 and expect to produce 302 tons of dry rubber in 1943, 475 in 1944, 745 in 1945, and increasing each year until they reach 10,000 tons in 1950. Should manpower be made available, further clearing would be done which would mean further production.

South of Equator

Ford started in Brazil in 1928, when the government of the state of Para sold him a 2,000,000-acre tract at the site which he labeled Fordlandia. It lies just south of the equator on the broad Tapajoz river, and some 110 miles upstream from the Tapajoz's intersection with the Amazon at Santarem. The grant was for 50 years, exempt from state taxation and required to pay only 12 per cent of state import duties.

The Fordlandia site is covered with steep hills, making plantation operations difficult and containing many pockets which form breeding places for lace bug and other insects injurious to rubber. So in 1933, the Para government agreed to take back 703,000 acres from the rear of the property for an equal acreage at Belterra, 80 miles downriver.

Since then, Ford has moved a major share of his operations to Belterra. Approximately 3,500,000 trees are planted on 16,000 acres at Belterra and 685,000 trees on 8,000 acres at Fordlandia. Most of the rest of the immense properties, bigger than Delaware and Rhode Island combined, is still virgin jungle.

Acreage under true production, however, is 3,000 acres at Fordlandia and only 200 at Belterra. Since the leaf disease is conquered, Belterra—ideally suited with its flat terrain to plantation operations—eventually will be brought into heavy production.

At both Fordlandia and Belterra, gangs of men working with axes, machetez and saws carved the plantations out of wild jungle.

Like Suburban America

Today Belterra looks like an American suburban village until you get to the section of palm-branch houses where many of the workers live. A large number, however, have three-room wooden homes, which provide better protection from rain and dust than palm houses, commonly used and often preferred by laborers throughout Brazil as they are very cool.

The 5,000 living at Belterra and the 1,500 at Fordlandia can buy necessities at plantation stores at prices far below those in the vicinity, and other articles at stores operated by concessionaires. Children receive six years of free schooling, while his about what the average child has in Brazil and are provided with school uniforms. Mothers who wish to work can leave their infants at a day nursery where they are given lunch and cared for.

There are well-equipped modern hospitals at Belterra (with a staff of 72) and Fordlandia (with 31). Dr. D. Emerick Szilagyi, 32-year-old Detroit surgeon and a native of Hungary, heads the hospital staff and travels regularly between Fordlandia and Belterra.

Technically, civil authority is administered by the Santarem township government, but the company handles most of the civic administration and policing.

Labor shortage is a major problem, as it is throughout the Amazon. More latex could be produced and more experimental work done if there were more help, Ford officials assert.

Much of the Ford output is being shipped to the rubber factories of Sao Paulo in liquid form. The smoked sheet is sold to the rubber reserve company in Belem.

Peru Earthquake Razes City, Killing Up to 200

Violent Temblors Hit Ecuador; Area in Russia Stricken

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 30 (AP).—Dispatches reaching here today said an earthquake destroyed the small Andean city of Yanaoca, in Cuzco Province, last night, killing perhaps 200 persons.

Fifty bodies already had been taken from the debris of crumbled houses, the report said. The search continued.

Envoy to Ecuador Recalled

QUITO, Ecuador, Jan. 30 (AP).—French Ambassador Andre Boissier said last night he had received orders from Vichy to return to France with his staff and all French consular officials, in accordance with the government's decision to withdraw its diplomatic representatives.

[Earlier dispatches from Rio de Janeiro said the French Ambassador to Brazil, Rene Doynel de Saint-Quentin, had received similar orders but had announced his intention to ignore them.]

Attache Charged With Espionage Sails on Spanish Liner

JAN 31 1943

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 30 (AP).—Captain Dietrich Niebuhr, naval and air attache of the German Embassy here, who had been charged with directing German espionage in Argentina, sailed today aboard the Spanish liner Monte Albertia, the third member of the German Embassy staff to leave this country since the start of the war.

Scheduled for last Tuesday aboard another Spanish vessel, his departure was delayed when the Brazilian government refused him a safe conduct for a stop the liner was to make in that country. He received safe conduct passes from the American and British governments for the voyage of the Monte Albertia, which does not touch at any Brazilian port.

DIPLOMATS MALTREATED CHILE JAILS JAP ENVOY

JAN 31 1943

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 30—(AP) Information reaching here today from Santiago said members of the Japanese legation staff who were placed under house arrest last night in retaliation for Japanese treatment of Chilean diplomats in Tokyo, are likely to be taken into protective custody.

This is assumed to mean that the Japanese will go to jail unless the Chilean government is advised of a changed attitude in Tokyo where the Chilean envoy has been arrested.

Advices said the Chilean people are anxiously speculating on what maltreatment of their envoys moved the government to adopt such swift reprisal.

Mexican President Plans Inspection Trip

Mexico City, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—President Manuel Avila Camacho is to leave by special train late today on an inspection trip that will take him to the Guatemalan border.

His party will include Gen. Heriberto Jara, Minister of the Navy, and a number of other officials and a meeting is planned with Gen. Jorge Ubico, President of Guatemala, at the border.

Ecuadorean Cities Hit by Prolonged, Violent Earth Shocks

Buildings in Guayaquil Cracked by Temblors; Casualties Feared

By the Associated Press.

GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, Jan. 30.—Prolonged and violent temblors shook this city last night, opening cracks in the walls of many buildings and sending cornices tumbling into the streets.

It was feared that some casualties had resulted, but exact information was not immediately available.

Communications with Quito were disrupted by fallen poles and lines but it was reported that the shock was felt strongly in that city, and Cuenca, Loja and towns of Manabi Province.

There were no known casualties in Quito and the only death thus far reported here was of a child caught under a falling wall.

Food Rations Reduced For Troops in Canada

Beef, Pork, Fish, Butter, Tea, Coffee, Sugar Affected

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 (AP).—Immediate reduction in the amounts of beef, pork, fish, butter, sugar, coffee and tea allowed to the Canadian armed forces in Canada was announced today by the Defense Council.

The announcement said the reduction, designed "to ease Canada's pressing food shortage," would bring Navy, Army and air force rations more nearly into line with the civilian scale.

The rations of beef, pork, fish, butter, coffee and tea have been reduced 25 per cent, and those of sugar 2½ per cent.

Norwegian Naval Craft Lost

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Norwegian Information Office announced today that the Norwegian patrol ship Bodoe had been lost, the third casualty in the new navy built up outside Norway. Others were the destroyer Bath and the corvette Montbretia.

Plane Shears Off Pole, Flies On Though Dented

Pilot Ends Wild Ride by Bailing Out of Battered Airacobra

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The War Department offered this evidence today of the P-39 Airacobra's durability.

Staff Sergeant Paul H. Wilkins, twenty years old, of Kalispell, Montana, took off in an Airacobra from Hamilton Field, California, on a high altitude training flight. While flying upside down at 17,000 feet he went into a spin, falling to 6,500 feet before he broke out of it.

Going into a recovery dive, he partially "blacked out." The plane traveling 400 miles an hour, struck a telephone pole twenty feet above ground. The propeller chewed off the cross bar and the left wing sheared off the pole.

Sergeant Wilkins reported there was a deep gash in the left wing, the radiator inlets had been smashed shut, the propeller was bent like a pretzel, the bay doors covering the nose wheel landing strut had been ripped off, and the engine controls had been knocked out. He managed to get the plane up to 1,000 feet, searched vainly for a crash landing area and then bailed out, landing in a prune orchard seven miles from the telephone pole.

Sergeant Wilkins, who joined the Army as a mechanic in 1940, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Wilkins, of Billings, Mont.

M'KELLAR OPPOSES FLYNN AS MINISTER

Tennessean Says He Will Vote Against Confirming President's Appointee

JAN 31 1943

NOMINEE IS URGED TO QUIT

Earlier, Barkley Said Fate of Appointment Might Depend on a Single Vote

JAN 31 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senator McKellar of Tennessee announced his opposition tonight to President Roosevelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn as Minister to Australia, a development generally regarded as foreshadowing Senate rejection of the appointment if it is not withdrawn before consideration begins Monday.

Mr. McKellar, an Administration supporter, told reporters that, after reading the record of testimony taken by the Foreign Relations Committee in its investigation of Mr. Flynn's qualifications, he found himself unable to vote to confirm the former Democratic National Chairman for the diplomatic post.

Previously, Senator Barkley, Democratic leader, had said that confirmation or rejection might depend on the turn of a single vote. The Administration was known to have been depending heavily on Mr. McKellar's vote and that of his colleague, Senator Stewart of Tennessee.

While Mr. McKellar said that he did not know how Mr. Stewart would vote, most observers felt that the latter would follow the leadership of his senior colleague, especially since Ed Crump, Democratic National Committeeman from Tennessee, was reported to be opposed to confirmation.

Calls Choice "Unfortunate"

Mr. McKellar expressed in a statement the hope that "Mr. Flynn or our great President will reconsider the matter and withdraw the nomination." He said he felt that the choice of Mr. Flynn constituted "an unfortunate appointment at a time like this."

"As intense a Democrat as I am," Mr. McKellar said, "I greatly regret to find myself unable to vote to confirm the nomination of Mr. Flynn as United States Minister to Australia.

"The facts contained in the record and the many differences of opinion which must of necessity arise thereon would, in my judgment, make it impossible for Mr. Flynn to achieve success as Minister to Australia at this critical moment in our Australian and Southwest Pacific relations."

Before Mr. McKellar's announcement, Mr. Barkley had said that he thought there was a good chance for Mr. Flynn's confirmation but that the issue would be "very close."

"It's likely to go either way by the margin of one vote," he added.

The Democratic chief had said that so far as he knew the nomination would be brought before the Senate Monday, although there have been reports that if the Administration found it could not muster sufficient strength for approval, Mr. Flynn might ask President Roosevelt to withdraw his name.

President Has Yet to Act

Flynn supporters said that while the President had been advised of developments he had not taken any hand in the bitter Senate controversy, which finds seven veteran Democrats publicly opposing the nomination and another half dozen listed as opponents on private polls. If they should join with thirty-seven Republicans who are expected to vote "No," the nomination of the former Democratic national chairman would be rejected.

The number of those publicly committed against the nomination rose to thirty-nine today, including thirty-two Republicans and the seven Democrats, while thirty-one Senators, all Democrats except Senator La Follette, Progressive, were committed to vote for confirmation.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, who previously had declined to announce his stand, said that he would support the nomination. At the same time it became known that Senator Reed of Kansas, who has been away from Washington and whose views were unknown, had been paired with Senator Wagner of New York, who voted for Mr. Flynn in the Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Gurney of South Dakota, who previously had been noncommittal, announced he would vote "No."

A great deal appeared to depend on whether three Democratic Senators whose attitude is not known publicly, Bailey of North Carolina, Eastland of Mississippi and Smith of South Carolina, would return to Washington in time to vote.

One Administration lieutenant, who would not permit the use of his name, told reporters:

"The situation looks bad."

OUT FOR SERVICE

Painstaking Efforts of Thousands of People Represented in Work.

JAN 31 1943

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 — (AP) — Maps that "light up" like a Christmas tree in a otherwise darkened airplane and enable a pilot to chart his course over enemy territory without being seen from enemy planes or from below....

This is one of the latest developments by Uncle Sam's army map makers who work in a camouflaged building on the outskirts of Washington, turning our road directions to Tokyo and Berlin for America's fighters.

More than 1500 men and women, the majority of them civilians, work virtually around the clock, making military maps and charts for our armed forces in every theater of war operations, and they also supply some to our allies.

Artists, draftsmen, researchers, translators, geographers, printers, laborers and filing clerks, they are as much a part of the fighting army as are the troops in jungle and desert, because the accuracy of their plotting and craftsmanship can mean life or death for thousands of men in foreign fields.

Three hours after the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, the army map service was turning out strategic maps of the Philippines by the hundreds and a few hours later, the precious sheets were being sped by airplane to the west coast.

Kept Military Secret

And, months before our troops occupied Africa, the map makers were actually plotting every step of the way — while they kept one of the newsiest secrets of all time.

Fluorescent inks, which glow glow in a darkened chamber under a small beam of ultra violet light, are used in the printing of the special maps.

The map service also is experimenting with several types of parchment paper out of which they hope to get a waterproof paper map. The papers are tougher than those now in use, and the experimenters hope they may solve map problems of the greasy-handed rough riders of the armored forces from whom ordinary maps take quite a beating. Perfection of a waterproof paper map would allow laundering away of grease smudges.

4 MILLION MAPS A MONTH TURNED

In the map makers' building, huge lithographic presses rumble 24 hours a day, grinding out neat, colored patterns of the terrain of Casablanca and Yokohama and hundreds of other places.

Men and women who seldom travel farther than the busline limits of Washington, bend over drafting boards and etch on paper the location of desert wells in Libya, windmills in Tunisia and sand dunes swept by the winds of the Pacific.

When ten American soldiers looks over a map in Australia, he well may be looking at the collective intelligence of army engineers, a lonely Pacific missionary who died years ago, an adventurous explorer, an editor of a tourists' guide, a Harvard geography professor, an assistant researcher in the Library of Congress—and an engineer for an oil company.

JAN 31 1943

The map makers consult every possible item of source material before they plot a new map. In their own library they have more than a half-million different maps covering areas from pole to pole and ranging from rough sketches made by missionaries to detailed maps furnished by the cartographers of Admiral Byrd's expeditions. They also have thousands

Even Name Streets

They consult tourists' guides for names of streets. They comb through unpublished scientific surveys. They read journals of dependable travelers. They study British desert maps which still have the sands of Libya in their folds, and—

They get much of their data from Japanese imperial land surveys and geographic treatises, and from reports of German geographers!

Ironically, the map service has more tactical information about Japan, Italy and Germany than it has about the United States—for the simple reason that comparatively few strategic maps of this country have ever been prepared. Col. William A. Johnson, commanding officer of the map service, says there's never been much money kicking around for such projects.

But, while the map service now is working to overcome our inadequacies in our own backyard, Army engineers point out that our short-comings along that line have a comforting corollary.

" WE haven't strategic maps of the United States," smiled one officer, "neither has the enemy. We can do a hell of a lot more damage to military objectives in their countries than they could do in ours!"

Map service officials have reason to believe, however, that the Germans and the Japs have tried to fill in a few of the gaps. They know, for example, that map of a farm area in Illinois rests in the archives of Germany, and that a Jap once sent two dollars to officials of a West Coast city with a request for a map of the city's water system—which was sent out by return mail!

On the other hand, Japan and Germany probably are the two best-mapped countries in the World from a military standpoint, and in peacetime, these maps were easy to get.

"The Japs," said Colonel Johnson, "are particularly thorough in their map-making, and the maps contain practically everything we want — even though all the laundry marks they contain make them difficult to read. We employ many translators and also have the services of Americans who lived many years in Japan."

It takes anywhere from a few hours to three months to turn out a military map, depending on the source material available. The map service once batted out a special job on Greek railroads in two hours flat. On the other hand, they had to pore over hundreds of travelers' reports and missionary maps to prepare their stuff on New Guinea.

Military maps needed for different purposes sometimes will call for representing a certain city area as a mere pin-point, or, again, as a two-foot square sketch containing almost everything except a picture of the mayor.

Uncle Sam Has Yet to Give Hungry Yusef What He Needs

By JAMES D. WHITE

JAN 31 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP) Chances are that Yusef Haddad—the North African namesake of Joe Smith—doesn't think much of Uncle Sam—yet.

The unbeliever with the whiskers has sent an army into the land. Helmeted legions of Amerikanis swarm through Morocco, Algeria and part of Tunisia. Even though they brought their own food and supplies with them, they are a nuisance to the ordinary guy like Yusef, as an army of occupation cannot help being, no matter what its intentions.

And judging from the latest reports, the jeep-driving infidels (this is from Yusef's point of view, and we ought to be interested in that) have not yet produced the things he and his people need so bitterly.

Cold And Hungry

Yusef is cold in the mild North African winter, because he has no cotton cloth to replace his tattered garments. The Nazis took what there was. He is hungry. The Nazis took the food from the cities, where his Cousin Ayoub Obyad (the Algerian Jim White) vows that the sons of the prophet starve daily.

Out in the country, Cousin Mohammed Ali hoards his scanty food reserves, and his sheep and camel herds are dwindling.

Yusef and Ayoub and Mohammed Ali every day have to listen to the complaining of their women—that there is no tea, no thread, no supplies for the baby.

And if a child should fall ill, who in the name of Allah is to find the medicine for him?

The polyglot population of North Africa is beginning to think that the Christians from Hollywood have thus far failed to bring the plenty they promised.

In the crowded markets and gossip-buzzing lanes of a hundred cities, we, the United States, are on trial.

First Liberation Venture

For North Africa is our first venture in liberation in this war. Not only the North Africans will judge us by what we do there. The whole of occupied Europe and Asia is watching us.

The word from Washington is that help is definitely on the way, and in quantity. If an excuse is to be made, it is that you can't launch the biggest water-borne invasion in history in complete secrecy and take care of all the details right then and there.

Meanwhile the North Africans, like any people subjected to the Nazi policy of semi-starvation as an instrument of political control, have reached the point where they "think with their stomachs." When you are hungry and cold, your political ideas can be greatly affected by relief or the prospect of it. And if you have been led to expect relief by someone and it doesn't materialize right off the bat, you can be pretty mad about it.

Part of the civilian unrest reported from North Africa may be attributable to delay in getting adequate relief to these people. When it does get to them in satisfactory quantity, as it soon should, many of the political squabbles should fade out.

Veil of Censorship

Unfortunately the veil of censorship which has been held across the North African scene makes it difficult to determine what has been done and what the situation actually demands.

But we do know that the Army took along a certain amount of barter goods for its immediate needs. The amount has not been revealed.

Reports indicate that to date we and the British have shipped in a total of more than 30,000 tons of non-military goods for civilian relief.

Actually the British have been closer to the scene and have furnished most of this.

The British were able to send quantities of coal, fertilizers, flour, fodder, rice, barley, edible oils, margarine, seed potatoes, soap, powdered and condensed milk for children, sugar, meat, fish, curry powder, jam, whiskey, gin, rum, coffee, tea, dried eggs, vegetables and soup.

JAN 31 1943

Our shipments have run to sugar, tea, cotton piece goods and cloth, copper sulphate, condensed and evaported milk, soap, matches, tobacco, and pharmaceuticals, including medicines and hospital necessities.

We plan to ship regularly flour, milk, soap, refined sugar, cotton goods and threads, old clothes, children's and infants' clothing, work clothes, cordage fish nets, heavy canvas, jute sacks, pharmaceuticals, fire brick, copper sulphate, chemicals, metal and electrical products, auto parts, and small amounts of agricultural machinery, truck tires and newsprint.

Figures on shipments are secret.

Definite Pattern

Though these lists of articles runs a definite pattern, designed to relieve the most immediate needs of a population of more than 16 million people. These right now are staple foods in the cities, and the common comforts of life anywhere such as tea, coffee and condiments. Emphasis is also placed on taking care of children, and in relieving the shortage of clothing.

North Africa normally produces surplus food, but the Nazis have stripped the country so bare that people are starving in the cities while the farmers hoard desperately. Obviously we are trying to ship in some food now, and at the same time get North Africa back on its feet as a producer by helping its agriculture, fishing and small industry.

Specified relief goods will probably be distributed through American organizations, but goods purchased by the French high commissioner's office are expected to be distributed through normal commercial channels.

From now on the United States will supply the larger proportion of the food, with Great Britain concentrating on items which she can spare more conveniently.

American relief shipments, incidentally, rate shipping priority next to military supplies.

This non-military traffic is not all one way. We are getting manganese, cobalt ore, and cork for our war effort and civilian needs. The British, meanwhile, are shipping out iron ore, phosphate rock and super-phosphates, zinc ores and concentrates, and lead bullion and ore.

German Policy

The importance of keeping Yusef Haddad and his cousins happy is indicated by a step the Germans are reported to have taken in Tunis when they allowed Arabs and other natives to loot French ships and warehouses and flood the city with French money which they presumably had printed themselves for occupational purposes.

Word of this sort of thing gets around, and does our side no good, especially if our shipments and distribution have been held up in the midst of the tremendous military campaign going on.

But that military effort can be just so much easier if Mohammed Ali and his tribes are kept contented and supplied with the necessities which the Nazis have taken from them.

Until and unless we do this, we are just so many more Christian unbelievers—invaders — foreign occupational troops who commandeer buildings for our offices and clutter the cities with our unfamiliar presence.

Yusef has had enough of this with the Nazis. He has always heard we were rich, so he easily got the idea that we would bring him many things. With his mind on his own problems, he cannot be expected to figure out excuses for us if we don't get the things he needs to him as soon as possible.

The relief of North Africa is a rush job. Millions of people in Nazi-occupied Europe will take new heart when we do it.

U.S. White Book Traces Hitler's Ten-Year Rule

510-Page Treatise Issued on Nazi Dogma and Aims; Racial' Fallacy Stressed

JAN 31 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The State Department issued a White Book tonight on the basic principles and aims of National Socialism, with emphasis on the Nazi dogma that any person of German descent, regardless of his citizenship, owes allegiance to the Fuehrer.

The 510-page treatise, released on the tenth anniversary of Adolf Hitler's rise to power, includes documents ranging from a German newspaper's disparaging account of Marlene Dietrich's American naturalization to official Nazi writings and instructions.

It describes in some detail the use of organized German minorities to further Germany's war aims, as in Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia, and traces the history of organizations used abroad to mobilize all "racial" Germans everywhere in the service of the Nazi state.

The book contains numerous references to Nazi efforts to reclaim for the German cause an estimated 12,000,000 racial Germans "drowned in the melting pot of the United States," but does not deal specifically with the fiasco of the German-American Bund, in which all these efforts culminated.

Scant Headway Here

In a foreword, however, the authors state that "it is clear that Nazi efforts to indoctrinate our loyal American citizens of German descent met with little response, and that only a small fraction of our immigrants from Germany were receptive to Nazi ideas."

The appendix includes an "Information Sheet of the Comradeship U. S. S." issued from Stuttgart in January, 1941, complaining that the German-American Bund, "although it operates on a fully legal basis," is "given exceptional legal treatment," with its leaders kept under surveillance and "constantly called before the Congressional committee for the investigation of 'un-American activities.' "

"Police raids on the summer places of the Bund, the so-called camps, are common," the Nazi document continues, "although they are always without result, and in no case have the alleged stocks of weapons or other 'war material' imported from Germany for the purpose of a revolution by force been found."

The information sheet also complained that the official German diplomatic representatives were subjected to "hostile attacks" and were depicted as Nazi propagandists by the House investigating committee headed by Representative Martin Dies, Democrat, of Texas.

JAN 31 1943

Theory on Marlene Dietrich

The reference to Marlene Dietrich was published in "Der Stuermer," newspaper of Julius Streicher, at Nuremberg in October, 1937. The actress is depicted leaning on the desk of a shirt-sleeved, bespectacled official whose arm is raised aloft as he administers the oath of American citizenship. The caption reads:

"The film actress Marlene Dietrich, who hails from Germany, has spent so many years with the movie-Jews of Hollywood that she has now become an American citizen. Much association with Jews has made her entire nature un-German. In the picture we see her in an oath scene in Los Angeles. What the Jewish 'judge' thinks of the legally prescribed oath may be seen from his attitude: in shirtsleeves (!) he administers to Marlene Dietrich the oath that she betray her fatherland!"

One of the strongest statements of the Nazi attitude toward Germans abroad is a passage from a speech by Pudolf Hess at the 1936 party congress in Munich:

"The Fuehrer had to come in order to hammer into all of us the fact that the German cannot choose and may not choose whether or not he will be German, but that he was sent into this world by God as a German and that God thereby had laid upon him as a German duties of which he cannot divest himself without committing treason to Providence. Therefore we believe and we know that the German everywhere is a German—whether he lives in the Reich or in Japan, in France or in China, or anywhere else in the world. Not countries or continents, not climate or environment, but blood and race determine the world of ideas of the German.

"The wonderful thing about our new Reich is that this Reich will not voluntarily release a single one of its citizens from his holy duties to his people."

Naive Notions Revealed

The naive attitude of Nazi organizers and propagandists toward Americans of German descent is clearly shown. The Nazi leaders apparently drew no distinction between Germans transferred to another sovereignty by the peace settlements of 1919 and Germans or descendants of Germans who came to the United States voluntarily to seek a new life and new liberty under the American flag.

"Indeed," says the White Book, "it would appear, from the Nazi viewpoint, that the adoption of foreign citizenship in a genuine way by a German is really inconceivable, unless the person in question acts as a renegade betraying his own nature and origin."

Alfred Rosenberg, philosopher laureate of the Nazi regime, is quoted as referring to Germans who migrated to far countries and settled down there as "emigrants, bastardizing themselves in South America, China, Dutch East India, Africa."

Also quoted is Ernst Wilhelm Bohle, head of the foreign organization of the Nazi party, who in 1937 said:

"We foreign German National Socialists reject the conception of the universal German, whose prime endeavor is to adapt himself everywhere, because this universal German not only makes himself ridiculous among the foreigners but also consciously or unconsciously repudiates his Germanism with this self-abandonment."

On the other hand, Nazi citizenship laws left a convenient loophole for Germans who wished to acquire foreign citizenship for reasons of business convenience. Those, especially, who were willing to serve the Nazi party as citizens of another country were encouraged to become naturalized, with the assurance that they could always be repatriated as Germans later.

"German Mind" Explored

A large portion of the White Book is devoted to tracing the origins of Nazi ideology in the political and philosophical literature of past generations.

The idea of the totalitarian state, finally worked out in practice by the Nazis, "has always appealed strongly to the German mind," with its "readiness to sacrifice the individual for the community and to accord dictatorial powers to the head of the state."

Emphasis on the nation as a racial group (Volk), the principle of blind obedience to a supreme leader and the acceptance of war as a natural instrument of policy also are portrayed as ideas dating far back in German history.

General Friedrich von Bernhardi, whose "Germany and the Next War" (published in 1911) was widely read during the first world war, is quoted as one of those who helped to convince Germans that "war is a biological necessity." Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche, the philosopher who glorified ruthlessness, also is quoted extensively.

Most of the material on the origin and nature of the various Nazi principles, however, covers ground already cultivated by various writers on German militarism and the Nazi movement.

The White Book, which appears under the title of "National Socialism—basic principles, their application by the Nazi party's foreign organization, and the use of Germans abroad for Nazi aims," was prepared in the State Department's Division of European Affairs. Its authors are listed as Raymond E. Murphy, Francis B. Stevens, Howard Trivers and Joseph M. Roland.

The study is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, at $1 a copy.

Soviet-Uruguayan Relations Resumed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—The Soviet Embassy announced here tonight that diplomatic relations between Uruguay and the U. S. S. R., broken off in 1934, would be resumed.

An embassy spokesman, making the announcement, said only that the resumption of relations came in an exchange of notes to be made public tomorrow.

Allies Plan Crete Attack, German Newsman Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—German Correspondent Walter Glaue, in Lisbon, informed his German readers yesterday, according to a Berlin broadcast heard by the Associated Press, that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill decided, in their Casablanca conference, to mount a spring offensive in the Eastern Mediterranean.

"Here is the true story of the Casablanca conference as it was told to me by one who participated," Glaue boasted.

"For spring, a joint Anglo-American action was decided on against Crete and the Dodecanese. Air raids on Italy are to be further intensified in the hope that the Italian people's morale might be weakened. The motion of South African Premier Smuts to employ South African troops outside Africa was motivated by the plans to attack Crete and the Dodecanese.

"Also in connection is the Casablanca decision to increase pressure on Turkey in order to inveigle that country into the war on the Allied side this year."

No major operations against areas defended by Germany will be attempted this year, Glaue said.

NAZI LUFTWAFFE FINDS RUSSIA'S TACTICS VARIED

Even Training Plane with 80 MPH Speed is Used by Reds

By JAMES T. CARTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 — (AP) What happened when the Steam Roller With The Big Umbrella Met The Bear With The Peculiar Wings is one of the most amazing stories of the war.

It's the story of how Hitler's army, which had steam-rollered through most of Europe with the Luftwaffe as an umbrella, finally met its match in the great Russian Bear.

Now the Germans knew that the Bear had wings, but they never suspected the wings could do tricks, and so it was that the Soviet air fleet helped the Red army turn back the foe.

Like most everything else in the land of the steppes, Russian aviation developments have been kept under the wraps of official secrecy, with wartime performance data seldom being disclosed.

But from various sources here, plus a few accounts which have come out of the Soviet Union, at least a glimpse of what makes up Russia's air arm is possible.

It is known now, for instance, that contrary to general belief, Russian planes are more or less conventional in design. It also is known that the way they've achieved their success was anything but conventional.

While most of the warring nations still were clinging to the belief that a fighter was a fighter and a bomber a bomber, and that they weren't interchangeable, the Russians were doing a bit of experimenting.

Threw Book Out Window

They threw the rule book out of the window and converted fighters into dive bombers, training planes into low-altitude bombers, observation planes into flying ambulances, concentrating always on the theory that the air force was a coordinate branch of the army, for defense against air attack and for destruction of enemy armor and personnel.

Finding one of her fighter biplanes too slow to stack up against the Messerschmitts, Russia simply changed it into a dive bomber. And the results were excellent. As fighters, the gull-wing biplanes would have been sent tumbling from the skies; as dive bombers, they chalked up a good record.

Another sample of Russian aeronautical ingenuity was to use a little training biplane, whose cruising speed is 80 miles an hour, as a low-altitude bomber. At first thought, it would seem that Messerschmitts or Focke-Wulfs, which are nearly five times as fast, could have picked off the slow trainer at will. But the trainer's very slowness has made it a difficult target for the enemy fighters, which have to fly much faster than 80 m.p.h in order to stay aloft.

Not all Russian planes are slow, however. She has a couple of extremely fast fighters that combine speed with ability to carry bombs and thus can wage war against both air and ground forces.

Best known of these is the Stormovik, whose top speed has been estimated up to 365 m.p.h. This single-seater's 1,300 horsepower liquid-cooled engine is heavily armored—as is the cockpit—and it carries two machine guns and two 32-mm. cannon, besides bombs.

Another fighter that can carry bombs is the Mig-3, which has proved itself one of Russia's best single-seater pursuit planes. Little is known of its specifications, other than the fact that its 1,200-horsepower liquid-cooled engine gives it a speed of better than 360 m.p.h.

Besides these bomb-carrying fighters, Russia has at least two other speedy—and more conventional—fighters, just to show she hasn't overlooked any bets.

One of these, the I-26, a single-seater, is similar in appearance to the famous British Hurricane, while the other, the I-16C, resembles the Republic thunderbolt.

On bombers, Russia has concentrated on speed as well as bomb load and armament. Here are three formidable samples:

The SB-3, a medium bomber powered by two 1,000-h.p. in-line liquid-cooled engines. It is equipped with three turrets—one in the nose, one on top of the fuselage behind the wings and one in the belly—and can do 280 m.p.h.

The PE-2, a twin-engine bomber which carries a crew of three and a bomb load of 1,700 pounds at a top speed of 320 m.p.h.

The TB-7, most powerful known Soviet bomber. This ship has four liquid-cooled engines of 1,000 h.p. each, which pull the 22-ton craft at 300 m.p.h. for a range of 3,000 miles.

Although no performance accounts are available on Russia's giant six-engine L-760, which has been converted from a commercial transport to a bomber, some idea of its potentialities might be gained from the fact that as a transport it carried 64 passengers plus a crew of eight.

Its great weight of 90,000 pounds makes its top speed of 186 m.p.h. look pretty slow in comparison to that of a Boeing Fortress or a Consolidated Liberator, but with enough fighter protection it could do considerable damage.

Planes like these are the Russian Bear's wings, and they're doing a real job keeping Nazi planes out of Soviet skies.

SURVIVORS REACH TWO SIDES OF SEA

94 Seamen Land in South America, Others Go to Africa.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30 — (AP) Survivors from a heavily-manned British merchantman which fell victim to a German submarine in mid-December reached shore on both sides of the south Atlantic.

Of the 160 crewmen, most of them Indians, 94 are known to have found safety in South America,, and at least 14 of the others were reported in Africa. Most of the 52 missing men were believed safe. The 30 Europeans aboard all found haven.

One of the five lifeboats launched after two torpedo struck the ship was tied alongside the attacking submarine for 10 minutes while Third Officer Ralph Cooper was taken aboard the U-boat and questioned.

"Who's going to win the war?" the sub crewmen asked, bantering with Cooper in perfect English.

"Who do you think?" the officer responded.

Cooper was returned to the lifeboat, commanded by Chief Engineer William Salt of Scarborough, England.

The submarine gunners fired 38 shells at the hard-to-sink vessel, which finally went down after five hours. Salt said they were poor marksmen, and "I don't believe they could have sunk her if the torpedoes had not taken effect."

Another British vessel picked up two of the lifeboats, with 81 occupants in all, and landed the survivors in South America. Thirteen others were brought to the same port by a Brazilian warship.

The British consul at the port informed Salt that the captain, F. W. Penberthy, and others had been taken aboard a ship which docked in South Africa.

Hitler's Ten Year of Power Was to Have Been One of Jubilee

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ernest G. Fischer, writer of the following story, formerly was an Associated Press correspondent in Germany.

By ERNEST G. FISCHER

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 30—(AP) Today was to have been a day of jubilation in Germany.

Ten years ago today Adolf Hitler became chancellor, succeeding General Kurt von Schleicher, who had resigned two days previously in a maze of intrigue and treachery.

This year was to be one of jubilee—marking the tenth anniversary of such events as the burning of the Reichstag building, which was blamed on the Communists; and the repudiation of the articles in the Weimar constitution which provided for personal liberty, freedom of the press, the right of assembly, the inviolability of private dwellings and the sanctity of private property.

It was not until a year later, however, on Jan. 30, 1934, that the Third Reich took over the sovereign rights of the German states.

But, for the Nazis, 1943 was to be the big year. With the victory Hitler promised for 1941, party stalwarts envisaged the completion of the party buildings at Nuernberg soon after the war and a great party rally there during the decennial of Hitler's assumption of power.

The completed layout was to include a great assembly hall for the party, to seat 50,000 persons, a stadium to accommodate 405,000 spectators, and a great quadrangle, where Hitler's victorious legions could camp, and a parade ground, grandstand and reviewing stand where the conquering troops this year could receive the plaudits of the multitude and the commendation of the Fuehrer.

Some of the projects in 1941 were mere piles of stone along a railroad siding.

Could the structures be completed by 1943, the correspondents wanted to know?

Said the party guide: "Give us a year of peace and the Fuehrer will do wonders with this unfinished work."

LONDON,JAN. 30-(AP)-FOLLOWING IS THE BRITISH TEXT OF MARSHAL HERMAN GOERING'S SPEECH AS RECORDED IN GERMAN AND TRANSLATED IN LONDON:

MY COMRADES: TODAY YOU ARE STANDING HERE AS A DELEGATION OF THE ENTIRE GERMAN ARMED FORCES AND ON THIS DAY THERE IS TO BE A ROLLCALL ALSO DIRECTED TO ALL COMRADES OF THE ARMED FORCES, WHEREVER THEY STAND AT THIS MOMENT AND DO THEIR DUTY.

IT IS TO BE A ROLLCALL TO COMMEMORATE THE DAY ON WHICH THE FATE OF THE GERMAN REICH UNDERWENT A PROFOUND CHANGE, THIS DAY TEN YEARS AGO.

IT WAS EXACTLY AT THIS MINUTE THAT THE FUEHRER, THEN REICH COUNCELLOR HITLER, TOGETHER WITH HIS CLOSEST COLLABORATORS TOOK OATH BEFORE HINDENBURG.

JAN 31 1943

THIS OATH WAS NOT THE ORDINARY OATH OF MINISTERS OF THOSE GOVERNMENTS WHICH CHANGE THEIR MINISTERS EVER NOW AND THEN, BUT THIS OATH WAS MADE ON BEHALF OF THE PEOPLE.

AND FROM THAT MOMENT A NEW ERA IN THE HISTORY OF OUR NATION BEGAN. AN ERA WAU TO BEGIN WHICH HAD TO EXTINGUISH THE TERRIBLE PAST, LIQUIDATE THE FRIGHTFUL PRESENT AND BRING A GREAT FUTURE.

YOU KNOW BEST YOURSELVES WHAT THE SITUATION WAS AT THAT TIME. MILLIONS OF YOU, MAINLY WORKING PEOPLE, THEN HAD TO FEEL ALL THE MISERY THAT BURDENED THE GERMAN NATION. THAT WAS A TIME WHEN GERMANS HAD TO LOWER THEIR HEADS IN SHAME AT WHAT HAD HAPPENED IN THE LAST TWO DECADES SINCE THE CONCLUSION OF THE WORLD WAR.

IT WAS THE LOWEST DEPTH OF OUR HISTORY, SO LOW THAT ONLY VERY STRONG HEARTS WERE STILL ABLE TO BELIEVE IN RESURRECTION. THOSE DAYS WERE TIMES OF GRAY MISERY AND THUS THE TASK WAS TO DIRECT OUR EFFORTS TO THE FUTURE AND BUILD A NEW REICH.

JAN 31 1943

THIS IS WHY TODAY WE COMMEMORATE THAT TIME, BECAUSE THAT DAY CONSTITUTED A TURNING POINT OF FATE IN THE COURSE OF OUR EVOLUTION AS A NATION, A TURNING POINT OF FATE WHICH THE THEN LITTLE ARMED FORCES CALLED "REICHSWEHR" COULD NOT IGNORE EITHER.

JAN 31 1943

LONDON--FIRST ADD GOERING TEXT X X IGNORE EITHER.

MEN THEN IN POWER DID NOT WISH THE REICHSWEHR TO BE MORE THAN A MERE PARLIAMENTARY DEFENSE GUARD.

NOBODY THOUGHT THERE WAS EVEN THE REMOTEST POSSIBILITY OF COUNTERING ENEMY TRANSGRESSIONS OUTSIDE.

JAN 31 1943

THIS REICHSWEHR WAS TRANSFORMED INTO A MIGHTY PEOPLES' ARMY. IN THE COURSE OF THIS TRANSFORMATION ONE THING HAD BEEN RECOGNISED: THIS NEW PEOPLES' ARMY COULD ONLY BE BROUGHT UP ON THE BROAD BASIS OF A NEW PEOPLES COMMUNITY. JUST AS WE CREATED A NEW COMMUNITY WITHIN A PEOPLE, A COMMUNITY OF GERMAN PEOPLE AMONG EACH OTHER, FOR EACH OTHER. JUST AS OLD USELESS BALLAST HAD BEEN THROWN OVERBOARD AND A BREAK HAD BEEN MADE WITH OUTMODED VIEWS, THE SAME ALSO BECAME NECESSARY FOR THE FIGHTERS OF OUR NEW ARMED FORCES.

IT USED TO BE SAID 'FOR GOD'S SAKE, DON'T LET US CARRY ANY POLITICS INTO THE ARMED FORCES. ARMED FORCES OF THE REICHSWEHR MUST REMAIN ALOOF FROM POLITICS OF EVERY KIND'. HOWEVER, MY COMRADES, ONLY HE CAN FIGHT WHO TAKES PART WITH A PASSIONATE SOUL IN THE PROCESS OF HIS PEOPLES' INTEGRATION. THAT IS WHAT WE CALL GREAT POLITICS. THEY MUST SHARE, ABOVE ALL, WORLD VIEWS ON WHOSE BASIS GREAT POLITICS ARE SHARED.

IF ANY PART OF OUR PEOPLE MUST ABSORB A WORLD VIEW AND UNCOMPROMISINGLY AND WITH CRYSTAL CLARITY STAND UP FOR IT, IT IS

30.24 - 751

THE ARMED FORCES.

ONLY HE WHO GETS CLARITY ON THIS ISSUE, ONLY HE WHO HAS ABSORBED THE FUND OF THOUGHTS WHICH OUR FUEHRER HAS CREATED IN ITS ENTIRETY WILL GLEAN FROM IT THAT SUPREME STRENGTH WHICH IT IS CAPABLE OF GIVING. THIS WORLD VIEW IS NOT ONE OF WEAKNESS. IT NOT A WORLD VIEW OF DESTRUCTION, NOR IS IT ONE THAT PREACHES EASY LIFE.

JAN 31 1943

OUR WORLD VIEW, ON THE CONTRARY, CULMINATES IN THE THOUGHT THAT ONE IS UNDER OBLIGATION TO STAKE AND GIVE EVERYTHING, LITERALLY EVERYTHING--EVEN HIS LIFE--AT EVERY HOUR FOR THE SAKE OF HIS NATION'S EXISTENCE.

IN FORMER TIMES IT HAS NOT BEEN BELIEVED POSSIBLE THAT 10 YEARS SHOULD SUFFICE TO BRING

JAN 31 1943

BOUT SUCH A FUNDAMENTAL CHANGE, BUT THERE WERE TWO PREREQUISITES WHICH MADE THIS POSSIBLE--A NATION WHICH WAS FUNDAMENTALLY AND INNATELY HONORABLE, DECENT AND COURAGEOUS, AND A LEADER WHO IS GREATEST GERMAN OF HISTORY.

FOR WHAT I NOW AM SAYING APPLIES ESPECIALLY TO THE ARMED FORCES, PARTICULARLY TO THEIR LEADERS: ALWAYS, EVERYWHERE, FOLLOWERS CAN ONLY BE JUDGED BY THEIR LEADER. FOLLOWERS MODEL THEMSELVES ON THEIR LEADER AND OF THIS WE HAVE SEEN AN EXAMPLE IN OURSELVES.

THE SAME PEOPLE, THE SAME HUMAN BEINGS WHO FOR FOUR AND A HALF YEARS STOOD FIRM AND FOUGHT IN ALL THE BATTLES OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR, THESE SAME PEOPLE LATER ON BECAME WEAK. SO WEAK AS TO BE COWARDLY AND WRETCHED. THEY BECAME FILTHY IN MIND. YET THESE SAME PEOPLE AGAIN ANOTHER TWO DECADES LATER WERE CAPABLE OF CARVING THEMSELVES A NEW FATE. THEY BECAME BRAVE AGAIN--THEY AGAIN BECAME DECENT, AND WHY?

30.24 - 751

WE NEED ONLY LOOK AT THEIR LEADERSHIP MIRRORED IN THEM.

NEVER, NEVER SHOULD A SOLDIER, IN SPITE OF THE MOST TERRIBLE BATTLES HE HAD TO FIGHT, HAVE HAD HIS SWORD FORCED FROM HIS HAND AT THAT TIME. IT WAS HYPOCRITICAL LYING PROMISES FROM THE OUTSIDE, THE COWARDLY SPIRIT OF THE PEOPLES' LEADERSHIP FROM THE INSIDE WHICH BROUGHT ABOUT THIS COLLAPSE, WHICH WAS NOT CAUSED BY ANY MILITARY FACTORS AT ALL.

TRUE, TIMES WERE HARD AND STERN FOR THEM, BUT IN NO WAY SUCH AS CAPITULATION.

JAN 31 1943

THESE TEN YEARS DURING WHICH A NEW NATION WAS BUILT ALSO WITNESSED THE BEGINNING OF A STRUGGLE FROM ABROAD. AGAINST THIS GERMANY, WHICH HAD ONLY JUST TERMINATED HER INTERNAL BATTLE AND UNIFIED HERSELF WITHIN HER FRONTIERS, WELDED HER FORCES TOGETHER.

NOW BEGAN THE BATTLE FROM WITHOUT. SURELY THIS BATTLE WAS NOTHING NEW TO US. EVERY TIME THE GERMAN REICH DESIRED TO BECOME STRONG AND WAS FAVORED BY STRONG LEADERSHIP AND WISHED TO UNIFY ITSELF OR BECAME STRONG AND UNIFIED, IT REGULARLY ENCOUNTERED THE SAME OPPONENTS.

PLUTOCRACY MEANS EXPLOITATION OF THE WORKING PEOPLE--BOLSHEVISM MEANS DESTRUCTION OF THE PEOPLE AND ITS ENSLAVEMENT IN MISERY. BOTH ARE LED, BOTH UNITED BY JEWS. EVERYONE OF YOU MUST AT SOME TIME RECOGNISE THAT IN THIS STRUGGLE, WHICH DEVELOPED INTO A SECOND AND EVEN MORE GIGANTIC WORLD WAR, WE HAVE IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS TO SEE A STRUGGLE BETWEEN IDEOLOGIES AND RACES.

JAN 31 1943

EVEN IF IT BE REGARDED AS IMAGINATION ON OUR PART, WE BELIEVE FATE HAS DESTINED THE NORDIC -- GERMANIC RACE TO BE THE BEARER OF

THE HIGHEST CULTURAL ACHIEVEMENTS AND HIGHEST VALUES OF HUMANITY. THE GERMAN REICH OF TODAY FEELS ITSELF THE STRONGEST REPRESENTATIVE OF THE NORDIC-GERMANIC CONCEPTION OF LIFE.

DO NOT LET US FORGET, HOWEVER, THAT AMONG ALL OUR ENEMIES THERE WAS ONE WHO WAS UNIFIED AND MOULDED BY IDEALOGY.

BE CONVINCED, MY COMRADES, RUSSIA WOULD LONG AGO HAVE COLLAPSED UNDER THE BLOWS SHE HAS SUSTAINED IF HER RESISTANCE HAD NOT BEEN BASED ON THE BRUTAL EXPLOITATION OF BOLSHEVIK IDEALOGY AS EXPRESSED BY ITS REPRESENTATIVES.

JAN 31 1943

THIS AGAIN LEADS US BACK TO THE SAME ROSTRUM ON WHICH WE ONCE STOOD DURING THE INTERNAL STRIFE, BUT NOW WE FACE OUTWARDS.

THE STRUGGLE IN THE INTERIOR OF THE REICH WAS IN THOSE DAYS SURELY DIRECTED TOWARDS THE SAME AIMS. THE RIDICULOUS BOURGEOIS PARTIES AND THEIR ADHERENTS WERE IN REALITY NOT WORTHY OF BATTLE. THESE VACILLATING POLITICAL FIGURES COUNTED FOR NOTHING AT ALL.

WE HAD ONLY ONE OPPONENT AND OUR OPPONENT EVEN IN THOSE DAYS WAS COMMUNISM. THE WHOLE FATE OF GERMANY EVEN THEN DEPENDED ON WHICH OF THESE TWO IDEALOGIES WOULD WIN: THAT OF DESTRUCTION OR THAT OF CONSTRUCTION.

LONDON--4TH ADD GOERING TEXT X X X CONSTRUCTION.

JAN 31 1943

THIS WAS AN INTERNAL STRUGGLE, WHETHER GERMANY COULD RISE AGAIN OR WHETHER SHE WAS TO PERISH IN A BOLSHEVIK ORGY OF BLOOD.

TODAY THE SAME ISSUE IS AT STAKE IN THE EXTERNAL SPHERE. THE ONLY DIFFERENCE IS THAT THE FIGHT TODAY IS BEING WAGED IN A DIFFERENT FORM.

HERE AGAIN I NEED NOT RECALL THE GIGANTIC BATTLES AND UNIQUE VICTORIES IN POLAND, NORWAY, HOLLAND, BELGIUM, FRANCE, YUGOSLAVIA, GREECE AND THE BALKANS, IN THE AIR, ON THE SEAS, BELOW THE SEAS.

EVERYWHERE GERMAN ARMS WERE VICTORIOUS. GERMAN PEOPLE BEGAN TO BELIEVE VICTORIES WERE A MATTER OF COURSE.

FATE, HOWEVER, DOES NOT SO EASILY GIVE AWAY ITS PRESENTS, ESPECIALLY NOT GREAT THINGS. HERE FATE MAKES ITS LAST TEST.

JAN 31 1943

WE THOUGHT AND THE NATION PERHAPS BELIEVED THAT WE HAD BEEN VICTORIOUS EVERYWHERE, THAT THE WAR MIGHT SOON BE OVER.

THE EAST WAS NOT REGARDED AS BEING FRAUGHT WITH DANGER. WE EVEN HAD AN ECONOMIC AGREEMENT. IN ADDITION, IT WAS THOUGHT THAT WAR HAD JUST BEEN ENDED IN THE EAST, A WAR OF SOME MONTHS' DURATION. A SMALL, IMMENSELY BRAVE AND DETERMINED NATION HAD WARDED OFF GREAT RUSSIA. WHAT DANGER COULD SPRING UPON THIS STATE FROM THE EAST?

YES, INDEED, THIS MAY HAVE BEEN SO FROM A PURELY SUPERFICIAL POINT OF VIEW.

JAN 31 1943

IT WAS A VERY DIFFICULT SITUATION AND NEEDED THE WHOLE SEVERITY OF LAST WINTER TO REALISE THAT THE FIRST WAR AGAINST FINLAND WAS PERHAPS THE MOST INGENIOUS AND GREATEST CAMOUFLAGE WHICH WORLD HISTORY SO FAR HAS SEEN.

WHILE THE RUSSIANS DEPLOYED SOME ARMIES FOR THE FIGHT IN FINLAND AND PARTLY EVEN WITH ANTIQUATED WEAPONS, THEY HAD LONG AGO THROUGHOUT ONE AND A HALF DECADES BUILT UP THE MOST GIGANTIC ARMAMENT A NATION HAD EVER CREATED.

EVER SINCE RUSSIA BEGAN SURGING TO THE WEST A RAMPART AROSE IN EUROPE, AND THIS RAMPART CONSISTED OF GERMANS.

I AM SURE NO ONE CAN CONTRADICT THIS STATEMENT. ALWAYS PRUSSO-

30.24-753

GERMANY HAS BEEN A WALL ON WHICH EASTERN HORDES WERE CRUSHED. TODAY GERMANY STANDS ON GUARD FOR THE WHOLE OF EUROPE.

WHETHER THEY ARE ALLIES, FRIENDS, NEUTRAL, HOSTILE OR FRIENDLY, THEY ALL MUST REALIZE AND THEY DO REALIZE THAT IF THIS GERMANY WERE TO COLLAPSE THE RUSSIANS WOULD NOT STOP OUT OF SHEER RESPECT SO AS NOT TO VIOLATE, LET US SAY, SWEDISH OR SWISS NEUTRALITY. AT THAT VERY MOMENT BOLSHEVISM WOULD SWEEP ACROSS EUROPE TO ITS TIP.

RUSSIA, WHILE TRYING TO MEET GERMANY'S ECONOMIC REQUIREMENTS, PUT THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON ITS IMMENSE REARMAMENT AND ATTEMPTED FOOLISHLY TO BEGIN ENCIRCLEMENT.

JAN 31 1943

MOLOTOV MADE US UNDERSTAND THAT A VERY GOOD UNDERSTANDING WITH GERMANY WAS ALSO POSSIBLE IN THE FUTURE IF THE RUSSIANS COULD HAVE THE SWEDISH ORE MINES AND THOSE ICEFREE PORTS THEY ALWAYS WANTED TO POSSESS.

LONDON 5TH ADD GOERING TEXT X X X TO POSSESS.

ON THE OTHER SIDE HE WANTED TO DECLARE RUMANIA AS HIS SPHERE OF INTEREST. THAT MEANS HE WANTED TO TAKE RUMANIA AND POCKET RUMANIAS OIL, THEN HE WANTED TO PENETRATE FROM RUMANIA VIA BULGARIA INTO THE BALKANS. HE WANTED TO APPEAR AS THE LIBERATOR OF ALL SLAVS AND HE INTENDED TO ACT WITH WHATEVER MASK SEEMED APPROPRIATE--ONCE WITH THE PANSLAV MASK, ONCE WITH THE BOLSHEVIK MASK.

JAN 31 1943

IN SUCH A WAY SLOWLY THIS ADVANCE ON THE RIGHT AND LEFT FLANK WAS TO BEGIN AND WHEN HE ONCE HAD REACHED THE FLANKS AND REAR OF GERMANY HE WOULD HAVE ALSO REACHED THE REAR OF EUROPE.

THINK FOR A MOMENT IN WHAT A SITUATION THE FUEHRER FOUND HIMSELF WHEN, WITH HIS POLITICAL GENIUS, HE RECOGNISED THE DEADLY DANGER. CERTAINLY THERE WERE WEAKLINGS AT THAT TIME WHO SAID THE RUSSIANS HAD

30.24-753

THREE FOUR, FIVE TIMES MORE TANKS AND 10 TIMES MORE PLANES THAN WE THOUGHT THEY HAD. FOR THE FIRST TIME THE RUSSIANS HAD AT THAT TIME PERMITTED GERMAN ENGINEERS TO VISIT THEIR ARMAMENT WORKS. THEY ARE THE BIGGEST ONE CAN IMAGINE. THEREFORE, FOR GOD'S SAKE DON'T ATTACK RUSSIA, DON'T PROVOKE HER. SUCH WAS ALWAYS THE ATTITUDE OF COWARDS.

AT THAT TIME IN GERMANY THERE WERE A NUMBER OF MORE OR LESS PROMINENT PEOPLE WHO CARRIED OUT THE OSTRICH POLICY. THEY DID NOT WANT TO SEE OR HEAR WITH THEIR HEAD IN THE SAND THAT SUCH A POLICY MEANT THE DESTRUCTION OF GERMANY AND EUROPE.

THE FUEHRER'S DECISION WAS TO TRY AND STEM THIS WAVE OF BLOOD AND FINALLY DESTROY WHAT OTHERWISE SOONER OR LATER WAS BOUND TO BECOME OUR RUIN. HISTORY JUDGING THE FUEHRER MAY SAY THAT THIS OR THAT WAS THE MORE GIGANTIC EVENT. IT WILL HAVE TO CONCLUDE THAT ON JUNE 22, 1941 THE MOST TREMENDOUS AND HISTORICALLY MOST IMPORTANT AND ALSO THE MOST DARINGLY ADMIRABLE DECISION WAS MADE BY A STRONG HEART.

GERMAN ARMED FORCES STORMED VICTORIOUSLY INTO RUSSIA IN SPITE OF EVERYTHING. VICTORY FOLLOWED VICTORY. ONE DIVISION, ONE ARMY AFTER ANOTHER WAS ANNIHILATED.

JAN 31 1943

THEN CAME FATE AND IMPOSED A TEST ON THIS NATION WHICH HAD BEEN RUSHING FROM VICTORY TO VICTORY. IT DID NOT WANT TO MAKE THE LAST DECISION TOO EASY FOR THE NATION. NOT THE ENEMY BUT THE ELEMENTS ROSE UP AND FOR THE FIRST TIME CALLED A HALT TO OUR VICTORIOUS TROOPS.

"THE ICY RUSSIAN WINTER SET IN WITH UNIMAGINABLE GRIMNESS AND POWER. ABOUT THIS I NEED NOT TALK EITHER, BECAUSE MANY OF YOU BEEN THROUGH IT. I NEED NOT MENTION THE SEVERITY OF THE FIGHTING OR WEAKNESS VARIOUS COMMANDERS.

"IT WAS THE FUEHRER AGAIN WHO, DESPITE WEAKLINGS WHO WERE WAILING,

WITH HIS STRENGTH HELD THE EASTERN FRONT; AND IT WAS THIS STRENGTH, HIS GENIUS FROM WHICH, AFTER THE WORLD HAD BELIEVED THE GERMAN ARMED FORCES HAD BEEN SMASHED IN THE EAST, THE GERMAN FORCES LAUNCHED A POWERFUL NEW THRUST, AND AGAIN ROUTED ENEMY IN BATTLE AFTER BATTLE.

"THEN CAME THE DAY WHEN FOR FIRST TIME GERMAN TANK GRENADIERS AND SAPPERS PENETRATED INTO FORTRESS OF STALINGRAD, CLUTCHED THE BANK OF THE VOLGA, RIVER OF RUSSIA'S FATE.

JAN 31 1943

"THEN CAME THE SECOND RUSSIAN WINTER. THE ELEMENTS WERE LESS SEVERE THAN IN FIRST, BUT THEN A TREMENDOUS ARC WAS STRETCHED AND THE LAST MAN WAS NEEDED TO HOLD IT. ALTHOUGH WINTER DID NOT REACH THE EXTREME GRIMNESS OF PREVIOUS YEARS, IT WAS STILL FIERCE ENOUGH TO BIND EVERYTHING IN ICE.

"NOW WE ARE WITNESSING HOW ENEMY IS MAKING HIS LAST EFFORT--A GIGANTIC EFFORT WE MUST ADMIT.

"NEW DIVISIONS ARE BEING FORMED. OTHER ARE BEING REPLENISHED. HOWEVER THESE ARE NOT NEW CLASSES FLOCKING TO COLORS WITH JUBILATION. NOT ONLY TIRED OLD MEN BUT BOYS OF SIXTEEN ARE BEING ABSORBED INTO MOST ADVANCED BATTALIONS.

"BEHIND THESE BATTALIONS, THE NUMBER OF MACHINEGUNS AND GROUPS AND COMMISSARS IS BEING TREBELED AND QUADRUPLED. THUS THE RUSSIAN SOLDIER IS BEING DRIVEN TO DEATH.

JAN 31 1943

"AND WITH THESE HUGE MASSES WHICH HE HAS NOW GOT TOGETHER HE MANAGED TO BREAK IN HERE AND THERE. AND IT IS DIFFICULT TO FIGHT IN RUSSIA AND MORE DIFFICULT STILL IN THE RUSSIAN WINTER.

"BUT WE MAY BE INSPIRED BY A WONDERFUL FEELING--THE GERMAN FIGHTER CAN RESIST AND HE HAS IN FACT RESISTED. IT IS PERHAPS GIVEN ONLY TO A FEW TO BE ABLE TO WRESTLE WITH SUCH AN ADVERSARY.

"HOWEVER WE ALONE SHALL DECIDE. IT ALL DEPENDS ON US; WITH GREATEST RESPECT TO OTHER NATIONS THERE IS NO NATION IN EUROPE ABLE TO BREAK RUSSIA AND TO DESTROY BOLSHEVISM--ONLY GERMANY CAN DO THAT.

B9

JAN 31 1943

"BUT I AM CONVINCED THAT THIS IS HIS LAST FLING.

"HIS LAST RESERVES COULD ONLY BE SQUEEZED OUT BECAUSE THIS HARDNESS IS NO LONGER HARDNESS BUT BARBARISM, BECAUSE RUSSIANS JUST NO LONGER RESPECT THEIR OWN HUMAN LIVES. FOR THEM THEY REPRESENT JUST SO MUCH HUMAN MATERIAL THAT THEY NEED TO CARRY OUT THEIR PLANS

LIVES. FOR THEM THEY REPRESENT JUST SO MUCH HUMAN MATERIAL THAT THEY NEED TO CARRY OUT THEIR PLANS.

"THIS LEADERSHIP IS BRUTAL TO EXTREME. AND YET IN SPITE OF THAT WE HAVE BEATEN THEM SO FAR, AND WE WILL BEAT THEM AGAIN.

"AND OUT OF ALL THESE TERRIFIC BATTLES, LIKE A GIGANTIC MONUMENT THE BATTLE FOR STALINGRAD STANDS OUT. ONE DAY THIS WILL BE REGARDED AS THE GREATEST AND MOST HEROIC BATTLE THAT EVER WAS FOUGHT IN OUR HISTORY; THAT WHICH OUR GRENADIERS, SAPPERS, ARTILLERISTS AND WHOEVER ELSE THERE MAY BE IN THE CITY, FROM GENERAL DOWN TO THE LAST MAN ARE DOING THERE, THOSE WHO ARE FIGHTING THERE AGAINST GIGANTIC SUPERIORITY, FOR EVERY BLOCK HOLE AND DITCH, FIGHTING AND EVER AGAIN FIGHTING, WORN OUT AND EXHAUSTED.

"SUCH A BATTLE IS WAGED THERE TODAY, AND EVERY GERMAN STILL IN A

30.24-755

THOUSAND YEARS WILL PRONOUNCE THE WORD "STALINGRAD" WITH HOLY RESPECT AND WILL REMEMBER THAT IT WAS THERE THAT GERMANY FINALLY CAST THE DIE OF FINAL VICTORY.

JAN 31 1943

"FOR PEOPLE WHO CAN FIGHT LIKE THAT MUST WIN.

"ENGLAND HAS NEVER UNDERSTOOD EUROPE, ENGLAND WAS NEVER CAPABLE OF STANDING UP FOR EUROPE.

"ENGLAND HAD HER EMPIRE, WHICH WE NEVER ENVIED HER. ENGLAND WAS NEVER THE POWER TO SHED HER BLOOD FOR EUROPEAN INTERESTS.

"IN THIS MOMENT, HOWEVER, ENGLAND IS COMMITTING EUROPEAN TREACHERY OF A MOST OVERWHELMING DEGREE.

IT IS AN OVERWHELMING TREACHERY AGAINST THE WHOLE FATE OF WESTERN CIVILIZATION.

JAN 31 1943

GERMANY HAS BECOME THE GUARANTOR OF EUROPEAN FATE, OF ITS CULTURE, AND OF ITS VERY LIFE. THAT IS THE SUBLIME MEANING OF THIS SACRIFICE.

THIS SACRIFICE, MY COMRADES, IS SOMETHING WHICH MAY BE DEMANDED OF EVERY ONE OF YOU AT ANY TIME AND ANYWHERE. EVERY SINGLE MEMBER OF OUR GIGANTIC ARMY OF MILLIONS--WHEREVER HE MAY FIGHT--SHOULD THINK OF THE STALINGRAD FIGHTERS IF HE SHOULD EVER FEEL HIMSELF WEAKENING. HE WILL THEN ALSO BECOME HARD AND AS OF IRON.

THE FIGHTERS OF STALINGRAD HAVE NOW TAKEN THE BURDEN OF THIS HEROIC STRUGGLE ON THEIR SHOULDERS. HAD THEY NOT BROUGHT THESE 60 OR 70 OR EVEN 80 RUSSIAN DIVISIONS ON THEMSELVES, HAD THEY ALSO BROKE OUT THEN WITH THE OTHERS, THE RUSSIANS WOULD PROBABLY HAVE ATTAINED THEIR OBJECTIVE. NOW THEY ARE TOO LATE. GERMAN RESISTANCE HAS BEEN ORGANIZED. IT COULD BE ORGANIZED AND NEW LINES FORTIFIED

30.24-755

BECAUSE OUT THERE -- IN THE WRECKAGE OF THAT TOWN -- HEROES FOUGHT AND ARE STILL FIGHTING.

AND EVEN IF THERE ARE ONLY A FEW OF THEM, AS LONG AS ONE SINGLE ONE REMAINS THE FIGHT GOES ON AND THE RUSSIANS KNOW IT. THEY CAN DRAW OFF NO FORCES. THEY MUST STAY THERE. RESISTANCE IS STILL GIGANTIC.

JAN 31 1943

THIS LAW EVERYONE MUST OBEY---THE LAW TO DIE FOR GERMANY WHENEVER THE LIFE OF GERMANY MAKES THIS DEMAND UPON YOU. THIS IS NOT ONLY BINDING ON US AS SOLDIERS. THIS HEROIC SACRIFICE IS BINDING ON THE WHOLE GERMAN NATION. NOT THAT IT SHOULD NOW GRUMBLE AND NAG WHETHER THIS OR THAT WAS NECESSARY: WHETHER THE FIGHTERS REALLY HAD TO MAKE A STAND AT STALINGRAD OR NOT--THEY HAD TO MAKE THE STAND--THE LAW ORDERED THEM TO DO SO--THE LAW OF HONOR BUT ALSO ABOVE ALL THE LAW OF THE CONDUCT OF WAR.

THIS LAW OF WARFARE IS NOT DESIGNED FOR ANY OTHER REASON THAN FOR THE SALVATION OF OUR NATION. IT IS IN THE LAST RESORT OF NO CONCERN TO THE SOLDIER--THIS MAY SOUND HARSH--WHETHER HE IS BURIED AT STALINGRAD OR IN THE DESERTS OF AFRICA OR IN THE FAR NORTH IN THE ICE OF NORWAY. IF HE MAKES HIS SACRIFICE IT IS OF EQUAL GREATNESS AND HE ALWAYS SACRIFICES HIMSELF SO THAT HIS NATION MAY LIVE.

IF NOW THE FUEHRER HAS ORDERED US TO MOBILIZE ALL THE FORCES OF THE GERMAN NATION, ALL THE FORCES OF MEN AND WOMEN, THIS IS REALLY A MATTER OF COURSE. THE GERMAN NATION WILL TAKE THIS BURDEN UPON ITS SHOULDERS IN GREATNESS AND WILL UNDERSTAND IT IN THE LIGHT OF HOW IT SHOULD BE UNDERSTOOD. THERE WILL BE SOME GRUMBLERS WHO OBJECT TO IT BUT THEY DO NOT REALIZE THAT WE HAVE HAD WAR FOR THREE AND

A HALF YEARS AND THEY DO NOT KNOW THAT IN THESE YEARS THEY HAVE BEEN PRACTICALLY UNDISTURBED IN THEIR INDOLENCE WHEN ON THE FRONTS OTHERS FIGHTING HAVE SACRIFICED THEIR LIVES. SUCH SACRIFICE MEANS THAT EVERYONE SHOULD HURRY TO DO HIS BIT.

THESE TIMES DEMAND HARDNESS EVERYWHERE.

IN THIS WAY I CALL OUT IN MY APPEAL TO THE ARMED FORCES AND I ALSO APPEAL TO THE WHOLE GERMAN PEOPLE. I CALL UPON EVERYONE TO PREPARE THEMSELVES FOR THE HIGHEST SACRIFICE; FOR THE LAST EFFORT MAY EVERYONE GIVE ALL HE CAN GIVE.

THINGS ARE NOT AS OUR ADVERSARY WOULD INTERPRET THEM.

WE ARE NOT AT THE END OF OUR TETHER.

NO, WHENEVER THE BATTLE ASSUMES SUCH GIGANTIC PROPORTIONS IN HEROISM, COMFORTABLE AND SATIATED LIFE CANNOT BE LED ANYWHERE.

JAN 31 1943

THEN EVERYONE MUST FEEL HIMSELF A FIGHTER AT THE FRONT AND IN THE HOMELAND PREPARED FOR SACRIFICE, HERE AS WELL AS THERE.

IT IS HARD AND DIFFICULT, I KNOW, WHEN BOMBS RAIN DOWN KILLING WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

IT IS FRIGHTFUL BUT THIS BLOW MUST BE BORNE AS WELL.

IT MUST NOT FOR A MOMENT MAKE US WEAK.

JAN 31 1943

YOU CAN MAKE AN ARRANGEMENT WITH GOD KNOWS WHOM, GENTLEMEN, BUT YOU CANNOT MAKE AN ARRANGEMENT WITH BOLSHEVIKS. THIS WILL ALWAYS BE ONE-SIDED. ONE OF US MUST GO.

THE FIGHT HERE, THEREFORE, IS NOT WHETHER THERE IS MORE OR LESS TO PAY FOR THE WAR, WHETHER ONE OR ANOTHER PROVINCE MORE HAS TO BE SURRENDERED. NO, THIS TIME THE ISSUE IS SOLELY WHETHER THE GERMAN PEOPLE ARE TO BE FINALLY DESTROYED AS THE GERMAN PEOPLE, AND THESE INFERNAL THOUGHTS OF DESTRUCTION ARE EMBEDDED IN THE BRAINS ON THE OTHER SIDE.

IT IS AFTER ALL THE JEW WHO LEADS OVER THERE. ONE NEEDS TO KNOW THE JEW ONCE IN ALL HIS OLD TESTAMENT HATRED AND ONE KNOWS EXACTLY WHAT IS TO COME.

JAN 31 1943

EVERYONE WHO DOES NOT WANT TO FIGHT WILL BE KILLED JUST THE SAME, SO THEN IT IS BETTER TO FIGHT AND BY FIGHTING TO ACHIEVE VICTORY AND FREEDOM AND TO ESCAPE DESTRUCTION.

IN HOURS WHEN SOME OF YOU ARE PLAGUED BY DEPRESSION AND IDLE THOUGHTS AND SOME ARE TALKING FOOLISHLY, THEN ALWAYS LOOK AT THE FUEHRER AND THINK OF THE FUEHRER.

LET HIM BE YOUR GRAND EXAMPLE, THIS MAN WHO KNOWS NOT REST NOR PEACE, THE MAN ON WHOM FINALLY ALL WORRIES ARE UNBURDENED, WHO HAS TO CARRY ALL AND DECIDE ALL. EVERYONE OF US HAS SOMEONE ELSE WHO STANDS ABOVE HIM AND CARES FOR HIM. THE FUEHRER IS LAST.

HE STANDS ALONE.

ONLY HIS OWN STRENGTH AND ONLY HIS OWN STRONG HEART ARE ABLE TO HOLD HIM UP.

FOR HIM NO ONE ELSE CAN THINK, FOR HIM NO ONE CAN ORGANIZE AND ACT. THAT HE MUST DO HIMSELF.

HE IS NOT ONLY THE ORGANIZER OF OUR GIGANTIC FORCES, HE IS ALSO THE MILITARY LEADER WHO GUIDES THEM AND HE IS THE LEADER OF OUR WHOLE PEOPLE.

NOW I AM ADDRESSING ALL THE SOLDIERS OF THE ARMED FORCES FROM FIELD MARSHAL TO RECRUIT.

THE SITUATION CAN NEVER BE SO BAD FOR US THAT WE WOULD NOT HAVE

30.24 - 757

THE STRENGTH TO MASTER IT.

COMPARE FOR ONCE THE YEAR 1932.

WE WHO FOUGHT WITH THE PARTY THEN HAD TO FACE SITUATIONS MUCH MORE HOPELESS. AND AFTER ALL WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

WE HAVE HAD TEMPORARILY TO GIVE UP CERTAIN TERRITORY IN THIS GIGANTIC COUNTRY SO THAT WE COULD ORGANIZE ALL THAT THE THOUSANDS OF FIGHTERS ARE SACRIFICING THEMSELVES FOR.

THAT HAS HAPPENED IN ALL WARS.

IT WILL BE AN HONOR FOR ALL OF US AND YOU TO FACE A SIMILAR SITUATION ONCE.

JAN 31 1943

THE DECISIVE THING IS TO BE HARD. IF WE ARE HARD ENOUGH TOWARDS OURSELVES AND IF IN THE ARMED FORCES OUR LEADERS AND MEN CRYSTALIZE THE INCARNATION OF THE HARDEST WILL, AND IF AT HOME MEN AND WOMEN NO MATTER HOW OLD HAVE THE SAME STRONG WILL TO BE HARD IN THEIR WORK, THEN YOU KNOW WE HAVE DESERVED FULLY OUR VICTORY.

MEASURES HAVE BEEN TAKEN AND, DURING THE NEXT FEW DAYS MORE WILL BE TAKEN, IN ORDER TO ORGANIZE AND PUT INTO EFFECT THE TOTAL WAR.

JAN 31 1943

OUR NATIONAL SOCIALIST PARTY IS A SINGLE PROOF THAT WE NATIONAL SOCIALISTS ARE ABLE TO DO THIS AND THAT, WHENEVER NECESSARY, WE WILL SHOW THE STRENGTH AND ENTHUSIASM FOR IT.

LEADERSHIP EXPECTS FROM THE PEOPLE NOT ONLY THAT ORDERS AND LAWS BE CARRIED OUT. EVERYBODY HAS TO PUT HIMSELF IN ADDITION AT DISPOSAL FOR EVERY WAR-IMPORTANT WORK, BECAUSE HE KNOWS THAT THE FUEHRER CALLED UPON HIM TO DO SO.

AGAINST SABOTEURS OF OUR WARFARE, WE WILL KNOW HOW TO PROCEED

30.24 - 757

WITH THE HARDEST PENALTIES. X X X BUT THEIR NUMBER IS UNIMPORTANT COMPARED TO THE NATION; THUS THEY HARDLY MERIT TO BE PUBLICLY CHASTISED.

(GOEBBELS THEN READ THE HITLER PROCLAMATION.)

IF WE LOOK TODAY AT THE FUEHRER, IT IS IN HIM THAT WE SEE THE GUARANTEE OF THE COMING FINAL VICTORY.

WHAT ARE, IN COMPARISON TO HIS HISTORIC STATURE, THE POLITICAL KNIGHTS OF FORTUNE SUCH AS ROOSEVELT, CHURCHILL OR STALIN?

FUEHRER, GIVE THE ORDER. WE FOLLOW. (END)

BRLONDON- SOMBER HITLER CELEBRATION

THE GERMAN RADIO, USUALLY ALIVE ON JAN.30 WITH BRIGHT MUSIC, HAPPY TIDINGS FROM THE FRONT AND BOMBASTIC ORATIONS, WAS POURING OUT DETAILS OF THE NEW DECREE DRAFTING ALL MEN FROM 16 TO 65 AND ALL WOMEN FROM 17 TO 45.

JAN 31 1943

A MOSCOW BROADCAST, QUOTING STOCKHOLM ADVICES, SAID HEINRICH HIMMLER, GESTAPO CHIEFTAIN, HAD BEEN DESIGNATED GENERAL COMMISSIONER IN CHARGE OF THE NEW GERMAN "TOTAL MOBILIZATION" PROGRAM.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT GOEBBELS WOULD READ A PROCLAMATION FROM HITLER OVER THE RADIO AT 4 P.M. (11 A.M., EASTERN WAR TIME) WAS TAKEN HERE AS AN INDICATION THAT THE FUEHER MIGHT FOREGO HIS USUAL ADDRESS, BUT IN WARTIME HITLER'S PLANS RARELY ARE ANNOUNCED IN ADVANCE.

REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING, IT WAS ANNOUNCED, WILL ADDRESS A MESSAGE TO THE ARMY AND ARTHUR AXMANN, YOUTH LEADER, WILL SPEAK TO GERMAN YOUTH.

THE MELANCHOLY TONE OF THE GERMAN PRESS, WHICH HAS BEEN PREPARING THE GERMANS FOR SORRY NEWS IN RECENT DAYS, WAS INDICATED IN STOCKHOLMS DISPATCHES QUOTING AN ARTICLE IN THE FRANKFURTER ZEITUNG.

APPEALING TO ALL GERMANS TO GET BEHIND THE WAR MACHINE, THE PAPER SAID "SOME MUST OFFER BLOOD, OTHERS SWEAT," AND ADDED THAT "DEFEAT WOULD TRANSFORM GERMANY INTO A MUSEUM SUCH AS GREECE AFTER THE ROMAN CONQUEST."

FRITZ SAUCKEL WAS QUOTED IN A DNB BROADCAST FROM BERLIN AS SAYING THAT "IT'S NOT STALINGRAD, BUT THE FACT THAT THE WAR IS REACHING A CLIMAX WHICH HAS LED TO THE MOBILIZATION OF ALL GERMANS."

ECONOMICS MINISTER WALTHER FUNK WAS QUOTED IN ANOTHER BROADCAST AS ANNOUNCING THAT MANY BUSINESSES STILL OPERATING WOULD HAVE TO CLOSE DESPITE THE FACT THAT "MANY THOUSANDS OF FIRMS ALREADY HAVE CLOSED DOWN BY COMMAND IN CONNECTION WITH INDUSTRIAL RATIONALIZATION AND STANDARDIZATION MEASURES."

JAN 31 1943

OTHER BROADCASTS EMPHASIZED GERMANY'S "EMPHATIC DETERMINATION TO FIGHT AND WIN" AND ONE SAID "GERMANY WILL FIGHT THROUGH TO THE END."

OBSERVERS HERE SAID THE UNFAVORABLE DISPATCHES ORDERED BY GOEBBELS RECENTLY WERE ISSUED BY "VIRTUE OF NECESSITY" BECAUSE HE FELT IT NECESSARY TO ACQUAINT THE GERMAN PEOPLE WITH REVERSES WHICH ALREADY WERE BEGINNING TO LEAK OUT.

"IN TELLING SOME TRUTHS," THIS SOURCE SAID, "THE NAZIS ARE TRYING AT THE SAME TIME TO GET A GREATER EFFORT AND INDUCE FURTHER SACRIFICES."

BERLIN RAID SEPARATE

BY HELMAN MORIN

JAN 31 1943

LONDON, JAN 30-(AP)-UNINVITED BUT PUNCTUAL TO THE MINUTE, BRITISH MOSQUITO BOMBERS ATTENDED THE NAZI ANNIVERSARY PARTY IN BERLIN TODAY AND FURNISHED THUNDEROUS SOUND EFFECTS FOR REICHSMARSHAL GOERING'S EXPLANATION OF WHY GERMANY HASN'T WON THE WAR.

THE RAF ARRIVED OVER BERLIN AT 11 A.M. SHARP.

THAT WAS THE PRECISE MOMENT WHEN GOERING WAS SCHEDULED TO BEGIN HIS ADDRESS TO THE GERMAN ARMED FORCES--INCLUDING THE LUFTWAFFE CHIEFS OF WHOM HE IS THE SUPREME COMMANDER--AND TO THE GERMAN PEOPLE WHO CLUSTERED AROUND MILLIONS OF RADIOS.

THE GREAT AUDIENCE HEARD THE NOISE OF THE ATTENDING AIR RAID BEFORE IT HEARD GOERING.

ONE EXPLOSION--EITHER A BOMB OR GUN--WENT OFF SO CLOSE TO THE AIR MINISTRY WHERE THE NAZI CHIEFS WERE GATHERED THAT THE SOUND WAS PLAINLY AUDIBLE NOT ONLY TO GERMAN LISTENERS BUT TO THE PEOPLE IN LONDON AS WELL.

JAN 31 1943

IT WAS THE RAF'S FIRST DAYLIGHT RAID ON BERLIN AND THE FIRST TIME THE BRITISH LISTENERS SITTING AT HOME HEARD THE EFFECTS OF THEIR OWN BOMBERS OVER GERMANY AT THE VERY MOMENT OF A RAID.

THEY HEARD MORE THAN THE EXPLOSIONS.

OVER THE AIR WAVES CAME THE SOUNDS OF SCUFFLING AND RUNNING AND SHOUTS, INDICATING GOERING'S AUDIENCE, AND PROBABLY GOERING HIMSELF, WERE SCAMPERING TO THE NEAREST EXITS AND RAID SHELTERS IN THE AIR MINISTRY.

AT SHORT INTERVALS THROUGHOUT THE NEXT HOUR BERLIN'S ANNOUNCER

30.21-759

KEPT TELLING THE PEOPLE GOERING WAS DELAYED AND WOULD COMMENCE SPEAKING "WITHIN A FEW MINUTES."

HE DIDN'T GET STARTED UNTIL NOON, AN HOUR LATE.

RELIABLE SOURCES IN LONDON SAID THE RAID WAS CARRIED OUT BY A SMALL BOMBER FORCE, AND IT IS TAKEN FOR GRANTED THAT IT WAS MAINLY FOR PSYCHOLOGICAL PURPOSES.

THE BLOW WAS DELIVERED AT GERMANY'S DARKEST HOUR--SO FAR--AND THE RAID WAS DESIGNED TO SINK GERMAN MORALE LOWER.

THE RAIDERS ARE THE WORLD'S FASTEST BOMBERS. IT IS BELIEVED THAT THEY CAME OVER BERLIN AT HOUSETOP LEVEL, ALTHOUGH BERLIN, ADMITTING THAT ONLY THREE BOMBERS HAD BEEN OVER GERMANY FOR "PROPAGANDA PURPOSES," CLAIMED THEY OPERATED IN CLOUD COVER.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD RELIABLY THAT THEY MET NOT A UNIT OF OPPOSITION ON ANY PART OF THE FLIGHT, EVEN DURING THE APPROACH TO THE GERMAN CAPITAL, AND THERE WERE SOME INDICATIONS THAT THE RAID WAS SUCH A COMPLETE SURPRISE THAT THE GERMAN AIR-RAID WARNINGS WERE CAUGHT UNPREPARED.

THE CRASHING OF BOMBS MAY HAVE BEEN THE FIRST NOTICE OF THE MOSQUI ARRIVAL.

ALL BOMBERS RETURNED SAFELY TO BRITAIN.

JAN 31 1943

SV234PEV

THE LONDONERS' ATTITUDE WAS PRETTY WELLL SUMMED UP BY A CABBIE WHO SAID: "BLIMEY, WE SINGED THE TIGER'S WHISKERS THAT TIME."

THE GENERAL JUBILATION WAS TEMPERED ONLY SLIGHTLY BY THE FEELING THAT THE AUDACIOUS STROKES WERE ALMOST CERTAIN TO BRING REPRISALS.

30.24-759

THE MOST INTERESTED LISTENERS TO THE BERLIN BROADCAST INCLUDED OFFICERS WHO CLUSTERED AROUND THE RECEIVER IN THE BRITISH AIR MINISTRY. THEY KNEW THE BOMBERS WERE WINGING AWAY BUT THE FIRST INDICATION THAT THEY HAD ARRIVED WAS THE MUFFLED EXPLOSIONS HEARD AT 11 O'CLOCK.

"BOMBS! THEY'VE DONE IT!" EXCLAIMED ONE.

JAN 31 1943

COMING HOME THE MOSQUITOES BROKE RADIO SILENCE TO VERIFY THAT THEY HAD DONE IT, NEDEED.

JR651PEW

JUST BEFORE 4 P.M. WHEN PROPAGANDA MINISTER GOEBBELS WENT TO THE SPORTSPALAST MICROPHONE TO READ HITLER'S PROCLAMATION, MOSQUITOES MADE THEIR SECOND DAYTIME APPEARANCE WITHIN FIVE HOURS OVER BERLIN.

UNLIKE GOERING, WHO WAS KEPT OFF THE AIR A FULL HOUR, GOEBBELS WENT AHEAD WITH HIS SPEECH ON SCHEDULE AND BRITISH LISTENERS HEARD NOTHING TO COMPARE WITH THE CONFUSION CAUSED BY THE FIRST RAID.

HITLER HIMSELF WAS KEPT AWAY FROM HIS CAPITAL, GUIDED, PERHAPS, BY INTUITION.

JAN 31 1943

BRITONS NATURALLY WERE JUBILANT OVER THIS DOUBLE SLAP AT THE GERMANS, WHICH WAS PERFECTLY TIMED FOR THE MOST EMBARRASSING EFFECT.

FIRST LEAD RUSSIAN (PRECEDE MOSCOW)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON, JAN. 30--RUSSIAN TROOPS HAVE CAPTURED THE IMPORTANT RAILWAY JUNCTION OF TIKHORETSK, 95 MILES BELOW ROSTOV, AND ALSO THE OIL CITY OF MAIKOP IN THE WESTERN CAUCASUS, THREATENING TO TRAP THE REMNATS OF A GERMAN ARMY ONCE NUMBERING 300,000, A SPECIAL MOSCOW COMMUNIQUE RECORDED BY THE SOVIET RADIO MONITOR SAID TONIGHT.

THESE RED ARMY VICTORIES WERE ANNOUNCED AS RUSSIAN DISPATCHES SAID THE RED ARMY WAS STEADILY ROLLING WESTWARD ON THE VORONEZH FRONT LESS THAN 55 MILES FROM BELGOROD, AND 60 MILES FROM KURSK, TWO AXIS BASES THAT SUPPLIED THE MOMENTUM FOR THE 1942 GERMAN OFFENSIVE.

FRONT DISPATCHES RECEIVED IN MOSCOW SAID THE RUSSIANS STILL WERE ANNIHILATING THE REMNANTS OF NINE GERMAN DIVISIONS TRAPPED BETWEEN VORONEZH AND KASTORNOYE ON A 44-MILE FRONT ABOVE AND BELOW THE RAILWAY LEADING TO KURSK.

(THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE REPORTED STILL ANOTHER MENACE TO THEIR FRONT, SOUTH OF LAKE LADOGA IN THE LENINGRAD AREA. THE NAZIS SAID SOVIET ATTACKS THERE WERE "BLOODILY REPULSED," BUT SAID VIOLENT FIGHTING WAS CONTINUING WITH THE RUSSIANS HURLING MASSED TANKS AND ARTILLERY FORMATIONS INTO THE BATTLE. HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING ALSO WAS REPORTED IN THAT AREA).

JAN 31 1943

TIKHORETSK IN THE CAUCASUS WAS A MAJOR RUSSIAN OBJECTIVE BOTH TO INCREASE THE NOOSE BEING DRAWN ABOUT ROSTOV, AND TO TRAP SIZEABLE NAZI FORCES BETWEEN THERE, THE MAIKOP OIL WELLS 95 MILES TO THE SOUTH, AND THE BLACK SEA AND SEA OF AZOV ON THE WEST.

THE RAILWAY RUNNING SOUTHWEST FROM STALINGRAD TO NOVOROSSISK ON T BLACK SEA MEETS THE MAIN ROSTOV-BAKU LINE AT TIKHORETSK.

JAN 31 1943

NOW THE GERMANS ANCHORED SOUTH AND WEST OF TIKHORETSK HAVE ONLY TWO RISKY AVENUES OF ESCAPE. ONE IS A HURRIED RETREAT NORTHWARD FROM KRASNODAR ALONG A SPUR RAILWAY PARALLELING THE TIKHORTESK-ROSTOV LINE. KRASNODAR ITSELF IS 60 MILES NORTHWEST OF MAIKOP AND ABOUT 80 MILES SOUTHWEST OF TIKHORETSK.

THE OTHER CHANCE OF RETREAT FOR THE NAZI ARMIES IS BY SEA TO THE CRIMEA ACROSS THE KERCH STRAITS WEST OF KRASNODAR.

MAIKOP WAS CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS LAST AUGUST, BUT IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THE ENEMY EVER WAS ABLE TO EXPLOIT ITS WRECKED WELLS. THE FIELDS HAVE A NORMAL OUTPUT OF 2,500,000 TONS ANNUALLY.

JAN 31 1943

Add Moscow

("THE WHOLE GROUP WAS TAKEN PRISONER," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID DRILY.

(MORE TONS ALSO WERE REPORTED CAPTURED IN THE LOWER DON AND CAUCASUS AREAS. FLANK ATTACKS CUT DOWN A GERMAN FORTIFIED CENTER SET UP IN AN ATTEMPT TO HALT THE SOVIET CAUCASUS DRIVE, AND IN THE DON VALLEY A POWERFUL GERMAN FORTIFICATION WAS BY-PASSED AND TWO TOWNS OCCUPIED WITH A SUDDEN BLOW, THE RUSSIANS SAID.

(ON THE SOUTHWESTERN FRONT, LEADING TOWARD TIKHORETSK, A SOVIET LIEUTENANT AND HIS AUTOMATIC RIFLEMEN SMASHED INTO A GERMAN HEADQUARTERS IN ONE TOWN AND CAPTURED DOCUMENTS, IT WAS SAID.)

STREET FIGHTING ETC., FIFTH GRAF.

THE ENCIRCLEMENT OF THE GERMAN ARMIES IN THE VORONEZH SECTOR AND IN THE CAUCASUS RESEMBLED THE MANEUVERS BY WHICH THE RUSSIANS FIRST LAID THEIR NET ABOUT THE 22 AXIS DIVISIONS BEFORE STALINGRAD AND THEN SLASHED THEM INTO BITS.

IN YESTERDAY'S FIGHTING IN THE CENTRAL SECTOR OF THE STALINGRAD FRONT, THE RUSSIANS SAID, 300 GERMANS WERE KILLED AND 450 TAKEN PRISONER, INCLUDING ONE GENERAL.

"NORTH OF STALINGRAD OUR RING OF ENCIRCLEMENT CLOSED IN STILL FURTHER AND OUR TROOPS WIPED OUT MANY HITLERITES," THE WAR BULLETIN ADDED.

(IN LONDON, THE DAILY MAIL PRINTED A DISPATCH FROM A NEUTRAL CAPITAL, SAYING THAT ADOLF HITLER FLEW TO THE HEADQUARTERS OF HIS TRAPPED SIXTH ARMY AT STALINGRAD THREE DAYS BEFORE THE FINAL RUSSIAN ASSAULT BEGAN AND PLEADED WITH HIS TROOPS TO FIGHT TO THE DEATH. THE DISPATCH SAID THAT HITLER TOLD THE ARMY OF GENERAL FRIEDRICH PAULUS THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO ORGANIZE A FORCE TO RELIEVE THEM.)

30.24 - 761

THE MULTIPLE OFFENSIVES STEMMING FROM KASTORNOYE CARRIED THE RUSSIAN SOLDIERS THROUGH TERRITORY IN THE OREL PROVINCE WHICH HAD BEEN QUIESCENT FOR MORE THAN A YEAR, AND REGAINED FOR THE RUSSIANS MORE THAN 200 TOWNS, THEY SAID.

JAN 31 1943

THE CAPTURE OF GREMYACHYE, 28 MILES WEST OF THE KASTORNOYE-MOSCOW RAILROAD, PUT ONE COLUMN ONLY 65 MILES NORTHEAST OF KURSK AND 90 MILES SOUTHEAST OF OREL.

(A GERMAN RADIO COMMENTATOR, CAPT. LUDWIG SERTORIOUS, ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE RED ARMY HAD MADE "SOME PROGRESS" IN THE SECTOR, AND EARLIER THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND HAD INDICATED THAT THE GERMANS WERE RETREATING IN WHAT IT CALLED "PLANNED MOVEMENTS.")

WHILE FLYING FORTRESSES WERE ATTACKING BIZERTE YESTERDAY, OTHER U.S.FLIERS SWEPT ACROSS THE TUNIS AIRDROME AND DESTROYED MANY OF 50 PLANES WHICH WERE ON THE GROUND.

A TWELFTH AIR FORCE SPOKESMAN SAID P-38 LIGHTNINGS ESCORTED THE FORTRESSES TO BIZERTE AND PROTECTED THE MARTIN MARAUDER BOMBERS WHICH BLASTED THE CONVOY IN THE NARROWS.

OBSERVERS WATCHED LARGE BUILDINGS ON THE BIZERTE WATERFRONT EXPLODE AND SAW HITS ON OIL TANKS.

JAN 31 1943

THE SPOKESMAN SAID THE CONVOY INCLUDED SIX FREIGHTERS, FOUR DESTROYERS AND SEVERAL OTHER VESSELS, IN ADDITION TO THE TWO CARGO LINERS.

"TWO DIRECT HITS WERE MADE ON ONE CARGO LINER, BLOWING AWAY ITS SUPER-STRUCTURE," HE SAID. "THE HITS ON THE SECOND LINER STARTED FIRES FROM WHICH SMOKE ROSE 300 TO 400 FEET. DIRECT HITS WERE MADE ON ANOTHER VESSEL OF 100 TO 150 FEET, CAUSING IT TO EXPLODE."

MEANWHILE, AN ITALIAN COMMUNIQUE DECLARED THAT AXIS TROOPS HAD CONSOLIDATED POSITIONS RECENTLY GAINED IN TUNISIA AND THAT THERE WERE ONLY LIMITED ACTIONS BY "EXPLORING UNITS" IN WESTERN TRIPOLITANIA.

THE COMMUNIQUE ADMITTED THAT EIGHT ENEMY BOMBERS DID CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE IN A RAID ON MESSINA IN SICILY, BUT CLAIMED THAT AXIS PLANES SANK THREE DESTROYERS AND FIVE MERCHANTMEN IN ATTACKS ON AN ALLIED CONVOY BETWEEN ALGIERS AND BONE.

JAN 31 1943

JAN 31 1943

THE RAF, RELEASING DETAILS OF SOME OF THE WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY BEAUFIGHTERS DURING THE PAST FEW NIGHTS, REVEALED THAT ONE BEAUFIGHTER CREW ON ITS FIRST SORTIE SHOT DOWN THREE HEINKEL 111 BOMBERS IN LESS THAN HALF AN HOUR.

THE PILOT WAS FLYING OFFICER M.J.GLOSTER AND THE OBSERVER, PILOT OFFICER J.F.OSWALD, BOTH OF WHOM HAVE BEEN AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS.

THE SQUADRON'S TOP SCORER, FLYING OFFICER D.H.GREAVES, WHO HAS DESTROYED FIVE ENEMY AIRCRAFT, NEARLY WENT DOWN WITH HIS LATEST VICTIM. HE OPENED FIRE AT 70 FEET AND THE GERMAN PLANE EXPLODED, DAZZLING GREAVES BY THE GLARE AND SPINNING HIS PLANE OUT OF CONTROL.

ONE OF THE PLANES SHOT DOWN IN THE BATTLE OVER THE CONVOY YESTERDAY WAS A MESSERSCHMITT 210, NEW VERSION OF THE NOW OBSOLETE MESSERSCHMITT 110. ALTHOUGH USED FREQUENTLY OVER THE RUSSIAN FRONT, THIS WAS ITS FIRST APPEARANCE ON THIS FRONT.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN TUNISIA, JAN. 28-(DELAYED)-(AP)-DEATH MAY HIDE BEHIND EVERY CLOUD ABOVE THE ROLLING PLAINS OF OUSSELTIA VALLEY, NOW HELD FIRMLY BY AMERICAN TROOPS WHO SMASHED THE AXIS DRIVE FROM THE KAIROUAN PASS.

ALTHOUGH THE AXIS ARMY WAS BELTED BACK IN THE FIELD AND IN THE MOUNTAINS, THE GERMANS HAVE INTENSIFIED THEIR CAMPAIGN OF AIR HARASSMENT AGAINST THE VICTORIOUS UNITED STATES SOLDIERS. TROOPS IN THE FIELD AS WELL AS VEHICLES ALONG THE ROAD ARE BEING SUBJECTED TO DAILY AND PERIODIC BOMBING AND STRAFING BY GERMAN PLANES ATTACKING SINGLY OR IN GROUPS.

THE TERRAIN IS ADMIRABLY SUITED TO THIS TYPE OF WARFARE AS THE CLOUD FORMATIONS AND THE MOUNTAINS ENABLE THE NAZI AIRMEN TO SWOOP DOWN WITHOUT WARNING, AND THE DUST CLOUDS RAISED BY THE VEHICLES ALONG THE DRY ROADS, MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE TROOPS TO HIDE THEIR MOVEMENTS FROM THE SKY RAIDERS.

THIS MORNING AN ATTACK BY MESSERSCHMITTS ON UNITED STATES TROOPS, STRADDLING HEIGHTS CONTROLLING THE VITAL ROAD TO KAIROUAN, WAS VISIBLE MILES AWAY FROM A VANTAGE POINT IN THE LOWER VALLEY. THE RISING BLACK SMOKE COLUMNS SHOWED THAT SOME BOMBS HAD STRUCK HOME.

JAN 31 1943

LESS THAN AN HOUR LATER SOME MESSERSCHMITTS DIVED FROM A CLOUDBANK AND ATTACKED TWO JEEP SUPPLY TRUCKS THAT WERE BARRELING ALONG THE ROAD LEADING FROM THE VALLEY.

IN ONE JEEP WAS, CAPTAIN PATRICK W.RIDDLEBERGER, 27, OF WOODSTOCK, VA., PRIVATE JOHN COUGHLIN, 23, OF 434 SECOND STREET, MANCHESTER, N.H., AND THIS CORRESPONDENT.

JAN 31 1943

IN ANOTHER JEEP WAS, LT.GEORGE W.WILLIAMS, 29, 108 SOUTH MCQUEEN ST., FLORENCE, S.C., AND PRIVATE STANLEY SZELONG, 27, DETROIT, MICH.

ALTHOUGH PRIVATE COUGHLIN, WHO WAS OUR LOOKOUT, HAD CHECKED THE SKIES ONLY ONE MOMENT BEFORE, OUR FIRST KNOWLEDGE THAT WE WERE UNDER ATTACK CAME WITH A CLATTER OF FIRE AND THE ROAR OF A MOTOR, AS A MESSERSCHMITT SPRAYED THE ROAD THIRTY FEET BEHIND US WITH TWENTY MILLIMETER CANNON SHELLS. WE LEAPED FROM THE CAR BEFORE IT GROUND TO A STOP, AND SLID INTO THE NEAREST CACTUS, HEEDLESS OF THE THORNS.

THE MESSERSCHMITT SPED BACK INTO THE CLOUDS, CIRCLED ABOUT FOR TEN MINUTES, THEN FLEW AWAY. AS WE WERE WALKING BACK ALONG THE ROAD, WE WERE MET BY PVT.SZELONG AND LIMPING LT.WILLIAMS, WHOSE LEG HAD BEEN RUN OVER BY A WHEEL WHILE LEAVING HIS JEEP.

"I DIDN'T GIVE IT A THOUGHT. I HAD SOMETHING MORE IMPORTANT ON MY MIND," HE GRINNED.

A CHECK SHOWED THAT THE MESSERSCHMITT'S FIRE HAD CHEWED OUT SECTIONS OF THE ROAD PAVEMENT, TWICE AS BIG AS A MAN'S FIST. LT. WILLIAMS' JEEP WAS WITHIN 10 FEET OF THE DAMAGE.

(WX)...SOMEWHERE IN NORTH AFRICA, JAN.25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE COMMANDER OF THE FIRST FEMINE AEF KEEPS HER NOSE NICELY POWDERED AND KNOWS HOW TO MAKE A LEMON MERINGUE PIE--AND SHE'S POPULAR WITH THE NON-COMBAT DETACHMENT OF WAACS, REPRESENTING 39 STATES, WHO RECENTLY ARRIVED HERE.

CAPT.FRANCES KEEGAN MARQUIS OF NEW YORK HAS THE DIGNITY OF ASSURANCE. OFTEN THERE IS A MERRY TWINKLE IN HER BLUE EYES. IN A WAAC'S "YES, MA'AM" TO HER, THERE IS AN UNDERTONE OF CONFIDENCE.

JAN 31 1943

IN ADDITION TO BRING THE FIRST WOMAN TO HEAD THE FIRST UNIT OF NON-COMBAT WOMEN SOLDIERS TO BE SENT ABROAD BY THE UNITED STATES, SHE IS ALSO THE FIRST WOMAN TO BE IN CHARGE OF A TROOP TRAIN. SHE COMMANDED THE SPECIAL TRAIN THAT CARRIED THE CONTINGENT FROM THE SECOND WWAC TRAINING CENTER AT DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., TO AN EAST COAST PORT OF EMBARKATION.

CAPTAIN MARQUIS IS THE WIFE OF HARRY MARQUIS, A NEW YORK BUSINESS-MAN. SHE WAS ON A TRIP TO THE WASHINGTON, D.C. HEADQUARTERS OF THE WOMEN'S ARMY AUXILIARY CORPS WHEN SHE LEARNED DEC.4 THAT SHE HAD BEEN SELECTED TO BRING THE FIRST DETACHMENT OVERSEAS.

CAPT.MARQUIS WAS BORN IN WEST NEWBURY, MASS. HER MOTHER'S

30.24 - 765

PEOPLE CAME FROM TIPPERARY AND HER FATHER'S FROM KILDARE IN IRELAND. HER FATHER, JOHN L.KEEGAN, NOW NEARLY 80 YEARS OLD, LIVES IN MELROSE, MASS.

"KEEP YOUR SENSE OF HUMOR," SHE SAYS WHEN THE GOING GETS A BIT HARD--AND SHE PRACTICES IT. ABOUT FIVE FEET NINE INCHES TALL, SHE WEARS HER BROWN HAIR IN A SHORT, SOFT CURLY BOB. HER NATURALLY CLEAR COMPLEXION NEEDS LITTLE MAKEUP, BUT SHE CONSIDERS NOSE-POWDERING PART OF BEING WELL-GROOMED.

JAN 31 1943

SHE RESIGNED AS EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE WOMEN'S CITY CLUB OF NEW YORK TO JOIN THE OFFICERS' CANDIDATE CLASS WHICH OPENED THE FIRST WAAC TRAINING CENTER AT DES MOINES LAST JULY 20.

WHY DID SHE JOIN?

SHE EXPLAINED THAT FOR EIGHT YEARS SHE HAD FELT THIS COUNTRY HAD NEGLECTED ITS OBLIGATIONS AND "WHEN THERE WAS AN OPPORTUNITY TO DO SOMETHING, I FELT THAT I WHO HAD TALKED SO MUCH ABOUT IT, HAD TO DO IT."

HER HOBBIES, SHE SAID, ARE NOT THE THINGS PEOPLE USUALLY CONSIDER AS SUCH. SHE WORKED AS A VOLUNTEER IN THE LIBRARY OF THE NEW YORK HOSPITAL. SHE LIKES TO TYPE MANUSCRIPTS.

AND, SHE ACKNOWLEDGES, SHE IS A GOOD COOK--ESPECIALLY WHEN IT COMES TO LEMON MERINGUE PIES.

JAN 31 1943

TWO OF THE MEMBERS OF CAPT.MARQUIS' STAFF HAVE HUSBANDS IN THE ARMY.

THE DETACHMENT'S EXECUTIVE OFFICER, CAPT.EVELYN B.NICHOLSON, OF ST.LOUIS, IS A ST.LOUIS LAWYER. HER HUSBAND BRYAN F. NICHOLSON, A CORPORAL IN THE FANTRY, IS ALSO OVERSEAS--BUT IN ANOTHER PART OF THE WORLD, SHE BELIEVES. IN CIVILIAN LIFE HE IS

30.24 - 765

AN ELECTRICAL ENGINEER.

LIEUT.JOAN E.JOOSTEN, OF HOUSTON, TEX., SAYS HER HUSBAND, PVT.PAUL S.JOOSTEN, IS "SOMEWHERE IN THE U.S.ARMY SERVICE." SHE HAS MULTIPLE TASKS--WITH THIS DETACHMENT--INTELLIGENCE OFFICER, CENSOR, PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER, POLICE OFFICER AND COMMANDER OF THE CLERICAL PLATOON.

JAN 31 1943

BORN IN AMSTERDAM, HOLLAND, SHE AND HER HUSBAND, ALSO A HOLLANDER, CAME TO THIS COUNTRY ABOUT 11 YEARS AGO AND WERE NATURALIZED. THEY HAD MET WHEN LAW STUDENTS IN HOLLAND.

USUALLY SHE'S CHEERFUL AND FRIENDLY, BUT SOMETIMES LIEUT. JOOSTEN'S SMILE FADES INTO A GRIM LINE AS SHE GOES ABOUT HER NUMEROUS RESPONSIBILITIES. SHE HAS LOST TRACK OF HER PARENTS IN GERMAN-OCCUPIED HOLLAND. SHE LEFT THE UNITED STATES NOT KNOWING JUST WHERE HER HUSBAND IS DOING HIS PART IN THE ARMY. SHE IS ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE "FOR THE DURATION" AS AUDITOR WITH THE U.S.ENGINEERS IN HOUSTON.

LIEUT.SYLVIA MARIAN MARSILI, WHO LAUGHINGLY RELATES THAT SHE "CAME CLEAN X

JAN 31 1943

"CAME CLEAN FROM PITTSBURGH," IS MESS, SUPPLY AND SPECIAL SERVICES OFFICER. SHE'S ALSO THE FIRST WOMAN TO SUPERVISE THE LOADING OF A MILITARY TRANSPORT IN THIS COUNTRY'S MILITARY HISTORY.

THE YOUNGEST OF THE OFFICERS' CORPS, LIEUT.MARSILI IS A BUNDLE OF ENERGY AND A TONIC TO MORALE. SHE STUDIED AT MT. MERCY COLLEGE IN PITTSBURGH AND AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH AND

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY. SHE HAS A MASTER'S DEGREE IN SCIENCE AND CHEMISTRY.

JAN 31 1943

AS SUPPLY OFFICER IT WAS HER RESPONSIBILITY TO SEE TO IT THAT THE WAR EQUIPMENT GOT LOADED ON THE RIGHT BOAT. THIS SHE DID BY GOING ON TO THE DOCKS TO CHECK IT PERSONALLY. ONE ITEM WAS MISSING AND SHE TRACKED IT DOWN THROUGH SEVERAL WAREHOUSES TO FIND, ACCORDING TO RECORDS, THAT IT HAD BEEN LOADED ON TO THE BOAT. BUT NOT QUITE SATISFIED, SHE WENT DOWN INTO THE HOLD TO VERIFY IT.

HER HOBBY IS RIFLE TARGET SHOOTING.

HER FATHER, SAM MARSILI, A RESTAURANT OWNER IN PITTSBURGH, CAME TO THIS COUNTRY WHEN 15. HIS PEOPLE IN ITALY ARE PROMINENT IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. CARDINAL PASQUINELLI IS HER COUSIN, AND MONSEIGNEUR TAFFANELLI, HER UNCLE. HER MOTHER, A NATIVE OF THE UNITED STATES, IS OF ITALIAN DESCENT. DARK-EYED, VIVACIOUS LIEUT.MARSILI SPEAKS FLUENT ITALIAN.

JAN 31 1943

WHEN CHECKING ON THE LOADING OF SUPPLIES, SHE WAS NEAR THE PORT WHERE THE NAVY HAS STATIONED THE LAD WHOSE PICTURE SHE KEEPS BY HER COT. SHE MADE NO ATTEMPT TO COMMUNICATE WITH HIM, EXPLAINING:

"IT WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN RIGHT." HER ATTITUDE IS A SAMPLE OF THE CAREFUL WAY IN WHICH THE WAACS GUARDED THE SECRET OF THEIR DEPARTURE FROM THE UNITED STATES.

JAN 31 1943

WASHINGTON, JAN 30-(AP)-THE PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND BRAZIL, REACHING AN ACCORD IN A PERSONAL CONFERENCE, ARE AGREED THAT THE ATLANTIC MUST BE MADE "SAFE FOR ALL" AND THAT WEST AFRICA AND DAKAR MUST NEVER AGAIN OFFER THREATS OF BLOCKADE OR INVASION AGAINST THE AMERICAS.

ON THE WAY HOME FROM THE MAPPING OF WAR STRATEGY WITH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AT CASABLANCA, MOROCCO, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT CONFERRED WITH PRESIDENT VARGAS ABOARD A UNITED STATES DESTROYER AT NATAL THURSDAY. THEY TOLD OF THE POINT THEY HAD AGREED ON IN A JOINT STATEMENT LAST NIGHT.

IN RIO DE JANEIRO, VARGAS ASSERTED THAT A COMPLETE ACCORD ON THE WAR EFFORT WAS REACHED BETWEEN THE TWO AMERICAN ALLIES, STIRRING FRESH SPECULATION WHETHER BRAZIL MIGHT TAKE AN EVEN MORE ACTIVE ROLE IN THE CONFLICT BY SENDING TROOPS TO THE ACTUAL BATTLELINES. JAN 31 1943

ON TWO POINTS THEY WERE DEFINITE.

"IT IS THE AIM OF BRAZIL AND OF THE UNITED STATES TO MAKE THE ATLANTIC OCEAN SAFE FOR ALL," THEY SAID IN THEIR JOINT DECLARATION RELEASED AT THE WHITE HOUSE. "WE ARE DEEPLY GRATEFUL FOR THE ALMOST UNANIMOUS HELP THAT OUR NEIGHBORS ARE GIVING TO THE GREAT CAUSE OF DEMOCRACY THROUGHOUT THE WORLD."

THE LATTER SENTENCE WAS REGARDED AS BEING ADDRESSED PARTICULARLY TO ARGENTINA, THE ONLY ONE OF THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS WHICH HAS FAILED TO DECLARE WAR ON THE AXIS OR RUPTURE DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS.

THE TWO CHIEF EXECUTIVES ALSO EXPRESSED "COMPLETE AGREEMENT THAT IT MUST BE PERMANANTLY AND DEFINITELY ASSURED THAT THE COAST OF WEST AFRICA AND AKAR NEVER AGAIN UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES BE ALLOWED TO BECOME A BLOCKADE OR AN INVASION THREAT AGAINST THE TWO AMERICAS."

THEY SAID THEY HAD SPENT AN EVENING GOING OVER PROBLEMS OF THE WAR AS A WHOLE, BUT PARTICULARLY THE JOINT BRAZILIAN-UNITED STATES EFFORT. THEY CONSIDERED, TOO, THE CONTINUING SUBMARINE DANGER FROM THE CARIBBEAN TO THE SOUTH ATLANTIC AND VARGAS ANNOUNCED "GREATLY INCREASED EFFORTS ON THE PART OF HIS COUNTRY TO MEET THIS MENACE."

JAN 31 1943

FLYING HOMEWARD BY THE LONGER BUT SAFER SOUTHERN ROUTE, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT STOPPED IN LIBERIA ON THE AFRICAN COAST AND THEN CROSSED THE ATLANTIC TO THE EASTERNMOST PROTUBERANCE OF BRAZIL. THERE VARGAS MET HIM AND THEY HAD LUNCH TOGETHER AND INSPECTED ARMY, NAVY AND AIR-FORCES OF THEIR TWO NATIONS.

IN A SEPARATE MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESS, LIKEWISE ISSUED BY THE WHITE HOUSE, MR.ROOSEVELT EXPLAINED THAT HE CONSIDERED THE CASA-BLANCA CONFERENCE SO VITAL TO THE WAR EFFORT THAT HE THOUGHT HE SHOULD PAUSE IN BRAZIL TO TALK INFORMALLY WITH VARGAS AND GO OVER "SEVERAL DETAILS OF ADDITIONAL MUTUAL AID."

"PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT INFORMED HIS COLLEAGUE," THEIR JOINT STATE-MENT SAID, "OF THE VERY SIGNIFICANT RESULTS OF THE CONFERENCE IN CASABLANCA AND OF THE RESOLVE THAT THE PEACE TO COME MUST NOT ALLOW THE AXIS TO ATTACK CIVILIZATION IN FUTURE YEARS." THE STATEMENT SAID

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE HAD DEMONSTRATED THAT THE ANGLO-AMERICAN EXPEDITION TO NORTH AFRICA, FOR THE PRESENT, HAD REMOVED THE POSSIBLE THREAT TO AMERICAN FREEDOM OF A GERMAN-HELD DAKAR AT THE NARROWEST REACHES OF THE ATLANTIC.

THE TWO PRESIDENTS SAID THEIR MEETING HAD PROVIDED AN OPPORTUNITY TO "SURVEY THE FUTURE SAFETY OF ALL THE AMERICAS" AND EXPRESSED AN OPINION EACH OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICANS WAS "INTERESTED AND EFFECTED TO AN EQUAL DEGREE."

JUST WHAT PARTICULAR PROBLEMS OF MUTUAL ASSISTANCE FIGURED IN THE CONVERSATIONS, ASIDE FROM STEPS TO PROTECT THE ATLANTIC SEALANES, WERE NOT DIVULGED. BRAZIL, HOWEVER, IS TURNING OUT RAW MATERIALS ESSENTIAL TO THE UNITED NATIONS' WAR INDUSTRIES, AND THIS COUNTRY HAS OFFERED EXPERT ASSISTANCE TO INCREASE THE FLOW. IT WAS CONSIDERED LIKELY THAT THIS MATTER MIGHT HAVE COME IN FOR CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION.

A GERMAN HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE BROADCAST TODAY BY THE BERLIN RADIO AND RECORDED IN NEW YORK BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS SAID:

THE VIOLENT BATTLE OF DEFENSE IN THE SOUTH OF THE EASTERN FRONT CONTINUES AT SOME POINTS WITH UNABATED VIOLENCE WHILE ON OTHER SECTORS WHERE THE FRONT MEANWHILE WAS CONSOLIDATED, ENEMY PRESSURE IS RELAXING.

IN STALINGRAD THE SITUATION IS UNCHANGED. THE COURAGE OF THE DEFENDERS IS UNBROKEN.

BETWEEN THE CAUCASUS AND THE LOWER DON, MOVEMENTS OF OUR TROOPS CONTINUED WITHOUT INTERRUPTION BY THE ENEMY. REPEATED ENEMY ATTACKS ON OUR POSITIONS TO THE EAST OF THE MIDDLE DONETS WERE REPULSED AFTER BITTER FIGHTING WITH SEVERE LOSSES FOR THE ENEMY. COUNTER-ATTACKING, WE SMASHED A SOVIET INFANTRY DIVISION.

IN THE REGION WEST OF VORONEZH, THE MOBILE BATTLE IS CONTINUING. STRONG DETACHMENTS OF THE AIR FORCE ASSISTED THE GROUND FIGHTING.

SOUTH OF LAKE LADOGA, THE ENEMY RESUMED ON A BROAD SCALE HIS ASSAULTS WITH STRONG ASSISTANCE OF ARTILLERY AND TANKS. IN VIOLENT FIGHTING, PARTLY MAN AGAINST MAN, ALL ATTACKS WERE BLOODILY REPULSED AND 42 TANKS WERE DESTROYED.

IN FIGHTING ON THE MIDDLE DON TROOPS OF THE 24TH GERMAN ARMY CORPS AND THE ITALIAN ALPINI CORPS PARTICULARLY DISTINGUISHED THEMSELVES. VOLUNTEER DETACHMENTS COMPOSED OF RUSSIAN NATIONALS SUCCESSFULLY

PARTICIPATED IN THE FIGHTING.

IN NORTH AFRICA, REAR GUARDS OF THE GERMAN-ITALIAN TANK ARMY BLOODILY REPULSED STRONG ENEMY TANK ATTACKS.

IN TUNISIA, THE FIGHTING WAS ONLY OF LOCAL IMPORTANCE. THE AIR FORCE AGAIN BOMBED THE PORT OF ALGIERS AND SET A MERCHANT SHIP AFIRE. A DETACHMENT OF GERMAN FIGHTER PLANES ATTACKED A CONVOY LAST (FRI) NIGHT NEAR BOUGIE AND SANK THREE TRANSPORTS TOTALING 14,000 TONS AND TWO DESTROYERS. ANOTHER DESTROYER AND A MEDIUM SIZED MERCHANTMAN WERE SERIOUSLY DAMAGED. IN AN ATTACK ON THE BONE AIRPORT, SEVEN MULTI-MOTORED ENEMY PLANES WERE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND. IN AIR COMBATS AND BY WARSHIP AND GROUND ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, 12 BRITISH AND AMERICAN PLANES WERE DESTROYED IN THE MEDITERRANEAN REGION.

JAN 31 1943

THE ENEMY BOMBED TWO HARBOR TOWNS ON THE FRENCH ATLANTIC COAST WITHOUT MILITARY SUCCESS. CASUALTIES AMONG THE POPULATION ARE CONSIDERABLE. EIGHT OF THE ATTACKING AIRPLANES WERE BROUGHT DOWN.

IT WAS "A VERY SPECIAL SYMPTOM" THAT HITLER DID NOT SPEAK PERSONALLY AT THE NAZIS' ANNIVERSARY CEREMONIES YESTERDAY, THE BERLIN RADIO REPORTED LAST (SAT) NIGHT, FOR HE "WAS TOO OCCUPIED WITH THE QUESTION OF THE MILITARY CONDUCT OF THE WAR TO BE ABLE TO LEAVE HIS HEADQUARTERS."

JAN 31 1943

"NOBODY OUTSIDE OF A SMALL CIRCLE AROUND HIM KNOWS WHAT IS OCCUPYING HIM MOST AT PRESENT," SAID THE BROADCAST RECORDEDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

IT DECLARED THAT THE "MANIFESTOS" ANNOUNCED THAT THE ENEMY WOULD "GET TO KNOW THE RESULTS OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE'S DETERMINATION SOONER

30.24 - 773

THAN EXPECTED," AND SAID THAT THOSE WHO LISTNED INTENTLY TO YESTERDAY'S SPEECHES "COULD LEARN FROM THESE WORDS THAT A DISPLAY OF MILITARY POWER EXCEEDING THAT OF THE PAST WOULD BE WITNESSED.

"GERMANY IS ABOUT TO MAKE THE WAR COMPLETELY TOTAL. IF GOEBBELS SAID THAT THE GERMAN PEOPLE ARE CONVERTING STILL MORE ENERGY THAN IN THE PAST INTO CANNONS AND TANKS THIS MEANS: INSTEAD OF JEWELS, EVEN INSTEAD OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, STILL MORE WEAPONS WILL BE MANUFACTURED IN THE NEAR FUTURE. USEFUL LABOR NO LONGER WILL BE EMPLOYED IN BEAUTY SHOPS, HOTELS DE LUXE AND FOR PRINTING SOCIETY NOVELS, BUT IN AMMUNITION FACTORIES AND IN AIRCRAFT WORKS.

"THE WORDS OF THE FUEHRER AND THE DRAMATIC ACCOUNTS BY THE REICHSMARSHAL LEFT NO DOUBTS ABOUT THE SEVERITY OF THE STRUGGLE IN THE EAST. THEY SHOWED THAT THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE IS ONE USING THE LAST RESERVES."

NEW YORK, JAN 30-(AP)-IN AN EFFORT TO STAVE OFF DEFEAT HITLER WILL ERECT A NEW SIEGFRIED LINE ALONG THE NORTH SHORE OF THE MEDITERRANEAN, PREDICTS JOSEPH E.DAVIES, FORMER UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA.

DAVIES, IN AN INTERVIEW HERE YESTERDAY, SAID HE BELIEVED THAT AFTER HITLER HAS ESTABLISHED SUCH A LINE THE GERMANS WILL OPEN A FINAL, DESPERATE ATTACK ON RUSSIA THIS SUMMER IN AN EFFORT TO SEIZE THE BAKU OIL FIELDS AND JOIN THE JAPANESE AT THE PERSIAN GULF.

STALIN DID NOT ATTEND THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL CONFERENCE AT CASABLANCA, DAVIES CONTINUED, BECAUSE HE IS "WAITING TO PICK THE SOFT SPOTS" IN THE GERMAN LINE AND COULD NOT TAKE TIME OUT TO TRAVEL.

"IF I WERE IN STALIN'S PLACE I WOULD HAVE ACTED THE SAME WAY -- I WOULDN'T HAVE TAKEN MY HAND OFF THE THROTTLE," THE FORMER AMBASSADOR DECLARED.

DAVIES WARNED THAT HITLER MIGHT RESORT TO "POISON GAS, AND BACTERIOLOGICAL WARFARE, AND EVERYTHING BELOW THE BELT" BEFORE HE WAS FINISHED.

AMS INTERPRETATIVE

BY CARL C.CRANMER

GERMANY IS WOUNDED, CORNERED, DESPERATE AND DANGEROUS.

THIS IS THE NET IMPRESSION FROM THE TENTH ANNIVERSARY PROCLAMATION OF ADOLF HITLER AND THE SPEECHES OF HIS TWO AIDES, REICHSMARSHAL GOERING AND PROPAGANDA MINISTER GOEBBELS.

IN EFFECT THE WHOLE GERMAN NATIONS IS BEING GIRDED TO FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN IN A SUICIDAL LAST-DITCH STAND, JUST AS THE STALINGRAD SIEGE ARMY THAT BECAME BESIEGED IS MADE TO DO. 31 1943

THAT IS THE MEANING OF GOERING'S REFERENCE TO GERMANS WHO AT STALINGRAD "SET THE FINAL STAMP TO ULTIMATE VICTORY." THE GERMAN SIXTH ARMY IS THE EXAMPLE WHICH EVERY GERMAN IS TO BE URGED TO FOLLOW.

THE THEME OF WIN OR PERISH RUNS THROUGHOUT THE DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

"NO SITUATION IS EVER SO DESPERATE FOR GERMANY THAT WE CANNOT MASTER IT," GOERING SAID.

"IN THIS WAR THERE WILL BE NEITHER VICTOR NOR VANQUISHED, BUT ONLY THOSE WHO SURVIVE AND THOSE WHO ARE DESTROYED," SAID HITLER.

ONLY FOOLS COULD IMAGINE A PEACE BY NEGOTIATION, GOERING SAID. "DESTRUCTION OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE IS AT STAKE." JAN 31 1943

IN THE WAR-CRAZED MIND OF THE EVIL GENIUS, HITLER, THERE PROBABLY IS SOME KIND OF POETRYIN THIS PICTURE OF A WHOLE NATION HURLING ITSELF TO FANATICAL SELF-DESTRUCTION RATHER THAN SUBMIT TO A CIVILIZED ORDER THAT DENIES WORLD CONQUEST.

IT IS A THEME UPON WHICH HE HAS FASHIONED HIS CAREER EVER SINCE THE VERSAILLES TREATY OF 1918 WHEN HE BELIEVED GERMANY SHOULD HAVE GONE ON FIGHTING FROM TRENCH TO TRENCH CITY TO CITY, STREET TO STREET.

ALL THIS DREADFUL PICTURE OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF DEFEAT WAS RAISED BY THE GERMAN LEADERS TO PUT IRON INTO THE GERMAN SOUL, TO STEEL THEM FOR GREATER SACRIFICES.

HITLER TOLD THEM THEY WILL HAVE TO MAKE AGREATER EFFORTS IN WORKING AND FIGHTING, DECLARED THOSE WHO FAIL TO DO THEIR DUTY WILL BE DESTROYED, ADMITTED THERE CAN BE NO "VICTORY WITHOUT COST" AND ACKNOWLEDGED THAT GERMAN TOWNS AND CITIES ARE THREATENED WITH "CRUEL ANNIHILATION" AND RUIN--A THREAT MADE VIVID BY THE CRASH OF BOMBS IN BERLIN AT THE HOUR GOERING WAS TO SPEAK.

THESE ADMISSIONS SOUND ODD BY CONTRAST WITH THE BOASTS OF OTHER YEARS BY GOERING THAT A BOMB NEVER WOULD TOUCH THE HAIR OF A GERMAN HEAD IN A GERMAN CITY. THEY ARE A FAR CRY FROM THE COCKSURE ASSERTIONS OF HITLER WHO HAS BRAGGED OF ALMOST COSTLESS VICTORIES, SHOUTED THAT GERMANY'S ARMS WERE GERMANY'S GUARANTEE, GIVEN ASSURANCES THAT NO MATTER WHAT WEAPONS AMERICA PRODUCED GERMANY WOULD OUTDO HER, AND ONLY A YEAR AGO CLAIMED THAT THE WORST WAS ALREADY OVER IN RUSSIA. JAN 31 1943

GOERING SOUGHT TO INJECT SOME OPTIMISM INTO THE GENERAL GLOOM. IN THE SPRING, GERMANY WILL ATTACK AGAIN WITH NEW ARMIES STELLED BY NEW WEAPONS, HE SAID. RUSSIA IS USING HER LAST RESERVES (AGAIN), HE ADDED. AND WHEN THE RUSSIANS ARE AT LAST TAKEN CARE OF THE GERMAN AIR FORCE WILL TAKE SWEET REVENGE ON BRITAIN FOR THOSE RAF BOMBINGS, HE DECLARED.

THESE DECLARATIONS DO NOT CARRY CONVICTION. BUT IT IS PRECISELY BECAUSE HITLER AND HIS NAZIA ARE PUTTING SUCH TREMENDOUS STEAM BEHIND THEIR EFFORT TO FURTHER M[illegible]MEN

HOME FRONT THAT GERMANY MUST BE REGARDED AS DANGEROUS.

THERE IS NOTHING WHICH THEY WILL NOT DO IF IT WILL AVERT DEFEAT. NEW WEAPONS AND NEW TRICKS WILL BE DEVISED. KNOWN WEAPONS, SUCH AS GAS, MAY YET BE BROUGHT INTO PLAY OUT OF DESPERATION. WHOLESALE ANNIHILATION OF POPULATIONS AND DESTRUCTION OF BROAD BELTS OF INHABITED COUNTRY TO HINDER AND DELAY PURSUIT MAY BE ATTEMPTED.

PERHAPS MOST DANGEROUS TO THE UNITED NATIONS IS THE SUBMARINE. THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMIRAL KARL DOENITZ AS NAVY COMMANDER PROBABLY FORE-SHADOWS AN EVEN MORE RUTHLESS AND EFFICIENT SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN.

TEN YEARS AGO TONIGHT THE BROWNSHIRTED COLUMNS SURGED IN TRIUMPH THROUGH THE STREETS OF BERLIN, THE THUNDER OF THEIR BOOTS MARKING THE CADENCE FOR THEIR HYMNS OF WAR. ADOLF HITLER HAD JUST BEEN CALLED TO BE THE CHANCELLOR OF THE REICH AND THE FUEHRER OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE. THE WORLD WATCHED WITH A PREMONITION OF SINISTER EVENTS BUT ITS WORST FEARS FELL SHORT OF THE TERRIBLE VISITATIONS THE NAZI DECADE HAS BROUGHT. IT SEEMS LONGER THAN TEN YEARS; IT IS HARD TO RECALL THE RELATIVELY UNWORRIED SPIRIT OF THE TIMES WHEN MANKIND WAS NOT LIVING UNDER HITLER'S SHADOW.

JAN 31 1943

THAT NIGHT IN 1933, AS HE WATCHED HIS FOLLOWERS MARCH, HE REVELLED IN THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF TRIUMPHS WITHOUT A MATCH FOR THEIR BALEFUL MEANING FOR THE WORLD. IN THE SHADOWS WAS THE AGED HINDENBURG, THE COMMANDER WHO HAD LOST THE LAST WAR AND, THOUGH HE DID NOT KNOW IT, WAS HANDING GERMAN LEADERSHIP ON TO ANOTHER WHO MEANT TO CHALLENGE THE WORLD AGAIN.

HISTORIES OF OUR TIMES DOUBTLESS WILL RING TWO DATES IN RED THE COLOR OF BLOOD -- JANUARY 30, 1933, AND SEPTEMBER 18, 1931. THE LATTER, WHICH NOT MANY WILL RECOGNIZE READILY, WAS THE DAY JAPAN FELL UPON MANCHURIA AND LAUNCHED THE ASIATIC PHASE OF THE AXIS ADVENTURE IN BRIGANDAGE. ON THOSE DATES TWO BITTER, VENOMOUS STREAMS OF REVOLT AGAINST THE CIVILIZATION OF THE ATLANTIC NATIONS, BY THE STANDARDS OF THAT CIVILIZATION SUPREMELY EVIL, ROSE TO THE SURFACE OF WORLD EVENTS. WITHIN A DECADE THEY WERE TO BE FUSED AND TO DRAW THE UNITED STATES INTO THE GREATEST WAR OF ALL.

THERE HAS BEEN NO HUMAN CAREER QUITE AS METEORIC AS HITLER'S. THE INEVITABLE PARALLEL IS NAPOLEON'S. BUT THE RESPLENDENT BONAPARTE ROCKET TOOK 20 YEARS FOR ITS FLIGHT. MANY WILL SAY THAT THE HITLERIAN COUNTERPART, WITH ONLY TEN YEARS MARKED OFF, IS NEAR THE FINAL BLACKOUT.

HITLER HAS PROCLAIMED THAT HE WAS BUILDING HIS THIRD REICH TO LAST A THOUSAND YEARS. IT HAS SURVIVED ONE ONE-HUNDRED OF THAT SPAN AND UNLESS OUR OWN CIVILIZATION IS TO BE DESTROYED ITS END SHOULD COME BEFORE THE SECOND DECADE IS FAR GONE. IT IS INTERESTING TO SPECULATE JUST WHERE HISTORY WILL SAY THAT HITLER REACHED HIS PINNACLE. PERHAPS THAT JUNE DAY IN 1940 WHEN HE STOOD IN THE GALLERY OF THE INVALIDES IN PARIS AND LOOKED DOWN, HALF IN ADMIRATION AND HALF IN PITY, ON THE TOMB OF NAPOLEON, THAT OTHER EARTH-SHAKER WHO CONQUERED A CONTINENT BUT COULD NOT HOLD IT.

PERHAPS THE NAPOLEONIC EXAMPLE HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH THE URGE WHICH DROVE THE GERMAN FUEHRER INTO RUSSIA; PERHAPS SOMETHING

30.24 - 777

IMPELLED HIM TO TRY TO SHOW HE COULD WIN WHERE THE OTHER HAD FAILED. THE PARALLEL PROMISES TO RUN TRUE AS FAR AS THE RUSSIAN CHAPTER GOES. THE WEHRMACHT KNOWS TODAY WHAT THE ROAD BACK MEANT TO THE GRAND ARMY.

THAT 1933 SPIRIT OF VICTORY, HOPE, FIERY AMBITION IS MISSING IN BERLIN TODAY. WORD HAD GONE FORTH THAT THERE ARE TO BE NO FLAGS, NO TRIUMPHAL PARADES OF BROWNSHIRTS SHOUTING THE HORST WESSEL.

THE ATMOSPHERE IS SOMBER, THE SUMMONS IS TO HEROIC EFFORT, BLIND OBEDIENCE TO AVERT CATASTROPHE. THIS DOES NOT MEAN THAT COLLAPSE IS AT HAND; MORE LIKELY IT FOREBODES A TERRIBLE, GRIM RESISTANCE THAT WILL ADD NEW CHAPTERS TO THE WORLD'S AGONY BEFORE IT IS OVER. BUT THAT RASPING NOISE IS SOMETHING MORE THAN THE BROADCAST VOICES OF GOEBBELS AND GOERING. IT IS HITLER SCRAPING THE BOTTOM OF THE BARREL TO MUSTER THE LAST RESOURCES OF A CONTINENT THAT HAD THE TRAGIC FATE TO FALL UNDER HIS MASTERY.

KRASNODAR IN PERIL

Soviet Force Reported 30 Miles East of German Base.

30.24 - 777

LONDON, Jan. 31 — (AP) Virtually complete destruction of Hitler's proud Stalingrad-siege forces of 330,000 men, with smashing of two crack Nazi armies, killing of 100,000 troops in the last 20 days alone, and capture of a field marshal and 16 generals was announced by the Soviets late tonight in a triumphant special communique.

Russian troops, who first turned Stalingrad into a valiant fortress and then made it a death trap for the Nazi invaders and scene of the worst German defeat of the war, have wiped out one of the last two remaining German suicide garrisons at the Volga city, crushing the enemy pocket west of the central part of Stalingrad, it was stated in the communique, broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor.

FEB 1 1943

Commander Taken Prisoner

Taken prisoner was Field Marshal Gen. Freidrich Paulus, commander of the crushed German Sixth army and Fourth tank army, and 16 of his generals. Marshal Paunius, whose promotion from colonel general was announced only today by the Germans, is the first Nazi field marshal to be taken prisoner in this war.

Meanwhile the peril of 200,000 Nazi troops fighting around Krasnodar in the Caucasus with their back to the Kerch strait increased ominously, with the Soviet midnight communique reporting capture of Ryazanskaya, only 30 miles east of that German pivot base.

Rail Town Falls

The midnight communique also announced the fall of Belorechenskaya, on the Armavir-Tuapse railroad 17 miles northwest of Maikop, as the Russian columns drove on Krasnodar. Ryazanskaya is another 18 miles northwest of Maikop. Thus this Soviet column smashing at Krasnodar apparently advanced 35 miles beyond Maikop in one day.

The Russians already stood within 40 miles of Krasnodar at Ladojskaya, and were reported advancing beyond that point.

The offensive continued on the Voronezh front, where 25,000 Germans are trapped, and the Russians captured 20 populated places, the midnight communique added. Advanced Russian units in that area are within 45 miles of the great trunk railway joining Kursk and Kharkov, backbone of the Nazi line last winter.

In the debacle at Stalingrad, the Russians said, 5,000 German officers and men were taken prisoner on Sunday alone.

One Pocket Holds Out

All that remained of the huge armies that Hitler sacrificed at Stalingrad was a pocket in the northern factory area of the city, and this too was being hemmed in ever closer by the Soviet vise.

Thus was the fate of the German forces which rejected a Soviet ultimatum earlier this month to surrender or die.

FEB 1 1943

The Russians declared that information from the captured generals showed the army trapped by the offensive begun in November numbered 330,000 troops, and not 220,000 as first estimated.

In the general offensive launched Jan. 10, after the ultimatum was rejected, "Soviet troops according to incomplete data have destroyed over 100,000 German officers and men," the communique asserted.

It the last four days alone, it said, 18,000 Germans were taken prisoner, making a total of 46,000 laying down their arms since the last Soviet drive was begun 20 days ago.

Great Booty Seized

Stupendous quantities of tanks, planes, guns, and other war material were captured, the Russians said.

The 16 captured generals include Lieut. Gen. Schmidt, Marshal Paulus' chief of staff, and the quartermaster general of the German Sixth army. Of the other 14, ten were German lieutenant generals, two were German major generals, and two were Rumanian generals.

Seven colonels also were gathered up in the final liquidation drive.

"In the course of the fighting and also according to evidence given by German generals who were taken prisoner, it has been established that by Nov. 23, 1942, at least 330,000 of the enemy were encircled, including construction and police detachments, and not 220,000 as reported before," the communique said.

Early in January the Russians split the besieged Germans in two, and launched a general offensive for their "annihilation" when the Nazi commanders rejected the ultimatum calling for surrender.

"As is known," the communique continued, "the German troops encircled at Stalingrad between Nov. 23 and Jan. 10, owing to our artillery fire and systematic bombing, and also owing to frost and disease, lost about 140,000 men.

"Thus, since the beginning of the general offensive by our troops,

Jan. 10, 343, the German troops encircled at Stalingrad numbered, together with the reinforcement troops, construction organization, police detachments of the army and a corps of rear detachments, about 190,000 officers and men.

"These figures are confirmed by the general quartermaster of the Sixth Germany army, who stated that on Jan. 10 the German troops encircled outside Stalingrad numbered together with the rear detachments 195,000.

"This data gives still greater importance to the victory of the Soviet troops at Stalingrad."

List of Captured Generals

The other captured generals were named as:

Lieut. Gen. Schlemmer, commander of the 14th tank corps.

Lieut. Gen. Zeidlitz, commander of the 61st army corps.

Lieut. Gen. of Artillery Pfeffer, commander of the 4th army corps.

Lieut. Gen. Sanne, commander of the 100th light infantry division.

Lieut. Gen. Leiser, commander of the 29th motorized division.

Lieut. Gen. Forres, commander of the 295th infantry division.

Lieut. Gen. Moritz, commander of the 297th infantry division.

Lieut. Gen. von Drebber, commander of the 376th infantry division.

Lieut. Gen. Otto Rinolde, medical service commander of the sixth army.

Maj. Gen. Dubua, commander of artillery of the 4th army corps.

Maj. Gen. Wolfe, commander of artillery of the 61st army corps.

Brig. Gen. Ulrich, commander of the 20th Rumanian infantry division.

Gen. Dimitri Bratescu, commander of the First Rumanian cavalry division.

Besides the huge bag of high officers, the Soviets also reported capture of the headquarters of the 14th tank corps, third motorized division, and numerous infantry divisions.

Tremendous booty taken in this final phase included 744 planes, 1,517 tanks, 6,523 guns, 1,421 mortars, 7,489 machine-guns, 76,887 rifles, 60,464 trucks, 7,341 motorcycles, 575 armored railway cars, 299 depots with ammunition and military equipment and "a large quantity of other war material," the Soviet announcement added.

West of Starobyelsk in the drive toward Kharkov "Soviet troops broke the enemy resistance and occupeid strongly fortified points of enemy defenses," the midnight communiqué said. "Ten German tanks were destroyed and another 300 Hitlerites annihilated."

Troops on the Don front wiped out "scattered groups of Hitlerites," it continued, while on the southern front Russian troops repulsed counter-attacks and continued the offensive.

"In one sector our detachment, breaking into the German rear, routed a mobile enemy battalion," and another Soviet motorized unit beat off an attack by German tanks and tommy-gunners, setting fire to three tanks.

Much war booty was taken in the fighting west of Voronezh, and 400 Germans were taken prisoner at Chernyanku, which was occupied yesterday.

During the week ended Wednesday, the communiqué said, 141 German planes were destroyed to ninety-three Soviet planes lost.

FEB 1 1943

Paulus Promoted Yesterday

Two generals commanding the Nazi suicide forces at Stalingrad have been promoted. The Berlin radio announced yesterday, even as the entrapped Germans were acknowledged in Berlin to be "practically an army of the dead."

A special communique of the German high command, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by The Associated Press, reported the promotion of General Friedrich Paulus to the rank of field marshal, and of Artillery General Heitz, of the 2d Army Corps, to colonel general.

The fifty-two-year-old Paulus, who became one of the youngest German field marshals, played a prominent part in "preparing and planning" the campaign in Russia when he was chief quartermaster in the high command, the German radio said.

After serving throughout the first world war, he remained in the army and, as chief of staff to the late Field Marshal Walther von Reichenau, distinguished himself in Poland and on the western front in this war, the radio said.

Three other generals were promoted to the rank of field marshal, the radio said. They were Colonel General Ewald von Kleist, commander of an army group; Colonel General Baron Maximilian von Weichs, and Colonel General Busch, army commanders. German news agencies, however, for some time have referred to Kleist as a field marshal.

Nine Nazi Divisions Face Annihilation

Moscow, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Russians beat forward in the north Caucasus today after capturing Maikop and Tikhoretsk and remorselessly cut at the remnants of nine trapped divisions west of Voronezh in a battle of annihilation second only to the slaughter at Stalingrad.

Eight towns were captured overnight in the Voronezh area, where the Red army has thrust within sixty miles of Kursk, fifty-five miles of Belgorod and seventy-five miles of Kharkov.

In the Caucasus, the Russians said they "advanced fighting" beyond captured Ladojskaya to a point within forty miles of Krasnodar. That Kuban river city and the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk are the only large places left to the enemy below Rostov.

Advance Reaches 315 Miles

With the capture of Tikoretsk, ninety-five miles southeast of Rostov, the Russians had advanced 315 miles in the north Caucasus from Ordzhonididze, high-water mark of the German advance. Now at least five potent columns were thrusting at Rostov in a vast arc from seventy miles north to fifty-six miles east on the Lower Don to Tikhoretsk.

The fall of the great city at the mouth of the Don would seal off the survivors of the 300,000-man army still in the Caucasus except for an escape corridor over the narrow Kerch strait, made hazardous by the controlling Soviet Black Sea fleet.

The Germans, cognizant of their danger, were making stubborn counter attacks, but these were crushed dispatches said.

Oil Region Cleared

The fall of Maikop virtually cleared the Garmans from the only oil region they had captured. The Russians destroyed the fields and refineries in their summer retreat so thoroughly that the Soviets insisted that the enemy got not one barrel of oil.

Pravda said that when the first Red troops entered Maikop they found the oil installations in ashes.

"The Germans had organized a terrible slaughter," Pravda said. "They killed the oil workers and their families."

5,000 Taken, Killed In Day

The noon communique listed more than 5,000 Axis troops killed or captured since midnight. Some 1,300 survivors at Stalingrad surrendered in the last twenty-four hours, leaving less than 6,500 by Soviet accounts. Another 2,500 in the Voronezh trap realized their plight sooner and surrendered.

The Voronezh offensive had carried into Orel province, and the Russians said the last Germans had been killed or captured in Voronezh province. The commanders of the last drive, which baffled the Germans and led to their encirclement, were promoted to the rank of colonels general. They are Max Andreievich Reiter and Ivan Ivanovich Maslennikov.

25,000 Left In Voronezh Pocket

Dispatches from the death pocket around the recaptured rail crossroad of Kastornoye, west of Voronezh, did not announce how many of the foe were trapped, but at full strength the seven German divisions and regiments of two others would number around 110,000.

Some estimates say no more than 25,000 remain in the pocket in view of the slaughter and surrenders last week.

Izvestia said the trapped Germans had abandoned hope of getting out of the ring. The roads were reported choked with trucks, many abandoned for lack of gasoline. Soviet dive bombers and tanks were reported consistently pouring death into the German ranks.

LIFE REVIVES IN LENINGRAD

People Of Relieved City Speed Up Work Of Restoring Normal Activities

Factories Resume With Production Speeded Up; Rail Traffic Rolls Again

FEB 1 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Moscow, Jan. 30—The war-worn people of Leningrad, cheered by the lifting of a seventeen-month siege, are reported throwing themselves eagerly into the task of restoring their city to normal life.

Eyewitnesses of events before and since the Soviet Information Bureau announced January 18 that the German grip on the city had been broken, told the details:

Specialists are studying factories which had been occupied by the invaders, seeing what is needed to get them going again. Production has spurted ahead.

Trains Move Over Frozen River

Trains already move over the heavy ice of the Neva river which flows east of Leningrad between Lakes Ilmen and Ladoga. In the distance is the roar of guns.

The battle rages in thick, snow-laden forests, in little ravines and in the vast plains across the Neva.

All the people of Leningrad are not in the city. Many rushed into the Red army ranks when the city was first attacked, but many still remain.

Here is a girl with an ax. Here is a commander, who was a poet. Here is a girl typing under the roar of long-range guns. She formerly was a stenographer for the Association of Leningrad Writers.

Some of the officers are middle-aged veterans. Others are youths with boyish complexions, all more radiant now.

Think Worst Is Over

The Germans claw back furiously. They cling to every pillbox and try to rake the Soviets with heavy long-range guns.

"We know the most decisive battles are to come," said one happy citizen, "but also we know the worst is over."

In Schlusselburg, workers hurried, setting the port in order.

The old fort is in ruins. It should be. The commander of a garrison of sailors who held out so long there revealed that 50,000 shells were hurled against the position by the Germans.

A fresh red flag flutters over the ruins. Telegrams from Britain, from Moscow, from Armenia flip off the wires.

Life still is hard in Leningrad, but it is so much better. There also is that promise of complete liberation, although the people know there are hard struggles ahead.

Wheels spin more rapidly everywhere as workers with fresh strength tackle their jobs.

Wild Night On January 18

The night of January 18, 1943, was probably the wildest in the history of the old city.

News of the Leningrad offensive and the breaking of the blockade came first by the city's radio. It was reported in detail three times so no one would miss it.

Telephones jingled all over the city as people called one another. Old folks and young cried with joy. The radio began playing music. Tired workers, many of whom had gone through terrible privations, rose up, shook hands and kissed one another.

More, more music. It never ceased until dawn.

Meetings and celebrations were held in homes and factories.

The wounded refused to go to hospitals.

By dawn the whole city had been draped in new Red flags.

One commander and four soldiers were dragging a captured German flame thrower.

"Please take it back, comrades," the commander said to rejoicing passers-by. "It takes five of us to do this and we are needed at the front line."

NAZIS SEND 31 DIVISIONS TO BOLSTER EAST FRONT

LONDON, Jan. 31 — (AP) The Russians in a supplement to their midnight communique tonight said that the Germans since last November had sent 31 divisions to the eastern front.

They denied in the communique, which was recorded by the Soviet monitor, that the Germans had moved "a single division" away from the Russian front to serve in Africa.

"Since the end of November, 1942," said the communique supplement, "the German command has transferred to the Soviet-German front 19 infantry and three tank divisions, including 11 divisions transferred from Belgium and Norway. Another nine divisions are on the way."

First Enemy Raid At Espiritu Santo Coincides With Secretary's Visit — Heavier Blow Struck At Guadalcanal, But Without Casualties

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN
[By the Associated Press]

Pearl Harbor, Jan. 29 (Delayed)—Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy; Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific Ocean area, and Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force, were under 30.24-779

30.29-779

Japanese air attack twice within the past two weeks.

The first attack was a short one at Espiritu Santo, in the New Hebrides, and the second one, much heavier, of seven hours duration, was on Guadalcanal. No casualties were reported in either attack.

Calls Jap Bombing Very Inaccurate

Secretary Knox described them as like bombing attacks in 1918 and that the Japanese high-level bombardment was "very inaccurate."

FEB 1 1943

About the attack on Espiritu Santo, where Admiral Halsey met him, the secretary said:

"It was the first attack there. How the Japs got the information we don't know, but they didn't do us any harm, except to keep us awake."

"I think there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo," he said in answer to a question. "When or how it will hit, I will not say, but they better get ready.

"I think the Japs will fight a tough, hard and persistent war. I will not discuss strategy but will say we have just begun to fight and haven't hit our hardest blows yet.

Supplies In Abundance

"Every base has an abundance of supplies, and men are living well and the spirit of our men everywhere is magnificent.

"Our submarines are doing a magnificent job, and operations against the Japanese line of communications are going at a good rate. I think destruction of shipping is a matter of great concern to the Japanese. Knowing their shipping resources and their capabilities of building, we can readily understand their concern.

"In the Atlantic the submarine war situation is still a tough problem to us, and lots of losses are ahead there for us.

"In the Pacific I cannot speak too well of the high command. The nearer to the front the less the distinction of the various services.

Have Same Determination

"You can't tell the army, navy and marines apart. All are animated by the same determination to come to grips with the enemy and end the war as soon as possible and have abounding confidence in their ability to do it."

The Secretary's trip was a most complete inspection, involving more than 20,000 miles in air travel from Washington and return. He said its purpose was to get first-hand information on how to send funds and speed the movement of supplies.

"My survey of Pearl Harbor and Aahu is the first since my visit here a efew days after the first attack. I find it transformed into a fortress and I think Oahu now is adequately defended and the men who comprise the defense are thorougly aware of their responsibility.

Recognizes Midway's Danger

"I found Midway in a very satisfactory condition of defense. We recognize the immense danger of this one of the most exposed posts in the Pacific. Outstanding here and at all other posts is the blazing spirit of offensive by the officers and men of all services.

"The same applies to Johnston, Palmyra, Canton (mid-Pacific islands). At the Fijis I found Sir Philip Mitchell, the British governor, most hospitable and the state of our defense and projects there fine.

"In the New Hebrides I found the base far more advanced than expected.

Now Dominate Guadalcanal

"On Guadalcanal I think we have dissipated the threat of the Japanese ground forces. We are now dominating the island. I went to the front lines with Admiral Halsey and visited the front line battalion command and talked to the enlisted men. I cannot emphasize too much the edge of our men there.

"It does one's heart good to talk with them. Their one thought is get to the enemy and drive him out. The army had the remaining Japs there pocketed in ravines and facing starvation.

"In my judgment, it may be a fallacious one, but my opinion is that the Japanese have abandoned any idea of reinforcement of their troops there and within the next thirty days all organized resistance on Guadalcanal will disappear.

Praises Field Hospital

"On another island, not far away, I cannot disclose its location, I visited a fine hospital. I never saw a finer field hospital, and there were twenty-five to thirty nurses there. That makes the man happy. It is possible that within twenty-four hours after a man is wounded on Guadalcanal he can be on a hospital bed with the best surgeons in the world taking care.

"One of our greatest enemies is malaria. The army and navy are thoroughly aware of how great this is and the most modern means are being used to meet this peril. I can say that the men can get better attention for malaria there than they could at home.

"The spirit of the men in the hospitals is wonderful. The blazing courage of these fellows is something I'll never forget, and I do hope this message can get to the folks at home how ne the hospital service is and what good care is being taken of them.

Little Piece Of America

"Noumea is just a little piece of America set down in new Caledonia. It has the quality of a mining town in boom days. The natives never saw so much money and the wave of prosperity is beyond their wildest dreams. It is marvelous how we get things done overnight.

"At the Fijis I met two men who had been decorated, Sullivan and Murphy. Sullivan is a navy officer and Murphy a marine. I told them the story of how during the last war, while I was in France, Mrs. Knox used to read the casualty lists every day—the K section of the list. Later she told me that every day something was happening to a Kelly.

"The Irish are always in the thick of the fight. It was Suulivan who said that the fighting at Gaudalcanal 'has made Christians of us all.'

" 'There are no heathens in a fox hole,' Murphy added.

Samoa In Fine Shape

"Samoa is in fine shape. Like all the other posts it is prepared for any possible attack that might come.

"On one island I saw one of the best airfields I ever saw anywhere. It was made of volcanic red dust. The rain cements the dust and every rain makes it a better field.

"One of my most vivid impressions was that of the tremendous pride in offensive spirit encountered everywhere, the skill of the administration and the building of bases.

"We are giving the Japs lots to worry about in the Pacific. In a war of attrition the advantage is all ours. In our vastly greater power of building and in that type of warfare—I am not saying this is the only type—ultimate victory is certain."

FEB 1 1943

Have Welded Weapons

When asked whether any particular weapon will be essential to victory, he replied:

"Such questions are foolish; we have welded our weapons—the air, the ground and surface ships."

The Secretary referred to Admiral Nimitz a question about the Aleutians situation. The admiral said:

"Operations are proceeding satisfactorily there. The threat from the Aleutians is diminishing."

Seabees Draw Praise

"It was very gratifying to see the result of Rear Admiral Ben Moreell's organization of the Seabees. [The Seabees are navy construction battalions composed of men trained to build installations. They also are drilled and equipped to fight when necessary.]

"Their personnel is of the highest, trained in the various crafts which they abandoned with the opportunity of higher wages to take the lower wages in this war work in combat zones. I found that the degree of satisfaction could not be exaggerated. They are anxious to come to grips with the enemy and everyone regards himself as part of the combatant troops.

"Some of the tasks they have achieved are almost superhuman. The airfield was built in seventeen days out of a jungle. Their courage and dogged determination, not only in hostile climates but with physical handicaps, is displayed with such resolution that they have covered themselves with glory.

All With Fighting Spirit

"It was fine to find this fighting spirit animating everyone.

"I was happy to bring the message to the men in these remote areas that they are not forgotten. I want to assure everyone in the Pacific that the people of the United States are deeply concerned and trenmendously interested in what is happening in this Pacific area. There is not the slightest desire among military heads, from the President down, to minimize the importance of this area and the fighting in this are.

"The fighting being done in this area is by Americans, almost exclusively, in addition to the Australians and New Zealanders, and the whole of America has its eyes on this area."

Nazis Attack in Tunisia to Keep Path Open for Fleeing Afrika Korps

Drive Is Checked After Initial Gains

Allies Rush Planes Into Fray to Halt Germans as French Lines Bend

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A tank-led German task force seeking to protect Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's escape corridor along the Gulf of Gabes was officially reported to be engaged aground and under aerial attack today after breaking through French-held Allied defenses in the Faid Pass area of central Tunisia.

A French communique said the Germans had "begun a violent offensive against one of our positions," making small gains at the cost of heavy losses including many destroyed tanks. The French reported patrol activity in the Ousseltia Mountain region.

This fresh burst of fighting on the Tunisian front was announced at Allied headquarters in North Africa as dispatches from both British and Axis quarters indicated that General Sir Bernard Montgomery's westbound 8th Army was pursuing its object of pushing the Afrika Korps from all Tripolitania.

Allied Planes Slow Drive

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said the German column drove toward Sidi Bouzid, sixty miles west of the Axis-held port of Sfax on the Gulf of Gabes, a strategic center of the road and railway being held open for Marshal Rommel's retreating forces.

British and American fighters and bombers were flung into the breach and apparently had slowed or stopped the Axis drive short of Sidi Bouzid after day-long fighting and bombing attacks which left at least twelve Axis tanks and a number of trucks in flames in the pass, and hit columns moving along the Sfax-Maknassy road farther to the south.

"Fighting in the area is still in progress," a communique said.

The new burst of activity followed strong week-end blows by British and American bombers on Axis bases.

The fresh German land thrust appeared designed to blunt the force of a three-pronged Allied drive to block Rommel in his race to join the forces of Colonel General Jurgen von Arnim to the northwest.

Montgomery's Forces Push On

The Morocco radio reported a column of Montgomery's 8th Army had crossed into Tunisia from Tripolitania in a push up the coastal road along which Rommel is retreating. A British communique had reported yesterday that advanced forces crossed the border in the "central sector" to the south.

Both Italian and German high commands spoke of strong British attacks in western Tripolitania, but said they were driven off. The Rome communique said the attackers, despite the use of tanks and strong artillery fire, "were repulsed with considerable losses."

While Allied sources remained silent on the operations of an American Army column known to be operating in central Tunisia, Axis reports said it was moving closer to the Gulf of Gabes.

Meanwhile, in a blow at Axis supply and reinforcement centers in Sicily and on the mainland, United States Army Liberator bombers struck the harbor of Messina, only two miles across the narrow strait from the "toe" of Italy.

FEB 1 1943

Two daylight raids resulted in direct hits on two Axis merchantmen in the harbor, a successful smash at the terminal of the ferry to the mainland and hits among clustered shipping, on a power house and all along the waterfront, a communique said.

Confirming the American announcement, the Italian communique said "considerable damage was caused" at Messina. It set the casualty toll at fifty-one dead and 105 injured. An Italian claim that two American bombers had been shot down in the attacks failed to square with the American announcement that all the planes had returned.

The American raids followed blows by British bombers Friday night on airdromes and other targets in Sicily, on Lampedusa Island, and on the southern tip of the Italian mainland, and the sinking of an Axis merchantman by a British torpedo plane off the south coast of Italy.

An Italian communique reported successful submarine attacks against Allied Mediterranean supply lines, saying two destroyers and "another large naval unit" in a convoy were sunk, and a fourth vessel, not identified, was hit by a torpedo. Another submarine, the Italians claimed, torpedoed two ships of an unidentified type in a convoy off Bougie, Algeria. None of these attacks was confirmed by Allied sources.

NAZIS HURL TANKS INTO TUNISIA FIGHT

Germans Gain Against French, Allied Planes Halt Thrust.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 31—(AP)

The Tunisian battlefront flared up anew today with Allied troops battering at a German tank column which burst six miles through French-held Faid pass, 60 miles northwest of Sfax.

American bombers and fighters first halted the Nazi thrust and a French communique later reported "Allied troops" had been flung into action and had destroyed a considerable number of German tanks.

FEB 1 1943

Protection for Rommel

The Germans launched the attack apparently to protect Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's rear as Eighth army patrols penetrated into Tunisia and approached the Axis-held Mareth line.

The German task force, composed of tanks, artillery and infantry in a form similar to an American combat team, was reported to have carried through Faid pass and about six miles beyond toward Sidi Bouzid.

Part of these Nazi units are believed to belong to the 10th Panzer division. This division fought with distinction in Poland, and was one of those breaking through the French line at Sedan in the battle for France. It also attacked toward Smolensk on the eastern front, and was the first to rush to the defenses during the Dieppe attack.

The German attack apparently had the dual purpose of forestalling any Allied drive eastward to drive a wedge between the armies of Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim and Marshal Rommel, and at the same time expend Allied war materials which might be built up for such an offensive.

It was the first concerted, large-scale action in Tunisia since last week's heavy rains. The Germans are now in the flat plateau country ideal for tank battles.

Boston bombers and P-40 Warhawk fighters rushed to the assistance of the French and blasted the German column four times during the day, leaving at least 12 tanks and a number of trucks on fire in the pass, he said.

Crack French Defenses

The Nazi task force, striking at 7:30 a. m. yesterday, quickly crashed through the light French infantry defenses in Faid pass and then turned south, the Allied spokesman said.

Bostons and P-40s rushed into the breach to strafe the Germans continually and to pour high explosives on motorized columns, with the result that the German advance apparently was halted short of Sidi Bouzid.

P-40s also raked an Axis column moving along the Sfax-Maknassey road farther south, the spokesman reported.

An Allied communique said the fight was "still in progress."

B-25 Mitchells, escorted by P-38's bombed the El Aquinet rail yards seven miles north of the port of Gabes, scoring direct hits on warehouses.

In ensuing dogfights against about 15 Foucke-Wulf 190s and Messerschmitt 109s the American fighters and medium bombers were reported to have shot down eight enemy planes. The Mitchells destroyed two, the spokesman said, and the Lightnings accounted for the other six.

FEB 1 1943

It is on the El Aquinet railroad that Marshal Rommel depends largely for supplies to the Mareth line, where he is now reported building up his forces to resist the Eighth army. At El Aquinet the railroad is bottlenecked by marshes on either side.

Patrols Now Mareth Line

Unconfirmed reports said that advanced British patrols already had reached the Mareth line. There is unlikely to be any large-scale action soon, however, as Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery must build up his forces for the next thrust.

Meanwhile the Middle East airforces blasted a wide variety of targets, including those at Sicily and Lampeduse, according to the Middle East communique.

Spitfires in the Pont Du Fahs area of Tunisia struck several columns of Nazi transports, raking the trucks with cannon-fire and machine-gunning German soldiers.

Flying Fortresses were reported to have bombed the docks and shipping at Ferryville, near Bizerti, scoring direct hits on at least three ships and damaging many others tied up at the docks. Warehouses and docks also received heavy sticks of explosives, the spokesman reported.

This attack followed an assault by Fortresses Friday night on Bizerte.

Eight allied planes were reported missing from all these operations.

The message from the French high commissioner in North Africa, as broadcast by the Morocco radio, said:

"I send my warmest greetings both to you and to the great Allied republic.

"I wish to express to you as if we were face to face the gratitude which overseas France feels. Thanks to the decisive help of the United States, she can accomplish the mission which is hers and free metropolitan France.

SIX ARMY NURSES AT FRONT IN AFRICA

Group Arrives at Advanced Desert Post for Field Duty.

CAIRO, Jan. 31—(AP) Objecting to being "glamorized," six American nurses arrived today at an advanced desert landing ground as the first group to do field duty in Africa.

They are: Josephine Mele, Willoughby, Ohio; Alice Bery, Springfield, Ohio; Loretta Carter, Rockport, Ind.; Margaret O'Hare, Youngstown, Ohio; Helen Oakes, Ravenna, Ky.; and Margaret Bagar, Freeman, W. Va.

They arrived with their tin hats slung over their shoulders and messkits in their hands.

Acting Chief Nurse Mele said: "We are up here to work and we don't want any glamor about it."

Despite a cold driving rain, the entire camp turned out to welcome the nurses, the first American women many of the boys had seen in months.

Major Alex S. Tulsky, Chicago, commanding the field hospital unit, said the nurses are "as good soldiers as you ever saw. They did not have to come up here in the mud like the rest of us, and could have made the trip by plane, but preferred to stick with the outfit."

CAVALLERO QUITS ITALIAN WAR POSTS AS LIBYA IS LOST

Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio Appointed to Serve as Chief of General Staff.

LONDON, Jan. 31 — (AP) The Rome radio said today that Marshal Ugo Cavallero had resigned his posts as undersecretary of war and chief of the Italian general staff "at his own request" and would be succeeded by Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio, head of the Italian army staff.

The shakeup follows the loss of the last of Premier Mussolini's African empire in the Egyptian-Libyan campaign of the British Eighth army.

General Ambrosio was in command of the Italian Second army at Verona at the start of the war.

Since the Allied invasion of North Africa he was quoted in a Geneva dispatch as having lamented the fact that Italian troops were fighting on the Russian front, saying that "in the present very intricate situation, fraught with surprises, Italy more than ever needs her own army to defend Italian frontiers from any enemy."

Marshal Cavalerro, 63 and a veteran of three Italian wars, replaced Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the Italian general staff in December, 1940, when things were going badly in the campaign against Greece.

He had previously held the post of under-secretary of war in the Fascist regime. In 1936 he was appointed military commander in Cirenaica and in 1937 was placed in command of Italian troops in Ethiopia.

During the first World war Marshal Cavallero was chief of operations in the Italian high command. He was credited with playing an important part in reorganizing the Italian defenses on the Piave after the Caporetto disaster and with directing the campaign which led to the final Italian victory of Vittorio Veneto.

Grim Tone of Nazi Speeches Viewed as Sign of Decline

Observers Interpret Talks as Signal of Fear in Leaders.

FEB 1 1943

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP) The grim tone of the bomb-accompanied pronouncements by Adolf Hitler, Herman Goering and Paul Joseph Goebbels was considered by political quarters here today as the most significant feature of yesterday's drab Nazi party celebration in Berlin.

Signs of the times were seen in the fact that, instead of shouting the customary bombast about what Germany would do to her enemies, the Nazi triumvirate told their people little more than that they must be prepared to fight and die for the Fuehrer.

Decline of Nazis Shown

"The events of the week have shown the depths to which Hitler has dragged Germany during the 10 years of his regime," said one prominent informant who cannot be identified by name.

"A study of yesterday's rantings discloses plainly the black fear that is in the hearts of the German leaders. Germany will continue to fight desperately, but the events of this miserable week end will heighten the fear which is rising."

Commentators expressed belief that Hitler, whose proclamation harped on the specter of Bolshevism sweeping over Europe, hoped to disunite the Allies and clear the way for a negotiated peace.

Diplomatic circles said they looked for Hitler to make some move on the political front and cautioned against Allied overconfidence.

Resorts to Psychology

"We must fight on doggedly until the whole continent has been saved," Hitler said in his proclamation, read by Propaganda Minister Goebbels. "The blows we may suffer are nothing in comparison to what they would be if barbarism swept across Europe."

Air Marshal Goering, whose address was delayed an hour by British Mosquito bombers overhead, also emphasized the Soviet threat. He declared, however, that German armies again would take the offensive in the spring to "crush Bolshevik resistance."

Goebbels, in perhaps his most striking statement, declared that "the word capitulate has never existed in our vocabulary and it never will." Attempts to sabotage the German war effort, he said, would be suppressed by the "severest penalties."

No Mention of Africa

It was considered significant that none of the three Nazi spokesmen mentioned the warfare in North Africa nor the increasing scope of the Allies' aerial bombardment of the continent.

Hitler's failure to attend the Nazi celebration was the subject of considerable speculation in the London Express: "Why did he hide in isolation?"

"He was said to be with his troop," the paper continued, "and content, himself, with issuing a prosy, rambling proclamation to the nation instead of a much-needed rousing oration.

"Why did he leave the oratory to Goering?

"The answer to these intriguing questions may be that his intuition warned him that the R.A.F. would take a hand in the festivities. If so, for once he was right."

Decorates 11 U. S. Flyers

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Brigadier General Frank O'D. Hunter, chief of the American 8th Air Force fighter command, decorated eleven American fighter pilots today for gallantry and predicted that 1943 would see "the end of the Luftwaffe as a fighting force." He said: "The Hun fighter force started down in 1942. In 1943 it will be all down. Ours is going up and up and up."

New Chief of German Navy Will Expand U-Boat Threat

Doenitz Declares Full Nazi Seapower Will Be Thrown Into Submarine War

FEB 1 1943

LONDON, Jan. 31—(AP) Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, Nazi Germany's wily submarine warfare wizard, assumed command of the German navy today with the prompt declaration that every ounce of German seapower is to be thrown into the submarine war against the Allies.

Raising his new commander-in-chief's flag—a black cross on a white field—over his headquarters, Admiral Doenitz was quoted by the German radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press as saying:

Will Expand U-Boat War

"I will put the entire concentrated strength of the navy into the submarine war which will be waged with still greater vigor and determination than hitherto.

"The entire German navy will henceforth be put into the service of inexorable U-boat warfare. The German navy will fight to a finish."

The declaration was regarded here as substantiation of views expressed previously that Admiral Doenitz' appointment yesterday as successor to Grand Admiral Erich Raeder was a forecast of a greatly intensified U-boat campaign which already is causing marked concern in Allied war councils.

Stockholm dispatches said the elevation of Admiral Doenitz, originator of the "wolf pack" method of U-boat fighting, was regarded by observers there as a sign that Hitler is pinning all his hopes of winning the war on the submarine weapon.

Admiral Raeder, it was reported, would become a sort of honorary "first adviser on naval affairs" to Hitler.

Even as Admiral Doenitz was assuming command, the German radio today announced, without verification from Allied sources, the sinking of 450,000 tons of Allied shipping in January.

1943

30.24-781

300 to 700 U-Boats

Allied sources have estimated that the Germans have anywhere from 300 to 700 submarines available for duty, a third of which might be on the hunt at any one time.

Stockholm dispatches said it was believed there that the Germans could step up construction until they were producing one new submarine a day. Allied sinkings of the U-boats are known to be far behind such a pace.

Virtually calling a halt to all other naval construction, Hitler is believed to have concentrated all his shipbuilding facilities upon U-boats for the past two years.

Observers pointed out that Admiral Doenitz' concentration of all naval efforts on the offensive might call for the transfer to submarine service of sailors who heretofore have been manning battleships and cruisers which were tied up at their docks most of the time.

This seemed to indicate a German hope that Allied offensive plans for 1943 can be delayed or sapped by the attrition along their supply lines.

That the Allies are alive to the danger was suggested by reports that countermeasures to the U-boat were one of the matters carefully considered at the Churchill-Roosevelt conference at Casablanca.

President Roosevelt's talks with President Getulio Vargas of Brazil were believed to have had a similar object in the south Atlantic.

The training of submarine crews is believed to have been the greatest German problem, and boys as young as 16 and 17 years are reported being taken into the service.

Delegates of the International Seamen's conference meeting at London today adopted a resolution calling for greater protection for Allied convoys.

"A considerable proportion of the loss of shipping, life and cargoes is due to the inadequacy of protection and the tardy arrival of assistance when insufficently protected convoys are attacked," the resolution declared.

Most of the delegates at the two-day meeting predicted that the U-boat campaign would reach its height next spring.

BRITISH SUB LOST

LONDON, Jan. 31. — (AP) The submarine P-222 has been lost, the Admiralty announced tonight.

The submarine is believed to be of recent construction and is not listed in Janes Fighting Ships. Three submarines bearing the same letter have been lost previously. The P-38 was reported overdue March 22, 1941 and the P-32 and P-33 were lost in September, 1941.

Bomber Station In England Termed Original Mudville

Concrete Runways Extend Several Directions—U. S. Air Force Planes Reported Tuned To A Hair

By GLADWIN HILL

(Associated Press Correspondent)

At A United States Air Force Bomber Station In England (Delayed)—It would take approximately 457 Sir Walter Raleighs laying down a cloak a second, to fix up the mud here. You keep thinking of "Casey at the Bat:" This must be the orginal Mudville.

Recent farm boys from the tobacco belt, cowboys from the West, and college students from the north fly out of here regularly, weather permitting, to bomb Europe, but the station is not impressive.

It's not like the movies. There's no neat cluster of streamlined buildings—to make a nice target for the Germans; no big hangar with planes lined neatly outside. A few miles out of town you turn up a side road, shoot up a drive between some hedges, and ask a soldier where the field is. "It's right here," he says, with sympathetic despair in his voice.

Ground Is Leveled

It looks like they had just leveled a huge stretch of ground to build a factory, and then been discouraged by the lake of mud.

Where are the buildings? Where are the planes? Where is the man saying "Come in, H-for-Harry" into the microphone? Where is the airfield?

Gradually you discern amid the mud a faint overlaid of the concrete runways, extending in several directions out of sight. They make the fields so big it would be very hard to bomb one completely out of use.

Highway Splits Airfield

There is one field in England so big a main highway splits it right in two and you can drive right through it without realizing what it is.

Finally, as you loo around, nearly a mile away among some trees you spot the low buildings, beautifully dispersed, hundreds of yards apart. And circling toward them, you notice, scattered irregularly around the edge of the field, dark ugly lookign bulks, and you suddenly realize those are the bombers, dispersed a good jeep ride from the center, so that their respective crews camp out by them for hours at a time.

On the ground the bombers are not beautiful. About the best you can say for them is that they're clean and sound and tuned to a hair. The dingier and more nondescript they get, the better it is.

The same practical informality marks the men. Under the dreary sky they slog through the mud in galoshes and leather jackets, with rough caps pulled down over their ears against the chill.

They don't like the mud. Who does? but they don't let it give them any neuroses. As long as they can get solid runways down, the planes to fly, and the equipment to keep them up with, they can do the job, and they go about it with the characteristic American temper—a beef here, a laugh there.

Field Not Spectacular

There isn't much spectacular about this field. It's ..ot like the movies. The only thing on the place that hits you as spectacular, as you get used to the starkness of the establishment, is a fact:

The fact that these boys, whose greatest worry a few months ago was buying a new convertible or appeasing the girl friend, are going out every few days to drop bombs on Europe, never knowing whether they will get back alive.

Yet, they go on imperturably doing the jobs, with just a beef here, a laugh there.

That means there's no flying field in the world better than Mudville.

Believed Relying on U-Boats

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 31 (AP).—Grand Admiral Raeder's replacement by the submarine warfare expert Admiral Doenitz as supreme commander of the German navy is regarded by observers as a substantiation of recent signs that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler is pinnin. on U-boats all his hopes of winning the war.

German newspapers newly received stress the undersea campaign. At a time when Germany is being hammered back everywhere on land, Hitler's newspaper, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," says: "Decisive is the fact that in the battle on the seas each month means new blood-letting for England, that steadily more ships are being sunk than the enemy can build. Meanwhile, colapse of the enemy will be unavoidable."

U-Boat Buildi.. Increased

The German press said that Hitler had been preparing for the submarine offensive for the last two years. He is known to have virtually stopped all major naval construction in order to step up submarine production. Reliable sources said he could perhaps produce a U-boat each day.

Estimates of the number of Nazi submarines in service run from 300 to 500, with one-third actually operating at any one time and the others en route to or from bases or being serviced.

Berlin Claims 450,000 Tons Of Shipping Sunk

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Berlin radio broadcast a transocean dispatch today saying that German submarines have sunk roughly 450,000 tons of Allied shipping in January. Nine merchantmen of 45,000 tons newly declared sunk in the North Atlantic, Mediterranean and Arctic were reported included in the total.

There was no confirmation of these claims in Allied quarters.

The transocean dispatch, recorded in New York by the Associated Press, said the January figure did not include the "considerable" successes of Italian submarines and planes in recent weeks in the Mediterranean.

BATTLE CONTINUES IN SALAMAUA AREA

Allied Planes Wing Over Wide Districts to Attack Jap Bases.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Monday, Feb. 1—(AP)—Sporadic fighting is continuing in the Mubo-Wau area near Salamaua, New Guinea, the Allied communique reported today.

Meanwhile, the Allied air forces carried the attack to the enemy over wide areas.

Fighters Attack Airdrome

Long range fighters attacked the airdrome at Koepang, Timor, with cannon and machinegun fire, destroying or damaging eight Japanese bombers and a fighter caught on the ground.

Heavy bombers pounded enemy shipping in the Ambon region, with unobserved results.

Rabaul Harbor in New Britain was given further attention. Heavy bombers dropped their missiles on shipping and harbor installations in an attack carried out just before dawn. Haze and searchlight defenses prevented the fliers' seeing what hits were scored.

At Wewak, New Guinea, heavy bombers also attacked the airdrome and shipping but results were not observed. Strafing silenced anti-aircraft positions there, however.

AT A NEW GUINEA BASE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Japanese shipping in the harbor at Rabaul, New Britain, and the town itself were bombed by United States Flying Fortresses before dawn yesterday, and a Liberator on daylight reconnaissance bombed an enemy vessel at Watu, in Open Bay on the North Coast of New Britain.

The Fortresses possibly damaged two Japanese ships, while the Liberator, trying skip-bombing, swept over a small boat in Open Bay and from a few feet above the water bombed and strafed the ship, heavily laden with personnel.

Lieutenant Arthur Curren of Staten Island, N. Y., who was awaiting word from his wife at Paterson, N. J., about the birth of their momentarily expected baby, piloted one Flying Fortress over Rabaul. (HAUGLAND)

Fiercely Fighting Australians Press Advantage After Taking Vital Airfield

V. HAUGLAND

[By the Associated Press]

Somewhere in New Guinea, Jan. 30 (Delayed)—Fiercely fighting Australians late today pressed their advantage against a strong Japanese force which they had smashed back earlier from the strategically important mountain airdrome of Wau.

Attacking through head-high Kunai grass, the Japanese fought their way to within 400 yards of the airdrome, only to be hurled back in a six-hour battle. They left 250 dead on the battlefield.

Driven Back Four Miles

By nightfall the enemy force had been driven back to approximately four miles from the airdrome, which is on the outskirts of Wau.

The Allied command's Sunday communique gave this picture of the Mubo-Wau fighting:

"The enemy launched a dawn attack against our positions. After six hours of fighting, the attack was broken and the enemy was forced to withdraw, leaving 250 dead, including a regimental commander, Colonel Kitamura.

Losses Slight

"Our losses were slight. Allied attack planes and long-range fighters bombed and strafed enemy installations, blowing up a large ammunition dump and destroying numerous huts.

"The Japanese who pressed in from the Wandumi village area Friday but were replsed, attacked from a slightly different angle today along Crystal creek, a mile from Wandumi, approaching from the southeast rather than the east.

The Australians, fighting from fixed defenses and aided by aircraft, escaped severe casualties.

Flyer Asks AP To Tell Mother He's "Okay"

Somewhere in New Guinea, Jan. 31 (AP)—Lieut. E. J. Cibak, Berwyn, Ill., says his mother believes he has been badly injured despite his telegram to the contrary so he asked AP war correspondent Vern Haugland to let her know again.

"She will believe I am okay if the Associated Press says so," the University of Illinois graduate said.

Five Bombers Fail To Return; Flyers Fought Way Through Gales To Target

[By the Associated Press]

London, Jan. 31—In the wake of yesterday's two dramatic daylight raids on Berlin that disrupted the Nazis' annual birthday celebration, Britain's heaviest bombers poured a cargo of explosives on the battered port of Hamburg last night and on other targets in western Germany.

FEB 1 1943

Roaring fires spread through Hamburg, the Air Ministry said, in the RAF's ninety-fourth assault on the city's sprawling shipyards, submarine sheds and aircraft factories.

The cascade of explosives included four-ton and two-ton block busters and "tens of thousands" of incendiaries, the Air Ministry news service said.

Fight Way Through Gales

The heavy bombers fought their way through gales, electrical storms and icing clouds to reach the objective, but the skies cleared later and the crews could see the port clearly. The raid lasted half an hour, with the heaviest weight of bombs falling in the first fifteen minutes.

Five bombers failed to return, indicating a force of possibly a hundred craft had participated in the night's operations.

Thirty-Eight Raids In Month

The daylight stabs at Berlin by fast Mosquito bombers, the first of which delayed the delivery of a speech by Reichmarshal Hermann Goering for over an hour, and last night's more destructive attacks on Germany's wartime industries brought a climax to a history-making month during which the Allies' intensified their aerial offensive.

Thirty-eight times during the month, despite January's notoriously bad flying weather, Allied bombers roared across the Channel to bomb the Reich or German-occupied territory. There were twenty-one day raids and seventeen by night.

Undoubtedly bringing the most satisfaction to the British air force was yesterday's unceremonious disruption of the Nazi celebration in Berlin, even though Adolf Hitler was not present to witness the shower of bombs on his capitol.

"Tame," Flyers Say Of Berlin Raid

Crashing Marshal Goering's party was about the tamest chore in the career of the RAF veterans who did it.

Five of the participating crews summed up the history-making at-

Squadron Leader Reginald W. Reynolds, whose Mosquito let loose the first air bomb ever aimed at the Nazi capital in daytime, said he'd been on more than fifty assorted operations before and that all provided more excitement.

Third Of City Clearly Seen

"We got there at exactly 11 o'clock," Reynolds related. "We flew in clouds practically all the way but they broke over the target and there was about a third of Berlin clearly exposed.

"We dropped our bombs and got back home two minutes before we were due. That's all there was to it."

Sergt. Richard C. Fletcher had much the same story to tell of the afternoon raid.

"We were flying through clouds when all of a sudden the clouds ran out and bless my soul there was Berlin," he said. "Then we made our contribution to the festivities. There was one bit of excitement when we saw one enemy fighter on our way home but we got into a cloud and lost him. Over Berlin we saw only to barrage balloons."

Chief Congratulates Crews

Air Marshal A. T. Harris, commander in chief of the British bomber command, extended "warmest congratulations" to the crews of the fast mosquito planes which made the two daylight attacks.

Harris messaged the bomber group commander: "Their bombs . . cannot have failed to caused consternation in Germany and encouragement to the oppressed peoples of Europe."

U. S. Flyers Bag 22 Planes

The British Air Ministry gave no details of the twin attacks, other than to say that one of its swift light bombers failed to return from the second raid. DNB acknowledged that hostile planes had penetrated to Berlin by daylight under cover of clouds, but asserted that "there was no damage, although the planes dropped bombs at random."

The American Eighth Army Air Force rounded out its extensive January operations last Wednesday with a daylight assault by Liberators and Flying Fortresses on the naval base at Wilhelmshaven—the first raid on Germany proper by an American air force since the war began.

U. S. Flyers Bag 22 Nazi Planes.

Twenty-two Nazi fighters were reported shot down in the battle over the heavily-protected submarine nest, against a loss of only three of the American four-motored ships, which attacked without fighter protection.

INDIAN OFFICE URGED HE

Begum Shah Nawaz Warns of Move to Split U. S., Britain

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 31 (AP)—Begum Shah Nawaz, woman member of the Indian Pacific Relations delegation, said today, after a two-month visit to the United States, that a "fifth column" in America was trying to use the Indian question to sabotage relations between the United States and Britain.

FEB 1 1943

The statement came at a press conference in the presence of United States Ambassador William Phillips. Begum Shah Nawaz said the government of India should establish an information bureau in America to counteract such "fifth column efforts." She said she had not remained long enough to identify the "fifth column."

One of the outstanding woman politicians and public figures in India, Begum Shah Nawaz was appointed by the Government of India as delegate to several meetings sponsored by the League of Nations and to the Indian round table conference in London in 1930.

RAF Planes Bomb Japs On Akyab Island In Burma

FEB 1 1943

New Delhi, Jan. 31 (AP)—RAF Bombers escorted by fighters again blasted Japanese positions on Akyab Island in Burma yesterday, attacking enemy-occupied Yegyan, Byen and Khadinbaik, a British communique said today. The atttack was described as "successful."

Fighter planes went out on offensive patrol over the Mayu Peninsula during the day, but no Japanese planes encountered, the communique said.

Kent's Estate Put at £157,345

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The will of the Duke of Kent, the brother of King George, left an estate of £157,345 [approximately $692,300], with net personal property of about $393,248, it was announced today. Since wills of the royal family are sealed by order of the president of the court and have not been made public since 1688, probate was granted without annexing a copy. The Duke was killed in an airplane crash last August.

Roosevelt's Safe Return Is Announced

President at White House After 23-Day Journey Covering 14,000 Miles

Trip From Florida Is Made by Train

Washington Is Expecting Further Disclosures on Casablanca Conference

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — (AP) President Roosevelt returned to the White House tonight to put into "active and concerted execution" plans for 1943 offensive campaigns which he and Prime Minister Churchill drafted at their historic unconditional surrender conference at Casablanca.

But problems other than active prosecution of the war confronted the chief executive on his safe return from [illegible] 000 danger-fraught miles of travel — much of it by air.

FEB 1 1943

Most pressing, perhaps, was the controversial diplomatic nomination of Edward J. Flynn, scheduled to come before a sharply divided Senate tomorrow. Others included proposals to repeal Mr. Roosevelt's limit of $25,000 (after taxes) on salaries and to restrict the size of the nation's armed forces. Tonight Mr. Flynn asked that the nomination — to be minister to Australia — be withdrawn before the Senate convenes at noon.

There was no word from the White House on any of these matters, however.

Early Makes Announcement

A terse announcement signed by Presidential Secretary Stephen Early and read to press associations shortly before 8 p. m., Eastern War time, said only that the President had returned, adding that the last stage of the trip had been made by special train from Miami after a flight from Brazil.

Mr. Roosevelt during his 23-day trip covered a distance approximately equal to some of the highly publicized 'round-the-world flights of a few years ago.

No word of his departure was permitted to be made public until 10 p. m. last Tuesday night, two days after he and Mr. Churchill concluded their 10-day conference.

May Broadcast to Nation

Mr. Roosevelt was away from the White House on this trip a full week longer than last fall, when he made a coast-to-coast tour of the country to see shipyards and other war plants in production. After that trip he addressed the nation by radio, and there was conjecture tonight whether he would again go before the microphones to tell the people in person about his epochal conference with the British prime minister and the things he observed going to Africa and coming home.

The communique that the American and British leaders issued at Casablanca said they had agreed upon a master plan for 1943 aimed at forcing the Axis nations' unconditional surrender.

Wearing a turtle neck sweater and riding a jeep, Mr. Roosevelt also reviewed American troops in North Africa and visited some of the beachheads where the A.E.F. had landed.

Flew Over Dakar

Flying homeward, he visited Liberia, the west African republic founded by American Negro Freedmen, and winged over Dakar harbor, long feared as a potential stepping-off place for an Axis attack upon the Americans but now under Allied control.

Then the President sped across the Atlantic to Natal, at the easternmost bulge of South America. There, aboard a United States destroyer, he talked with President Getulio Vargas of Brazil about western hemisphere defenses and the Casablanca conference.

Saturday he arrived at Trinidad, British West Indies outpost where the United States has a base to guard the Panama Canal's eastern approaches. Cheered by the populace, he rejoined his personal chief of staff, Admiral William D. Leahy, recovered from an attack of influenza which forced him to stop at Trinadad on the Presidential party's trip from Washington to Africa.

Arrives in Miami

Last night Mr. Roosevelt and members of his party arrived at Miami by air and transferred to a special train for the trip to Washington.

The White House announcement of the President's return said:

"The President returned to the White House tonight, completing his trip home from Casablanca.

"The President, with members of his party, transferred last night at Miami from the big airship which had brought them safely across the Atlantic to the coast of Brazil and thence to Floria, making the last lap of the trip aboard the special train which was waiting there for him.

"With the President were Harry Hopkins, Admiral William Leahy, Rear Admiral Ross McIntire, Captain John L. McCrea, members of the official party."

Flynn Asks F.D.R. To Withdraw Name

Unwilling to Be Cause of Partisan Political Debate in Senate

FEB 1 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP) Edward J. Flynn said tonight that although his friends in the Senate had assured him his confirmation to be minister to Australia was certain he was asking President Roosevelt to withdraw the nomination.

The former Democratic national chairman, whose nomination had caused a storm of protest in the Senate, issued a statement in which he said:

"I am unwilling to permit my candidacy to be made the excuse for a partisan political debate in the Senate."

Fears "Unfortunate Disunity"

Such a debate, Mr. Flynn said "would imply unfortunate disunity. If I were confirmed, it would still leave me unhappy to think that my nomination had caused such debate in time of war. To me the prosecution of the war is above all other considerations. What happens to me is of no importance. In the ranks I shall serve just as wholeheartedly as I would in the post to which the commanding chief named me.

"Inasmuch as I was chairman of the Democratic National committee, I anticipated that my confirmation would be opposed by all the Republican senators. What I did not anticipate was that they would deem it necessary to make personal attacks reflecting on my integrity. When that was done I demanded that the charges be investigated.

"After hearing all the political gossip which the Republicans could gather, and which failed to substantiate a single accusation, the committee voted 13-10 to favorably report my nomination—which to any reasonable person was a complete vindication.

G.O.P. Voted as Unit

"The Republicans voted as a unit against me, though several of them stated that there was no justification for the charges.

"Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, the one independent on the committee, voted to confirm my nomination. I do not question the motives of those who are opposing my confirmation but I am mindful of grievances, real or fancied, against the President.

FEB 1 1943

"Needless to say, my action in the premises is taken without conference or consultation, direct or indirect, with the President."

Earlier in the day, Tydings (D-Md), one of half a dozen Democratic senators still publicly uncommitted, expressed the view it was not unlikely that "Mr. Flynn's nomination may be withdrawn and recalled by the President."

At that time Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky reported he had heard nothing so far to indicate that the nomination would be withdrawn, although he conceded that such an action would not lack precedent.

"It looks like a right close fight," was Barkley's only comment after Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) Definitely joined six other Democrats in opposition ranks.

FLYNN'S NOMINATION BACKED BY FIRST LADY

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP) Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, answering a question in an open forum meeting here tonight, championed the cause of Edward J. Flynn just about the time he was announcing in Washington that he would ask the President to withdraw his nomination for minister to Australia.

She described the former National Democratic chairman as the victim of a campaign inaugurated by "enemies of the administration."

Although Mrs. Roosevelt was speaking before a crowd that overflowed the amphitheater of Cooper Union, she said her statements about Mr. Flynn were "strictly off the record."

Discrimination Against Negro

Pilots Charged

Hastie, Resigning as Aide to Stimson, Asserts Army Stifled Training Program

FEB 1 5 1943

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP).—William H. Hastie, who resigned ten days ago as Negro civilian aide to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, explained today that his resignation was in protest against "discriminatory practices of the Army Air Forces in matters affecting Negroes."

He recalled in a statement that a training center for Negro pilots had been established at Tuskegee University in Alabama over his protests against segregation. Since then, he said, adequate provisions have not been made for ground troops to work with qualified Negro pilots.

"The simple fact," he commented, "is that the air command does not want Negro pilots flying in and out of various fields, eating, sleeping and mingling with other personnel, as a service pilot must do in carrying out his various missions."

Mr. Hastie, dean of law at Howard University here, said that when he took office "the Secretary of War directed that all questions of policy and important proposals relating to Negroes should be referred to my office for comment or approval before final action."

"In December, 1940, the air forces referred to me a plan for a segregated training center for Negro pursuit pilots at Tuskegee," he said. "I expressed my entire disagreement with the plan, giving my reasons in detail. My views were disregarded. Since then the air command has never on its own initiative submitted any plan or project to me for comment or recommendation. Whatever information I obtained, I had to seek out. Where I made proposals or recommendations, I volunteered them. . . .

"But the reactionary policies and discriminatory practices of the air forces are much more serious than the matter of ignoring my office. It should be understood that from the beginning the air command did not want Negro personnel. Resistance bred of that attitude has been met ever since."

He described Negro ground troops assigned to aviation as "so-called 'aviation squadrons (separate)'" and said they "have never had a defined function." They are assigned, he reported, to "odd jobs of common labor which arise from time to time at air fields. "The units," he continued, "would never have come into existence except for the necessity of making some provision for Negro enlisted men in the air forces."

Mr. Hastie said "a few" Negroes were accepted for ground force technical training at Chanute Field, Ill., and "did excellent work," but that training stopped with the first group.

"The air forces," he continued, "then made efforts to set up segregated technical training at Tuskegee or elsewhere. Difficulties were encountered. Meanwhile, successive classes of Negro pilots were being trained, but no technical schooling of supporting ground crew members was in progress. Thus, even the segregated program got badly out of balance in the effort to effect its extension. The prospect is that in 1943, even with a tardy resumption of technical ground training, Negro pilots will be ready before and faster than adequate numbers of trained ground crews are available."

He asserted also that Negro applicants for assignment as weather officers or in other highly specialized technical fields were rejected although the air forces need "large numbers of additional weather officers so badly that White volunteers are being solicited and accepted despite a general policy against voluntary enlistments in the Army."

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TAX HEARINGS THIS WEEK

Treasury Aide To Give Views Before House Committee

FEB 1 1943

Other Controversial Issues Due To Come Up In Congress

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Jan. 31—The House Ways and Means Committee finally will come to grips this week with the question of putting individual income taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis—an idea apparently predominantly favored in Congress but with legislators having different opinions as to how it should be done.

The threshing of the various proposals will begin Tuesday when Randolph Paul, aide to Secretary Morgenthau, will present the Treasury's views. Committee experts also have been instructed to prepare possible plans.

Virginian's Plan

The Treasury is understood to favor a proposal by Representative Robertson (D., Va.) of the committee to forgive the regular six per cent. tax and the first-bracket surtaxes on 1942 incomes and impose instead a twenty per cent. withholding tax on 1943 earnings.

The tax question caps a series of controversial issues coming up before Congressional committees this week. Others include proposals to repeal President Roosevelt's limit of $25,000 (after taxes) on salaries and to restrict the size of the armed forces.

Jeffers' Charges

In addition, a House committee will begin an investigation tomorrow into Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers' charge that army and navy expediters in war plants are impeding production. Jeffers called them "loafers," meaning, he explained later, that they were unnecessary.

Representative Thomason (D., Texas), chairman of the joint military and naval subcommittee undertaking the inquiry, said the Rubber Administrator would be called as the initial witness and that subsequently officials of the War and Navy departments would be heard.

GOP Proposal

The proposal to repeal the President's salary limitation is embodied in an amendment by Representative Gearhart (R., Cal.) to a measure which would raise the national debt to $210,000,000,000. The Ways and Means Committee will consider it Saturday.

Agitation for some limit on the size of the armed forces has come principally from farm State Congressmen concerned over the farm labor problem. The Senate Military Committee is to hear discussion of the manpower problem from Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, tomorrow, from Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, Tuesday, and from Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, Wednesday.

To Question Land

At a closed session tomorrow, the Senate Agriculture Committee will question Admiral Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission on the shipping shortage and how it might limit the number of soldiers who can be moved overseas.

Hearings on lend-lease operations, begun last week, will continue before the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday.

During the week a $210,000,000 navy bill, already approved by committee, is expected to come up in the House. It would authorize a globe-circling system of drydocks.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) and Kilgore (D., W. Va.) announced they would introduce tomorrow a revised version of their technological mobilization bill, first offered last session. The measure proposes four offices to manage production for war—an office of production and supply, office of manpower supply, office of economic stabilization and an office of scientific and technical mobilization. Kilgore said that under the plan all would be "geared together like the parts of a watch."

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK REPORTS 1942 INCOME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — (AP) The Export-Import bank reported today that it had undivided profits of $20,790,553 at the close of 1942, with earnings of $7,544,080 during that year.

The government agency was created six years ago to finance foreign trade and aid in the development of friendly foreign countries. Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce, is chairman of the board of trustees and Warren Lee Pierson is president.

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—A routine navy announcement of letters of commendation sent to navy gun crews today disclosed that one United States merchantman, apparently on a single voyage, not only was attacked by enemy submarines and airplanes but also:

Hit an iceberg.

Went aground on a hidden reef.

Collided with another ship in the convoy.

The identity of the vessel and whether she survived whichever mishap was her last was not reported.

Destroyer Christened At Marine Shipyard

Bath Maine, Jan. 31 (AP)—A trim destroyer, U. S. S. Walker, slid into the Kennebec river today from the ways of the Bath Iron Works Corporation.

Only yard and navy officials and workmen saw the fighting craft christened by Miss Sarah Cochran Walker, of Boston, daughter of the late Rear Admiral John Grimes Walker, a native of Hillsborough, N. H. It was the second destroyer to bear his name.

MISSING SEAPLANE FOUND IN CANYON, ALL ABOARD DEAD

Admiral Commanding Sub Fleet Among 19 Killed in Crash.

UKIAH, Calif., Jan. 31—(AP) The ten-day mystery of the missing Navy transport plane, laden with gold-braided officers bound from Pearl Harbor to San Francisco, was cleared up today when the burned wreckage of the ship was found in a deep canyon of the mountains, 10 miles southwest of Ukiah.

All of the 19 aboard were dead.

The list of dead included an American expert on submarine warfare—Rear Admiral Robert H. English, commander of the Pacific fleet submarine force.

Navy Nurse Killed

The admiral's body, and that of the only woman aboard, Lieut. (JG) Edna Owella Morrow, Navy nurse, of Pasadena, Calif., were among those identified.

The plane, flying through one of the worst northern California rainstorms in a decade, struck a vertical cliff 150 feet below the ridge of a 2,000 foot mountain. It blazed furiously in the rain, the fire destroying most of the wreckage and charring some of the bodies.

That was on the morning of Jan. 21. The great, four-motored seaplane had tried to land in San Francisco bay. Failing because of the bad weather, it headed northward toward Clear lake, a customary emergency inding spot 125 miles away.

It was still 25 miles from Clear lake when it crashed.

One of the two men to reach the scene first, Captain T. B. Myers of the State Highway patrol, described it:

FEB 1 - 1943

"The plane was headed north. In a deep canyon it hit a cliff. Both wings and the propellers struck at the same time. With the impact, the tail doubled back upward.

"You could hardly believe that it had been an airplane. I saw the bodies of two men that were recognizable There was a brief case, still intact, under one of them Their bodies were ones that were still in the tail of the plane"

PEACETIME FIGHT TO END STARVATION SEEN BY LEHMAN

Relief Director Tells Nation Famine, Disease Will Menace World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — (AP) A picture of the war-after-the-war—a great global fight which must be waged against starvation, anarchy and pestilence when the armies of the Axis have been crushed—was drawn tonight by Herbert H. Lehman, director of foreign relief and rehabilitation.

In an address for delivery at a testimonial dinner arranged through the labor division of the Organization for Rehabilitation through Training, Mr. Lehman stressed that this fight against the forces of famine and dissolution and disease also must be pressed in the midst of the military war.

Will Help Troops

"It should be self-evident," he said, "that our troops, whether in North Africa or any place elsewhere in future theaters of operation, will not be able to take the offensive successfully if they must launch their operations in countries where famine and pestilence are generating riot, revolution and complete disorder. As a matter of self-preservation and to further our military cause we cannot allow the plight of these people to go unheeded."

FEB 1 - 1943

An even more urgent need for, hereafter long exposure to the full fury of Axis oppression, — countries plundered, despoiled and starved, with populations driven to despair by the "matchless ruthlessness" of Nazi or Japanese butchery and pillage, the former New York governor asserted.

In such areas, Mr. Lehman said, "we will find conditions close to chaos," with economic life destroyed, no food, no goods from which to fabricate clothing, and "no medical facilities to prevent the spread of pestilence and epidemic from the concentration camps and the ghettos."

"These countries," he continued, "these men and women who comprise the populations of these countries, are going to be prostrated unless we, as members of the family of United Nations, take immediate measures to help them to help themselves.

Must Have Plans Ready

"It is vitally important, if we are to win this war, that we be ready with plans, with materials and resources and with personnel to follow up military operations with emergency food, emergency shelter, emergency clothing and emergency medical facilities to give assistance to the men and women who have kept burning the hatred of the Axis and the will to survive and be free."

After these emergency operations must come provision of seed for new crops, so that liberated populations may again feed themselves, and the provision of other tools and materials to enable them to resume a normal economic life.

Beyond such material aid, the liberated peoples will expect "the quick assistance of a working, an effective democracy," he said in declaring that out of their ocean of suffering will come "a relentless wave of a new human spirit that will not be held back . . . a great human hunger for liberty and a decent way of life."

"Victory over the self-styled Nazi supermen and the Japanese war lords in itself will not be enough," Mr. Lehman concluded. "Along with that victory the tidal wave of democracy must wash away the wreckage and the barriers of an inadequate world . . . This tidal wave of democracy must sweep away the debris of a world half democratic and half slave to make way for a new life in which the basic freedoms of man can find their true expression.

Special French Militia To Deal With Disorders

New York, Jan. 31 (AP) — The French Cabinet, meeting yesterday with Pierre Laval, established a new special militia to deal with rising internal disorders, including increased black market activities, the German radio announced tonight.

An economic crisis in France has resulted in increased black marketeering which the French Government "was unable to fight without having hairger and more reliable police forces," said the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press.

Gendarmes Become Soldiers

In addition to establishing the militia, the Cabinet voted a new status for French gendarmes, transferring them into a virtual military organization.

Last week it was reported through Switzerland that 170 men and 80 women had been shot at Marseille, France's second largest city, during a state of seige imposed after Frenchmen fired on German soldiers.

Last night's broadcast described the creation of the militia and the new powers for the gendarmes as "weighty contribution" to the strengthening of the inner political power of the French administration."

Hoover Praises American Theater For Part In War

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Herbert Hoover tonight praised the theatrical profession for the part it has played in the war effort—in bolstering civilian morale and providing entertainment for service men.

In a talk prepared for a Lambs Club gambol, the former President said:

"The land of makebelieve drives our cares into hiding. It ferments the humor which lifts us from the depression of the day. But more importantly, it inspires the great emotions which carry us over the crisis of war. It adds to our resolution and fortitude."

Discussing the free entertainment the American theater has given service men, he asserted:

"Here is the only business in the country which gives away the only thing it has to sell. . . . Every actor in America today is making some contribution to the morale and inspiration of the home front and of our armed services."

Nazis Believed Planning To Rely More Heavily On Undersea Craft

With 9 More Allied Sinkings In Week, United Nations Spur Own Efforts

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Jan. 31.—With their highly vaunted Luftwaffee and Panzer units operating in reverse on both Russian and African fronts, there are indications that the Germans mean to rely still more heavily on submarine warfare.

As both sides girded for control of shipping lanes, the sinkings of nine more Allied merchantment in the South Atlantic were announced last week.

This brought to 610 the Associated Press tally of announced Allied and neutral cargo ship losses in Western Atlantic attacks since Pearl Harbor.

Wolf Pack In South

Five of the vessels sunk were British, four American. Four were announced Thursday as sunk in one convoy by a wolf-pack in the South Atlantic. This was the first sign that wolf-packs had moved into those waters.

Recent German announcements support the contention that the Nazis plan to stress their undersea weapon. In one of these the Germans claimed (without Allied or neutral confirmation) to have an invention that would enable submarines to operate without having to surface and charge electric batteries.

The Nazis asserted they had begun construction of a fleet of undersea cargo ships to permit them to trade with other Axis nations, particularly Japan.

Plans Patrol Arcs

Brig. Gen. Westside T. Larson, commander of American air forces combatting the U-boats, has said that his branch fo the service hoped to establish a chain of patrol arcs to protect Allied shipping the whole way across the Atlantic.

United States and Brazilian naval, air and military chiefs met Saturday at Rio de Janeiro to discuss means to wipe out the U-boats in the South Atlantic.

An expanded and determined Brazilian-United States naval and air offensive against the submarines was predicted as a result of the conference.

FEB 1 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 30-(AP)-Advance units of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's eighth army have made their first thrusts across the Tunisian border in pursuit of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, a British communique disclosed today as allied aerial attacks stabbed at communications and supply lines of the retreating Africa Corps.

With these forward elements penetrating the "central sector" of the front, it was expected that it would not be long until the main body of the eighth army swings into action.

In an apparent effort to cut off Rommel's supply lines as well as ~~possible~~ further avenues of escape, American and RAF planes rained explosives on northern Tunisia, accounting for 13 axis planes in the process.

FEB 1 1943

A middle east communique reported bad weather had hampered their activities, but ~~the~~ Twelfth air force bombers, striking from the west, set fires in the Bizerte ~~area~~ dock area and left two ships in a big Tunisian bound convoy in flames.

The British communique spoke only of a penetration in the "central sector" of the front, indicating that ~~the~~ Montgomery's patrols crossed the border some 15 to 25 miles from the coast.

30.24-789

FEB 1 1943

There was no indication of how close the patrols approached to the Mareth line, situated about 65 miles inside Tunisia, within which part of Rommel's forces are believed to have established. These fortifications were built by the French before the war to protect Tunisia against attack from the east.

Nor did the brief Cairo communique mention other British forces closing in on Zuara, last axis port in Tripolitania. However, a Cairo dispatch said the British had engaged the retreating Germans along the coast road in the Zuara area, about 40 miles east (correct) of the border.

The fighting was confined to armored patrol clashes and artillery duels with the last remaining units of Rommel's forces in Libya, struggling toward the Mareth line.

FEB 1- 1943

While flying fortresses were attacking Bizerte yesterday, other U.S. fliers swept across the Tunis airdrome and destroyed

30.24 - 789

many of 50 planes which were on the ground.

A Twelfth air force spokesman said P-38 Lightnings escorted the fortresses to Bizerte and protected the Martin Marauder bombers which blasted the convoy in the narrows.

Observers watched large buildings on the Bizerte waterfront explode and saw hits on oil tanks.

FEB 1 1943

The spokesman said the convoy which included six freighters, four [illegible] destroyers and several other vessels, in addition to the two cargo liners.

"Two direct hits were made on one [illegible] cargo liner, blowing away its super-structure," he said. "The hits on the second liner started fires from which smoke rose 300 to 400 feet. Direct hits were made on another [illegible] vessel of [illegible] 100 to 150 feet, causing it to explode."

Meanwhile, an [illegible] Italian communique declared that axis troops had consolidated positions recently gained in Tunisia and that there were only limited actions by "exploring units" in western Tripolitania.

FEB 1 1943

Tripolitania.

The communique admitted that eight enemy bombers did considerable damage in a raid on Messina in Sicily, but claimed that axis planes sank three destroyers and five merchantmen in attacks on an allied convoy between Algiers and Bone.

The RAF, releasing details of some of the work accomplished by Beaufighters during the past few nights, revealed that one Beaufighter crew on its first sortie shot down three Heinkel 111 bombers in less than half an hour.

The pilot was Flying Officer James M.J. Gleaster and the observer, Pilot Officer J.F. Oswald, both of whom have been awarded the distinguished flying cross.

The squadron's top scorer, Flying Officer D.H. Greaves, who has destroyed five enemy aircraft, nearly went down with his latest victim. He opened fire at 70 feet and the German plane exploded, dazzling Greaves by the glare and spinning his plane out of control.

One of the planes shot down in the battle over the convoy yesterday was a Messerschmitt 210, new version of the now obsolete Messerschmitt 110. Although used frequently over the Russian front, this was its first appearance on this front.

BRYAN, KALISPELL, MONT., CO-PILOT OF A FLYING FORTRESS, AND EARL S. MILLICHAMP, 24, LAKE WALES, FLA., RETURNED TO U. S. HEADQUARTERS FROM MALTA, WHERE FIRST WORD OF THEIR ADVENTURE WAS ANNOUNCED.

A FOURTH AMERICAN FLYER IS IN A HOSPITAL IN MALTA, WHILE A FIFTH

HAS BEEN TAKEN TO ANOTHER PORT.

MILLICHAMP, A FORMER LIFE-GUARD, IS CREDITED WITH SAVING THE LIFE OF A BRITISH OFFICER BY KEEPING HIM AFLOAT WHEN THE SUBMARINE WAS SUNK

"I TOOK OFF ON A PATROL TO TRIPOLI AND BACK WITH LIEUT. LEWIS G. MURDOCK," LENTZ SAID. "WE WERE ON OUR WAY BACK, FLYING LOW IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF THE ITALIAN OUTPOST OF PISIDIA.

"THEY OPENED UP ON ME WITH A FLAK GUN AND MY PLANE WAS HIT SEVERAL TIMES. A PIECE OF FLAK HIT MY GASOLINE LINE AND IT STARTED SPRAYING GASOLINE ALL OVER MEM

FEB 1 1943

"I GOT THE PLANE DOWN ON THE BEACH ABOUT A MILE AWAY BUT I WAS JUST ABOUT KNOCKED OUT BY THE FUMES.

"THE ITALIANS, WHO HAD SEEN MY PLANE SHOT, CAME OUT FROM TOWN ON HORSEBACK AND GRABBED ME BEFORE I COULD GET AWAY.

"THEY TOOK ME TO THE ITALIAN OUTPOSE AT PISIDIA WHERE THEY RELIEVED ME OF MY WATCH, CIGARETTE LIGHTER AND ALL OTHER PERSONAL STUFF AND THEN TOOK ME ON THE BACK OF A MOTORCYCLE TO ZUARA. THEN I WAS TAKEN TO HOMS 65 MILES EAST OF TRIPOLI.

"FOR SUPPER WE HAD AN OUNCE OF CAMEL MEAT THAT WAS MOSTLY GRISTLE AND TOUGH AS HELL, AND A BIT OF RICE."

LENTZ, WITH SEVEN OTHER AMERICANS, WAS LATER PUT ON A BIG TRANSPORT SUBMARINE AT TRIPOLI WHICH LEFT THE HARBOR DURING A NIGHT AIR RAID.

"THE WEATHER WAS TERRIBLE," HE SAID. "THE SUBMARINE ROCKED VIOLENTLY AND I MANAGED TO DOZE ONLY A HALF-HOUR OR SO DURING THE NIGHT. MOST OF US WERE SICK AS THE DEVIL, BUT ONE BRITISH OFFICER MUNCHED BULLY-BEEF AND BREAD RIGHT THROUGH THE STORM.

"ABOUT 1:30 THE NEXT AFTERNOON WE WERE KNOCKED OFF THE 20-MM.GUN

30.24-791

CRATES WE WERE SITTING ON.

"THERE WAS A LOUD BANG AND THEN THREE MORE IN A ROW. WE FOUND OUT LATER THAT A BRITISH BEAUFORT BOMBER ESCORTING A CONVOY HAD DROPPED FOUR DEPTH CHARGES ON US.

"THE LIGHTS WENT OUT AND THE MOTORS STOPPED.

"ONE OF OUR FLYERS WAS PRETTY BADLY CUT ON THE HEAD AND HAND BY FLYING GLASS. ONE OF THE BRITISH OFFICERS TOOK HIM UP WHERE THE ITALIAN OFFICERS' BUNKS WERE. HE FOUND OUT THE CONNING TOWER DOOR WAS CLOSED SO WE COULD NOT GET ON DECK.

FEB 1 1943

"INSIDE THE SUB WAS BUSTED UP FIERCE. THE BEAUFORT PILOT TOLD ME AFTERWARDS THAT THE ITALIANS ON DECK FIRED AT HIM WITH A 20-MM.CANNON SO HE SHOT THEM OFF THE DECK.

"WHEN THEY SENT SOMEONE DOWN TO FIX UP SOME LEAKS WE WENT OUT AS FAST AS POSSIBLE. WE HAD TO GO THROUGH THE BATTERY ROOM WHERE THE FUMES WERE BAD, AND DODGE A BIG HOLE IN THE FLOOR.

"AFTER WE GOT UP ON DECK THE BEAUFORT STILL DID NOT KNOW THERE WERE AMERICANS OR BRITISH ABOARD. IT WOULD FLY TO THE CONVOY AND BACK AND THEN DROP A FLARE OVER US TO SHOW THE CONVOY WHERE WE WERE.

"THREE DESTROYERS STARTED FOR US, AND ABOUT A MILE AWAY OPENED FIRE. AT FIRST WE THOUGHT THEY WERE FIRING WARNING SHOTS AT US, BUT THE SHELLS KEPT GETTING THICKER AND WE STARTED TAKING OFF OUR CLOTHES.

"THE ITALIANS STARTED GOING NUTS, SCREAMING AND HOLLERING.

"THE DESTROYERS CIRCLED THE SUBMARINE AND BEGAN HITTING IT PRETTY GOOD. THEY FINALLY CLOSED IN TO ABOUT 100 YARDS AND GAVE HER HELL.

"I HUNG DOWN IN THE WATER FROM A ROPE ON THE SIDE OF THE SUBMARINE

BUT MILLICHAMP AND SEVERAL OTHERS LEFT HER AND SWAM SOME DISTANCE AWAY.

"THE DESTROYERS FINALLY SUNK THE SUBMARINE AND BEGAN PICKING UP SURVIVORS. THERE WERE FOUR ITALIAN OFFICERS, INCLUDING A GENERAL, ON BOARD. I DON'T KNOW WHETHER THEY ESCAPED.

"AFTER THE SUBMARINE SANK I SWAM AROUND FOR ABOUT HALF AN HOUR WITHOUT A LIFEBELT. THEN THEY THREW A ROPE FROM ONE OF THE DESTROYERS

"I WAS TOO WEAK TO PULL MYSELF INTO THE DESTROYER AND STARTED SLIDING BACK INTO THE WATER. SOMEONE CLIMBED DOWN AND CLAMPED HIS KNEES UNDER MY ARMS AND DRAGGED ME IN BY MY SWEATSHIRT."

SOMEWHERE IN TUNISIA JAN 29-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE GERMANS HAVE BROUGHT NEW MONSTER TANKS CALLED "TIGERS" TO TUNISIA, EVIDENTLY IN AN EFFORT TO BOLSTER THE MORALE OF AXIS TROOPS HERE.

THE TANK IS THE LATEST IN THE NAZI ARSENAL AND IS A VERITABLE LAND BATTLESHIP. IT IS BELIEVED TO WEIGH 62 TONS AND TO HAVE SEVEN-INCH ARMOR FORE AND AFT ON THE TURRET WITH EXTRA INCH-THICK SLABS OF STEEL AT VITAL SPOTS. SIDE ARMOR IS SAID TO BE FIVE INCHES THICK AND THE TANK MOUNTS ONE 88-MILLIMETER GUN AND SMALLER WEAPONS.

IT IS MORE POWERFUL THAN THE AXIS TANKS WHICH WERE SO HARD HIT LAST WEEK BY BRITISH AND AMERICAN ARTILLERY AND TANKS DURING THE ABORTIVE GERMAN ATTACKS ON THE CENTRAL FRONT.

SO FAR THE TIGERS HAVE NOT BEEN SEEN IN ACTION HERE, ALTHOUGH THERE ARE REPORTS SOME OF THEM HAVE BEEN SEEN MOVING TO SEVERAL PARTS OF THE FRONT. THE TIGERS HAVE YELLOW AND BLACK PICTURES OF TIGERS PAINTED ON THEIR TURRETS.

THESE TANKS ARE NOT HERE IN ANY GREAT STRENGTH AND PROBABLY ARE BEING SHOWN IN DIFFERENT FORWARD SECTORS TO BOOST THE SPIRITS OF GERMAN AND ITALIAN TROOPS.

CAPT. FRANCES KEEGAN MARQUIS OF NEW YORK HAS THE DIGNITY OF ASSURANCE. OFTEN THERE IS A MERRY TWINKLE IN HER BLUE EYES. IN A WAAC'S "YES, MA'AM" TO HER, THERE IS AN UNDERTONE OF CONFIDENCE.

IN ADDITION TO BRING THE FIRST WOMAN TO HEAD THE FIRST UNIT

30.24-793

OF NON-COMBAT WOMEN SOLDIERS TO BE SENT ABROAD BY THE UNITED STATES, SHE IS ALSO THE FIRST WOMAN TO BE IN CHARGE OF A TROOP TRAIN. SHE COMMANDED THE SPECIAL TRAIN THAT CARRIED THE CONTINGENT FROM THE SECOND WWAC TRAINING CENTER AT DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., TO AN EAST COAST PORT OF EMBARKATION.

CAPTAIN MARQUIS IS THE WIFE OF MARRY MARQUIS, A NEW YORK BUSINESS-MAN. SHE WAS ON A TRIP TO THE WASHINGTON, D.C. HEADQUARTERS OF THE WOMEN'S ARMY AUXILIARY CORPS WHEN SHE LEARNED DEC.4 THAT SHE HAD BEEN SELECTED TO BRING THE FIRST DETACHMENT OVERSEAS.

CAPT.MARQUIS WAS BORN IN WEST NEWBURY, MASS. HER MOTHER'S PEOPLE CAME FROM TIPPERARY AND HER FATHER'S FROM KILDARE IN IRELAND. HER FATHER, JOHN L.KEEGAN, NOW NEARLY 80 YEARS OLD, LIVES IN MELROSE, MASS.

FEB 1 - 1943

"KEEP YOUR SENSE OF HUMOR," SHE SAYS WHEN THE GOING GETS A BIT HARD--AND SHE PRACTICES IT. ABOUT FIVE FEET NINE INCHES TALL, SHE WEARS HER BROWN HAIR IN A SHORT, SOFT CURLY BOB. HER NATURALLY CLEAR COMPLEXION NEEDS LITTLE MAKEUP, BUT SHE CONSIDERS NOSE-POWDERING PART OF BEING WELL-GROOMED.

SHE RESIGNED AS EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE WOMEN'S CITY CLUB OF NEW YORK TO JOIN THE OFFICERS' CANDIDATE CLASS WHICH OPENED THE FIRST WAAC TRAINING CENTER AT DES MOINES LAST JULY 20.

WHY DID SHE JOIN?

SHE EXPLAINED THAT FOR EIGHT YEARS SHE HAD FELT THIS COUNTRY HAD NEGLECTED ITS OBLIGATIONS AND "WHEN THERE WAS AN OPPORTUNITY TO DO SOMETHING, I FELT THAT I WHO HAD TALKED SO MUCH ABOUT IT, HAD TO DO IT."

30.24-793

HER HOBBIES, SHE SAID, ARE NOT THE THINGS PEOPLE USUALLY CONSIDER AS SUCH. SHE WORKED AS A VOLUNTEER IN THE LIBRARY OF THE NEW YORK HOSPITAL. SHE LIKES TO TYPE MANUSCRIPTS.

FEB 1 1943

AND, SHE ACKNOWLEDGES, SHE IS A GOOD COOK--ESPECIALLY WHEN IT COMES TO LEMON MERINGUE PIES.

USUALLY SHE'S CHEERFUL AND FRIENDLY, BUT SOMETIMES LIEUT. JOOSTEN'S SMILE FADES INTO A GRIM LINE AS SHE GOES ABOUT HER NUMER-OUS RESPONSIBILITIES. SHE HAS LOST TRACK OF HER PARENTS IN GERMAN-OCCUPIED HOLLAND. SHE LEFT THE UNITED STATES NOT KNOWING JUST WHERE HER HUSBAND IS DOING HIS PART IN THE ARMY. SHE IS ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE "FOR THE DURATION" AS AUDITOR WITH THE U.S.ENGINEERS IN HOUSTON.

LIEUT.SYLVIA MARIAN MARSILI, WHO LAUGHINGLY RELATES THAT SHE "CAME CLEAN X

THE YOUNGEST OF THE OFFICERS' CORPS, LIEUT.MARSILI IS A BUNDLE OF ENERGY AND A TONIC TO MORALE. SHE STUDIED AT MT. MERCY COLLEGE IN PITTSBURGH AND AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH AND DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY. SHE HAS A MASTER'S DEGREE IN SCIENCE AND CHEMISTRY.

AS SUPPLY OFFICER IT WAS HER RESPONSIBILITY TO SEE TO IT THAT THE WAAC EQUIPMENT GOT LOADED ON THE RIGHT BOAT. THIS SHE DID BY GOING ON TO THE DOCKS TO CHECK IT PERSONALLY. ONE ITEM WAS MISSING AND SHE TRACKED IT DOWN THROUGH SEVERAL WAREHOUSES TO FIND, ACCORDING TO RECORDS, THAT IT HAD BEEN LOADED ON TO THE BOAT. BUT NOT QUITE SATISFIED, SHE WENT DOWN INTO THE HOLD TO VERIFY IT.

HER HOBBY IS RIFLE TARGET SHOOTING. FEB 1 1943

HER FATHER, SAM MARSILI, A RESTAURANT OWNER IN PITTSBURGH, CAME TO THIS COUNTRY WHEN 15. HIS PEOPLE IN ITALY ARE PROMINENT IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. CARDINAL PASQUINELLI IS HER COUSIN, AND MONSEIGNEUR TAFFANELLI, HER UNCLE. HER MOTHER, A NATIVE OF THE UNITED STATES, IS OF ITALIAN DESCENT. DARK-EYED, VIVACIOUS LIEUT.MARSILI SPEAKS FLUENT ITALIAN.

WHEN CHECKING ON THE LOADING OF SUPPLIES, SHE WAS NEAR THE PORT WHERE THE NAVY HAS STATIONED THE LAD WHOSE PICTURE SHE KEEPS BY HER COT. SHE MADE NO ATTEMPT TO COMMUNICATE WITH HIM, EXPLAINING:

"IT WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN RIGHT." HER ATTITUDE IS A SAMPLE OF THE CAREFUL WAY IN WHICH THE WAACS GUARDED THE SECRET OF THEIR DEPARTURE FROM THE UNITED STATES. #

FOLLOWING FROM BRITISH INFORMATION SERVICES NEW YORK BEGINS:

LONDON, JANUARY- (BY CABLE) - THE BRITISH MOSQUITO BOMBERS WHICH SWEPT DOWN OVER BERLIN JUST AS MARSHALL HERMANN GOERING WAS TO BEGIN HIS SPEECH TODAY ARE THE WORLDS FASTEST BOMBERS AND ONE OF THE FASTEST PLANES IN THE WORLD IN ANY CATEGORY.

THESE STREAMLINED TWIN ENGINED MONOPLANES POWERED BY ROLLS ROYCE ENGINES ARE OF SIMPLE WOODEN CONSTRUCTION WHICH LENDS ITSELF TO WIDELY DISPERSED MANUFACTURE AND MAKES THE MOSQUITO ONE OF THE STRONGEST PLANES IN EXISTENCE. BUILT BY HAVILLAND THE PLANE HAS A WING SPAN OF 54 FEET 2 INCHES AND AN OVERALL LENGTH OF 40 FEET 9-1/2 INCHES ITS OFFENSIVE ARMAMENT CONSISTS OF FOUR 20 MM CANNON AND FOUR .303 MACHINE GUNS AND IT HAS A CAPACITY OF FOUR 500-POUND BOMBS.

THE GREAT SPEED OF THE MOSQUITO PLUS ITS MANEUVERABILITY HAVE PROVED INVALUABLE IN SURPRISE LOWLEVEL ATTACKS. ALL THE PILOTS AND CREWS WHO HAVE FLOWN MOSQUITOS EMPHASIZE THE GREAT ACCURACY OF BOMBING ATTAINABLE AND THE VIRTUAL CERTAINTY OF HITTING SPECIFIC TARGET. THEIR TECHNIQUE HAS BEEN TO FLY OVER FRANCE 30 FEET ABOVE THE GROUND SWEEP ON THEIR TARGET AT TREMENDOUS SPEED RELEASE THEIR BOMBS AS THE TARGET FLASHES BENEATH THEM TAKE VIOLENT EVASIVE ACTION AND SWEEP ON HOME AGAIN ALMOST BEFORE THE ENEMY HAS KNOWN THAT HE WAS BEING ATTACKED.

THE MOSQUITO IS THE ONLY PLANE SO EFFICIENTLY HEATED THAT THE CREW EVEN AT HIGH ALTITUDES DO NOT REQUIRE SPECIAL CLOTHING. IF THE HEATING WERE TURNED ON AT LOW LEVELS THE OCCUPANTS OF THE PLANE WOULD PROBABLY FAINT SO IT IS NOT USUALLY EMPLOYED BEFORE REACHING 10,000 FEET.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, JAN.26-(DELAYED)-(AP)-RESCUED WITH HIS ENTIRE CREW, UNINJURED BUT FOOTSORE AND HUNGRY, LIEUT. HARRIS LIEN, OF FAIRDALE, N.D., TOLD TODAY HOW HE CRASH-LANDED HIS BOMBER IN STORMY DARKNESS.

LIEUTENANT LIEN SAID HIS PLANE WAS RETURNING FROM A RAID ON RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN, WHEN IT RAN OUT OF GAS. HE LANDED NEAR A BEACH IN A FOG, KNOWING HE WAS SOUTH OF BUNA IN SAFE TERRITORY.

HIS STORY:

"WHEN WE KNEW WE HAD TO CRASH LAND, WE UNLOADED ALL HEAVY EQUIPMENT AND CROWDED ALL SEVEN MEN INTO THE RADIO COMPARTMENT SO THEY WOULDN'T BUMP AROUND. WE MADE A LUCKY LANDING IN 10 FEET OF ROUGH WATER. NOBODY WAS HURT AND ALL SWAM OR GOT ON A LIFEBOAT AND PADDLED ASHORE. WE COULDN'T SAVE LOOSE RATIONS BUT WE HAD A SMALL SUPPLY OF VITAMIN TABLETS AND CHOCOLATE. WE LACKED WATER AND WENT WITHOUT IT FOR THREE DAYS.

FEB 1 1943

"WE BROUGHT A PORTABLE RADIO TRANSMITTER ASHORE BUT WHEN WE COULDN'T RAISE ANYBODY AFTER SEVERAL HOURS WE STARTED WALKING ALONG THE BEACH. ON THE THIRD DAY, WE CAME UPON SOME NATIVES WHO TOOK US TO A VILLAGE AND GAVE US WATER AND FOOD.

"MOST OF THE CREW WAS BADLY SUNBURNED AND FOOTSORE BUT TWO GUNNERS, SGT.R.E.OWENS, OF WISCONSIN, AND PVT.W.D.REVERA, OF MICHIGAN, AND I WERE IN GOOD SHAPE. WE SET OUT WITH A GUIDE FOR THE NEXT VILLAGE 15 MILES AWAY. IT TOOK US 10 HOURS. WE SWAM FIVE RIVERS AND HAD TO CHOP THROUGH THE JUNGLE WITH A KNIFE PART OF THE TIME. MEANWHILE, THE NATIVES BROUGHT THE REST OF THE
